Science Ready for One-Way Trip to Moon

By BOB WHEARLEY

Science has the know-how to send you flying to the moon now. But it probably would be a one-way trip.

Or you might blast off for Mars, but chances are you'd disintegrate into a speck of space dust before you set foot on the Red Planet.

This isn't science-fiction. It's fact.

Five hundred leading scientists got together at the nation's first Astronautics Symposium in San Diego last week and formally opened the age of space flight.

They agreed space flight is possible now, but that many problems must be solved before that trip can be practical.

And they were warned these problems must be solved soon, because Russia reportedly is sending rockets carrying live animals into space "and that indicates where they are headed and what they intend to do."

THE WARNING came from Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, commander of the Western Development Division of the Air Research and Development Command at Inglewood.

Space superiority will win the wars of the future, he said. Not only that, but America's prestige as a world leader may depend on our making interplanetary flights "when the time is ripe," the general added.

When will that time come?

Predictions at the symposium ranged from five to 40 years. Some authorities, like Schriever, thought it would depend on "desire and need."

WHILE CIVILIAN and military scientists have been actively building up to the conquest of space since the end of World War II, the first spectacular step will come when artificial satellites are launched into orbits around earth sometime during the International Geophysical Year.

IGY will last from next July 1 to Dec. 31, 1958.

During this time, American scientists will send up at least a dozen satellites—basketball-size metal spheres packed with instruments to record conditions out of earth's atmosphere.

Other, larger, satellites will follow—orbiting about earth at distances ranging from a few hundred to a thousand miles.

Instruments contained in them will test the effects of such factors as cosmic radiation and hurtling meteorites.

With this information, science will be able to plan a manned satellite—a "space station."

SOME SCIENTISTS think the first moon rocket will be launched from this space station. As in the case of the early satellites, possibly it will carry only instruments. Manned flight to the moon is expected to follow, and after that exploration of Mars and Venus.

Why does man want to travel to the moon and the planets?

Basically, because of his eternal search for knowledge.

But there is another reason, a reason which can only be answered with a question—"Why does man climb mountains?"

During the symposium—sponsored by the Air Force Office of Scientific Research and Convair Division of General Dynamics—the scientists made a point-by-point appraisal of the space flight problems of which they're now aware.

SPACE TRAVEL within the solar system is possible with the chemical rockets we have now, said Dr. William Bollay, president of Aerophysics Development Corp.

But outside the solar system, where distance is reckoned in

KNIGHT VOWS SUBSIDENCE AID

U.S. Estimate of Soviet Air Strength Cut

Report From Inside Russia Indicates 'Scare' Was Error

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government has reports from inside Russia which indicate the United States greatly over-estimated the Soviet Union's heavy jet bomber air strength last year, it was learned Saturday.

Discovery of the error apparently influenced President Eisenhower's decision to cut back Air Force funds for B52 bomber orders in the fiscal year starting July 1.

• • • • •

THE DEFENSE Department released the erroneous information last year during congressional furor over the comparative might of Russian and American air power.

The new estimates also are a factor in current Pentagon studies which may result in cutting the planned B-52 production rate from 20 to 17 a month. The present rate is 10 or 11.

Ten months ago, intelligence estimates indicated Russia had more than 100 Bison intercontinental jet bombers compared with 78 B52s the U.S. Air Force then had.

The estimates represent the vast, combined evaluations of all government intelligence services.

IT NOW APPEARS, according to authoritative sources, that Russia probably had no more than 50 Bisons last May and probably will not surpass the United States in numbers in the "foreseeable future."

The U. S. Air Force has roughly 150 B52's of which about 90 have been assigned to two organized combat wings. It will, under present plans, have 11 wings of 45 B52s each and enough extras to make a total of more than 600 planes sometime in 1959.

How American intelligence came to over-estimate Russian production rates was not made clear.

After the Russians flew Bison formations over Moscow in May, 1955, the United States revised upward its estimates of Russian aircraft production.

PREFERS U.S. CITIZENSHIP

Young GI Shuns Dad's 40 Million

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP)—A 21-year-old Army private first class says he spurned a fabulous inheritance—possibly as much as 40 million dollars—rather than renounce his American citizenship.

Rolf von Reitzenstein, who was 21 last December, said Saturday he hasn't heard from his father since receiving a 9-point ultimatum which threatened disinheritance if he didn't comply.

ROLF VON REITZENSTEIN
"I Mean It"

Rolf, born in Norwalk, Conn., enlisted in the U. S. Army three years ago in Germany because "I made up my mind to be an American" rather than a man without a country like his father.

"No amount of money could have induced me to give up this priceless possession (American citizenship)," the tall, husky GI said at the armor center Saturday. "I mean it. Living overseas from 1946 to 1954 made me realize how great this country is."

One of the nine provisions in the ultimatum was that Rolf would subject himself to his father's control.

He explained this would have meant renouncing his American citizenship and moving to a South American country.

One letter also hinted at transferring Rolf's share of the fortune to someone in South America. But then it added:

". . . You would be out of luck forever and that I don't want to do despite the fact that I was as angry at you for not writing and answering me for more than three years. You are still my boy and—oh well."

Rolf is convinced that when he didn't respond to his father's last plea, he was disinherited once and for all.

He said his father lived by a rule of sticking by his decisions. Rolf doesn't think he'll ever get another chance, but he said he, too, lives by that particular rule of his father's.

Rolf doesn't know where his parents are now. They were last reported in Brussels, Belgium. He has received and ignored many letters from his mysterious father.

Pieced together from Rolfs' memories, letters in his possession and a paper on file in Sagadahoc County, Maine, the strange

Ike Decision on Sanctions Due Today

Crisis on Israel Gaza Troops Races Toward a Climax

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Israeli troop crisis raced toward a climax Saturday with the prospect that President Eisenhower would decide today on the United States stand on proposed U.N. sanctions against Israel.

1. Secretary of State Dulles invited congressional leaders to an extraordinary Sunday conference at which he would have the opportunity to tell them what line the United States will take toward Israel in the United Nations General Assembly debate Monday.

2. Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban was en route to Washington from Jerusalem with a detailed report from Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion for President Eisenhower on the Israeli government's present position on the troop withdrawal dispute.

3. Eisenhower has received a new personal and secret message from Ben-Gurion. The White House confirmed that it reached the President Friday. It is understood to make a new appeal for United States guarantees of Israel's security interests in the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aquaba before Israeli troops are pulled out of those areas.

4. The Israeli government was reported seeking British and French support for its terms in an effort to bring pressure against the United States and thereby break down Eisenhower's insistence that Israel troops must be withdrawn from Egypt unconditionally.

5. Strong opposition continued in Congress to any move to impose sanctions on Israel. Latest manifestation of this opposition was a statement by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) that he would seriously consider resigning from this country's United Nations delegation if the U. N. votes for sanctions. Americans for Democratic Action (Ada) wired Dulles that "sanctions can only increase war tensions throughout the world."

Pledge Given to Civic Chiefs of State Help

No Opposition if Full Story Told to Legislature, He Says

By MALCOLM EPLEY

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight personally inspected subsidence damage in the Long Beach tidelands area Saturday and then told municipal officials and civic leaders that they can count on his office not only for cooperation but for leadership in clarifying the city's rights in fighting the land sinkage problem.

Knight voiced the opinion that if Long Beach gets the subsidence story across to the Legislature, it will find no opposition to remedial legislation it is seeking.

The city wants laws that will permit an oil field unitization program on the state-granted tidelands without jeopardizing its grant, and will facilitate a cooperative operation to restore pressures in the ground structure of the sinking area.

• • • •

THE GOVERNOR committed his office to aid in solving the problem as he stood on the beach at the entrance of Alamitos Bay, after a fast tour through the harbor area and the Long Beach Naval Shipyard, where subsidence is greatest. At Alamitos Bay at the east end of the city's beach he was told even there subsidence has occurred and is a threat to the Naples residential section.

"I understand you are not seeking money," said the Governor to local leaders clustered around him. "You need a clarification of your rights and privileges. My office will not only cooperate but will give leader-

Courts-Martial Set for 4 Marine Drill Instructors at Parris Island

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP)—Four drill instructors at the Parris Island Marine Depot were ordered to stand trial by court-martial Saturday on charges of mistreating recruits.

Capt. James F. Mahoney, the base public information officer, identified the four as Cpl. William F. Walsh Jr. of Lyndhurst, N.J., near Newark; Sgt. Clinton L. Jones of Pensacola, Fla.; Sgt. Daniel J. Corey of Boston's Somerville section, and S. Sgt. William E. Rich of Manchester, Conn.

Mahoney said Rich, charged with striking five recruits with his hand, has been ordered to appear before a special court-martial on Monday. The trial will be open to newsmen.

Walsh, charged with striking 11 recruits, will be tried at a special court-martial within "about two weeks," Mahoney said.

Jones, accused of striking one recruit with his hand, and Corey, charged with pushing a recruit to the ground and forcing another to stuff candy in his own mouth, will be tried by a summary court-martial "within a week."

• • • •

MAHONEY said that none of the recruits involved in these incidents required medical treatment.

One of the recruits, Pvt. David L. Potter, of Hartford, Vt., has charged he was struck by Walsh with an object which looked like a "hand-cancelling stamp used in post offices," Mahoney said.

It was a letter by the 18-year-old Porter to his father that touched off this latest investigation of recruit mistreatment at the base several weeks ago.

Eden Suffers New Attack; Call Doctor

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UP) Former British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden was confined to his bed with another attack of fever Saturday. A heart specialist was called in for consultation.

Eden and his wife arrived in Auckland from London only two days ago to begin a long vacation aimed at restoring the health of the ailing former Prime Minister.

He confirmed on his arrival here Thursday that he suffered two "attacks of fever" during his 24-day sea voyage from England and described them as "just a type like malaria which forced me to give up the idea of going on with the job."

Dr. S. G. Sayer was called to Eden's vacation retreat 40 miles from here. He returned with Dr. Douglas Robb, a surgeon and heart specialist noted for his "blue baby" operations.

Sayer later issued a report stating Eden suffered a new attack of fever last night. He said the patient will be kept under constant medical observation.

Two years after he was released, the Supreme Court denied his appeal on a conviction for murdering his wife in 1947.

Further Rain a Possibility Here Tonight

Showers may fall here again tonight in the wake of a surprise storm that struck California Saturday and caused moderate flood damage in some Los Angeles areas.

The Weather Bureau predicted variable cloudiness for today and Monday and said there was a "chance of showers" tonight.

The storm deposited .79 of an inch of rain on Long Beach, bringing the season total up to 4.42 inches. A rush of traffic accidents resulted.

In the Los Angeles area, the brief but heavy rains turned streets into five-foot-deep rivers which pushed parked cars up

Neighbor Saves Boy Trapped as Cave Collapses

COVINA, Calif. (UP)—Quick work by a neighbor was credited with saving the life of a 12-year-old boy who was buried under tons of dirt Saturday when a wall collapsed in a cave he and two other boys had been digging.

Sheriff's deputies said Ronald Derdin was buried while playing in a vacant lot near the home of William E. Bennett. Bennett, who was summoned by the two other boys, dug frantically with his hands to uncover the boy's face so he would not suffocate.

Derdin was taken to Covina Community Hospital where he was reported in satisfactory condition.

Three boys died Friday at Anaheim in a similar accident.

LOS ALAMITOS — Nine men escaped injury Saturday when a Neptune patrol bomber belly-landed in a field near the Naval Air Station here.

A Los Alamitos spokesman said that the Neptune, powered by two jet and two piston engines, crashed-landed after all engines failed.

The pilot, Lt. Charles G. Clifton, 34, of 10509 Townley Dr., Whittier, said the jet engines failed as he flew near the field.

• • • •

"MY FIRST thought was to get the plane out to sea," he said.

Over the ocean one of the piston engines quit and Clifton began limping back toward the station, avoiding populated areas and keeping an eye on emergency landing sites below. About two miles from the runway the last power plant quit and Clifton bellied the big plane down.

Damage to the bomber was "moderate," the Navy said. Clifton and all members of his crew except Lavern Webb, of 11252 Euclid Ave., Garden Grove, an active-duty enlisted man, were on reserve training, a spokesman said.

• • • •

OTHER RESERVISTS aboard were Lt. Donald H. Broderson, 34, of Van Nuys, copilot; Lt. (jg) Norman E. Reynolds, 26, of 7572 E. Trask Ave., Westminster, third pilot; and Robert Williams, 2585 Olive Ave., Long Beach; John R. Warden, Carlsbad; Dewey Foster, 4510 W. 231st St., Torrance; Felton W. Richardson, Ventura, and Donald Truitt, 1539 Pine Ave., Long Beach.

Frigid North Refugees Overflowing Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Refugees from the cold northern winter in unprecedented numbers have filled to overflowing the tourist accommodations in Florida.

So many visitors flocked into the state during the past two weeks that they are sleeping in hotel lobbies, their cars, even empty jail cells.

One Miami motel this week turned away guests by showing them nine parked cars in which persons were sleeping outside the building.

A Clearwater hotel put a bed in the women's powder room. Hotels in many cities call private homes nightly to find rooms for their overflow crowds.

• • • •

THE HOTEL and motel people at Daytona Beach reported that winter tourist business is the best on record, running 10 to 14 per cent over last year.

The number of rooms for rent in Florida is staggering. One four-mile stretch of highway near St. Petersburg has 100 motels. Rental facilities stretch in an almost unbroken row from the tip of Miami Beach to West Palm Beach, some 60 miles. The Miami Beach area alone has accommodations for 50,000 visitors.

Russ Caution U.S., Boast of Horror Bomb

MOSCOW (UP) — The Soviet armed forces observed their 39th anniversary Saturday with a warning that atomic, hydrogen "or even more powerful bombs" could rain on America in another world war.

There was no elaboration on the "more powerful" weapons.

Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov set the tone of the anniversary celebration. He charged that "reactionary circles" in the West still are plotting aggressive war, and he warned that Russia has the most modern weapons, capable of turning back any attack.

Formosa Quake Kills 5 Persons

TAIPEI (Sunday) (AP)—The strongest earthquake in more than four years jolted Formosa early today, killing at least five persons and inflicting heavy damage along the east coast of this Nationalist bastion. No American casualties were reported.

The quake, which centered in the Pacific ocean 45 miles off Formosa, downed power lines in Taipei, the capital, and cut off telephone communications with Hualien.

L.A.C. Says: Hidden Taxes

The move is on to increase California taxes by $70 million a year through a 3-cent tax on cigarettes and a 10-cent tax on each gallon of beer. The increased income would be used for higher pay for school teachers and general aid to school districts. The California Teachers Association reports a survey shows 38 per cent of the people approve the cigarette tax and 55 per cent approve the new tax on liquor—although beer was not mentioned.

The danger of such taxes is that they become hidden taxes. The buyers of these products do not see the tax bill. They get used to paying them just as they now do gasoline taxes. But it is hard to argue that such products should not be further taxed to pay school costs. The fact is, however, that liquor taxes are now so high that a large portion of the liquor consumed is bootleg liquor. The higher the tax, the more bootleggers make. The same has been true of cigarettes although in a lesser degree. If these taxes are imposed in the state they will equal about 3½ per cent of the total state budget. It is an easy way to obtain more money. It certainly does not encourage the idea of cutting down on expenditures.

In our morning mail we find literature telling how greatly we need more school buildings. We are told that some 100,000 certificated school teachers are not teaching because the pay is so low. And yet no one in the school system appears to be working on methods of using building 12 months a year—or of teachers being paid more for teaching more months in a year.

In another circular we are told how we must have more court rooms to overcome the terrible congestion in the courts. But we do not hear of any suggestion for using court rooms more than the 20 hours a week they now are used. We find all our city, county, and state offices and schools closed on holidays when banks and business houses are open.

In addition, we hear of plans for a $51 million auditorium in downtown Los Angeles when another facility —the Sports Arena—is about to be started. The Sports Arena would cost a fifth as much and handle everything the auditorium scheme would accomplish—except it would not help the downtown Los Angeles interests promoting the auditorium. This cost would be charged to all Los Angeles County taxpayers.

Locally we find efforts to get the city to buy and develop a $1,500,000 camp site at Barton Flats. It is argued this is an essential facility so sixth graders may have a five day period in the mountains. But the school authorities are not willing to finance it from school district funds. It is, however, advocated that it is also for the use of adults wishing to use the camp site on week-ends. A large portion of the week-end groups using the present Camp Hi-Hill site are employes of the city, Recreation Department and school district.

These are factors which should be considered when we are told $70 million must be raised from taxes on cigarettes and beer. It is not the taxing of these products we would oppose, but rather the idea that we must continually raise taxes when we make little effort to cut down the need for higher taxes.—L.A.C.

Science Ready for Moon Trip

light years, other types of propulsion may be needed. (Light, incidentally, travels at 186,270 miles per second—and a light year is the distance a beam of light would travel in 365 days.)

Among the other types of propulsion discussed are heat source (which uses solar or nuclear power) and electrical fields. These kinds of systems also could be built today.

A fourth system is photon rocketry—a system which emits particles at the velocity of light. However, this still is in the theoretical stage.

* * * *

USING CHEMICAL rockets, a 730-ton ship could take off from an orbit around earth and travel to Mars in 400 days, estimated Dr. Ernst Stuhlinger of the guided missile development group at the Army's Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala. The return flight would take 320 days because much of the weight would have been expended in fuel.

Costs came into the discussion, too. Dr. William H. Dorrance of Convair figured it would cost $345,073,000 for a five-year project to send a satellite carrying four persons to an orbit 540 miles above earth.

Dr. Samuel J. Herrick of the University of California, an astronomer, stressed the need for accuracy in calculations for space flight. A one-hundredth of a second timing error in the launching of a rocket to Mars would mean a 150,000-mile miss, he said.

Science now is able to produce weightlessness for up to 30 seconds, one scientist said. This provides a human sensation similar to the lack of gravity in free space.

Twenty-five per cent of the persons tested became nauseated, 25 per cent were indifferent "and 50 per cent actually enjoyed it."

* * * *

OTHER POSSIBILITIES suggested at the symposium included—

Escape chambers, or "lifeboats," to be used in case the space craft breaks down.

Liquid coolants which would be splashed over the spaceship during its passage into the atmosphere. These coolants would prevent the craft from heating more than a few thousand degrees as it encountered the friction of the air.

"Miniaturization" of equipment and, presumably, of personnel. In other words, weight of the craft and its crew would be kept to a minimum because of the fantastically-high ratios of total weight to payload.

DR. HEINZ HABER, UCLA physicist and a nationally-recognized authority on space travel, observed that the mere fact the symposium was being held was of major significance.

"The scientific processes will change from year to year," he said. "They aren't the real news.

"What is news is that five years ago you couldn't have gotten together a handful of scientists for such a meeting. Now we have the top minds in the country working on the problems of space flight.

"Suddenly, a new age is upon us."

Airline Pilots to Mull Jet Safety Problems

WASHINGTON (UP) — The nation's airline pilots are about to go into a huddle over new safety problems created by the dawn of the jet transport age.

On March 5 the Airline Pilots Association opens its fifth annual air safety forum in Chicago. High on the three-day agenda are frank discussions on the operating problems of the just-around-the-corner jetliners.

An ALPA spokesman emphasized in an interview that in many ways the jet transport is far safer than its piston-engined predecessors. But he also conceded there are problems peculiar to jets which must be solved before the giant turbine-driven planes are put into full-time passenger service.

* * * * *

HOT WEATHER operation will be one of the biggest problems, he said. The wings on a jet are thinner and swept back, sacrificing lift for greater speed. The jet also is far heavier than a conventional airliner. The Boing 707 jetliner has a gross takeoff weight of 280,000 pounds, compared to the Boeing Stratocruiser's 142,000.

This means the jets will be far more sensitive to high temperature and humidity. Every airliner has "lift" problems in hot weather. Payloads often go down in the summertime because planes require more takeoff space in warm, lighter air.

* * * *

ALL JET TRANSPORT designers are laboring to minimize what is one of the most obvious potential dangers of jet operation—fire in flight.

Dread of all jet pilots is fire on takeoff—the point at which a jet is so loaded down with fuel it cannot land.

Atom Bomb a Frequent Truckload

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UP) —A spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission said Saturday that A-bombs have been hauled safely by truck in New Mexico for several years.

The spokesman confirmed that such means of transportation was being used when asked to comment on Saturday's Scripps-Howard Washington Roundup column, which told of the practice.

The spokesman indicated trucks were being used in other states as well as New Mexico to transport nuclear devices and that the practice had been going on for some time.

* * * *

THE SPOKESMAN said such materials are also transported by train and plane, but declined to comment further.

He said, "All possible safety precautions are taken."

The Washington dispatch said that the hauling danger is minimized by putting various parts of the A-bombs in separate lead cases.

Untriggered, or accidental, explosions are considered practically impossible. Some experts say transporting atomic weapons is not as dangerous as transporting conventional explosives.

Deaf Dog Now Hears With Aid

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y. (UP)—A hearing aid is making a new dog of Randy, 9-year-old blue Bedlington terrier owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Bostick.

They became aware of their pet's plight when he stopped answering the doorbell or coming when called, so they decided to see if a hearing aid would help. They say his hearing has improved.

State Dept. Sets Policy on Poland

WASHINGTON (UP) — The State Department has assured Congress it will grant no aid to Poland without first getting assurances the help goes to Polish people and not Russia, officials said Saturday.

The pledge is aimed at spiking congressional criticism of economic aid talks with Poland scheduled to begin here Tuesday. A five-man Polish team arrived in the United States Thursday for the discussions.

The United States hopes arrangements can be worked out so American aid will be supplied to the new Polish government under Communist Party Boss Ladyslaw Gomulka. The belief is that the aid will enable munist Party BossCMFWYPU-Poland to continue its present course of limited independence from the Moscow line and gradually break still further away from the Soviet Union.

story of his father, Rudolf von Reitzenstein, reveals he may have been:

A German baron and monarchist; an espionage agent; a South American multimillionaire; a man whose name has been on a tombstone in Russia since before World War I, and a man without a country.

But, from information compiled by a Fort Knox public information officer, the following glimpse into the elder von Reitzenstein's life is provided:

Rolf's father was born in Germany, attended a military academy and was graduated at 17 as a regular army officer. He attended intelligence school and was assigned to the German general staff preceding World War I. It was in the years just preceding this war that von Reitzenstein was sent to Turkey and Russia on espionage missions.

Czarist agents captured him on his third Russian trip. Sentenced to death, he escaped when a Russian countess bribed the firing squad which shot blanks into the air. The countess arranged a mock burial for the dead spy.

Returning to Germany he was assigned to India, the Balkans and front line duty during the war. In 1922 he went to either North or South America taking along a family fortune which has been estimated at about 35 million dollars. He then acquired banana and coffee plantations and munitions factories.

* * * *

IT WAS IN 1925 that he met and married an American newspaperwoman in New York. They settled in Darien, Conn., near where Rolf was born. Thus Rolf is an American citizen by birth. The family moved to Mexico and then Texas where in 1944 Rolf's father was interned until the end of World War II.

In 1946 Rolf's father was deported to Germany but he lost his German citizenship earlier when Hitler's government declared him "a stateless person."

Rolf said his father maintained his beliefs in monarchy, trying to implant them in his son. But Rolf revolted in 1954 to enlist in the American Army.

In 1950, a real estate man who now is dead filed in superior court in Bath, Maine, a paper headed: "Authority for legal transfer of foreign possessions." It bore the signature "Rudolph Baron von Reitzenstein."

* * * *

STILL ON FILE, the paper specifies Rolf be given "holdings and entire properties in Chile, Argentina, Bolivia, Ecuador, Peru, and Honduras . . amounting to approximately 40 million dollars." According to the document, this is only part of von Reitzenstein's total wealth and the paper provides the father retain "responsibility as trustee for Rolf till he becomes of age."

Rolf isn't counting the money which apparently slipped through his fingers, he's counting the days until his Army separation in April. He plans to study engineering at Heidelberg University in Germany under the GI bill of rights.

Said Rolf: "I may not have any money but I still have the GI bill."

Dog Hits Cycle, Youth, 16, Dies by Shotgun Blast

TYLER, Tex. (UP)—Bobby Ken Brown, 16, of Swann, Tex., was blasted to death by a shotgun Saturday after the motorcycle he was riding back from a hunting trip was spilled by a dog.

The mishap occurred about eight miles north of here.

Ernest Yielding, 15, of Tyler, said he was driving the motorcycle as the two returned from a hunting trip.

He said they were chased by some dogs and one of them ran in front of the motorcycle. Yielding said he hit the dog and it spilled them. A shotgun carried by the pair discharged, killing Brown. Yielding was injured from the spill, but not seriously.

Pennsy Train, Freight Hit; 15 Injured

FRANKFORT, Ind. (UP)—The locomotive of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Southwind passenger train crashed into a Nickel Plate freight locomotive here Saturday night and about 15 persons were injured, none severely.

The Nickel Plate engine was knocked off the tracks and ended up side-by-side with the Pennsylvania locomotive, both diesels. No other cars left the tracks, the Nickel Plate's nearby yard office reported. The tracks cross at right angles.

Gov. Knight Urges More Fringe Benefits for State Employes

By BOB HOUSER

Gov. Goodwin Knight repeated Saturday before 650 delegates of the California State Employes Assn. here his recommendation that state employes be given more 'fringe benefits," such as health and welfare plans, disability insurance and unemployment compensation.

The state has not kept pace with private industry and that "is causing increasing difficulty in recruitment," the governor said in his Municipal Auditorium address.

He pointed out that CSEA membership of 60,000 of the eligible 72,000 state workers, through its diligence and continuing efforts, makes it possible for California to "proclaim that it has the nation's most effective civil service system." He contrasted this membership with the situation 25 years ago when CSEA started.

• • • •

THEN THERE were some 7,900 jobs which went to "the politically faithful and not necessarily to the meritorious."

"No employer as important as the State of California can afford to lag behind other employers," the governor said, "and I have recommended the Legislature adopt the same benefits for state employes as now prevail in private industry."

Knight prefaced his prepared text with an aside about Long Beach subsidence.

He told delegates that city officials here must have read the CSEA guest list because immediately after his talk he was to be taken on a tour of the Long Beach Harbor to have subsidence damage pointed out to him.

• • • •

"AND WHEN THEY'RE through," said Knight, "they'll ask 'Well?' and you know the rest.

"But this serious physical and engineering crisis is being met with bravery and common sense by the people of Long Beach."

Gov. Knight's predecessor on the CSEA's Saturday speaking program made an alarming speculation about a coastline in another quarter of the nation.

Dr. Joseph Kaplan, UCLA physicist and United States chairman for the 55-nation International Geophysical Year, said that within 50 years it is possible that much of the Florida coastline will be under water.

• • • •

DR. KAPLAN addressed delegates at their luncheon in the Lafayette Hotel's new dining room.

He mentioned the Florida problem in pointing out questions which will be explored during the 18-month IGY, starting July 1, such as, "Is climate changing? and Are glaciers receding?"

The melting of ice in a warming trend, Dr. Kaplan said, will have practical effects on shipping and on our coast lines.

He illustrated the impact of the study of cosmic rays, whose secrets may be revealed in part in the IGY launching of a space satellite.

"COSMIC RAYS are the most energetic particles known to man," he said, "they are 10 billion times as energetic as particles now under study—and so revealing—at the University of California."

Dr. Kaplan said a thin region of electrically charged particles in the high atmosphere, a trap for sunlight, provides the "mirror in the sky" necessary for our electronic communication. It is hoped that rockets sent into this region will make available such information as how warm it is there and how many electrons there are per cubic centimeter, thereby providing a tremendous impact on modern technology.

• • • •

THE OPPORTUNITY for sustained study was cited by Dr. Kaplan as one of the most important reasons for the 20-inch sphere or space satellite launching. He said total rocket experimentation to date has provided only about two hours cumulative inspection of space.

The United States' part in the IGY is vast and all departments of government are concerned, Kaplan said, and added that the progressive future of man "hinges on man's ability to understand his environment—" which is the principal aim of the IGY.

RESOLUTIONS passed Saturday included:

That the CSEA strongly support or introduce appropriate legislation which would provide educational benefits for both state and university employes and which would include—but not necessarily be limited to—leaves of absence with pay for educational activities and reimbursement for tuition, fees and incidental expenses.

That a policy be established on uniforms and uniform allowances.

That the CSEA sponsor and promote legislation such as that submitted by the association in the present session of Legislature that would provide an adequate medical and health insurance program with the state contributing to the cost.

ship, if necessary, to see that you get it."

Under a 1956 settlement with the state, oil money from the state-granted tidelands can be used in fighting subsidence as well as in harbor development.

• • • •

APPARENTLY IN reference to the long tidelands ownership fight with the federal government and more recent controversies with the state, Knight voiced the hope that the city's rights "will never be in jeopardy again through action by federal, state or county governments."

Knight, here to address a convention of state employes, was taken on the tidelands tour through arrangements by the city, the Chamber of Commerce and the Navy.

At the Naval shipyard, Rear Adm. Richard James, commanding officer of the yard, pointed out wall and dike construction and other subsidence remedial work done at the huge Morrecll drydock. He explained that the Navy has spent $6,000,000 on such work and other millions will go into additional construction.

• • • •

"BEYOND THAT," said Adm. James, "there is no possibility of this shipyard remaining in business unless there is a basic remedy which will halt the land sinkage."

Adm. James then pointed to Pier 1, just outside the drydock, which must be raised because of subsidence, and to the 35,000-ton aircraft carrier Princeton, anchored alongside. The Governor suggested they walk out on the pier, and stood for a time at the side of the great ship which from water line to top of the mast stands as high as the Security Bank Bldg. at First St. and Pine Ave.

Getting back in his car, the Governor was driven to the Harbor District Administration building, which has sunk 14 feet and stands in a huge hole, surrounded by recently completed fills. He then saw the Army and Navy Armed Services YMCA building, which must be vacated in the next year or so because of subsidence. Next the tour took him to the built-up site of the proposed new "Y" near Magnolia Pier, site of the temporary Navy landing.

KNIGHT EVINCED much interest in the statement that 138 Navy commissioned ships are based in Long Beach and that the Armed Services "Y" is the community's basic service agency for the tens of thousands of men on those ships. Assemblyman W. S. Grant of Long Beach explained to him that a judicial clarification pends on the question of using tidelands funds for construction of a new "Y."

Darrell Neighbors, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce subsidence committee, gave the Governor a quick rundown of subsidence information, pointing out that it is generally believed that oil and gas withdrawal and resultant lowering of structural pressures have caused the land sinkage. Neighbors said that the only basic solution presenting itself is to restore the pressures by a water or gas injection program, requiring a unit or cooperative operation of the Wilmington field wherein there are numerous ownership and operating rights.

Others making the trip included Mayor George Vermillion, Vice Mayor Gerald Desmond, President George Badenhausen of the Chamber of Commerce, Director Robert Irvin of the Chamber, Chamber Secretary D. W. Campbell, City Manager Samuel E. Vickers, Shipyard Employes President Don Sutherland, Harbor Commission Chairman M. W. Daubney and State Assemblyman Richard T. Hanna of Midway City.

P-T, INDEPENDENT CHAMPS

Top Newspaperboys Get Their Trophies

Publisher's Trophies as the top newspaperboys of The Independent and The Press-Telegram have been awarded to Paul Douglas Schaeffer, 14, of 4946 Daisy Ave., for The Independent, and James E. Plooster, 15, of 9554 Ramona Ave., Bellflower, for The Press-Telegram.

The awards, given by Herman H. Ridder, publisher, were based on route management, scholarship, leadership and citizenship.

Paul, son of Paul H. and Eleanor Schaeffer, won over 500 other carrier boys for the morning paper.

For the past two and one-half years the Lindbergh Junior High School student has been arising before 5 a.m. to deliver his route.

Five feet tall, curly haired and a dapper dresser, Paul collects his own route and earns extra pay collecting two other routes.

He prefers delivering a morning paper because that leaves his after-school hours free for sports and studies.

Besides the Publisher's Trophy, presented for the publisher by Press-Telegram Editor Henry F. Burmester, Paul has scored other successes through his business career.

"Last month, for example, I put $10 in the bank, bought a shirt and a pair of slacks; picked out a belt I'm going to buy; got a $7 birthday present for my mother, gave $4 to the church and spent about 50 cents a day at school for snacks and things," said Schaeffer.

• • • •

JAMES PLOOSTER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Plooster, is a sophomore at Bellflower High School.

Being a businessman is not a new experience to the 5 feet, 11 inch, 145-pound youth. He raised rabbits "on rather a large scale" before he started delivering for The Press-Telegram.

As a carrier he has had many previous citations for his success, including two prize trips to Yosemite, two wrist watches, a movie camera and sports equipment.

Jim buys his own clothes, bought a typewriter, and his most recent purchase is a 17-foot house trailer which he parks in the yard at home and uses as a retreat for studying.

Jim's business ventures have resulted in bank accounts totaling almost $1,200.

Man Stabbed in Spat Over Taking Drink

An argument over a drink ended Saturday with Arch H. Caskey, 74, booked into city jail on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and Harold F. Rasmussen, 51, at Seaside Hospital with a stab wound in the abdomen.

Police said that the argument started when Rasmussen, of 117 S. Golden Ave., Apt. 5, entered Caskey's apartment at the same address and insisted that he take a drink.

Caskey refused, an argument ensued, and then Rasmussen struck him, Caskey told police. Police said that Caskey then grabbed a steak knife and stabbed Rasmussen.

Seaside Hospital authorities said he was in serious condition.

9 Injured in Traffic Accidents

Nine persons, including two small children, Saturday were listed as seriously injured in area traffic accidents.

Richard Ridgway, 3, suffered a fractured skull when a car driven by his father, Milton Ridgway, 26, of 21609 Paul St., Torrance, collided with a loaded lumber carrier on Neptune Ave. near B St. in Wilmington.

Mary Lynn Jankowski, 6, of 774 Alamitos Ave., Garden Grove, suffered a broken collarbone when she was hit by a car as she darted across Stanton Ave. near Orangewood Ave. in Stanton.

Driver Alice Block, 57, of 266 E. Coolidge St., suffered possible fractures of the skull, ribs and collarbone when she was thrown to the pavement after her car hit another on the Long Beach Blvd. bridge.

• • • •

PEDESTRIAN George Jordan, 44, a seaman of Norfolk, Va., suffered a possible fractured hip when he was hit by a car as he walked across Avalon Blvd. at C St., in Wilmington.

Driver James Monarch, 41, and his passenger, William Parker, 35, both of 1905 Clark Ln., Redondo Beach, was seriously injured when their car hit a parked car on Crenshaw Blvd. at Sepulveda Blvd.

Drivers Gene Thelmers, 39, of 1110 N. Fairlawn, Santa Ana, and Leroy Thompson, 32, of 9110 Bestel St., Garden Grove, and Thelmer's wife, Fay, 38, were seriously injured when their cars collided at Cannery and Trask Ave. in Anaheim.

Rites Tuesday for 2 of 4 Crash Victims

Funeral services will be held Tuesday for two of the four young people who were killed instantly when their hardtop convertible crashed into a Greyhound bus near Seal Beach early Saturday.

Their car skidded on rain-soaked Pacific Coast Hwy. at the San Gabriel River Bridge and slid broadside against the front of the bus, which was traveling in the opposite direction.

Service for the driver, Robert G. Jensen, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jensen, 54 Platt St., will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hunter Mortuary. Interment will be in Sunnyside Mausoleum.

Service for Patricia Lee Read, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Read, 7809 E. Springer St., Downey, will be at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Miller Mortuary, Downey, with Mottell's and Peek Mortuary in charge. Interment will be in Rose Hills Memorial Park.

Services for the other two victims, Richard Galen Moore, 18, of 8562 Eucalyptus St., Downey, and Mary Munroe, 17, of 9115 Foster Rd., Downey, are pending at Mottell's and Peek Mortuary.

Bus driver, Jean J. Morena, 28, of 60 Linden Ave., and four of his 25 passengers suffered minor injuries. Most seriously injured of the five was Mrs. Marian Clark, 72, of 4100 River Ave., who suffered head cuts.

The Bureau of Many Names

By Harry Karns

A DIGNIFIED, bespectacled man in a blue-dress uniform similar to that worn by naval officers stepped onto the elevator in the Federal Building in Los Angeles.

An elderly woman looked at the triangular insignia on his coat cuff.

"Aren't you an officer in the U. S. Coast Guard and Geographical Review?" she asked.

He smiled resignedly. After 30 years, Cmdr. Roswell C. Bolstad has grown accustomed to being mistaken for almost everything but what he is—an officer of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. No, that has nothing to do with the National Geographic Magazine.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey, a commissioned service of the U. S. government, is now celebrating its 150th year of operation. Cmdr. Bolstad, 53, has charge of the Survey's local district— Southern California, the southern portion of Nevada, and all of Arizona. Though little publicized, the Survey's activities constantly touch your life and your security.

THE ACCURATE location of your back fence depends upon the Survey's needle-sharp calculations, as does the precise location of rocket-launching sites.

Highway engineers tie their planning to the bureau's survey markings.

Clam hunters and skin divers frequently time their activities by consulting the Survey's tidal information.

Planners of earth satellites and missions to outer space orient themselves at the Survey.

IN THE PACIFIC, the Survey maintains a sea wave warning system. It was this network that warned the Hawaiian Islands in 1952 of a submarine earthquake whose tidal wave otherwise would have taken a tragic toll of lives.

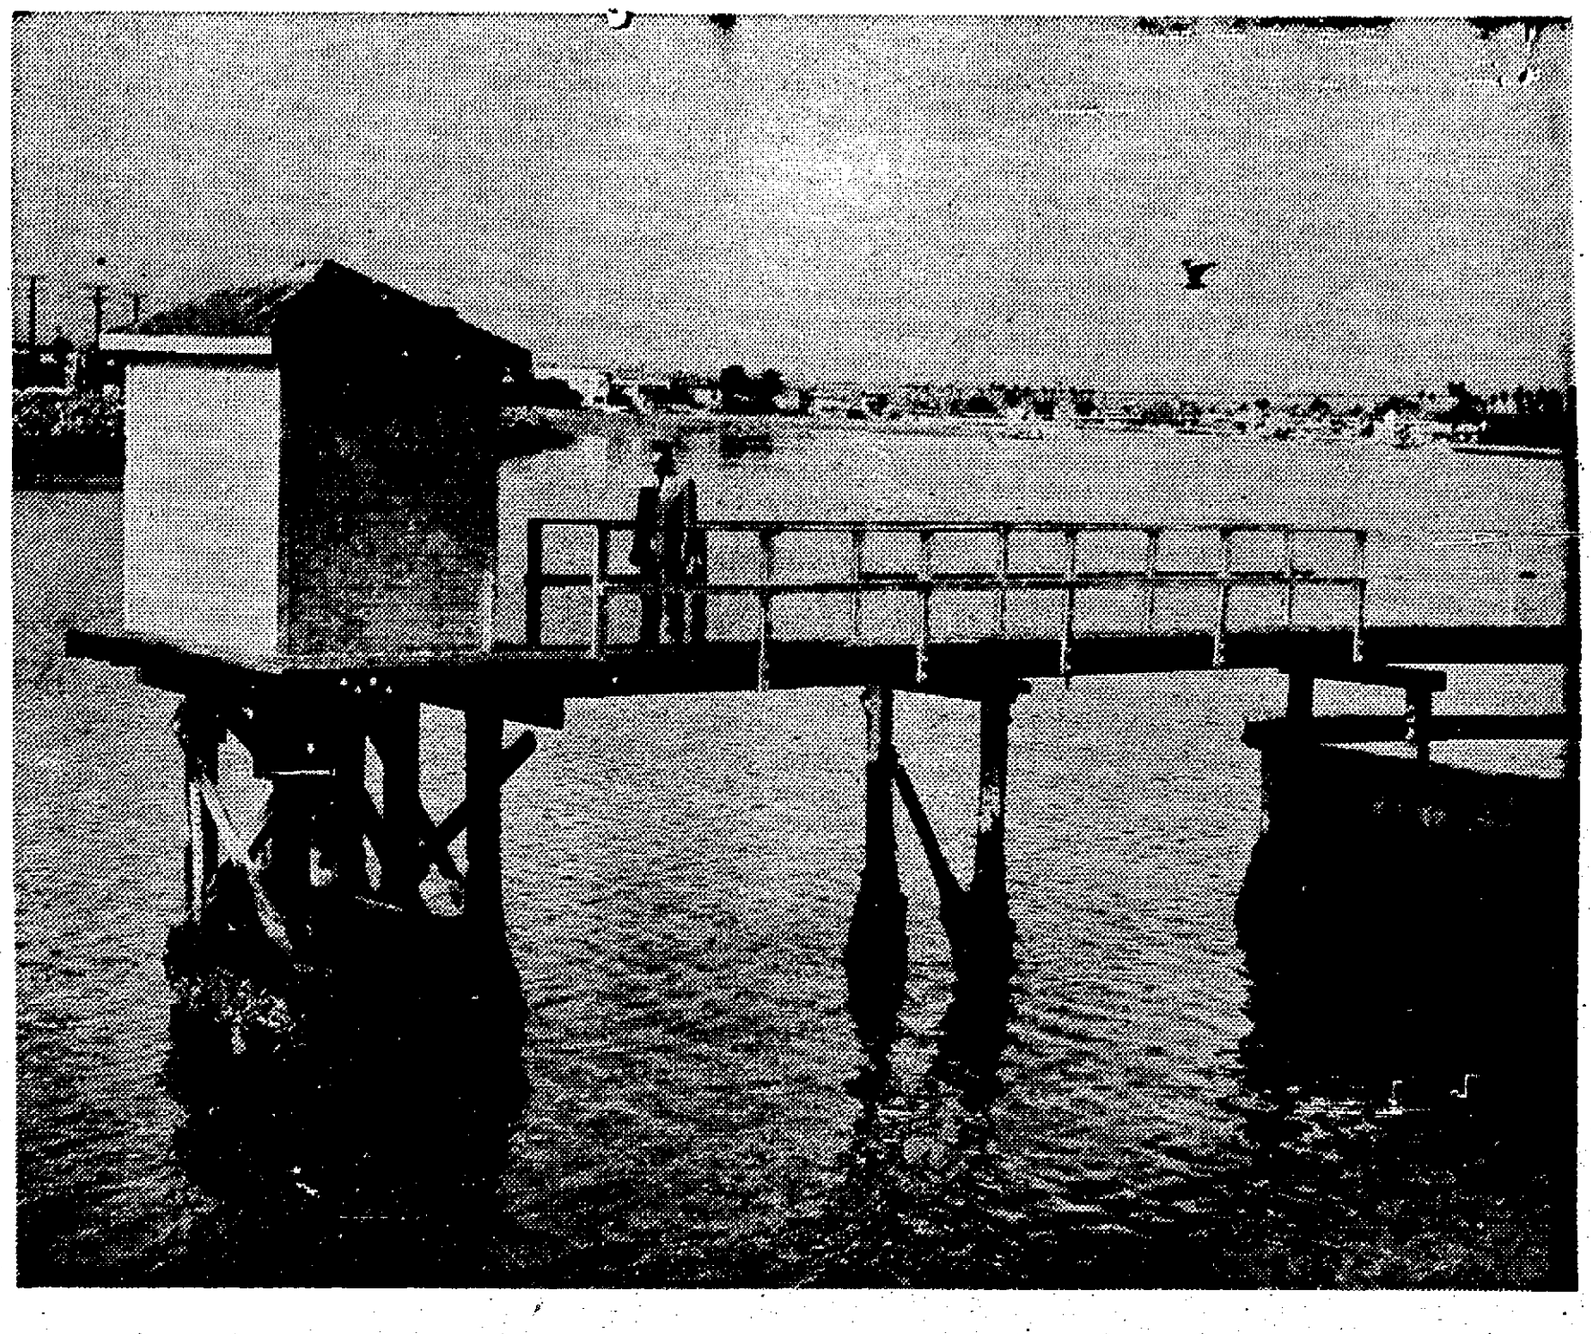

Fishermen and shipowners sailing to and from Long Beach landings read the Survey's tide tables as avidly as some folk read novels banned in Boston. The information they get from these tables can mean the difference between bon voyage and disaster. Southern California stations, funneling their data to the central tide gauge station in Los Angeles' outer harbor, help the Survey tell the tide story a year in advance.

The problem of earth subsidence has cost millions of dollars in this community. A special tide gauge, operated by the Survey for a time at Terminal Island, has taken readings which may some day play a part in solving that.

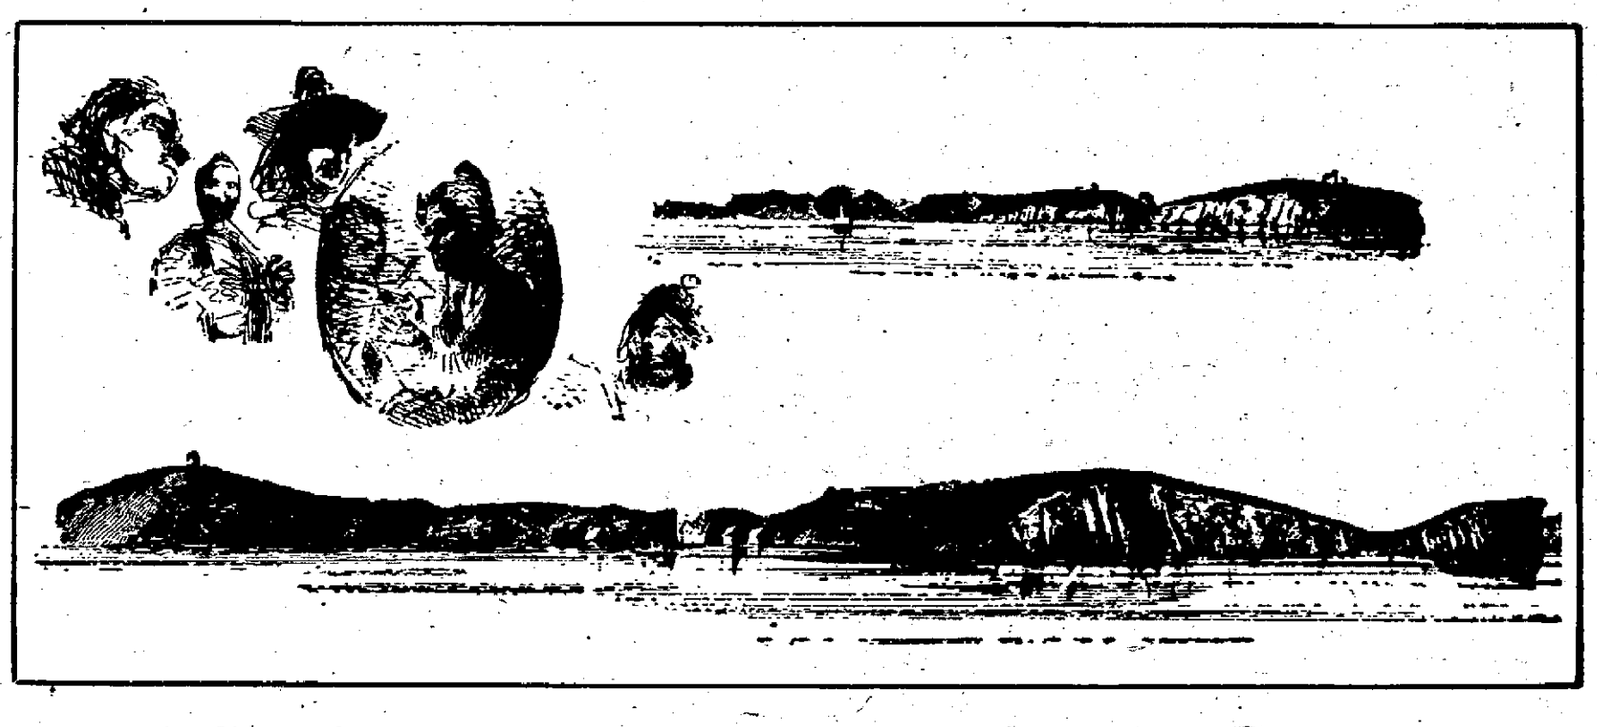

THE COAST and Geodetic Survey is, by way of contrast with some federal bureaus, a service which the general public hears little about but which would be sorely missed if it weren't there.

Back in 1807, Congress wanted to determine for

On this lonely little pier behind locked gate near the sea entrance to Alamitos Bay, U. S. Coast & Geodetic Survey keeps instruments to record tides, subsidence.

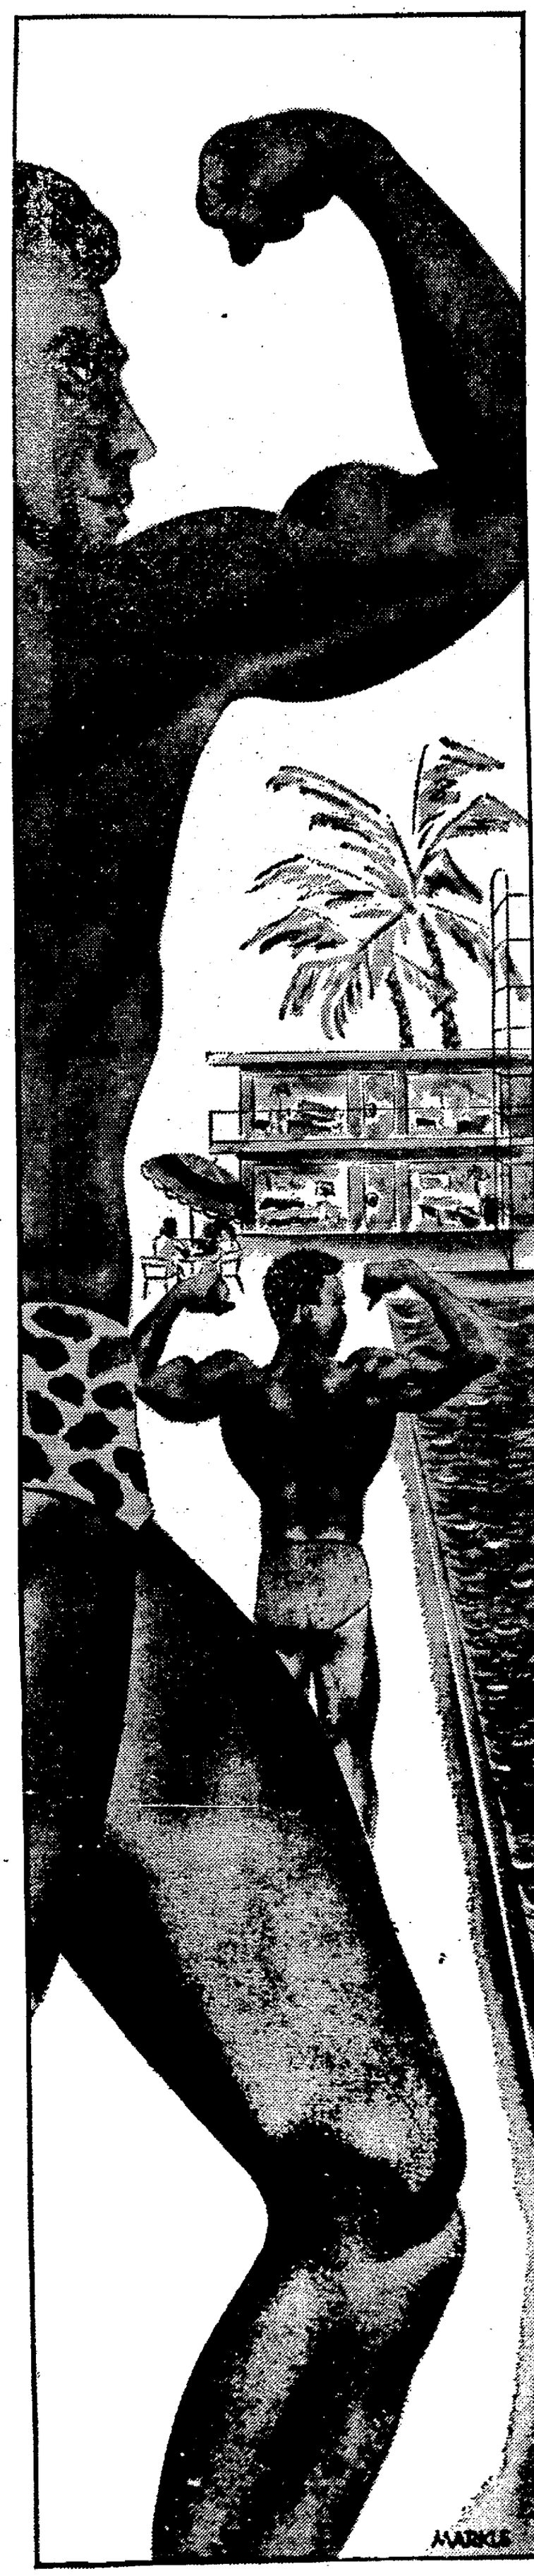

At the beginning of his brief employment in the Survey, James McNeill Whistler, famous artist, did bit of doodling on the side in preparing the above sketches.

Roy M. Sylar, Survey's L. A. district supervisor cartographer, adjusts marker on Alamitos Bay tide gauge. Record on roll goes to Washington monthly for studies.

Automatic tide gauge replaces long stick used for 2,000 years in measuring tides.

The contestants paraded about the pool, flexed their muscles, got red in the face doing it.

Contest Editor

Dear Sir:

It was kind of you to award me second prize in your contest, "Two Glorious Weeks in Sunny Long Beach, Calif." But as you can see, that's where I live, so you may as well give the trip to someone else. I wanted so badly to win the first prize—the Mediterranean cruise, especially since Joan (she's my best friend) got married. She and I were the only single girls left in our crowd. Now I am the only one. Believe me it is frightening to be so old (19) and no nearer marriage than I was two years ago when Bill and I first met.

You see, Bill works for a wedding photographer. I guess taking pictures of weddings all day makes him shy away from talking shop after hours. Anyway I just can't get him to propose. But I thought if I won the cruise for two, it would be the most natural thing in the world for us to make it a honeymoon. Wouldn't you know I'd win a vacation right in the town where I was born! Just the same, thank you very much.

Sincerely,
(MISS) EMMALINE JONES.

Gentlemen:

Please disregard the letter I posted this morning. I've changed my mind.

When Bill came by tonight I decided to make one last stand for matrimony. I showed him your telegram about the contest and tried to be very casual. "Isn't that a joke? A vacation right at home? But don't you hope some nice couple used the Mediterranean cruise for a honeymoon? Wouldn't it be romantic?"

For a moment I thought Bill was going to pop the question. Then his mouth became grim. "Uh-huh," he mumbled and glanced over at a newspaper on the divan. "Well! The Mr. Biceps annual contest is going to be held here."

"What's that?" I asked, not really caring.

"Every year Biceps Magazine has a contest to pick the most muscular specimen in the country. Lots of brawn and little brains," he said with a bit of sarcasm. Bill is touchy over being six-foot-two and hungry looking. "That gives me an idea," he mused.

Well, I could see that he was more interested in muscles than in honeymoons, so I gave up. I said I had a headache and sent him home.

After he was gone I looked at myself in the mirror. Really I'm still not so bad looking, red gold hair, a nice tan, and a pretty good figure considering my age. Life, I thought, is slipping by. Soon I will be an old maid—just someone to baby sit with my friends' children. It was then that I decided to have one last fling, even if it was right at home. So please send me the details about the vacation I won.

Sincerely,
EMMALINE JONES.

Gentlemen:

I registered at Rock-a-Way Hotel just like you said. According to the rules I was to arrive by air, but I only live four blocks from the hotel, so I walked. I have a lovely room overlooking the pool. My goodness there are a lot of handsome men here. It seems this is the headquarters for the Mr. Biceps contestants. I have just returned from a swim and am getting ready to go to dinner with one of them, a Mr. Gregory Lovejoy. He is nice but seems a little tense from continually flexing his muscles. When we first met he looked me over appreciatively and asked what sort of exercises I took. He was horrified when I told him I hated exercise.

I am thankful that I accepted the vacation. It's funny how you can have a good time even with a broken heart.

Sincerely,
EMMALINE JONES.

P. S.: Bill doesn't know where I am. Mother told him I was called out of town.

Gentlemen:

This is to explain some items that you may wonder about when you get the bill for this vacation. Greg has been taking me to dinner every night, so you won't be charged for that, but you may question all the snacks I have sent to my room. Greg believes in carrots, yoghurt, and blackstrap molasses and says if I follow his diet and exercises I can be Miss Universe next year. After that, he says, he'd like to make me Mrs. Lovejoy. Greg is so nice, but you've no idea how hard it is to get romantic on an empty stomach.

Anyway, I hope you don't mind being billed for a few chiliburgers and banana splits that I'm eating in the privacy of my room.

Sincerely,
EMMALINE JONES.

Gentlemen:

I'm afraid the hotel bill is going to be hard to figure out what with us moving into the bridal suite and all those fancy dinners. You figure out what we owe and send us a bill.

The wedding was so sudden. The day of the Mr. Biceps contest, Greg got me a seat at the judges' table and I was asked to present the cup to the winner.

The contestants paraded about the pool, flexed their muscles and got red in the face doing it. Photographers were taking pictures and it was exciting except for the fact that I had had nothing but yoghurt and pinon nuts for lunch and could hardly totter about.

Right in the middle of a reverie about pork chops and yams, a judge motioned for me to award the cup. And guess who the winner was? Greg. After I presented it to him, he put his arm about me. "I'm a lucky guy," he announced. "I have not only won the Mr. Biceps title, but my future wife here is certain to be Miss Universe next year."

I was too surprised to say anything. But there was a crash as someone dropped a camera, and there was Bill—very red in the face.

"What do you mean?" he snarled. "She's my girl. She's marrying me."

Greg looked him over. "And why would she want a puny thing like you?"

"Because she loves me," shouted Bill. "And don't think for one minute I'd be taking pictures of you muscle-bound gorillas if I didn't want the extra money for a honeymoon cruise." With that he gave Greg a little push which sent him sputtering and yelling into the pool.

"Bill," I breathed. "I don't care about a cruise. I just want to get married."

"Sure," Bill said. "But wait till I pull that guy out. He can't even swim."

Sincerely,
(MRS.) WILLIAM GATES.

OLD 'FOOT-IN-THE-MOUTH'

Capital Will Be Dull When Charley Wilson Quits Post

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles Erwin Wilson, occasional raconteur, once told of a mamma whale warning her baby whale that "only when you're spouting are you likely to be harpooned."

The statement is memorable chiefly because few high officials in government have ignored this choice bit of advice more persistently than Charles Erwin Wilson, secretary of defense.

As one result, yelling for the scalp of this 67-year-old son of a Minerva, Ohio, schoolteacher seems to be a local pasttime.

While the frosty locks of old "Foot-in-the-Mouth," as Wilson is sometimes called in these parts, are intact, there are some reports that he will continue in his Pentagon job only until his budget passes Congress and then quit. This would be around midsummer.

When and if Wilson goes and takes his outspoken wife of 44 years with him, this is going to be a far duller town.

• • • •

WHO WILL BE LEFT to call the White House a "dunghill"? Who will fix an icy blue eye on a battery of consciously dignified senators and address them as "You men," as if they were mere corporation vice presidents?

Who will call the politically potent National Guard a "haven for draft dodgers" during the Korean war?

And who will be left after Mrs. Wilson departs to agitate the olives in the teatime martinis by publicly criticizing the President of the United States?

For four years the former president of General Motors has been in and out of hot water with assorted Congressmen and labor leaders, usually over something he has said.

"Some of my friends," he says, "think I contribute to some of the difficulties myself. I don't quite know why except I haven't been properly housebroken. I seem to have a tendency to tell about the economic and political facts of life in public. You just don't do that."

• • • •

FOR ALL his blunt talk—and ensuing scalping expeditions—Wilson has held down this particular job longer than any man since the department was created in 1947.

It has not been easy. When he became secretary in January, 1953 he also became referee in a bitter feud over the strategic roles of the Air Force, Navy and Army.

This scrap hasn't been settled yet, but after some private head knocking Wilson has managed to confine most of the shooting to the Pentagon range.

Wilson had to ride out the storm whipped up by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's charges that the Army coddled Communists. He also had to allay the tempest stirred by reports that Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott used his government job to promote private interests.

T McCarthy's charges, Wilson said "nonsense." Talbott denied the reports, then quit and in so doing came close to precipitating a public row with Wilson.

• • • •

ASIDE FROM this one incident, Wilson seems to have got along well with subordinates in his own shop. People who have worked with him say he invites private disagreement and public harmony.

A former associate of Wilson's at the Pentagon, who asked that his name not be used, said: "He is one of the greatest guys I ever worked with. Most bosses want you to come in, sit down, say what you've got to say and get out. Wilson wants you to sit back, relax and have a thorough visit.

"He is a patient man. When you've finished, all the issues are out in the table. He is unique in the business of decentralization."

• • • •

ON NOV. 20, 1952, Dwight Eisenhower tagged Wilson to become secretary of defense. At a news conference an hour after the appointment was announced, Wilson promised to give the job "the darndest whirl it ever had."

But before he could become secretary, Wilson had to obtain approval of the Senate Armed Forces Committee. This was the beginning of his long immersion in hot water.

Out of his appearance before the committee in January 1953 came the now famous expression, "For years I thought what was good for the country was good for General Motors and vice versa."

Wilson gave up earnings of $581,000 to take the $22,500 defense job, but he and the committee apparently weren't tuned to the same wave length for a while. There was a mighty hassle over whether Wilson would play favorites with GM.

In the end Wilson obtained committee approval only after he had agreed to sell his GM stock. The price was 2¾ million dollars. Sometime later he figured that by selling at that time he lost about 2 million.

If his initial appearance before the committee demonstrated anything, it was that Wilson wasn't a politician in the usual sense. He proved this again rather successfully on Oct. 11, 1954.

On this day Wilson, at a Detroit news conference on unemployment in Michigan, said: "I've always liked bird dogs better than kennel fed dogs. You know, one that will get out and hunt for food rather than sit on his fanny and yell."

Wilson apparently meant that if there were no jobs in Detroit some of the unemployed should look for work elsewhere.

• • • •

WHILE WILSON is a big wheel in government, there is reason to believe that he is an enormously frustrated man.

He has indicated a desire to play a violin. He would like to be a cartoonist. He would like to be an athlete. There is some indication that he has a hankering to be known as a gagster.

As far as is known, Wilson has made no progress toward fiddling. He sent off in 1954 for 10 easy lessons on how to be a cartoonist, but the census of working cartoonists remains unchanged.

As a sportsman, Wilson is a bust. As G.M. president he joined a fox hunting club, horse powered, and was thrown.

At times he seems to be making progress as a gag man. He has had some expert advice. One of his friends is television entertainer Arthur Godfrey, who owns a farm near Leesburg, Va., to which Wilson sometimes retreats.

A Senate committee asked him last year why certain bookkeeping procedures had not produced particular results. Wilson replied that a new system had been put into operation and "trying to make the rules retroactive is like trying to make birth control retroactive."

Wilson's latest excursion into the headlines came after he observed that "a sort of scandal . . . a draft dodging business" developed in the National Guard during the Korean war.

The fur flew right up to the White House. Wilson later explained he didn't mean to cast slurs on individual guardsmen but that the system which permitted men to escape the Korean draft was wrong. President Eisenhower called Wilson's remarks "unwise."

For Mrs. Wilson that tore it. She said she was "indignant" and the President's statement was "uncalled for."

Then Mrs. Wilson added, "I think you need a little pat on the back once in a while. Mr. Wilson has been trying to do a good job, and I think he has done a good job."

• • • •

JUST BEFORE THIS Wilson had been called to the White House. When he emerged he was asked if he had a statement. Retorting Wilson: "This is not my dunghill. Anything to be announced, somebody else ought to announce."

Wilson apparently referred to an ancient Roman proverb that a cock crows loudest on the dunghill in his own backyard.

Subsequently Mrs. Wilson said her husband shouldn't have used that word.

In any case, Wilson said he was "delighted" by his wife's stand. Even the President seemed tickled. He invited the Wilsons to fly with him as far as Augusta and then go on to Miami for a vacation in his personal plane.

And how is Wilson making out these days? He once gave a pretty good summation of the situation.

"The price of progress," he said, "is trouble, and I must be making lots of progress."

"THE PRICE OF progress," says Defense Secretary Wilson, "is trouble and I must be making lots of progress." Some of the trouble surrounding him is outlined in this Associated Press cartoon.

Inauguration Rated Financial Floperoo

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND WILLIAM W. BROOM
(Independent, Press-Telegram Capital Bureau)

WASHINGTON—It's now official—President Eisenhower's second inauguration last month was a financial floperoo.

The size of the deficit won't be known for some time, but it's certain the inaugural committee will have to dig deeply into a $1,080,000 guarantee posted by businessmen here and elsewhere in the nation.

The big red ink item on the committee books resulted from a slim sale of grandstand tickets for the parade. Nearly half a million persons watched the parade, it is estimated, but only some 55,000 were in paid seats. The rest of the 400,000 watched from free seats in office windows and countless others in the capital were chased indoors by the bad weather and saw the show on television.

SECRETARY OF DEFENSE Charlie Wilson was recently visiting Lewis W. Strauss, Atomic Energy Commission chairman, at the latter's farm in Virginia.

One of Strauss' very young grandchildren came into the room and Wilson said to her—"Come here, little girl. I want to teach you a trick."

"Which one?" twitted Strauss, "how to put her foot in her mouth?"

Replied the smiling defense secretary who has become famous for his salty and sometimes undiplomatic remarks—"Why not? Who can teach her better?"

Senate Labor Quizzers to Hear Gangsters and Prostitutes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators said Saturday they will use secretly recorded gangster conversations and testimony from prostitutes, gamblers and others to show whether some West Coast officials of the teamsters' union had ties with the underwold.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said his special Senate rackets investigating committee has "pretty conclusive proof" about the relations between Seattle and Portland, Ore., racketeers and officials of the union in both cities.

The committee, conducting a nation-wide search for evidence of gangster infiltration and corruption in organized labor and industry, has selected the situation in Portland as the starting point for its public hearings.

The Senate has voted $350,000 to finance the investigation.

• • • •

McCLELLAN and Robert F. Kennedy, the committee's special counsel, said, they expect to show that racketeers and teamsters' union officials from Seattle have attempted to "muscle in" on Portland rackets also involving teamsters' officials and racketeers.

Kennedy said the committee has got hold of some tape-recorded conversations which will shed light on the subject. He said "someone" not connected with the committee hid a microphone or "bug" in a room where the talks took place.

"The situation was that one group of gangsters bugged another group of gangsters," Kennedy said.

He and McClellan said they subpoenaed some 20 witnesses for days of hearings on Portland. The witnesses include some public officials, union officers and persons Kennedy described as "proficient in gambling and bootlegging, who make it a profession—and persons proficient at prostitution."

• • • •

"THE FEMININE sex will be represented among the witnesses," was all McClellan would say on the latter score.

He refused to identify witnesses this far in advance lest, he said, "there be an attempt to intimidate them." He said there already has been the case of a New York witness in another phase of the inquiry who was threatened with bodily harm if he gave information to the committee. He has named this man as Anthony Nicoletti, financial secretary of the Suffolk County, N. Y., carpenters' union.

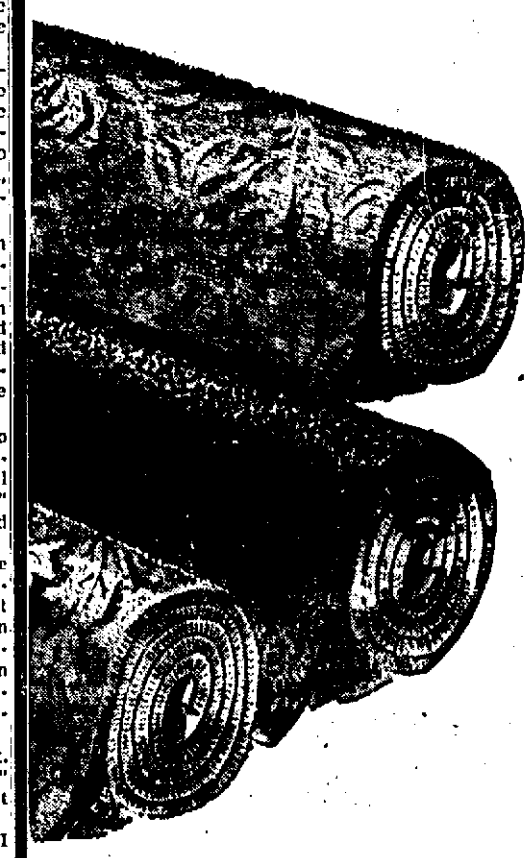

McClellan said the Portland investigation has progressed to a point showing attempts from Seattle to "muscle in" on Portland rackets, including efforts to "control" gambling, prostitution, pin-ball operations and illicit after-hours drinking spots.

The Portland City Council had requested the investigation. A grand jury in Portland already has handed down a series of conspiracy indictments against District Attorney William Langley of Multnomah County and others. Another grand jury investigation is under way there.

Don't Count Knowland Out of Governor Race, GOP Told

By THE LOOKOUT

ANAHEIM—It was in roundabout fashion, but Republicans "got the word" Saturday from U.S. Sen. W. F. Knowland that he's not to be counted out as a potential candidate for governor in the 1958 election.

It came in the release of a month-old letter sent by Knowland to Robert Fenton Craig, president of the California Republican Assembly now in convention at Disneyland. The letter began with what appeared to be a rebuke to Craig for expressing doubt several weeks ago that Knowland would be a gubernatorial candidate, and added that Knowland has not made a final decision.

Craig's surprise release of the letter came as the Republican delegates at Disneyland prepared to greet Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, who addressed a convention banquet Saturday night on party strategy for the crucial elections ahead. Whether Knowland and Knight will clash headon for the GOP gubernatorial nomination next year has been a major topic of discussion at the convention.

• • • •

"YOU THOUGHT it appropriate for reasons I don't understand to go far beyond my own statement of Jan. 7," wrote Knowland in reference to Craig's forecast that Knowland wouldn't run for governor.

Knowland said the Jan. 7 statement "relates solely to the decision that I would not be a candidate for reelection to the U. S. Senate when my term expires. Beyond that it neither opened nor closed any alternative door. I shall make by position clear when I reach a final decision. This will be after my return to California and consultations in various parts of the state."

While these remarks intensified the puzzle confronting Republicans, observers could hardly doubt that Knowland wants to keep alive the possibility that he will run for governor.

Assembly President Craig, a USC professor, was the center of another development Saturday when he heatedly attacked Democratic Atty. Gen. Edmund

SENATOR KNOWLAND
May Be Running

G. Brown in the convention keynote speech, drawing mixed reactions among the delegates.

• • • •

WHILE NO partisan-minded delegate argued with Craig's biting appraisal of the Democrat who has promised to run for major office in 1958, some doubted the political sagacity of the attack.

"Why give Pat Brown all the advertising?" asked one delegate, himself prominently mentioned as a potential candidate for statewide office. "I think Pat just loves it."

Others had criticism and still others praise for Craig's speech calling Brown "a bad attorney general" and an "impossible candidate on any state level." Craig said he would "think twice before voting for Brown for dogcatcher."

He called attention to a recent report of the state franchise board showing assessments of nearly $2,000,000 on bookies, lottery operators and other illegal operators. Citing this evidence of "illicit gain," he said: "I think the attorney general has some responsibility in this field. Is he dumb, ignorant or blind? Or are his agents making deals?"

• • • •

THE CONVENTION delegates moved from the Disneyland Hotel to Knott's Berry Farm Saturday night to hear Gov. Knight blueprint a plan for GOP victories in the future by building up sound Republican candidates.

After criticizing the California GOP for failures "to be effective," Knight said the party should begin now to seek out well-known persons as potential candidates, to handle their public relations, help them win experience, and collect campaign funds for them.

Knight told the convention that the new ruling designating party affiliations of candidates on the primary ballot is not a barrier to GOP victory despite Democratic superiority in voter registration.

"Republicans and their victories have not been built for 60 years on cross filing, but on superior candidates, finer programs and better government," he said.

• • • •

KNIGHT WARNED Republicans against "dilatory, delaying, defensive postures" and advised them to adopt programs that will appeal to independents and Democrats. He noted that in his own campaign he had strong Democratic and labor support, but "never at the expense of denying my firm Republicanism." He said his non-Republican campaigns told him they respected candor rather than expedient caution.

The Republican Assembly, a volunteer organization, will conclude its session today with the election of officers and adoption of resolutions. George Millas of Gilroy is expected to succeed Craig as president. Mrs. Jane Storm of Long Beach is a likely choice for one of the vice presidential spots. The final sessions will be held at the Disneyland hotel.

Lyle Eddy will be chairman of the day, and President Lyle Huggins will preside.

Theft of $100, a syringe and an unknown amount of narcotics from a medical bldg., at 2640 Atlantic Ave., was reported to police Saturday.

U.S. Army Protests Russian Roadblock

BERLIN (LP) — The U. S. Army protested Saturday that the Russians suddenly changed their rules on travel through Communist Germany and refused to let six U. S. State Department representatives drive through the Soviet Zone to isolated Berlin.

The Army said the Russians, acting without warning, barred the six Friday at the Marienborn checkpoint on the East-West German border. The six Americans were turned back by Russian guards at the extrance to the 110-mile-long highway and had to return to Hamburg, where they work in the U. S. consulate.

• • • •

THE SIX WERE identified as Consul Edward J. Trost, New York City; Vice Consul Donald Junior, Kansas City, Mo.; Vice Consul Samuel Lee, Honolulu; Vice Consul Bernice Goldstein, Philadelphia, Gladys Blal, a secretary from Dallas, Tex., and Warren E. Slater, a vice consul from New York City.

The new Russian harrassing action came as M. J. Hillenbrand, State Department political affairs chief in Berlin, was reported to have protested to the Soviet deputy commandant in Berlin against Russian refusal to allow American photographer Claude Jacoby to drive to Berlin Wednesday.

The Russians turned Jacoby back on the same grounds the State Department employes found the way to Berlin barred.

Hillenbrand delivered his protest verbally to Col. I. A. Kotsiuba in a discussion of East-West affairs in Berlin.

• • • •

THE SIX WERE turned back on grounds they needed special stamps in their passports identifying them as members of or dependents of members of the U. S. armed forces.

They had travel orders issued by the U. S. embassy in West Germany and Russian translations of those orders. Until now, the Russians have accepted such documents. Only Western Allied nationals stationed in Berlin have been required to have the stamps the Russians demanded of the six motorists.

Garages Looted, Nails Stolen

Two garages at 2841 E. 69th Pl., and 2831 E. 69th Pl., were looted of 12 kegs of nails valued at $144 and a radio worth $75, police reported Saturday. The nails were property of Mayreo Const. Co., and the radio belonged to Benjamin Burt, of Lynwood.

Why DR. CAMPBELL says
"have dentures FIRST and pay LATER"

"I don't have to worry about paying my expenses as a dentist if I am interested first in giving service," Dr. Campbell said. "I have found through trial and error that every one of my offices must give a lot of credit to be prosperous. In the past, when one of my offices curtailed credit, this office became less prosperous. People gladly pay for good service when you are thinking of them before the money. My records prove that this is good business both for my patients and for me."

Cleone Erickson (left) wears a soft upsweep hairdo on sides, back. Pomp front brings bangs to temples in uptrend Italian style. Helen Lantow has soft bangs, side waves. Hair is softly swept up in back.

Norma Schutz glows in a coiffure which hairdressers say is ideal for evening wear—soft upswept back, large soft waves on sides, high lift in front. Stylists demonstrate methods today and Monday.

The Coiffure Must Fit the Face

Blonde Barbara Kite looks very sophisticated wearing the Bouffant style—soft, casual and flattering.

HAIR STYLING and design is more than curling, waving and combing. The basic principles used by the modern hair stylist are an understanding of proportion, balance, emphasis, rhythm, harmony and color.

The hairdresser strives to suit the individual needs of a patron according to the mass outline of the face, and these techniques will be demonstrated today and Monday at the new grand ballroom of Lafayette Hotel when the Long Beach Hairdressers Guild holds its annual Beauty and Trade Show. Milady is invited to watch hairdressers compete in styling demonstrations in which their many modern techniques will be explained (sessions begin at noon each day).

THEY WILL DEMONSTRATE, for instance, that the style they adopt for a particular patron is determined by the length of face which is divided into three proportions: the distance from the tip of the chin to the tip of the nose, the tip of the nose to the inner arch of the eyebrow, and from the inner arch of the eyebrow to the hairline. If any one of these three proportions is too long or too short in comparison with the others, the stylist then strives

OUR COVER

You're wrong! There are not two girls on Southland's cover. It's Sibyl Smith, and Sibyl Smith only, who makes herself still more attractive than her usually attractive self wearing the Continental hairdo — large waves back OFF the ear on the right side, softness OVER left ear and back. Her hairdo has no part.

Brunet Jean Damico also wears the Bouffant style, with soft waves giving a most flattering effect.

WHO'LL WIN ACADEMY AWARDS MARCH 27?

The Oscar Derby Is On Again

Ernest Borgnine's performance of "Marty" was superb, and so was that of Walter Seltzer, right, public relations man who put Borgnine and film in Oscar class.

By James Bacon
Associated Press Writer

TAKE New Orleans' Mardi Gras, the Lincoln-Douglas debates and a Greco-Roman wrestling match. Wrap them up in one big package and you have a reasonable facsimile of what's going on these days in Hollywood.

For on us now is the dizzy carnival of Oscar. It will last until March 27, when the winners go happily home with little gold statuettes which cost about $100 but can be worth millions.

(Best actress nominations, made last week: Ingrid Bergman, in "Anastasia;" Carroll Baker, "Baby Doll;" Katherine Hepburn, "The Rainmaker;" Nancy Kelly, "The Bad Seed," and Deborah Kerr, "The King and I."

(Nominees for best actor performance: Yul Brynner, "The King and I;" the late James Dean, "Giant;" Kirk Douglas, "Lust for Life;" Rock Hudson, "Giant," and Laurence Olivier, "Richard III.")

Since the night that Janet Gaynor and Emil Jannings won the 1927 awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, this has been Hollywood's greatest show of the year. Actors are zany people anyway, but when they get in contention for Oscars—watch out.

EVERY TRICK of the trade is used, all's fair in love, war and the Oscar race.

Just how is he won?

If you take the case histories of last year's two top winners, you won't find any pattern. Ernest Borgnine and Anna Magnani could not have sought the awards in more divergent ways. Yet it's doubtful if either could have won any other way. Still, their cases are reasonably typical, so let's examine them.

First, scandal magazines to the contrary, Oscar can't be bought. It's true that a winner may spend $10,000 on a successful campaign. But the losers may spend twice as much.

"MARTY," the movie which made a major star of Borgnine and won as last year's best picture, cost only $343,000 to make.

Yet, Hecht-Lancaster, the makers, and United Artists, the distributors, spent more than half a million advertising it. It was money well invested, for the picture now has grossed more than six million.

Hollywood publicity men look upon the "Marty" campaign with reverence and awe. It is now cited as a model.

Publicity man behind the campaign was Walter Seltzer, since turned producer.

Seltzer recalls he knew he had an Oscar contender to sell from the moment he first saw a rough cut of the film.

"THE PICTURE was the sleeper of the year and Borgnine's performance was the greatest I'd ever seen. But I knew that both had to be exposed to the maximum to win an Oscar," says Seltzer.

When Oscar time rolled around, Seltzer had exposed "Marty" and Borgnine like a nudist camp. The two were shoo-ins for the awards.

Goodnatured, friendly Borgnine put himself in Seltzer's hands. He showed up at every function, premier, party in town.

"To know Ernie is to love him," says Seltzer. "That part was simple."

"Marty," of course, was a shy butcher. When a big supermarket opened in Santa Monica a few days before the awards, customers found Borgnine behind the meat counter complete with cap and apron.

CORNY, MAYBE, but it paid off. Borgnine's performance was a memorable one but so were those by James Cagney, Frank Sinatra and James Dean. Hecht-Lancaster then was a small independent. It didn't, like MGM, employ hundreds of academy members who might vote in the so-called studio loyalty group.

It was Borgnine's first starring role. He hadn't been around for years like Cagney nor could he be expected to have collected as many friends among the voters.

Seltzer employed two gimmicks that overcame these menacing obstacles.

First off he started a daily series of newspaper advertisements months before the awards. Each ad was clever and each had the same cartoon drawing of Borgnine dialing a pay phone—a key scene in the movie.

By the time the awards came, everybody but the blind knew about Borgnine and "Marty."

THE OTHER WAS a psychological gimmick that made moderate income voters and opinion makers feel like studio tycoons.

Whenever someone in the voting group wanted to entertain his friends or neighbors, Seltzer sent over a 16-mm print of "Marty" complete with projection equipment and projectionist.

Only the big producers and stars normally see current movies in their homes.

"We had 160 such private showings," Seltzer recalls. "We knew Ernie and the picture deserved an Oscar. It was just a case of selling good merchandise."

So successful was the sell that the night Borgnine won his Oscar, he presented miniature ones to Seltzer and his assistant, Arthur Wilde.

"They won it too," Borgnine explained gratefully.

MAGNANI, in contrast, refused to do anything her publicity advisers wanted. When producer Hal Wallis asked her to come to New York to attend the opening of "The Rose Tattoo," she cabled no thanks.

"Magnani wants to be judged only on her performance, not her handshaking ability," she told Wallis. It was an answer in keeping with her outspoken Italian character and it worked with the voters.

Insiders say she captured the so-called snob vote of the academy—those in Hollywood who looked down their noses at Oscar politicking. That and the votes she picked up from her outstanding performance got her an Oscar. She still hasn't left Rome.

OSCAR VOTING is a top secret affair, so secret that even George Seaton, the president of the Academy, is just as surprised as the television viewers when the winners are announced.

This year 16,721 members of the motion picture industry guilds are eligible to vote for the nominations. Actors nominate actors, directors nominate directors and musicians nominate songs.

But the ultimate winners are picked only by the 1,770 members of the academy. These come from the creative branches of the industry—actors, directors, writers, designers and the like—all recognized craftsmen in their particular branches.

THE ONLY PEOPLE who know the winners beforehand are a few close-mouthed tabulators of the firm of Price Waterhouse & Co., certified public accountants.

What does Oscar mean to a picture?

Based on its cost and the fact that Borgnine was not a big movie name before "Marty," that picture would have made its producers delirious had it grossed a million and a half. It quadrupled that.

Further Rain a Possibility Here Tonight

onto sidewalks and banged others together.

Brunt of the rainfall was felt in the West Los Angeles section. Police said one woman reported seeing eight driverless cars go by her house.

On La Cienega Blvd., officers counted 30 to 35 cars which were carried by rapidly flowing waters up onto sidewalks and against store fronts.

Authorities said some parked cars in West Los Angeles were pushed as much as 100 feet along streets by high water.

Many roads—some of them including main arteries between Los Angeles and the San Fernando Valley — were closed temporarily or partly blocked by boulders swept from hillsides onto streets.

Residents of some parts of Torrance placed sandbags around their homes to keep out water. The western section of Inglewood was flooded. Municipal buses were stranded in Santa Monica.

• • • •

AT ONE TIME, three feet of water covered sections of the Hollywood Freeway, restricting traffic to a single lane.

A sanitarium in the Culver City area had to be evacuated because of floodwaters.

In Pasadena, flooding in a home caused a fireplace and chimney to collapse.

RAIN CAUSED an apartment house fire in Hollywood when it seeped into a basement and put out a furnace pilot light. The gas leaked into apartments, and fire followed several explosions. One person was injured.

To the north, winds as strong as 70 miles an hour swept the Monterey coast.

Winds reached a velocity of 59 miles an hour at San Francisco Airport early Saturday. Thirty-three false burglar alarms were set off by the wind from midnight to dawn. Store windows were smashed at San Mateo.

In Bakersfield, winds up to 46 miles an hour caused power failures that left the area without light for about two hours.

Funerals Set for Three Victims of Cave-In

ANAHEIM — Funeral services for the three young boys who died when an excavation on the Santa Ana Freeway underpass here caved in Friday were scheduled for this week.

Rosary for William David Barron, 7, will be Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Back's, Campbell and Kaulbar's Mortuary, with mass in St. Boniface Church at 9 a.m. Wednesday. Interment will be in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

Service for Stephen Wayne Jones, 10, will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the chapel of Bellflower Mortuary, Bellflower. Interment will be in Rose Hills Memorial Park.

Last rites for Larry Joseph Scherer, 13, will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. in Back's, Campbell and Kaulbar's Mortuary. Interment will be in Melrose Abbey Cemetery.

The three boys were buried under several tons of dirt and sand while playing around the excavation shortly after noon Friday. A fourth boy, Billy Hushman, 10, of 1123 W. Broadway, said he had left the three about 1:15 p.m. to go home.

The Barron boy is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Barron, 1613 Redwood Ave., Anaheim, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Barron and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Pinelli of Anaheim.

Stephen Jones is survived by his mother, Ann Jones of Bellflower; father, Billy Jones of Anaheim; sister, Jeanne Ann, and grandparents, Sivan Carlson of Nebraska and Jonne Lawrence of Whittier.

The Scherer youth is survived by his mother, Ida Marr Scherer of Anaheim; father, William F. Scherer, of Long Beach; brother, Gary N., sister, Carol L., and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen L. Bigler of Anaheim.

Sumerian, Aged 5,000, Dug Up

BAHREIN, (AP) — Danish archaeologists unearthed a 5,000-year-old Sumerian age urn here Saturday containing the skeleton of a man.

The man was believed to have been sacrificed to the gods and his remains placed in the urn as guardian for a Sumerian king.

The urn was found at a depth of 25 feet beside a massive stone wall which had a niche believed built to receive offerings for the dead monarch.

• • • •

NEARBY THE archaeologists turned up a Greek drinking vessel beside a recently discovered altar stone where the people made sacrifices to the snake god.

The drinking vessel is believed to have been part of a tea set given to the king of Tylos, the Greek name for Bahrein, by one of Alexander the Great's admirals more than 2,000 years ago.

Geoffrey Bibby, the expedition's British spokesman, said an Admiral Niarchos visited Bahrein while leading one of Alexander's fleets back from the mouth of the river Indus in India.

• • • •

THE EXPEDITION to this main island of the Persian Gulf state of Bahrein also located a burial chamber. It will be opened Thursday or Friday.

"There is no sign that the burial chamber of its associated treasury have been plundered, Bibby said.

The Danish leader of the expedition, Prof. P. V. Glob, thinks there are other important graves in the vicinity.

Postal Clerk Turnover at Costly Level

Turnover of postal workers has reached "alarming rates" which can be stemmed only by a pay raise, the executive board of the California Federation of Post Office Clerks announced Saturday.

Meeting at the Wilton Hotel, the board—headed by President Robert P. Sanders of Fresno—charged that turnover is as high as 25 to 30 per cent in some areas. This is costing the taxpayers millions of dollars for training of new postal employes, the members added.

• • • •

AT THE SAME time, the board urged governmental recognition of the postal unions.

"It is a strange relationship when government workers cannot enjoy the same privileges established by the government for the rest of the nation's workers under the Wagner Act and the National Labor Relations Act," the board's statement said.

Representing the Long Beach area on the board is Vice President Tom Rico of Lomita.

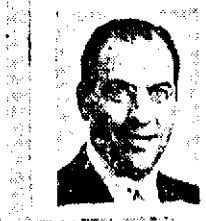

Solemn Mission Services Slated

The Solemn Mission at St. Cornelius Parish, 5325 Flagstone St., will be held March 10 through March 24, according to Rev. Francis M. Osborne, pastor.

The nightly services will not begin this evening, as announced in Saturday's Independent and Press-Telegram.

Paulist Fathers, Rev. Richard D. Payne, C.S.P., and Rev. Charles S. White, C.S.P. will conduct services at 7:30 p.m. with masses at 6:30 a.m., 7 a.m. and 8:15 a.m.

Blasting to Raise Bodies Fatal to One

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP)—A man was blown to bits and a boy apparently was blinded Saturday as dynamite exploded prematurely in a search for the bodies of three youths who drowned Feb. 6.

State Police Sgt. Russell Hoge said Lon Trogden of Peck's Mill was killed.

Sixteen-year-old Billy Williamson of Logan was taken to Logan General Hospital where it was said he had "probably lost his sight." He was one of several persons who came to the scene to watch the blasting.

Searchers had planned to detonate dynamite at intervals in the hope of bringing up the bodies.

The search was being made for the bodies of Charles Hughes, 14, and Ray Hayes and Harold Jeffrey, both 15, who drowned when a boat capsized in swollen Guyan River.

Trogden, 66, was a veteran of 30 years work with explosives in coal mines.

He was preparing one-stick charges, lighting the 15 to 18-inch fuses, and handing them to another man to weight and throw into the river.

He was carrying some eight to 10 sticks of dynamite.

The Williamson boy was standing only a few feet behind him when the blast went off.

T-Men Seize 14,004 Moonshine Stills in Year, Jail 11,000 Owners

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "revenooers" made it rough on the moonshiners last year — mighty rough.

The treasury's Alcohol Tax investigators seized 14,004 stills and made more than 11,000 arrests. They also confiscated property valued at more than four million dollars—and that doesn't count untold jugs of illicit booze.

It wasn't easy.

One group of Kentucky moonshiners hung the carcass of a dead animal in a nearby tree to conceal the odor of fermenting mash. Agents testified it was indeed a potent device, but they found the still anyway.

One investigator was attacked by a vicious bulldog guarding a still. He killed the dog in self-defense, arrested the owner and confiscated the illegal machinery.

An investigator poking around in the hills of a southwestern state found the still he was looking for and went back for a search warrant. The still's owner thought he was leaving the area for good and disconnected a shotgun boobytrap that could have blasted large and uncomfortable holes in the agent. It still was disconnected when the agent returned and closed up the moonshiner's operations.

Another agent went underground to break up the operation of a moonshining syndicate. He posed as a customer, was offered a job and soon was driving trucks, helping around the stills and even collecting money for the operators. When the Feds finally closed in, they seized five large stills, capable of producing 1,500 gallons of whisky a day, and arrested 28 men.

Then there was the case of the South Carolina sheriff and several of his deputies who were selling protection to the moonshiners. The sheriff got five years in jail and a fine of $3,000. Agents seized nine stills and 18 vehicles and said the moonshiners had defrauded Uncle Sam of nearly a million dollars in taxes.

South Carolina was the site of the first successful airplane raid on a still. Investigators spotted it from the air, landed the plane in a nearby field and arrested the operators.

Duke, Queen Tots Take to Horseback

LONDON (UP)—The Duke of Edinburgh, newly proclaimed a prince of the kingdom, took his family horseback riding in the rain Saturday for their first outing together in more than four months.

Queen Elizabeth, the Duke and their children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, rode around the vast grounds of Windsor Castle 30 miles west of London. They spent an hour on horseback despite a chill rain.

One week ago, the duke was reunited with the Queen in Lisbon, Portugal, ending his round-the-world cruise which began Oct. 15. But Saturday was their first day free of official pomp and ceremony which they could spend with their children. The Queen proclaimed her husband a prince of the realm.

• • • •

NEXT WEEK, the duke will resume a rugged schedule of official visits, possibly climaxing in a state visit to the United States next fall.

With his new title of royal prince—something he never has had although he always was called prince by Britons — he will tour Britain, and then visit France and Norway.

He will visit 20 different places in Britain in March before leaving for his tours abroad.

Authoritative sources kept alive the belief here that the Duke and the Queen also may tour the United States next Autumn.

Mrs. Dulles Sees Revolt in Germany

BERLIN (UP) — Mrs. Eleanor Dulles, sister of U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, said Saturday the Russians are faced in East Germany with a "hostile" population that could revolt.

In a speech here, Mrs. Dulles, who retained her maiden name after her marriage, said the Soviet occupation of Germany has failed. She said East Germans have rejected Communism and continue to tolerate it only because of the 400,000 Russian troops stationed in the Soviet zone.

• • • •

MRS. DULLES, a special assistant in the State Department's office of German affairs, spoke at West Berlin's free university after receiving an honorary degree of doctor of political science.

Communist newspapers attacked Mrs. Dulles as an "informer and agent." But a high Communist government official gave unwitting corroboration to some of her remarks.

Gen. Willi Stolph, East German defense minister, said today the Red Army will remain in the Soviet zone of Germany to protect the East German Communist government.

In a message marking the 39th anniversary of the Red Army, Stolph served notice on anti-Communists that the 22 Soviet divisions stationed in East Germany will put down any Hungarian-type revolt.

Tojo Aide to Be Next Jap Chief

TOKYO (AP)—A lean, affable politician who worked with Premier Hideki Tojo during the war is due to become Japan's next prime minister. Parliament is expected to elect Nobusuke Kishi, now foreign minister and acting prime minister, Monday or Tuesday.

Now 60, Kishi has mellowed since the war years and there is expected to be little change in Japan's pro-Western, pro-Asian policies under his leadership. He spent three years in Sugamo Prison as a war-crimes suspect after the war but never was charged.

• • • •

"WHEN I FOUND out I was not to be indicted or hanged, he said, "I began to think about the rest of my life as a bonus to be spent wisely. I had long reflections on the past and decided that Japan must have real democracy and never again adopt dictatorship by anyone — military or nonmilitary — and never yield to extremists—Communists or Fascists."

His step-up to be Japan's seventh prime minister since the war resulted from the resignation because of illness, Saturday, of Prime Minister Tanzan Ishibashi, 72, after only 63 days in office. Ishibashi remains prime minister in name until his successor is installed by Emperor Hirohito.

• • • •

THE SWITCH was precipitated by an announcement by doctors Friday that Ishibashi needs another two months to recover from bronchial pneumonia and a weakened heart.

Kishi, regarded as more conservative and more pro-American than Ishibashi, is expected to hold both posts—prime minister and foreign minister—and to reappoint Ishibashi's cabinet until the present session of parliament ends in April. There is a talk of changes then and possibly a national election.

India Begins Voting Today

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India starts a marathon general election today with signs already pointing to another victory for Prime Minister Nehru's Congress Party in Parliament.

The last of the votes will be cast March 14.

About 1,530 candidates are running for the 494 seats in Parliament's lower house, where the victors will form the new government. More than 10,000 are after seats in 13 state assemblies.

Close contests are likely in several state assembly races.

About 100 million persons out of 193 million eligibles are expected to vote in this second national election since India won independence from Britain in 1947.

HOLLYWOOD

Fixin' to Put a Lady to Bed

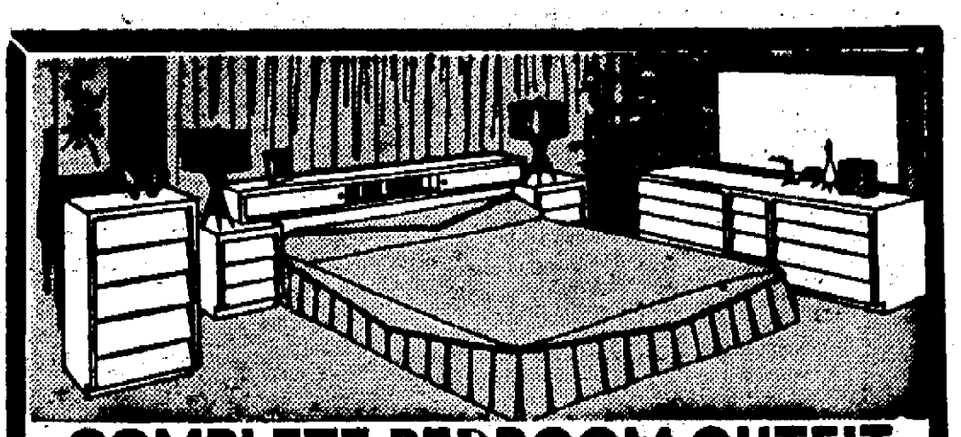

It takes a lot of fixin' to put a lady to bed—in the movies! First, the lady, Monique Van Vooren, combs and grooms her coiffure into shape, then holds still for make-up in scene in MGM's "Ten Thousand Bedrooms."

And now, how about exposure? Cameraman moves in with his light meter, and at the same time Monique gets what the movies refer to as "body make-up."

After a final word from the director, this is the "take." Monique is ready to sing, after no end of people have worked over her in studio "boudoir."

By Bike to Guatemala

By Dick Hayman

WHEN the cycling bug bites, it bites hard!

Two Southland collegians, Don White and Aaron Cohen, are outstanding examples at hand. The two pedal-pushers this summer spent their vacation time crossing the entire length of Mexico on their bikes, destined for their final goal—Guatemala — on a 3,100-mile trek which surpassed their last year's cycling across the United States from Los Angeles to New York City.

Passionate believers in the theory that it's best to see any country leisurely as the traveler moves along, the two bicyclists, both 21, enjoyed their 1955 cross-country adventure so much they decided early this summer to play an encore by turning their well-used handlebars in the direction of Latin America.

On June 18 they departed from their hometown, carrying with them only $100 to cover 2½ months' expenses, plus some 30 pounds of baggage and equipment.

"The worst parts of the trip up to Mexico City were the desert stretches in Arizona and across the border in Sonora. The sun really blazes down around there," the boys reported when interviewed on a Mexico City radio station during their few days of respite in the capital.

"But what pleasantly surprised us was the wonderful condition of the Nogales highway. It made the long hours of pedaling a real pleasure," White told their interviewer, Ernesto Arraiza.

In turn, co-adventurer Cohen spoke of "the marvelous hospitality of the Mexican families where we stopped along the way. They took us into their homes, fed us, put us up for the night and not for pay either."

On July 30 the two took off

TRIES 35 TIMES

Stubborn Santa Ana Disc Jockey Keeps Phoning; Elvis Won't Reply

SANTA ANA—Disc Jockey Jack Warren figures Elvis (The Pelvis) Presley can't lose. Warren, at the request of thousands of teenage Presley fans, has tried to speak to the rock 'n' roll idol 35 times since Jan. 1 but without success.

And the kids are sore at Warren but not at Presley and associates for ignoring Warren's requests.

"The whole thing began when kids phoned in asking me to get Elvis to say something to them via telephone for broadcast," Warren said. "So, on New Year's Day I made the first call to him at RCA in New York. This call and all those that followed were made during broadcasts, and the kids were listening in.

"It's amazing—I was rebuffed then and have been from then on, and the kids blame me instead of Presley's crew. They tell me I should have tried harder — should have argued more. It's all my fault, they tell me. I guess I can't win."

• • • •

WARREN, WHO broadcasts over station KWIZ, said he made the New York call and was told by a switchboard operator, "now why would he want to talk to you? I don't even know where Santa Ana is, and I bet he doesn't either."

Warren redoubled his efforts after that, usually following suggestions from his fans of "The Elvis Presley Hour," his nightly show. One call went to Presley's home in Memphis, Tenn., but was intercepted by a hireling before Warren could speak to the sideburn youth.

"When Presley and his manager, Col. Parker came to Hollywood only 40 miles away, I figured I'd reach him," Warren said. "I kept calling the Hollywood Knickerbocker and Paramount but without success. Always a brushoff—and always the kids listening and telling me to try harder.

"I spoke to a guy named Diskin, and he promised to send me a telegram from Elvis. I told him all I wanted was a short telephone interview or even a taped interview. He said, 'thanks—I'll tell Elvis you called, and we'll send you a telegram.'

"He never did send me a telegram, so I took down Elvis' picture from the studio wall. When I next spoke to Diskin—about two weeks ago—he was shocked when he heard about the picture business. Said he'd lost my address and that they'd been awfully busy. I figured Diskin, Parker and Presley weren't interested enough in our kids to say hello to them."

Warren, a local boy who returned to the Los Angeles area six months ago after working in radio and TV for four years at Salt Lake City, Utah, plays Presley records because listeners ask for them.

"I prefer contemporaries like Billy May," he said, "I also like Stan Kenton, Benny Goodman, Jimmie Lunceford and others in their group. Rock 'n' roll isn't exciting to me. I'll tap my foot a little, but that's all. I guess Presley's magnetic, but I'm not a fanatic about him."

Warren's plans are unchanged. Monday he'll make the usual afternoon call to Paramount to try to reach Presley and then an evening call to the hotel.

"The kids expect it," he said. "Besides, know what Diskin said to me? He told me, 'now keep in touch with us.' How about that?"

Service-Pay Advisers to Report Soon

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Cordiner Committee will meet at the Defense Department this week to try and reach final agreement on a revolutionary military-pay-increase plan.

The plan calls for higher pay based on skills rather than length of service. It would cost almost $600 million a year at the outset but heads of the armed services believe it will bring tremendous savings with less manpower in the future.

• • • •

THE COMMITTEE is headed by Ralph J. Cordiner, president of General Electric Co. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson asked the members to investigate military pay scales and report to him next month.

The report is near completion but several problems still must be ironed out.

The influential Army Navy Air Force Journal said Saturday the report will enable defense officials to present legislative recommendations to the Senate and House Armed Services Committees by mid-March.

THE PROGRAM is designed to make military service more attractive. It would tend to weed out "goldbrickers" and other less ambitious types and pay premiums to those who want to make military service a career.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Livability Multiplied By Two Plus

Plain exterior of the Lanners' home is soon to undergo revamping in keeping with remodeling of interior.

By Eileen Ball

THIS IS THE STORY of how a house grew from 1,000 to 2,000 feet, doubling its footage and more than doubling its livability. This is a story of the Lannerses, a family that knows how to work—and play—together.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy D. Lanners are teachers in the Long Beach School System. Mrs. Lanners teaches elementary children, and her husband has classes in shop and industrial drawing in a junior high school. They have three children of their own and, like many other average families, they found their small bungalow getting smaller and smaller as their family grew larger. So, Lanners, being well-equipped to plan expansion and remodeling of the house, decided while he was at it to do the actual work himself, too!

In the process, the little house at 4226 Heather Rd., Lakewood Village, gained a new bath, a beautifully enlarged kitchen and dinette, a spacious service area and a huge family room. The master bedroom "came into its own" with the addition of a full wardrobe and the canny squeezing-in of a tiny but complete three-quarter bath. And, during this process, as if this weren't more than enough to keep everyone well-occupied, the Lanners "took to the hills" and built a family cabin . . . just for the fun of it!

TO SAY THIS family is merely ambitious would be gross understatement. The whole story entails description of how its members work together and how everything they set out to do includes the children as well as the parents.

The family room, for example, features a children's corner . . . an area specifically set up for such pasttimes as piano-playing, coloring, studying and "tea parties." And, near the fireplace, a small pool table stands ready for competition between the young Lanners and visiting neighboring offspring. The kitchen is large enough for comfortable dining with plenty of room for the youngsters to kibitz when Mrs. Lanners makes

WANT TO PLUG A SONG?

Tin-Pan Alley Grad Teaches

By BOB HOUSER

Back in the days when singer Tony Martin was being thrown out of every movie studio on the street, he usually bounced against a peppery, gabby little guy named Jack Stern.

Stern was a bruise-proof, pocket-sized Gibraltar who has spent his life changing experts' minds about songs and singers.

In a quaint Alley known as Tin-Pan, Jack Stern was known as a song plugger. He may be one of the last of the vanishing legion of piano-thrumping troubadors who plugged songs when it had to be done "by hand."

Nowadays, the song-plugger is a suave, high-class, sophisticated con man who pitches new tunes over television and radio interviews. Back in the old days, the song-plugger was a leather-lunged, dynamic, persistent con man who perhaps stepped over the seals backstage, tipped the doorman 50 cents and talked the ears off the "main act" to get to try "my new song."

Well, Jack Stern's life and the people in it are the stuff movies are made of. In fact he pounded out tunes for the greatest show biz names of the half-century. They taught him his current profession—how to sell a song in the singing.

• • • •

NOW JACK STERN is a vocal coach. He takes the voice somebody else has built and teaches its owner how to put the song across.

Long Beach voice builder Douglas Steade, 3843 E. Broadway, an old friend of Stern, saw in a twinkling one recent day how Jack's specialty might be a valuable adjunct to his own.

Now Stern is conducting a series of song-selling sessions in the Steade Studio.

This business of making a good voice a commercial success is indefinable, Stern admits. It's easier to cite examples of expert song-sellers. Best male, says he, are Sinatra and Como; female, Patti Page and Doris Day.

An example of a good voice with no idea of how to sell a song, says the expert, is Eddie Fisher. Stern says Bing Crosby was the father of song-selling technique but lately, by his own admission, has lost the thrill of doing it.

"You know who Cole Porter wrote the song, 'Night and Day' for?" Stern asks. "It was for Fred Astaire. He did it in 'Gay Divorcee.' He never hit the note, but what a salesman he is with a song."

• • • •

STERN WAS an associate of Irving Berlin for about 22 years. "That made song-plugging easier but it was still hard work to get the big vaudeville names to even listen to a publisher's new stuff. They were going well with their acts — why should they take a chance with a new thing.

"It was hard. We'd get Al Jolson into a room and sing the song for him. We have to do each song in the manner of the artist we were pitching to. When we sang for Cantor, we'd give it this treatment (he did the Cantor clap-hands gesture)."

Stern rehearsed Irving Berlin scores through the years, accompanying such people as Grace Moore through numbers like "All Alone," and "What'll I Do?" As he recalled, he sang a bar or two from the songs.

The score of a 1935 movie, "Follies Bergere," was scored by Stern. In later years he scored a 15-episode series of Hopalong Cassidy movies.

• • • •

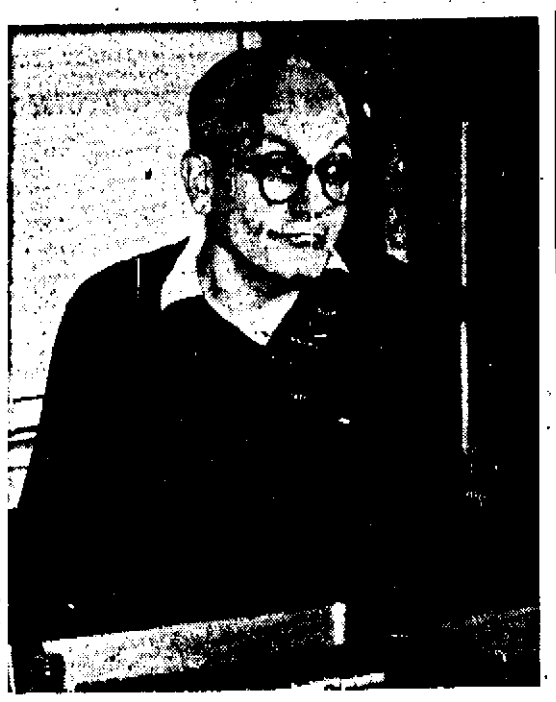

WHAT DOES a singer do with his hands?

"Well, unless you feel it, don't do anything. If you have to do something, the best thing is to reach hard for the floor. One of the best men with hands is Sinatra. He has a wonderful sense of balance."

The hardest people to coach among singers are the good musicians, Stern says.

"They read the music note by note and sing it straight. They can't divorce themselves from the composer's notes to give the lyric timing and phrasing. They can't make themselves come in a beat early or a beat late. After all the written music is just a setting for the vocalist.

"You know this is why really good singers who used to sing with bands have had to get away from the bands. The rigid band accompaniment doesn't give the singer a chance to improvise."

TAKE IT FROM THE TOP

Mission to Italy Ends Thursday

ROME (UP)—The U. S. operations mission to Italy will end its activity next Thursday, U. S. Ambassador James D. Zellerbach announced.

The mission handled economic aid to Italy and is the successor to the original Marshal Plan and ECA. Future American economic co-operation activities in Rome will be under the supervision of the ambassador.

Japan Red Tape Delays Subway

TOKYO (UP)—Digging underground is easier than getting permission to do it, the Tokyo Subway Corp. says. Its application to build a four-mile subway has been stamped with 1,249 government seals.

"We were told that some 450 more seals are needed to clear it," an official sighed.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Franco Kicks Out Cabinet Members

MADRID (UP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco has accepted the resignation of a number of his ministers and is considering the resignations of others in a sweeping cabinet reorganization, it was learned Saturday.

Ministers told friends that Franco instructed them Friday to place their resignations at his disposal and that a new era was about to begin in Spain.

There was no official confirmation, but reports of a reorganization in the 5½-year-old cabinet have been current for weeks. Ministers who have been dropped were reported to include Foreign Affairs Minister Alberto Martin Artajo and Labor Minister Antonio Giron.

Divers Work on Plane

SEOUL (Sunday) (AP) — U. S. Army divers and engineers sought today to lift a shattered Air Force transport from the icy Han River and determine finally how many of the 159 men believed aboard were killed in its death plunge Friday.

With 134 accounted for as survivors, the toll may reach 25. Five bodies have been recovered. From 17 to 20 men are missing and feared dead.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Explosion and fire wrecked a four-story apartment building early Saturday, burning two women seriously and sending dozens of residents fleeing into the rainy night.

Smoke clouds shot hundreds of feet into the air from the burning structure at 4015 Melrose Ave. Ellen Thurman, 61, suffered a broken leg when she jumped from a second story window. Mary Manning, 84, was burned on the face, forearms and back.

Names in the News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon Saturday broadened his African good will tour itinerary to include visits to Morocco, Libya and Tunisia and a three-day side trip to Rome, Italy. He leaves Feb. 28.

The White House announced the appointment of Dr. Robert H. Hamlin, of Brookline, Mass., to the newly created post of assistant to Secy. of Welfare Folsom. He will assist in developing department policies.

President Eisenhower sent a shipment of mycostatien, a new American "wonder drug" to West German President Theodor Heuss, who is suffering a severe attack of bronchitis.

New Soviet Air Chief

MOSCOW (UP)—Air Marshal Konstantin A. Vershinin has been named commander-in-chief of the Soviet Air Force succeeding Marshal Pavel F. Zhigarev, it was disclosed Saturday.

Police Raid Rebel Arsenal

HAVANA (UP) — Police and military intelligence officers forced their way into a boobytrapped rebel arsenal at a house in the suburb of Vedado Saturday and seized a quantity of arms and explosives.

Bandits Terrorize Mexicans

MEXICO CITY (UP)—The government was asked Saturday to end a "reign of terror" by bandits in Gunnajuato and San Luis Potosi states.

Residents of the central Mexico states appealed to the army and the interior ministry to send troops to halt the armed band led by a Spaniard, Jesus Gonzalez Cazares.

Science Ready for One-Way Trip to Moon

By BOB WHEARLEY

Science has the know-how to send you flying to the moon now. But it probably would be a one-way trip.

Or you might blast off for Mars, but chances are you'd disintegrate into a speck of space dust before you set foot on the Red Planet.

This isn't science-fiction. It's fact.

Five hundred leading scientists got together at the nation's first Astronautics Symposium in San Diego last week and formally opened the age of space flight.

They agreed space flight is possible now, but that many problems must be solved before that trip can be practical.

And they were warned those problems must be solved soon, because Russia reportedly is sending rockets carrying live animals into space "and that indicates where they are headed and what they intend to do."

THE WARNING came from Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, commander of the Western Development Division of the Air Research and Development Command at Inglewood.

Space superiority will win the wars of the future, he said. Not only that, but America's prestige as a world leader may depend on our making interplanetary flights "when the time is ripe," the general added.

When will that time come?

Predictions at the symposium ranged from five to 40 years. Some authorities, like Schriever, thought it would depend on "desire and need."

WHILE CIVILIAN and military scientists have been actively building up to the conquest of space since the end of World War II, the first spectacular step will come when artificial satellites are launched into orbits around earth sometime during the International Geophysical Year.

IGY will last from next July 1 to Dec. 31, 1958.

During this time, American scientists will send up at least a dozen satellites—basketball-size metal spheres packed with instruments to record conditions out of earth's atmosphere.

Other, larger, satellites will follow—orbiting about earth at distances ranging from a few hundred to a thousand miles.

Instruments contained in them will test the effects of such factors as cosmic radiation and hurtling meteorites.

SOME SCIENTISTS think the first moon rocket will be launched from this space station. As in the case of the early satellites, possibly it will carry only instruments. Manned flight to the moon is expected to follow, and after that exploration of Mars and Venus.

Why does man want to travel to the moon and the planets?

Basically, because of his eternal search for knowledge.

But there is another reason, a reason which can only be answered with a question—"Why does man climb mountains?"

During the symposium—sponsored by the Air Force Office of Scientific Research and Convair Division of General Dynamics—the scientists made a point-by-point appraisal of the space flight problems of which they're now aware.

SPACE TRAVEL within the solar system is possible with the chemical rockets we have now, said Dr. William Bollay, president of Aerophysics Development Corp.

But outside the solar system, where distance is reckoned in

KNIGHT VOWS SUBSIDENCE AID

U.S. Estimate of Soviet Air Strength Cut

Report From Inside Russia Indicates 'Scare' Was Error

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government has reports from inside Russia which indicate the United States greatly over-estimated the Soviet Union's heavy jet bomber air strength last year, it was learned Saturday.

Discovery of the error apparently influenced President Eisenhower's decision to cut back Air Force funds for B52 bomber orders in the fiscal year starting July. 1.

THE DEFENSE Department released the erroneous information last year during congressional furor over the comparative might of Russian and American air power.

The new estimates also are a factor in current Pentagon studies which may result in cutting the planned B-52 production rate from 20 to 17 a month. The present rate is 10 or 11.

Ten months ago, intelligence estimates indicated Russia had more than 100 Bison intercontinental jet bombers compared with 78 B52s the U.S. Air Force then had.

The estimates represent the vast, combined evaluations of all government intelligence services.

IT NOW APPEARS, according to authoritative sources, that Russia probably had no more than 50 Bisons last May and probably will not surpass the United States in numbers in the "foreseeable future."

The U. S. Air Force has roughly 150 B52's of which about 90 have been assigned to two organized combat wings. It will, under present plans, have 11 wings of 45 B52s each and enough extras to make a total of more than 600 planes sometime in 1959.

How American intelligence came to over-estimate Russian production rates was not made clear.

After the Russians flew Bison formations over Moscow in May, 1955, the United States revised upward its estimates of Russian aircraft production.

President Coughs, Wife in Hospital

WASHINGTON (UP)—While President Eisenhower continued to nurse a nagging cough, Mrs. Eisenhower Saturday arranged to spend another night—her second—in Walter Reed Army Medical Center getting her annual physical checkup.

PREFERS U.S. CITIZENSHIP

Young GI Shuns Dad's 40 Million

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP)—A 21-year-old Army private first class says he spurned a fabulous inheritance—possibly as much as 40 million dollars—rather than renounce his American citizenship.

Rolf von Reitzenstein, who was 21 last December, said Saturday he hasn't heard from his father since receiving a 9-point ultimatum which threatened disinheritance if he didn't comply.

ROLF VON REITZENSTEIN "I Mean It"

Rolf, born in Norwalk, Conn., enlisted in the U. S. Army three years ago in Germany because "I made up my mind to be an American" rather than a man without a country like his father!

"No amount of money could have induced me to give up this priceless possession (American citizenship)," the tall, husky GI said at the armor center Saturday. "I mean it. Living overseas from 1946 to 1954 made me realize how great this country is."

One of the nine provisions in the ultimatum was that Rolf would subject himself to his father's control.

He explained this would have meant renouncing his American citizenship and moving to a South American country.

One letter also hinted at transferring Rolf's share of the fortune to someone in South America. But then it added:

". . . You would be out of luck forever and that I don't want to do despite the fact that I was as angry at you for not writing and answering me for more than three years. You are still my boy and—oh well."

Rolf is convinced that when he didn't respond to his father's last plea, he was disinherited once and for all.

He said his father lived by a rule of sticking by his decisions. Rolf doesn't think he'll ever get another chance, but he said he, too, lives by that particular rule of his father's.

Rolf doesn't know where his parents are now. They were last reported in Brussels, Belgium. He has received and ignored many letters from his mysterious father.

Pieced together from Rolfs' memories, letters in his possession and a paper on file in Sagadahoc County, Maine, the strange

Ike Decision on Sanctions Due Today

Crisis on Israel Gaza Troops Races Toward a Climax

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Israeli troop crisis raced toward a climax Saturday with the prospect that President Eisenhower would decide today on the United States stand on proposed U.N. sanctions against Israel.

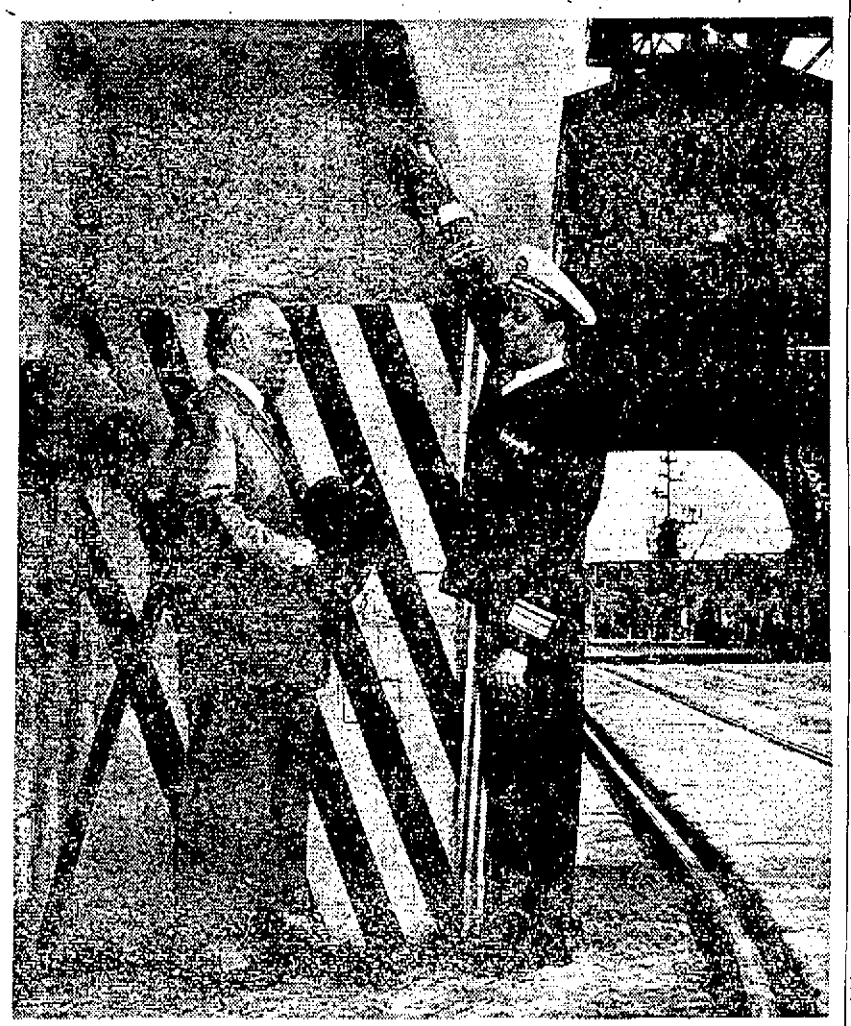

1. Secretary of State Dulles invited congressional leaders to an extraordinary Sunday conference at which he would have the opportunity to tell them what line the United States will take toward Israel in the United Nations General Assembly debate Monday.

2. Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban was en route to Washington from Jerusalem with a detailed report from Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion for President Eisenhower on the Israeli government's present position on the troop withdrawal dispute.

3. Eisenhower has received a new personal and secret message from Ben-Gurion. The White House confirmed that it reached the President Friday. It is understood to make a new appeal for United States guarantees of Israel's security interests in the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aquaba before Israeli troops are pulled out of those areas.

4. The Israeli government was reported seeking British and French support for its terms in an effort to bring pressure against the United States and thereby break down Eisenhower's insistence that Israel troops must be withdrawn from Egypt unconditionally.

5. Strong opposition continued in Congress to any move to impose sanctions on Israel. Latest manifestation of this opposition was a statement by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) that he would seriously consider resigning from this country's United Nations delegation if the U. N. votes for sanctions. Americans for Democratic Action (Ada) wired Dulles that "sanctions can only increase war tensions throughout the world."

Pledge Given to Civic Chiefs of State Help

No Opposition if Full Story Told to Legislature, He Says

By MALCOLM EPLEY

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight personally inspected subsidence damage in the Long Beach tidelands area Saturday and then told municipal officials and civic leaders that they can count on his office not only for cooperation but for leadership in clarifying the city's rights in fighting the land sinkage problem.

Knight voiced the opinion that if Long Beach gets the subsidence story across to the Legislature, it will find no opposition to remedial legislation it is seeking.

The city wants laws that will permit an oil field unitization program on the state-granted tidelands without jeopardizing its grant, and will facilitate a cooperative operation to restore pressures in the ground structure of the sinking area.

THE GOVERNOR committed his office to aid in solving the problem as he stood on the beach at the entrance of Alamitos Bay, after a fast tour through the harbor area and the Long Beach Naval Shipyard, where subsidence is greatest. At Alamitos Bay at the east end of the city's beach he was told even there subsidence has occurred and is a threat to the Naples residential section.

"I understand you are not seeking money," said the Governor to local leaders clustered around him. "You need a clarification of your rights and privileges. My office will not only cooperate but will give leader-

Neighbor Saves Boy Trapped as Cave Collapses

COVINA, Calif. (UP)—Quick work by a neighbor was credited with saving the life of a 12-year-old boy who was buried under tons of dirt Saturday when a wall collapsed in a cave he and two other boys had been digging.

Sheriff's deputies said Ronald Derdin was buried while playing in a vacant lot near the home of William E. Bennett. Bennett, who was summoned by the two other boys, dug frantically with his hands to uncover the boy's face so he would not suffocate.

Derdin was taken to Covina Community Hospital where he was reported in satisfactory condition.

Three boys died Friday at Anaheim in a similar accident.

Reserves Get Extra 'Training'

LOS ALAMITOS — Nine men escaped injury Saturday when a Neptune patrol bomber belly-landed in a field near the Naval Air Station here.

A Los Alamitos spokesman said that the Neptune, powered by two jet and two piston engines, crashed-landed after all engines failed.

The pilot, Lt. Charles G. Clifton, 34, of 10509 Townley Dr., Whittier, said the jet engines failed as he flew near the field.

"MY FIRST thought was to get the plane out to sea," he said.

Over the ocean one of the piston engines quit and Clifton began limping back toward the station, avoiding populated areas and keeping an eye on emergency landing sites below. About two miles from the runway the last power plant quit and Clifton bellied the big plane down.

Damage to the bomber was "moderate," the Navy said. Clifton and all members of his crew except Lavern Webb, of 11252 Euclid Ave., Garden Grove, an active-duty enlisted man, were on reserve training, a spokesman said.

★ ★ ★ ★

OTHER RESERVISTS aboard were Lt. Donald H. Broderson, 34, of Van Nuys, copilot; Lt. (jg) Norman E. Reynolds, 26, of 7572 E. Trask Ave., Westminster, third pilot; and Robert Williams, 2585 Olive Ave., Long Beach; John R. Warden, Carlsbad; Dewey Foster, 4510 W. 231st St., Torrance; Felton W. Richardson, Ventura, and Donald Truitt, 1559 Pine Ave., Long Beach.

Courts-Martial Set for 4 Marine Drill Instructors at Parris Island

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP)—Four drill instructors at the Parris Island Marine Depot were ordered to stand trial by court-martial Saturday on charges of mistreating recruits.

Capt. James F. Mahoney, the base public information officer, identified the four as Cpl. William F. Walsh Jr. of Lyndhurst, N.J., near Newark; Sgt. Clinton L. Jones of Pensacola, Fla.; Sgt. Daniel J. Corey of Boston's Somerville section, and S. Sgt. William E. Rich of Manchester, Conn.

Mahoney said Rich, charged with striking five recruits with his hand, has been ordered to appear before a special court-martial on Monday. The trial will be open to newsmen.

Walsh, charged with striking 11 recruits, will be tried at a special court-martial within "about two weeks," Mahoney said.

Jones, accused of striking one recruit with his hand, and Corey, charged with pushing a recruit to the ground and forcing another to stuff candy in his own mouth, will be tried by a summary court-martial "within a week."

MAHONEY said that none of the recruits involved in these incidents required medical treatment.

One of the recruits, Pvt. David L. Potter, of Hartford, Vt., has charged he was struck by Walsh with an object which looked like a "hand-cancelling stamp used in post offices," Mahoney said.

It was a letter by the 18-year-old Porter to his father that touched off this latest investigation of recruit mistreatment at the base several weeks ago.

Eden Suffers New Attack; Call Doctor

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UP)—Former British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden was confined to his bed with another attack of fever Saturday. A heart specialist was called in for consultation.

Eden and his wife arrived in Auckland from London only two days ago to begin a long vacation aimed at restoring the health of the ailing former Prime Minister.

He confirmed on his arrival here Thursday that he suffered two "attacks of fever" during his 24-day sea voyage from England and described them as "just a type like malaria which forced me to give up the idea of going on with the job."

Dr. S. G. Sayer was called to Eden's vacation retreat 40 miles from here. He returned with Dr. Douglas Robb, a surgeon and heart specialist noted for his "blue baby" operations.

Sayer later issued a report stating Eden suffered a new attack of fever last night. He said the patient will be kept under constant medical observation.

Time Well Spent

MEXICO CITY (UP)—Enrique Garcia Diaz, 36, learned Saturday that he didn't spend eight years in prison in vain.

Two years after he was released, the Supreme Court denied his appeal on a conviction for murdering his wife in 1947.

Formosa Quake Kills 5 Persons

TAIPEI (Sunday) (AP)—The strongest earthquake in more than four years jolted Formosa early today, killing at least five persons and inflicting heavy damage along the east coast of this Nationalist bastion. No American casualties were reported.

The quake, which centered in the Pacific ocean 45 miles off Formosa, downed power lines in Taipei, the capital, and cut off telephone communications with Hualien.

Further Rain a Possibility Here Tonight

Showers may fall here again tonight in the wake of a surprise storm that struck California Saturday and caused moderate flood damage in some Los Angeles areas.

The Weather Bureau predicted variable cloudiness for today and Monday and said there was a "chance of showers" tonight.

The storm deposited .79 of an inch of rain on Long Beach, bringing the season total up to 4.42 inches. A rash of traffic accidents resulted.

In the Los Angeles area, the brief but heavy rains turned streets into five-foot-deep rivers which pushed parked cars up

L.A.C. Says: Hidden Taxes

The move is on to increase California taxes by $70 million a year through a 3-cent tax on cigarettes and a 10-cent tax on each gallon of beer. The increased income would be used for higher pay for school teachers and general aid to school districts. The California Teachers Association reports a survey shows 38 per cent of the people approve the cigarette tax and 55 per cent approve the new tax on liquor—although beer was not mentioned.

The danger of such taxes is that they become hidden taxes. The buyers of these products do not see the tax bill. They get used to paying them just as they now do gasoline taxes. But it is hard to argue that

NOT AN INN TO TAKE THEM

Frigid North Refugees Overflowing Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Refugees from the cold northern winter in unprecedented numbers have filled to overflowing the tourist accommodations in Florida.

So many visitors flocked into the state during the past two weeks that they are sleeping in hotel lobbies, their cars, even empty jail cells.

One Miami motel this week turned away guests by showing them nine parked cars in which persons were sleeping outside the building.

A Clearwater hotel put a bed in the women's powder room. Hotels in many cities call private homes nightly to find rooms for their overflow crowds.

THE HOTEL and motel people at Daytona Beach reported that winter tourist business is the best on record, running 10 to 14 per cent over last year.

The number of rooms for rent in Florida is staggering. One four-mile stretch of highway near St. Petersburg has 100 motels. Rental facilities stretch in an almost unbroken row from the tip of Miami Beach to West Palm Beach, some 60 miles. The Miami Beach area alone has accommodations for 50,000 visitors.

Russ Caution U.S., Boast of Horror Bomb

MOSCOW (UP) — The Soviet armed forces observed their 39th anniversary Saturday with a warning that atomic, hydrogen "or even more powerful bombs" could rain on America in another world war.

There was no elaboration on the "more powerful" weapons.

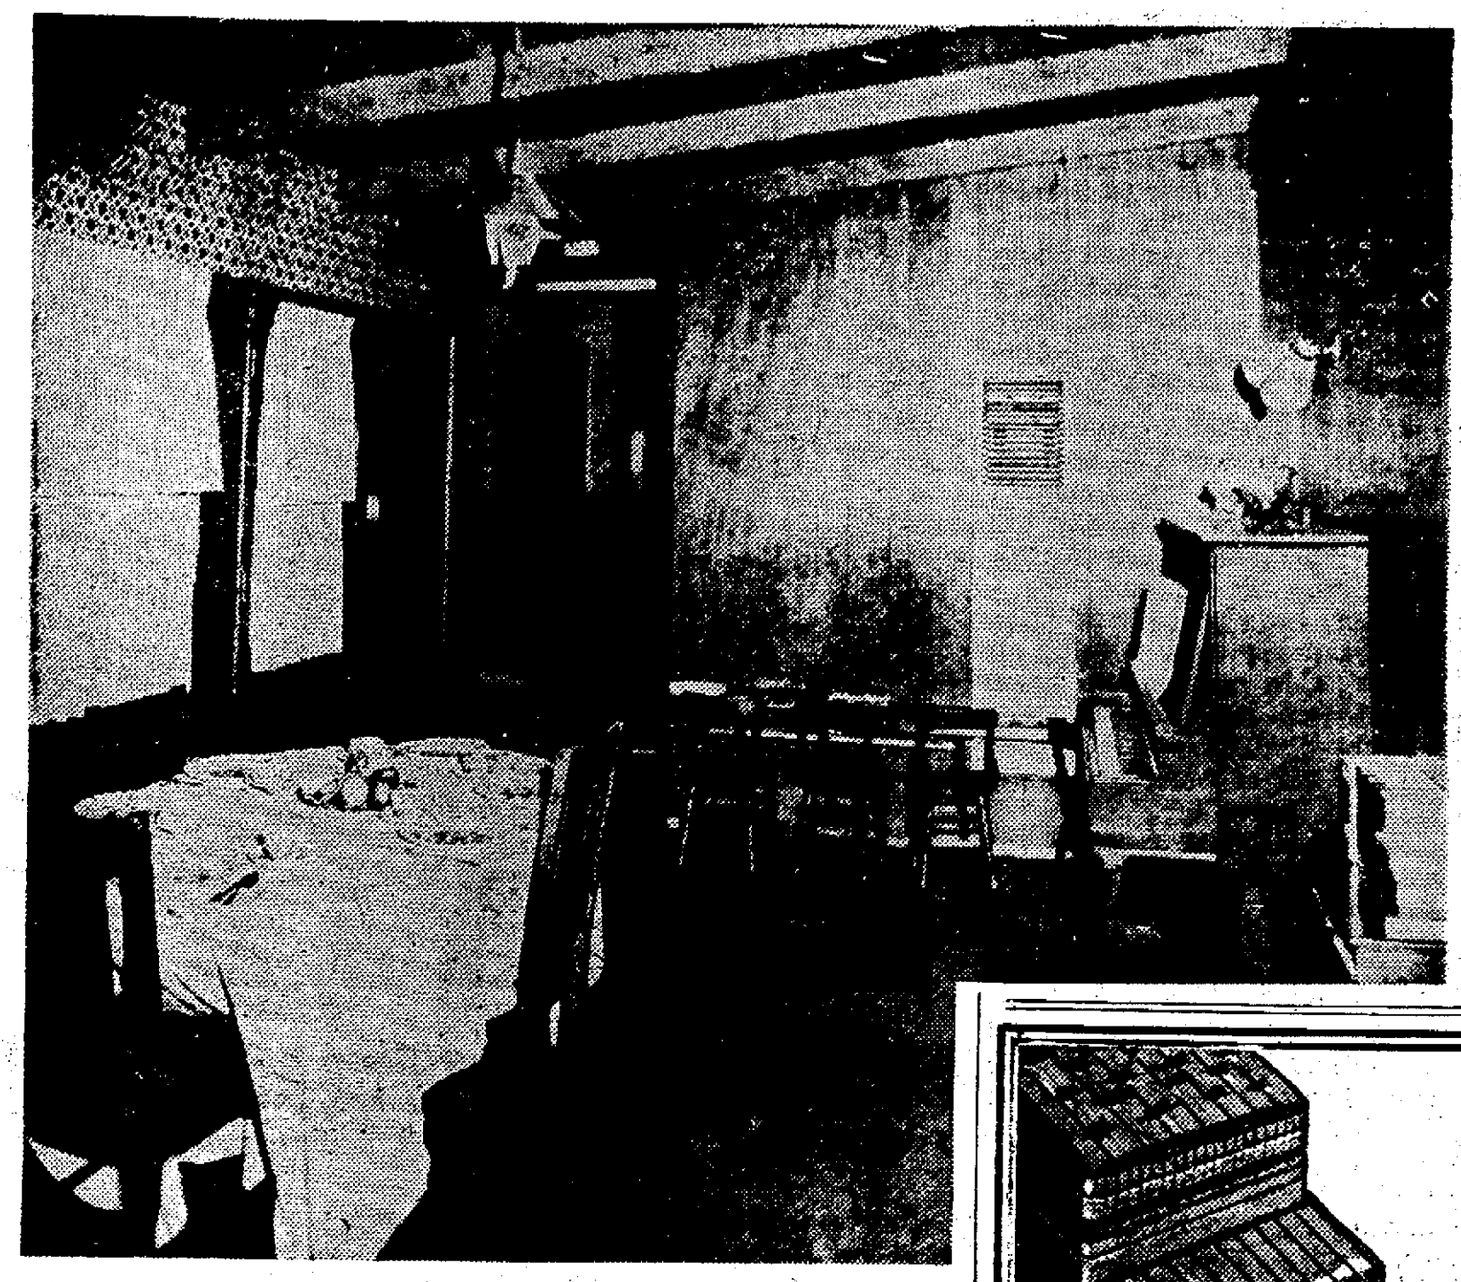

Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov set the tone of the anniversary celebration. He charged that "reactionary circles" in the West still are plotting aggressive war, and he warned that Russia has the most modern weapons, capable of turning back any attack.

special treats like fudge or popcorn. Near the sink hangs an old fashioned wall phone that is really a speaker for an intercom unit. Actually, the Lanners' remodeling efforts are far from complete. Their living room, which is pretty much relegated to serving the function of an occasional "guest parlor" and music room, is decorated in modern. This, however, will be altered just as soon as the family can get around to deciding on a whole new roomful of French provincial furnishings. The scale of the room is small, so small-scale fruitwood pieces will be ideally suited.

Opening off the living room through a dutch door is the newly remodeled and enlarged kitchen. Its color scheme is a combination of pale cocoa and pink. A subtle and warm blend of the two tones is seen in the marble-patterned linoleum. Wallpaper for the dining area has a pinkish-cocoa background sprinkled over with tiny provincial figures in turquoise, yellow and brown. Cabinets of natural birch are topped with cocoa-flecked tile of pebbled texture. Walls in the preparation area are pale pink and the curtains are crisp white organdy.

THE COOKING AREA is set apart in a "U" created by the building of a cabinet island into which is set the sink. The counter top here is wide enough to double as a bar or buffet, but the feeling of bulk is lessened by the sloping cupboard face that slants in toward the bottom. This relieves any feeling of space-consuming ponderousness.

Under a hanging fixture of white hobnail milk glass stands the dining set with its mar-resistant plastic top in birch pattern. Adjoining the dinette is a built-in desk that is handy for writing and telephoning. Over it is a built-in china closet with sliding glass doors.

A few steps down from the kitchen is the new family room. Floored in waxed cork, this big room is ideal for dancing and general family living. In an alan Oscar to a movie is a million.

The effect of Oscar on a star? That is unpredictable.

Much has been written about the Academy Award jinx. Many Oscar winners have gone from Oscar to obscurity in a year—but it was not Oscar's fault.

LUISE RAINER won two years in a row as best actress. Then she wasn't getting parts any more. Studio people in the know report temperament, not Oscar, was the reason.

Others have upped their price too drastically after winning an Oscar. One supporting actor winner went from $15,000 a picture to $100,000 the next day. He was out of work two years. He liked booze, too.

Ego is another reason. An actor gets an Oscar role and then refuses to do any others unless they measure up—and Oscar roles don't come along every day.

It's amazing how many good actors and actresses never have won Oscars. John Barrymore and Greta Garbo usually are considered two of the greatest performers in the history of the movies. They never won.

NEITHER DID Barbara Stanwyck, a pro in every one of her 70-odd pictures. Actor Vincent Price once said he casts his vote every year for Cary Grant.

"And I will continue to do so until this great actor is recognized by the Academy voters," he asserts.

Lionel Barrymore won in 1931 in competition with the youngest actor ever nominated—Jackie Cooper.

At the time there was much speculation as to how Cooper, only 5, would take it if he lost. But by the time the Awards came, tired little "Skippy" was asleep in Marie Dressler's lap.

One of the most embarrassing moments in Oscar history came in 1935. Will Rogers was master of ceremonies and Frank Capra was a favorite to win the director's award. Rogers made a laudatory speech and finished with the words: "Frank, come and get it."

CAPRA GOT UP and walked 40 feet towards the podium before he realized the Award was for Frank Lloyd.

"The walk back to the table was the longest crawl on record," Capra recalls.

What does a winner think when his or her name is called? Most say "happy" or "numb" but Jane Wyman's answer is the funniest:

"I heard my name called and the first thing that came to my mind was: 'Did I or did I not put on a girdle tonight?' Then I thought, 'So what? Let it bounce!' And I walked in a daze to the stage."

MAMA HAD TO WAIT

Her first orchid corsage was received at age 10 by Forrest de Butts of "Squeaky Mesa" during her recent Long Beach visit. Wrote Forrest: "Mama was real old before she had an orchid corsage." Forrest raises an arm to display gift bracelet.—(Staff.)

FORREST LOVED IT HERE

Report From Squeaky Mesa

(Forrest wrote for a Malibu newspaper a lively account of how her 100 pets were endangered at "Squeaky Mesa."

(Then father Edward de Butts brought Forrest to Long Beach while he attended a convention here. Forrest's fame had preceded her. She was treated to such a round of hospitality that her first night away from home became even more memorable than the fire. Here are excerpts from her report to the Malibu Times.)

By FORREST DE BUTTS

Once I wrote in this column that I was never away from Squeaky Mesa all night in my whole life. It was true then. It is not true now. I have been away from Squeaky Mesa all night long.

I went with Papa to Long Beach. We stayed all night at the Wilton Hotel.

The Rural Lettercarriers Board was having a meeting. Papa said I could go with him.

Mama thought that was nice. She has been proud of me. The report card I got before the one I got day before yesterday had three A's on it. One of the A's was for paying attention and not talking all the time. That was the A Mama liked best.

SO MAMA wanted me to have a good time. She wrote to Miss Fern Madeiros at the Wilton Hotel. She didn't want me to pester Papa while he had his meeting. She asked Miss Madeiros what I could do that wouldn't cost too much. Because we are practically broke since the fire.

Miss Madeiros is a nice lady. She is also magic. She is also a millionaire, I guess. She wrote back to Mama and said I could come to the Wilton Hotel free. Because it was my first night away from home for all night long.

I was like the ladies on Queen for a Day. When we got to the hotel . . . Miss Madeiros came up. She brought seads of presents. All from people I didn't know, mind you. A lady named Mrs. Derrick sent some beautiful flowers. She has the flower shop right in the hotel. She gave me an orchid corsage also. This was my first corsage. Mama was real old before she had an orchid corsage. She was real old before she even saw an orchid, she said.

. . . One box with presents was a big surprise to me. It was from Sears and Roebuck in Long Beach. Mama and Papa get things from Sears and Roebuck in Santa Monica. Papa said the Santa Monica store never has to pay any income tax, because for 10 years Papa has paid it every year. I think this is a joke.

MISS MADEIROS brought Mr. John Neagel (I, P-T staff photographer John H. Neagle) to our room and he went to Nu-Pike with us. He is a newspaper person like me so he took some pictures. One was in his paper, called the Independent, Press-Telegram.

(Forrest's report showed a whirl of pleasure at the Nu-Pike, a free movie and "all the free candy I wanted" at United Artists Theater, a ride the next day as guest of Capt. Charley Stillwell on the cruise ship Shearwater.)

Then we went back to the hotel. We said thank you and goodby and came home to Squeaky Mesa.

The very next day we got our report cards. Those things I got an A on before were B's.

I keep thinking that maybe if we had gotten our report cards sooner Mama might not have written to Miss Fern Madeiros. I guess if God wants you to get to go to Long Beach He will plan things so you can.

L.A.C. SAYS:

such products should not be further taxed to pay school costs. The fact is, however, that liquor taxes are now so high that a large portion of the liquor consumed is bootleg liquor. The higher the tax, the more bootleggers make. The same has been true of cigarettes although in a lesser degree. If those taxes are imposed in the state they will equal about 3½ per cent of the total state budget. It is an easy way to obtain more money. It certainly does not encourage the idea of cutting down on expenditures.

In our morning mail we find literature telling how greatly we need more school buildings. We are told that some 100,000 certificated school teachers are not teaching because the pay is so low. And yet no one in the school system appears to be working on methods of using building 12 months a year—or of teachers being paid more for teaching more months in a year.

In another circular we are told how we must have more court rooms to overcome the terrible congestion in the courts. But we do not hear of any suggestion for using court rooms more than the 20 hours a week they now are used. We find all our city, county, and state offices and schools closed on holidays when banks and business houses are open.

In addition, we hear of plans for a $51 million auditorium in downtown Los Angeles when another facility —the Sports Arena—is about to be started. The Sports Arena would cost a fifth as much and handle everything the auditorium scheme would accomplish—except it would not help the downtown Los Angeles interests promoting the auditorium. This cost would be charged to all Los Angeles County taxpayers.

Locally we find efforts to get the city to buy and develop a $1,500,000 camp site at Barton Flats. It is argued this is an essential facility so sixth graders may have a five day period in the mountains. But the school authorities are not willing to finance it from school district funds. It is, however, advocated that it is also for the use of adults wishing to use the camp site on week-ends. A large portion of the week-end groups using the present Camp Hi-Hill site are employes of the city, Recreation Department and school district.

These are factors which should be considered when we are told $70 million must be raised from taxes on cigarettes and beer. It is not the taxing of these products we would oppose, but rather the idea that we must continually raise taxes when we make little effort to cut down the need for higher taxes.—L.A.C.

Science Ready for Moon Trip

light years, other types of propulsion may be needed. (Light, incidentally, travels at 186,270 miles per second—and a light year is the distance a beam of light would travel in 365 days.)

Among the other types of propulsion discussed are heat source (which uses solar or nuclear power) and electrical fields. These kinds of systems also could be built today.

A fourth system is photon rocketry—a system which emits particles at the velocity of light. However, this still is in the theoretical stage.

* * * *

USING CHEMICAL rockets, a 730-ton ship could take off from an orbit around earth and travel to Mars in 400 days, estimated Dr. Ernst Stuhlinger of the guided missile development group at the Army's Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala. The return flight would take 320 days because much of the weight would have been expended in fuel.

Costs came into the discussion, too. Dr. William H. Dorrance of Convair figured it would cost $345,073,000 for a five-year project to send a satellite carrying four persons to an orbit 540 miles above earth.

Dr. Samuel J. Herrick of the University of California, an astronomer, stressed the need for accuracy in calculations for space flight. A one-hundredth of a second timing error in the launching of a rocket to Mars would mean a 150,000-mile miss, he said.

Science now is able to produce weightlessness for up to 30 seconds, one scientist said. This provides a human sensation similar to the lack of gravity in free space.

Twenty-five per cent of the persons tested became nauseated, 25 per cent were indifferent "and 50 per cent actually enjoyed it."

* * * *

Escape chambers, or "lifeboats," to be used in case the space craft breaks down.

Liquid coolants which would be splashed over the spaceship during its passage into the atmosphere. These coolants would prevent the craft from heating more than a few thousand degrees as it encountered the friction of the air.

"Miniaturization" of equipment and, presumably, of personnel. In other words, weight of the craft and its crew would be kept to a minimum because of the fantastically-high ratios of total weight to payload.

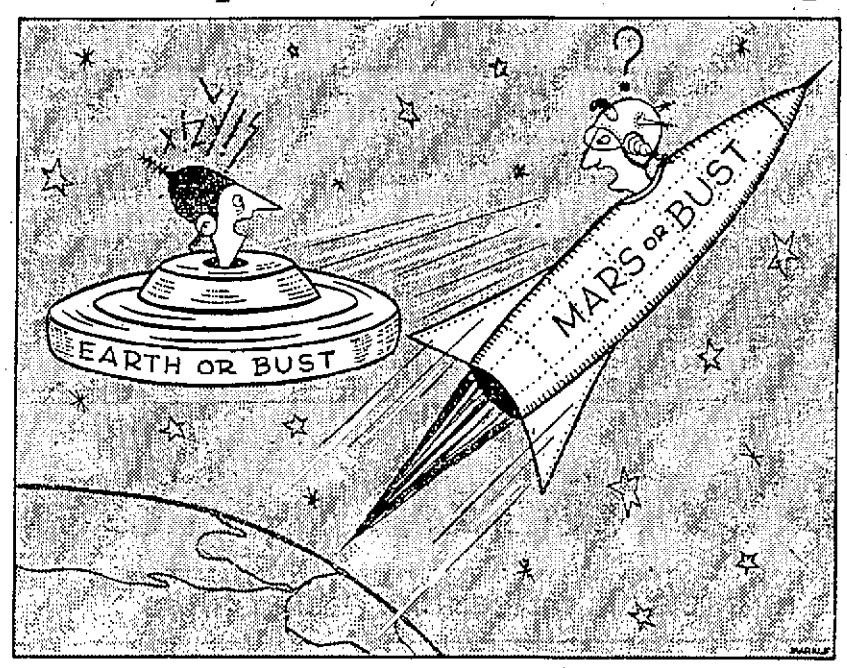

* * * *

DR. HEINZ HABER, UCLA physicist and a nationally-recognized authority on space travel, observed that the mere fact the symposium was being held was of major significance.

"The scientific processes will change from year to year," he said. "They aren't the real news.

"What is news is that five years ago you couldn't have gotten together a handful of scientists for such a meeting. Now we have the top minds in the country working on the problems of space flight.

"Suddenly, a new age is upon us."

Airline Pilots to Mull Jet Safety Problems

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The nation's airline pilots are about to go into a huddle over new safety problems created by the dawn of the jet transport age.

On March 5 the Airline Pilots Association opens its fifth annual air safety forum in Chicago. High on the three-day agenda are frank discussions on the operating problems of the just-around-the-corner jetliners.

An ALPA spokesman emphasized in an interview that in many ways the jet transport is far safer than its piston-engined predecessors. But he also conceded there are problems peculiar to jets which must be solved before the giant turbine-driven planes are put into full-time passenger service.

* * * *

HOT WEATHER operation will be one of the biggest problems, he said. The wings on a jet are thinner and swept back, sacrificing lift for greater speed. The jet also is far heavier than a conventional airliner. The Boing 707 jetliner has a gross takeoff weight of 280,000 pounds, compared to the Boeing Stratocruiser's 142,000.

This means the jets will be far more sensitive to high temperature and humidity. Every airliner has "lift" problems in hot weather. Payloads often go down in the summertime because planes require more takeoff space in warm, lighter air.

* * * *

ALL JET TRANSPORT designers are laboring to minimize what is one of the most obvious potential dangers of jet operation—fire in flight.

Dread of all jet pilots is fire on takeoff—the point at which a jet is so loaded down with fuel it cannot land.

State Dept. Sets Policy on Poland

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The State Department has assured Congress it will grant no aid to Poland without first getting assurances the help goes to Polish people and not Russia, officials said Saturday.

The pledge is aimed at spiking congressional criticism of economic aid talks with Poland scheduled to begin here Tuesday. A five-man Polish team arrived in the United States Thursday for the discussions.

The United States hopes arrangements can be worked out so American aid will be supplied to the new Polish government under Communist Party Boss Ladyslaw Gomulka. The belief is that the aid will enable munist Party BossCMFWYPU-Poland to continue its present course of limited independence from the Moscow line and gradually break still further away from the Soviet Union.

Deaf Dog Now Hears With Aid

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y. (U.P.)—A hearing aid is making a new dog of Randy, 9-year-old blue Bedlington terrier owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Bostick.

They became aware of their pet's plight when he stopped answering the doorbell or coming when called, so they decided to see if a hearing aid would help. They say his hearing has improved.

Atom Bomb a Frequent Truckload

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (U.P.) —A spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission said Saturday that A-bombs have been hauled safely by truck in New Mexico for several years.

The spokesman confirmed that such means of transportation was being used when asked to comment on Saturday's Scripps-Howard Washington Roundup column, which told of the practice.

The spokesman indicated trucks were being used in other states as well as New Mexico to transport nuclear devices and that the practice had been going on for some time.

* * * *

THE SPOKESMAN said such materials are also transported by train and plane, but declined to comment further.

He said, "All possible safety precautions are taken."

The Washington dispatch said that the hauling danger is minimized by putting various parts of the A-bombs in separate lead cases.

Untriggered, or accidental, explosions are considered practically impossible. Some experts say transporting atomic weapons is not as dangerous as transporting conventional explosives.

Patriotic GI Spurns $40 Million Estate

story of his father, Rudolf von Reitzenstein, reveals he may have been:

A German baron and monarchist; an espionage agent; a South American multimillionaire; a man whose name has been on a tombstone in Russia since before World War I, and a man without a country.

But, from information compiled by a Fort Knox public information officer, the following glimpse into the elder von Reitzenstein's life is provided:

Rolf's father was born in Germany, attended a military academy and was graduated at 17 as a regular army officer. He attended intelligence school and was assigned to the German general staff preceding World War I. It was in the years just preceding this war that von Reitzenstein was sent to Turkey and Russia on espionage missions.

Czarist agents captured him on his third Russian trip. Sentenced to death, he escaped when a Russian countess bribed the firing squad which shot blanks into the air. The countess arranged a mock burial for the dead spy.

Returning to Germany he was assigned to India, the Balkans and front line duty during the war. In 1922 he went to either North or South America taking along a family fortune which has been estimated at about 35 million dollars. He then acquired banana and coffee plantations and munitions factories.

* * * * *

IT WAS IN 1925 that he met and married an American newspaperwoman in New York. They settled in Darien, Conn., near where Rolf was born. Thus Rolf is an American citizen by birth. The family moved to Mexico and then Texas where in 1944 Rolf's father was interned until the end of World War II.

In 1946 Rolf's father was deported to Germany but he lost his German citizenship earlier when Hitler's government declared him "a stateless person."

Rolf said his father maintained his beliefs in monarchy, trying to implant them in his son. But Rolf revolted in 1954 to enlist in the American Army.

In 1950, a real estate man who now is dead filed in superior court in Bath, Maine, a paper headed: "Authority for legal transfer of foreign possessions." It bore the signature "Rudolph Baron von Reitzenstein."

* * * *

STILL ON FILE, the paper specifies Rolf be given "holdings and entire properties in Chile, Argentina, Bolivia, Equador, Peru, and Honduras . . amounting to approximately 40 million dollars." According to the document, this is only part of von Reitzenstein's total wealth and the paper provides the father retain "responsibility as trustee for Rolf till he becomes of age."

Rolf isn't counting the money which apparently slipped through his fingers, he's counting the days until his Army separation in April. He plans to study engineering at Heidelberg University in Germany under the GI bill of rights.

Said Rolf: "I may not have any money but I still have the GI bill."

Doa Hits Cycle, Youth, 16, Dies by Shotgun Blast

TYLER, Tex. (U.P.)—Bobby Ken Brown, 16, of Swann, Tex., was blasted to death by a shotgun Saturday after the motorcycle he was riding back from a hunting trip was spilled by a dog.

The mishap occurred about eight miles north of here.

Ernest Yielding, 15, of Tyler, said he was driving the motorcycle as the two returned from a hunting trip.

He said they were chased by some dogs and one of them ran in front of the motorcycle. Yielding said he hit the dog and it spilled them. A shotgun carried by the pair discharged, killing Brown. Yielding was injured from the spill, but not seriously.

Pennsy Train, Freight Hit; 15 Injured

FRANKFORT, Ind. (U.P.)—The locomotive of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Southwind passenger train crashed into a Nickel Plate freight locomotive here Saturday night and about 15 persons were injured, none severely.

The Nickel Plate engine was knocked off the tracks and ended up side-by-side with the Pennsylvania locomotive, both diesels. No other cars left the tracks, the Nickel Plate's nearby yard office reported. The tracks cross at right angles.

Paul Revere of the Indian Wars

—Drawing by Parker Markle

Ft. Laramie lay 236 miles away and a blizzard was at peak fury, but Portugee Phil fought his way through.

By Margaret Zeiss

EVERY SCHOOLBOY knows about the ride of Paul Revere, but few know about the ride of Portugee Philips.

This ride, which took place in 1866, is one of the unsung epics of the West.

John Philips, otherwise known as Portugee Philips, was a civilian scout at Fort Phil Kearney in the Powder River country of eastern Wyoming. It was a far, lonesome outpost in the Sioux territory at the foot of the Big Horn Mountains. Col. Henry Beebe Carrington started it July 17, 1866. The Indians made their first attack July 24. Up to Dec. 31 the Sioux had killed 154 men and wounded 20 more. Also, they captured 700 head of livestock and made 51 hostile demonstrations.

AFTER THE INDIANS first attacked the colonel sent for reinforcements, among whom was Capt. W. J. Fetterman, a soldier of the Civil War.

The wood train was on its way down from the Big Horn mountains with more timber when it was attacked. Col. Carrington said, "Capt. Fetterman, you take 40 men and protect that train — but do not pursue the Indians beyond Lodge Trail Ridge."

When the captain saw the Indians were making a break to get out of his line of fire he disregarded those orders and said, "Come on, men, let's go get 'em!" That was a sad decision because he and all his men were killed.

WHEN THEY FAILED to return the colonel went to see what had happened. A sorry sight met his eyes. He ordered his men to bring back the dead, though it was 30 degrees below zero.

Regardless of the weather Col. Carrington called for a volunteer to go to Ft. Laramie, 236 miles to the south, for help. Horse Shoe Creek was 190 miles away and was the nearest telegraph station. That was still 40 miles north of Ft. Laramie.

With the temperature so low and a blizzard building up, the colonel was dubious about anyone offering his services, but up stepped Portugee Philips.

"I'll go, sir, " he said.

"Fine," said the colonel and added, "I'll let you take my own mount, a Kentucky thoroughbred."

PORTUGEE TOOK a sack of oats and some hardtack, and with his arm raised in a salute rode off into the night. No one will ever know how he found his way, as men and horses usually go in circles in a storm such as that which broke over them.

On the third night he came to Horse Shoe Creek and there telegraphed Laramie, but the message was never received. He went on and on and finally reached his destination. It was Christmas though Portugee probably didn't even know it. He staggered, covered with snow, into a lighted hall which happened to be an officers' club called the "Bedlam" where a dance was being held. He gave his urgent message and then fainted. He was between life and death for weeks.

The government gave Philips $300 for his scouting and ride. Then the Sioux killed off his cattle and ruined him. After he died in 1866 the government gave Mrs. Philips $5,000.

to create an illusion of height with curls, fluff, pompadour, or flatness with bangs. Effect on sides is determined by the mass outline of the face, such as heart, square, round, oval and inverted triangle.

In the end, the hairdresser strives to create the illusion of the oval face, which, he explains, is the perfectly shaped face.

After determining the shape of the face he must next find out the amount of curl in the patron's hair and whether it is natural or a permanent. He then considers the type of profile: chin line protruding or receding, nose too long or too short, forehead bulging, slanting or normal. He then shapes milady's hair, as, he points out, hair shaping is the foundation of a finished hairdress. The patron's hair is then ready to dress.

"THE USUAL CORRECT finish length," one hairdresser explained, "is an illusion of the head being one-fifth of the patron's overall height. The best hair style is one of naturalness and simplicity, with some softness.

"We must never clutter or overdo a hair style as this will cheapen and take away from the overall effect. The round, square and full face should have the hair brushed back and up, creating a full line even with the forehead, in order to give the correct balance and, of course, the illusion of an oval face. The long, triangular or heart-shaped face should be dressed down around the ears and forward, creating a wider illusion at the lower portion of the face.

"More than that, we strive to bring out personality, and give poise and new assurance to the individual."

Southern Demo Says Court Impeachment Plan to Fail

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Henderson Lanham (D-Ga) said Saturday the Georgia legislature's move to impeach six U. S. Supreme Court justices "has no earthly chance" of congressional approval.

In a weekly newsletter to his constituents, he said he was "not too sure of the wisdom" of the state legislature in adopting a resolution urging impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren and five associate justices.

He said that even if there were grounds for impeachment "we simply could not command the votes at this time even to vote an indictment of impeachment."

Gov. Knight Urges More Fringe Benefits for State Employes

By BOB HOUSER

Gov. Goodwin Knight repeated Saturday before 650 delegates of the California State Employes Assn. here his recommendation that state employes be given more 'fringe benefits," such as health and welfare plans, disability insurance and unemployment compensation.

The state has not kept pace with private industry and that "is causing increasing difficulty in recruitment," the governor said in his Municipal Auditorium address.

He pointed out that CSEA membership of 60,000 of the eligible 72,000 state workers, through its diligence and continuing efforts, makes it possible for California to "proclaim that it has the nation's most effective civil service system." He contrasted this membership with the situation 25 years ago when CSEA started.

* * * *

THEN THERE were some 7,900 jobs which went to "the politically faithful and not necessarily to the meritorious."

"No employer as important as the State of California can afford to lag behind other employers," the governor said, "and I have recommended the Legislature adopt the same benefits for state employes as now prevail in private industry."

Knight prefaced his prepared text with an aside about Long Beach subsidence.

He told delegates that city officials here must have read the CSEA guest list because immediately after his talk he was to be taken on a tour of the Long Beach Harbor to have subsidence damage pointed out to him.

* * * *

"AND WHEN THEY'RE through," said Knight, "they'll ask 'Well?' and you know the rest.

"But this serious physical and engineering crisis is being met with bravery and common sense by the people of Long Beach."

Gov. Knight's predecessor on the CSEA's Saturday speaking program made an alarming speculation about a coastline in another quarter of the nation.

Dr. Joseph Kaplan, UCLA physicist and United States chairman for the 55-nation International Geophysical Year, said that within 50 years it is possible that much of the Florida coastline wil be under water.

* * * *

DR. KAPLAN addressed delegates at their luncheon in the Lafayette Hotel's new dining room.

He mentioned the Florida problem in pointing out questions which will be explored during the 18-month IGY, starting July 1, such as, "Is climate changing? and Are glaciers receding?"

The melting of ice in a warming trend, Dr. Kaplan said, will have practical effects on shipping and on our coast lines.

He illustrated the impact of the study of cosmic rays, whose secrets may be revealed in part in the IGY launching of a space satellite.

* * * *

"COSMIC RAYS are the most energetic particles known to man," he said, "they are 10 billion times as energetic as particles now under study—and so revealing—at the University of California."

Dr. Kaplan said a thin region of electrically charged particles in the high atmosphere, a trap for sunlight, provides the "mirror in the sky" necessary for our electronic communication. It is hoped that rockets sent into this region will make available such information as how warm it is there and how many electrons there are per cubic centimeter, thereby providing a tremendous impact on modern technology.

* * * *

THE OPPORTUNITY for sustained study was cited by Dr. Kaplan as one of the most important reasons for the 20-inch sphere or space satellite launching. He said total rocket experimentation to date has provided only about two hours cumulative inspection of space.

The United States' part in the IGY is vast and all departments of government are concerned, Kaplan said, and added that the progressive future of man "hinges on man's ability to understand his environment—" which is the principal aim of the IGY.

RESOLUTIONS passed Saturday included:

That the CSEA strongly support or introduce appropriate legislation which would provide educational benefits for both state and university employes and which would include—but not necessarily be limited to—leaves of absence with pay for educational activities and reimbursement for tuition, fees and incidental expenses.

That a policy be established on uniforms and uniform allowances.

That the CSEA sponsor and promote legislation such as that submitted by the association in the present session of Legislature that would provide an adequate medical and health insurance program with the state contributing to the cost.

Sailor Seeking Father in L.B.

Sailor William M. Cook, Box 116, USNS, San Diego 36, has asked police to locate his father, Minor Charles Cook, formerly of Grove City, Calif., now believed to be in Long Beach. Cook wishes to contact his father before going overseas.

ship, if necessary, to see that you get it."

Under a 1956 settlement with the state, oil money from the state-granted tidelands can be used in fighting subsidence as well as in harbor development.

* * * *

APPARENTLY IN reference to the long tidelands ownership fight with the federal government and more recent controversies with the state, Knight voiced the hope that the city's rights "will never be in jeopardy again through action by federal, state or county governments."

Knight, here to address a convention of state employes, was taken on the tidelands tour through arrangements by the city, the Chamber of Commerce and the Navy.

At the Naval shipyard, Rear Adm. Richard James, commanding officer of the yard, pointed out wall and dike construction and other subsidence remedial work done at the huge Morrcell drydock. He explained that the Navy has spent $6,000,000 on such work and other millions will go into additional construction.

* * * *

"BEYOND THAT," said Adm. James, "there is no possibility of this shipyard remaining in business unless there is a basic remedy which will halt the land sinkage."

Adm. James then pointed to Pier 1, just outside the drydock, which must be raised because of subsidence, and to the 35,000-ton aircraft carrier Princeton, anchored alongside. The Governor suggested they walk out on the pier, and stood for a time at the side of the great ship which from water line to top of the mast stands as high as the Security Bank Bldg. at First St. and Pine Ave.

Getting back in his car, the Governor was driven to the Harbor District Administration building, which has sunk 14 feet and stands in a huge hole, surrounded by recently completed fills. He then saw the Army and Navy Armed Services YMCA building, which must be vacated in the next year or so because of subsidence. Next the tour took him to the built-up site of the proposed new "Y" near Magnolia Pier, site of the temporary Navy landing.

* * * *

KNIGHT EVINCED much interest in the statement that 138 Navy commissioned ships are based in Long Beach and that the Armed Services "Y" is the community's basic service agency for the tens of thousands of men on those ships. Assemblyman W. S. Grant of Long Beach explained to him that a judicial clarification pends on the question of using tidelands funds for construction of a new "Y."

Darrell Neighbors, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce subsidence committee, gave the Governor a quick rundown of subsidence information, pointing out that it is generally believed that oil and gas withdrawal and resultant lowering of structural pressures have caused the land sinkage. Neighbors said that the only basic solution presenting itself is to restore the pressures by a water or gas injection program, requiring a unit or cooperative operation of the Wilmington field wherein there are numerous ownership and operating rights.

Others making the trip included Mayor George Vermillion, Vice Mayor Gerald Desmond, President George Badenhausen of the Chamber of Commerce, Director Robert Irvin of the Chamber, Chamber Secretary D. W. Campbell, City Manager Samuel E. Vickers, Shipyard Employes President Don Sutherland, Harbor Commission Chairman M. W. Daubney and State Assemblyman Richard T. Hanna of Midway City.

P-T, INDEPENDENT CHAMPS

Top Newspaperboys Get Their Trophies

Publisher's Trophies as the top newspaperboys of The Independent and The Press-Telegram have been awarded to Paul Douglas Schaeffer, 14, of 4946 Daisy Ave., for The Independent, and James E. Plooster, 15, of 9554 Ramona Ave., Bellflower, for The Press-Telegram.

The awards, given by Herman H. Ridder, publisher, were based on route management, scholarship, leadership and citizenship.

Paul, son of Paul H. and Eleanor Schaeffer, won over 500 other carrier boys for the morning paper.

For the past two and one-half years the Lindbergh Junior High School student has been arising before 5 a.m. to deliver his route.

Five feet tall, curly haired and a dapper dresser, Paul collects his own route and earns extra pay collecting two other routes.

He prefers delivering a morning paper because that leaves his after-school hours free for sports and studies.

Besides the Publisher's Trophy, presented for the publisher by Press-Telegram Editor Henry F. Burmester, Paul has scored other successes through his business career.

"Last month, for example, I put $10 in the bank, bought a shirt and a pair of slacks; picked out a belt I'm going to buy; got a $7 birthday present for my mother, gave $4 to the church and spent about 50 cents a day at school for snacks and things," said Schaeffer.

* * * *

JAMES PLOOSTER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Plooster, is a sophomore at Bellflower High School.

Being a businessman is not a new experience to the 5 feet, 11 inch, 145-pound youth. He raised rabbits "on rather a large scale" before he started delivering for The Press-Telegram.

As a carrier he has had many previous citations for his success, including two prize trips to Yosemite, two wrist watches, a movie camera and sports equipment.

Jim buys his own clothes, bought a typewriter, and his most recent purchase is a 17-foot house trailer which he parks in the yard at home and uses as a retreat for studying.

Jim's business ventures have resulted in bank accounts totaling almost $1,200.

Man Stabbed in Spat Over Taking Drink

An argument over a drink ended Saturday with Arch H. Caskey, 74, booked into city jail on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and Harold F. Rasmussen, 51, at Seaside Hospital with a stab wound in the abdomen.

Police said that the argument started when Rasmussen, of 117 S. Golden Ave., Apt. 5, entered Caskey's apartment at the same address and insisted that he take a drink.

Caskey refused, an argument ensued, and then Rasmussen struck him, Caskey told police. Police said that Caskey then grabbed a steak knife and stabbed Rasmussen.

Seaside Hospital authorities said he was in serious condition.

9 Injured in Traffic Accidents

Nine persons, including two small children, Saturday were listed as seriously injured in area traffic accidents.

Richard Ridgway, 3, suffered a fractured skull when a car driven by his father, Milton Ridgway, 26, of 21609 Paul St., Torrance, collided with a loaded lumber carrier on Neptune Ave. near B St. in Wilmington.

Mary Lynn Jankowski, 6, of 774 Alamitos Ave., Garden Grove, suffered a broken collarbone when she was hit by a car as she darted across Stanton Ave. near Orangewood Ave. in Stanton.

Driver Alice Block, 57, of 266 E. Coolidge St., suffered possible fractures of the skull, ribs and collarbone when she was thrown to the pavement after her car hit another on the Long Beach Blvd. bridge.

* * * *

PEDESTRIAN George Jordan, 44, a seaman of Norfolk, Va., suffered a possible fractured hip when he was hit by a car as he walked across Avalon Blvd. at C St., in Wilmington.

Driver James Monarch, 41, and his passenger, William Parker, 35, both of 2905 Clark Ln., Redondo Beach, was seriously injured when their car hit a parked car on Crenshaw Blvd. at Sepulveda Blvd.

Drivers Gene Theimers, 39, of 1110 N. Fairlawn, Santa Ana, and Leroy Thompson, 32, of 9110 Bestel St., Garden Grove, and Theimer's wife, Fay, 38, were seriously injured when their cars collided at Cannery and Trask Ave. in Anaheim.

Red Envoy Relieved

LONDON (UP)—Russia Saturday relieved B. S. Podtserob as ambassador to Turkey and replaced him with N. S. Ryzhov, previously minister of light industry.

Rites Tuesday for 2 of 4 Crash Victims

Funeral services will be held Tuesday for two of the four young people, who were killed instantly when their hardtop convertible crashed into a Greyhound bus near Seal Beach early Saturday.

Their car skidded on rain-soaked Pacific Coast Hwy. at the San Gabriel River Bridge and slid broadside against the front of the bus, which was traveling in the opposite direction.

Service for the driver, Robert G. Jensen, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jensen, 54 Platt St., will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hunter Mortuary. Interment will be in Sunnyside Mausoleum.

Service for Patricia Lee Read, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Read, 7809 E. Springer St., Downey, will be at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Miller Mortuary, Downey, with Mottell's and Peck Mortuary in charge. Interment will be in Rose Hills Memorial Park.

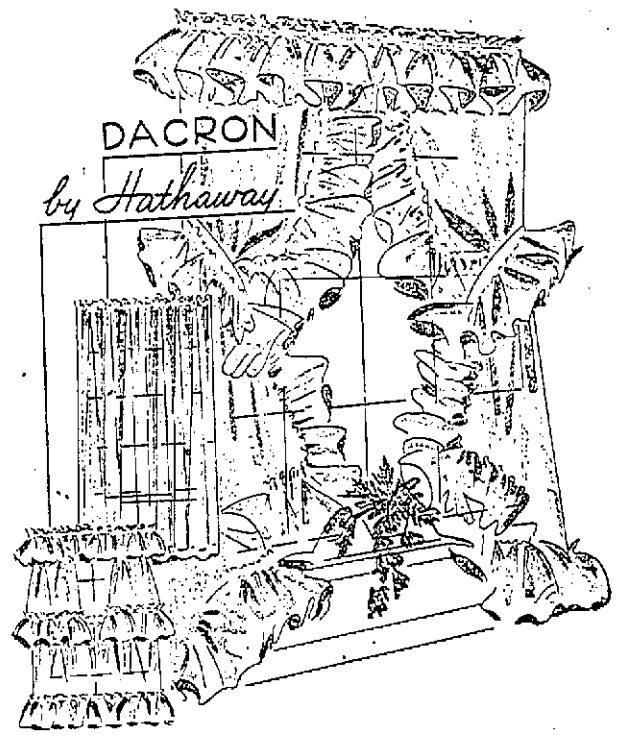

Services for the other two victims, Richard Galen Moore, 18, of 8562 Eucalyptus St., Downey, and Mary Munroe, 17, of 9115 Foster Rd., Downey, are pending at Mottell's and Peck Mortuary.

Bus driver, Jean J. Morena, 28, of 60 Linden Ave., and four of his 25 passengers suffered minor injuries. Most seriously injured of the five was Mrs. Marian Clark, 72, of 4100 River Ave., who suffered head cuts.

Before leaving Mexico City, White and Cohen plotted a route southward on adventurous trip to Guatemala City.

Bike Ride to Guatemala

from Mexico City for their final destination of Guatemala City. According to their advance planning, they arrived there on Aug. 30, dead broke and exhausted, but having gone through some of Mexico's most fascinating areas, as well as interesting Guatemalan territory.

WHITE SAID, before leaving Mexico City, "We haven't the slightest idea as to how we'll get back to Los Angeles, but we're hoping to bum a ride back on a cargo plane or even on a tramp steamer."

As they fully expected, they made it home, carrying souvenirs and a rich fund of material for their composition classes on their respective campuses.

Cohen studies art at the Chovinard Art Institute in Los Angeles. Much of his inspiration springs from sights seen during cycling excursions, added dividend from the effort put into them. And White, a political science major at UCLA, feels that his travels add a lot to his understanding of how other people live, supplementing his book learning with vivid first-hand experience.

cove near the kitchen is the children's corner faced with a bevy of little hardwood chairs. This is where the children's books and games are kept within handy reach of young fingers. Next to the play counter stands an upright piano, strictly for the fun and banging of it.

Also located close to the kitchen is a large, old-fashioned dining table where the family can adjourn for company dinners within view of the big split-brick corner fireplace.

WINDOWS RUN ALL the way around the room and are draped with double tiers of pleated natural monk's cloth. The lofty, exposed beam ceiling has rafters of redwood, stained a eucalyptus green. Most of the wall area is paneled to the ceiling with vertical natural mahogany. In the area devoted to conversation and televiewing, however, the Lanners chose an abstract, leaf-patterned wallpaper in colors of terra cotta, lime and green. An enormous sectional sofa goes around one corner while large lounge chairs help accommodate seating. Centering the conversation area is a large cobbler's bench coffee table.

Off the kitchen is the new spacious service area that makes the chores of laundry a "breeze." Adjoining it is the new bath with its white tile, butter yellow fixtures and black vinyl tile.

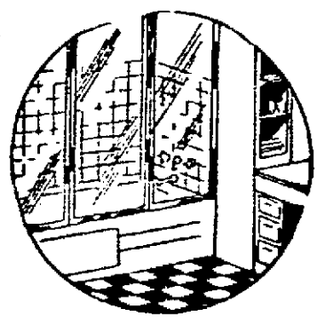

The master bedroom is newly-furnished in cherry wood French provincial. The wallpaper is pale pinkish-beige patterned with small clusters of turquoise blossoms. The turquoise chintz coverlet that dresses the bed overlays a dust ruffle of stark white. Off the bedroom is a 3x6 foot, three-quarter bath.

L.B. Residents to Sail on Wilson to Far East

Two Long Beach couples will be aboard the SS President Wilson when it sails from Pier 154, Wilmington, bound for the Far East, at 4 p.m Monday.

Carrying 464 passengers and a crew of 333, the Wilson is augmenting passenger service from Pacific Coast ports.

• • • •

LONG BEACH residents aboard will include Freeman A. McKenzie of 600 Havana Ave., an auto dealer, and his wife, and Edward Gunn of 1065 E. Ocean Blvd., U. S. vice consul at Djarkarta, and Mrs. Gunn.

Also on the passenger list are Alejandro Galang, counsul general of the Philippines; Leland Barrows, director of a U. S. mission to Viet Nam; Mrs. Roberta Dewey, widow of philosopher John Dewey, and Baroness Ella van Heemstra, the mother of actress Audrey Hepburn.

6 Million Live in Chicago Area

CHICAGO (UP)—The population of metropolitan Chicago has soared past 6 million, a survey by the University of Chicago revealed.

The survey said that more than 500,000 residents have been added to the metropolitan area—embracing five counties in Illinois and one in Indiana—since 1950.

U. S. Ships to Norway

OSLO (UP)—Norway's navy is switching from British to U. S.-built warships. It already has some and Rear Adm. Itolf Andresen, chief of staff, said that on a visit to Washington he was promised two American destroyers.

Eagle Scouts to Hear Talk by Explorer

How a man can survive, pitted against the elements of nature, will be told by Dana Lamb, explorer-photographer, when he addresses the third annual Eagle Scout recognition dinner at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Lafayette Hotel.

Lamb will show his film, "Survival," and tell experiences of himself and his wife, Ginger, in exploring rugged areas of the west coast of the Americas. His 45-minute colored film will show how he and Ginger found ample food and water where others had failed. He gives much credit to his Boy Scout training.

Business and profesional men of Long Beach will sponsor the dinner.

Each boy who has earned an Eagle Scout award or a Silver or Quartermaster award in exploring will be the guest of a Long Beach man, matched occupationally to the boy's chosen career.

OLD 'FOOT-IN-THE-MOUTH'

Capital Will Be Dull When Charley Wilson Quits Post

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles Erwin Wilson, occasional raconteur, once told of a mamma whale warning her baby whale that "only when you're spouting are you likely to be harpooned."

The statement is memorable chiefly because few high officials in government have ignored this choice bit of advice more persistently than Charles Erwin Wilson, secretary of defense.

As one result, yelling for the scalp of this 67-year-old son of a Minerva, Ohio, schoolteacher seems to be a local pasttime.

While the frosty locks of old "Foot-in-the-Mouth," as Wilson is sometimes called in these parts, are intact, there are some reports that he will continue in his Pentagon job only until his budget passes Congress and then quit. This would be around midsummer.

When and if Wilson goes and takes his outspoken wife of 44 years with him, this is going to be a far duller town.

* * * *

WHO WILL BE LEFT to call the White House a "dunghill"? Who will fix an icy blue eye on a battery of consciously dignified senators and address them as "You men," as if they were mere corporation vice presidents?

Who will call the politically potent National Guard a "haven for draft dodgers" during the Korean war?

And who will be left after Mrs. Wilson departs to agitate the olives in the teatime martinis by publicly criticizing the President of the United States?

For four years the former president of General Motors has been in and out of hot water with assorted Congressmen and labor leaders, usually over something he has said.

"Some of my friends," he says, "think I 'contribute to some of the difficulties myself. I don't quite know why except I haven't been properly housebroken. I seem to have a tendency to tell about the economic and political facts of life in public. You just don't do that."

* * * *

FOR ALL his blunt talk—and ensuing scalping expeditions—Wilson has held down this particular job longer than any man since the department was created in 1947.

It has not been easy. When he became secretary in January, 1953 he also became referee in a bitter feud over the strategic roles of the Air Force, Navy and Army.

This scrap hasn't been settled yet, but after some private head knocking Wilson has managed to confine most of the shooting to the Pentagon range.

Wilson had to ride out the storm whipped up by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's charges that the Army coddled Communists. He also had to allay the tempest stirred by reports that Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott used his government job to promote private interests.

T McCarthy's charges, Wilson said "nonsense." Talbott denied the reports, then quit and in so doing came close to precipitating a public row with Wilson.

* * * *

ASIDE FROM this one incident, Wilson seems to have got along well with subordinates in his own shop. People who have worked with him say he invites private disagreement and public harmony.

A former associate of Wilson's at the Pentagon, who asked that his name not be used, said: "He is one of the greatest guys I ever worked with. Most bosses want you to come in, sit down, say what you've got to say and get out. Wilson wants you to sit back, relax and have a thorough visit.

"He is a patient man. When you've finished, all the issues are out in the table. He is unique in the business of decentralization."

* * * *

ON NOV. 20, 1952, Dwight Eisenhower tagged Wilson to become secretary of defense. At a news conference an hour after the appointment was announced, Wilson promised to give the job "the darndest whirl it ever had."

But before he could become secretary, Wilson had to obtain approval of the Senate Armed Forces Committee. This was the beginning of his long immersion in hot water.

Out of his appearance before the committee in January 1953 came the now famous expression, "For years I thought what was good for the country was good for General Motors and vice versa."

Wilson gave up earnings of $581,000 to take the $22,500 defense job, but he and the committee apparently weren't tuned to the same wave length for a while. There was a mighty hassle over whether Wilson would play favorites with GM.

In the end Wilson obtained committee approval only after he had agreed to sell his GM stock. The price was 2¼ million dollars. Sometime later he figured that by selling at that time he lost about 2 million.

If his initial appearance before the committee demonstrated anything, it was that Wilson wasn't a politician in the usual sense. He proved this again rather successfully on Oct. 11, 1954.

On this day Wilson, at a Detroit news conference on unemployment in Michigan, said: "I've always liked bird dogs better than kennel fed dogs. You know, one that will get out and hunt for food rather than sit on his fanny and yell."

Wilson apparently meant that if there were no jobs in Detroit some of the unemployed should look for work elsewhere.

* * * *

WHILE WILSON is a big wheel in government, there is reason to believe that he is an enormously frustrated man.

He has indicated a desire to play a violin. He would like to be a cartoonist. He would like to be an athlete. There is some indication that he has a hankering to be known as a gagster.

As far as is known, Wilson has made no progress toward fiddling. He sent off in 1954 for 10 easy lessons on how to be a cartoonist, but the census of working cartoonists remains unchanged.

As a sportsman, Wilson is a bust. As G.M. president he joined a fox hunting club, horse powered, and was thrown.

At times he seems to be making progress as a gag man. He has had some expert advice. One of his friends is television entertainer Arthur Godfrey, who owns a farm near Leesburg, Va., to which Wilson sometimes retreats.

A Senate committee asked him last year why certain bookkeeping procedures had not produced particular results. Wilson replied that a new system had been put into operation and "trying to make the rules retroactive is like trying to make birth control retroactive."

Wilson's latest excursion into the headlines came after he observed that "a sort of scandal . . . a draft dodging business" developed in the National Guard during the Korean war.

The fur flew right up to the White House. Wilson later explained he didn't mean to cast slurs on individual guardsmen but that the system which permitted men to escape the Korean draft was wrong. President Eisenhower called Wilson's remarks "unwise."

For Mrs. Wilson that tore it. She said she was "indignant" and the President's statement was "uncalled for."

Then Mrs. Wilson added, "I think you need a little pat on the back once in a while. Mr. Wilson has been trying to do a good job, and I think he has done a good job."

* * * *

JUST BEFORE THIS Wilson had been called to the White House. When he emerged he was asked if he had a statement. Retorting Wilson: "This is not my dunghill. Anything to be announced, somebody else ought to announce."

Wilson apparently referred to an ancient Roman proverb that a cock crows loudest on the dunghill in his own backyard.

Subsequently Mrs. Wilson said her husband shouldn't have used that word.

In any case, Wilson said he was "delighted" by his wife's stand. Even the President seemed tickled. He invited the Wilsons to fly with him as far as Augusta and then go on to Miami for a vacation in his personal plane.

And how is Wilson making out these days? He once gave a pretty good summation of the situation.

"The price of progress," he said, "is trouble, and I must be making lots of progress."

"THE PRICE OF progress," says Defense Secretary Wilson, "is trouble and I must be making lots of progress." Some of the trouble surrounding him is outlined in this Associated Press cartoon.

CAPITAL CAPERS

Inauguration Rated Financial Floperoo

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND WILLIAM W. BROOM
(Independent, Press-Telegram Capital Bureau)

WASHINGTON—It's now official—President Eisenhower's second inauguration last month was a financial floperoo.

The size of the deficit won't be known for some time, but it's certain the inaugural committee will have to dig deeply into a $1,080,000 guarantee posted by businessmen here and elsewhere in the nation.

The big red ink item on the committee books resulted from a slim sale of grandstand tickets for the parade. Nearly half a million persons watched the parade, it is estimated, but only some 55,000 were in paid seats. The rest of the 400,000 watched from free seats in office windows and countless others in the capital were chased indoors by the bad weather and saw the show on television.

* * * *

SECRETARY OF DEFENSE Charlie Wilson was recently visiting Lewis W. Strauss, Atomic Energy Commission chairman, at the latter's farm in Virginia.

One of Strauss' very young grandchildren came into the room and Wilson said to her—"Come here, little girl. I want to teach you a trick."

"Which one?" twitted Strauss, "how to put her foot in her mouth?"

Replied the smiling defense secretary who has become famous for his salty and sometimes undiplomatic remarks—"Why not? Who can teach her better?"

Senate Labor Quizzers to Hear Gangsters and Prostitutes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators said Saturday they will use secretly recorded gangster conversations and testimony from prostitutes, gamblers and others to show whether some West Coast officials of the teamsters' union had ties with the underwold.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said his special Senate rackets investigating committee has "pretty conclusive proof" about the relations between Seattle and Portland, Ore., racketeers and officials of the union in both cities.

The committee, conducting a nation-wide search for evidence of gangster infiltration and corruption in organized labor and industry, has selected the situation in Portland as the starting point for its public hearings.

The Senate has voted $350,000 to finance the investigation.

* * * *

McCLELLAN and Robert F. Kennedy, the committee's special counsel, said they expect to show that racketeers and teamsters' union officials from Seattle have attempted to "muscle in" on Portland rackets also involving teamsters' officials and racketeers.

Kennedy said the committee has got hold of some tape-recorded conversations which will shed light on the subject. He said "someone" not connected with the committee hid a microphone or "bug" in a room where the talks took place.

"The situation was that one group of gangsters bugged another group of gangsters," Kennedy said.

He and McClellan said they subpoenaed some 20 witnesses for days of hearings on Portland. The witnesses include some public officials, union officers and persons Kennedy described as "proficient in gambling and bootlegging, who make it a profession—and persons proficient at prostitution."

* * * *

"THE FEMININE sex will be represented among the witnesses," was all McClellan would say on the latter score.

He refused to identify witnesses this far in advance lest, he said, "there be an attempt to intimidate them." He said there already has been the case of a New York witness in another phase of the inquiry who was threatened with bodily harm if he gave information to the committee. He has named this man as Anthony Nicoletti, financial secretary of the Suffolk County, N. Y., carpenters' union.

McClellan said the Portland investigation has progressed to a point showing attempts from Seattle to "muscle in" on Portland rackets, including efforts to "control" gambling, prostitution, pin-ball operations and illicit after-hours drinking spots.

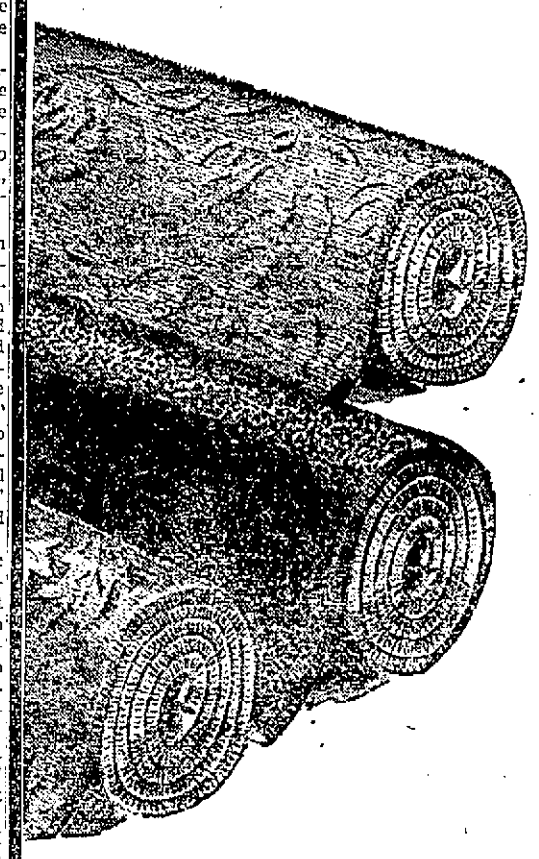

The Portland City Council had requested the investigation.

A grand jury in Portland already has handed down a series of conspiracy indictments against District Attorney William Langley of Multnomah County and others. Another grand jury investigation is under way there.

Cmdr. R. C. Bolstad is veteran officer in the Survey.

BUREAU

sure what the coasts of this country looked like. So, naturally, they created a bureau to find out.

Through the years the Survey not only charted the coasts but widened its scope to chart the seas, to criss-cross the continent with the "triangulation lines" that tell us where we are on earth, to probe the complexities of ocean currents, earthquake phenomena, and solar activities.

The name U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey — which is what the bureau is sometimes called — sounds staid and statistical. But it has had its adventures and its characters. It has even had a mutiny.

THE SURVEY schooner Ewing, lying off the coast at San Francisco in 1849, sent a gig ashore. The crew, maddened with gold fever, threw their leader overboard and headed for the gold fields. They were caught, convicted of "mutiny, desertion, and running away with a boat." One of them was hanged from the Ewing's fore yard arm.

James McNeill Whistler, the famous artist, was employed briefly in 1854 in the Survey's Engraving Section.

WHEN HE DID get around to drafting charts instead of beer, Whistler had the disturbing habit of etching fanciful figures into the margins and open spaces. Some of his engravings show coastlines surrounded with human heads.

But by and large, the Survey has depended, rather, on such men as Comdr. Bolstad. He is a civil engineer and has been with the Survey since 1926, when he graduated from the University of Minnesota in the upper third of his class.

In the Pacific in World War II he helped the island-hopping Marines chart shorelines — in advance of attacks. He has carried survey equipment into the frozen wastes of the Aleutians, where he wandered 25 miles one day in a fog so dense it even had the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey confused. Once, while he was conducting a survey in Indiana, his observation towers were erroneously identified in the papers as launching stations for flying saucers.

"Working with the Survey is pretty much routine," he says.

As Southern California district chief, Bolstad does have an interest in a project that is out of this world.

His crews are locating a site southeast of San Diego for a very delicate purpose. At that position electronic equipment will be used for tracking the artificial satellite which American scientists will soon hurl into the heavens.

This will, of course, identify Bolstad as an officer of the U. S. Coast and Geophysical Year.

San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf

A Guide to Pleasure

San Francisco, say world travelers, is one of the most cosmopolitan and exciting cities anywhere. "Herb Caen's Guide to San Francisco" (Doubleday, $2.95) tells how to get the most out of a visit to the City by the Golden Gate. Caen, once called "the man second only to the fog in covering San Francisco," describes his city's multitude of historic spots and other attractions and how to get to each; the restaurants (including what you get for how much), the hotels and, finally, the city's night life—its dancing, drinking and hot spots. Any visitor not thoroughly acquainted with San Francisco should find Caen's guide a valuable one.

Heartbeat of the Hinterlands

THE HEARTBEAT of the back country, far from the rush of the cities, where a man can take time to build a big eucalyptus fire, see a sunset or watch the purple shadows climb over the hills, is caught in "The West Is My Home" by Tom Hudson (Laguna House, P. O. Box 506, Elsinore, Calif., $3.75). It is the kind of writing not seen in these parts since the late John Steven McGroarty wrote about life in the Verdugo Hills.

Hudson is editor and publisher of the Lake Elsinore Valley Sun, which he gets out each and every Thursday. He is a country editor and proud of it—and that puts him at the backbone of American journalism. He and his wife Bennie live in an adobe house, with a massive fireplace Tom built himself. Friends—and they have to be real ones—gather in the adobe around the roaring fire and they talk and think about everything that really matters.

One time as Tom prepared to go to press, he faced a blank column opposite the editorial page in the Sun. Quickly, he sat down at a Linotype, wrote a column which he called "From the Personal Angle," and it continues to be a weekly feature.

Many of these columns of musings, retrospection, ideas, dreams, and just plain contented enjoyment of life are combined in the volume.

MARCIA RYAN, who as a bride comes to a Navy base in wartime, seeks to achieve self-fulfilment through a rich and rewarding relationship with her husband. She longs to be useful—and needed, But he is occupied with his career and bachelor pleasures that do not include her. Along comes another man, warm, gay, understanding. How Marcia juggles Dave and Hank, and how she resolves the triangle is related in "The Braid Circle" by Dee Burke Lopez (Vantage, $3.50). The writer and her husband, Capt. Robert Lopez, are stationed at Fort MacArthur, where Capt. Lopez is with the Army Reserve Advisory Group.

EVERYONE REMEMBERS the American freighter "Flying Enterprise," caught in a hurricane near Ireland and her intrepid skipper, Capt. Kurt Carlsen who hung on for 16 days. But few remember the gallant attempt of the English tug "Turmoil" to save man and ship. The story is well told again in "Rescue Tug" (Dutton, $3.50) by Ewart Brookes. The book has dramatic photographs.

READING IS THE BASIS of learning, and a frightening number of children—and adults—have difficulty learning to read. Helen M. Thompson, director of the Thompson Reading Clinic in Anaheim, out of her interest in this problem, has written "Swierl, a Plan for Better Reading" (Vantage, $3.50) which she hopes will aid teachers and parents. "Swierl," incidentally, is a coined word, each letter standing for a habit of mind and conduct that must be developed to read successfully.

WHO WERE THE INCAS? Where did they come from, and what were their beliefs, their gods, their legends and traditions? And why did this great and powerful empire fall to a handful of Spanish adventurers? Bertrand Flornoy, president of the Explorers Club of France, and who has spent much of his life in the Amazonian and Andean lands of the Incas of old, gives the answers in the absorbing and scholarly "The World of the Inca" (Vanguard Press, $4.50).

A NEW AND certainly a most unique way of licking obesity, based on spiritual concepts, is unfolded in "Pray Your Weight Away" (Lippincott, $2.95). The author, Rev. Charlie W. Shedd, D.D., declares that he reduced 100 pounds in three years by taking the matter before God, and that others can do the same. But, he warns, if you don't like God, praying is sure to be unproductive.

A BACKGROUND of hypnotic techniques which he has used in clinical work dealing with psychosomatic medicine, obstetrics and abnormal psychology is given by Dr. A. Philip Magonet, M.D., in "Hypnosis in Medicine" (Wilshire Book Co., 8721 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood 46). Dr. Magonet is president of the Hypnosis Association of England.

AT THE BOTTOM of the world lies a seventh continent—Artarctica—almost as large as Europe and Australia combined. Still wrapped in the Ice Age, it has defied man's explorations until recent times; but thanks to the air age, man is beginning to solve its mysteries. What has been discovered there, and the adventures of making these discoveries, is told by Walter Sullivan in "Quest for a Continent" (McGraw-Hill, $5.50. Mr. Sullivan, a New York Times correspondent, has been attached to three U. S. expeditions to Antarctica.

"REFLECTION BOOKS" is the imprint for a new series of 50-cent religious paperbacks written for the average churchgoer and the average college student for Association Press. First titles: "The Life of Christ in Poetry," compiled by Hazel Davis Clark; "What Christianity Says About Sex, Love and Marriage," by Roland H. Bainton; "Basic Christian Writings," edited by Stanley I. Stuber; "Words to Change Lives," important sermons by leading clergymen; "A Short Primer for Protesants," by James H. Nichols, and "Religious Living," by Georgia Harkness.

Don't Count Knowland Out of Governor Race, GOP Told

By THE LOOKOUT

ANAHEIM—It was in roundabout fashion, but Republicans "got the word" Saturday from U.S. Sen. W. F. Knowland that he's not to be counted out as a potential candidate for governor in the 1958 election.

It came in the release of a month-old letter sent by Knowland to Robert Fenton Craig, president of the California Republican Assembly now in convention at Disneyland. The letter began with what appeared to be a rebuke to Craig for expressing doubt several weeks ago that Knowland would be a gubernatorial candidate, and added that Knowland has not made a final decision.

Craig's surprise release of the letter came as the Republican delegates at Disneyland prepared to greet Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, who addressed a convention banquet Saturday night on party strategy for the crucial elections ahead. Whether Knowland and Knight will clash headon for the GOP gubernatorial nomination next year has been a major topic of discussion at the convention.

* * * *

"YOU THOUGHT it appropriate for reasons I don't understand to go far beyond my own statement of Jan. 7," wrote Knowland in reference to Craig's forecast that Knowland wouldn't run for governor.

Knowland said the Jan. 7 statement "relates solely to the decision that I would not be a candidate for reelection to the U. S. Senate when my term expires. Beyond that it neither opened nor closed any alternative door. I shall make by position clear when I reach a final decision. This will be after my return to California and consultations in various parts of the state."

While these remarks intensified the puzzle confronting Republicans, observers could hardly doubt that Knowland wants to keep alive the possibility that he will run for governor.

Assembly President Craig, a USC professor, was the center of another development Saturday when he heatedly attacked Democratic Atty. Gen. Edmund

SENATOR KNOWLAND
May Be Running

G. Brown in the convention keynote speech, drawing mixed reactions among the delegates.

* * * *

WHILE NO partisan-minded delegate argued with Craig's biting appraisal of the Democrat who has promised to run for major office in 1958, some doubted the political sagacity of the attack.

"Why give Pat Brown all the advertising?" asked one delegate, himself prominently mentioned as a potential candidate for statewide office. "I think Pat just loves it."

Others had criticism and still others praise for Craig's speech calling Brown "a bad attorney general" and an "impossible candidate on any state level." Craig said he would "think twice before voting for Brown for dogcatcher."

He called attention to a recent report of the state franchise board showing assessments of nearly $2,000,000 on bookies, lottery operators and other illegal operators. Citing this evidence of "illicit gain," he said: "I think the attorney general has some responsibility in this field. Is he dumb, ignorant or blind? Or are his agents making deals?"

* * * *

THE CONVENTION delegates moved from the Disneyland Hotel to Knott's Berry Farm Saturday night to hear Gov. Knight blueprint a plan for GOP victories in the future by building up sound Republican candidates.

After criticizing the California GOP for failures "to be effective," Knight said the party should begin now to seek out well-known persons as potential candidates, to handle their public relations, help them win experience, and collect campaign funds for them.

Knight told the convention that the new ruling designating party affiliations of candidates on the primary ballot is not a barrier to GOP victory despite Democratic superiority in voter registration.

"Republicans and their victories have not been built for 60 years on cross filing, but on superior candidates, finer programs and better government," he said.

* * * *

KNIGHT WARNED Republicans against "dilatory, delaying, defensive postures" and advised them to adopt programs that will appeal to independents and Democrats. He noted that in his own campaign he had strong Democratic and labor support, but "never at the expense of denying my firm Republicanism." He said his non-Republican campaigns told him they respected candor rather than expedient caution.

The Republican Assembly, a volunteer organization, will conclude its session today with the election of officers and adoption of resolutions. George Milias of Gilroy is expected to succeed Craig as president. Mrs. Jane Storm of Long Beach is a likely choice for one of the vice presidential spots. The final sessions will be held at the Disneyland hotel.

Masons to See Radar Picture

A motion picture taken during the construction of a giant radar station off the Atlantic Coast will be shown at a meeting of Long Beach Masonic Club Thursday noon in the Wilton Hotel.

Lyle Eddy will be chairman of the day, and President Lyle Huggins will preside.

Drugs Stolen

Theft of $100, a syringe and an unknown amount of narcotics from a medical bldg., at 2640 Atlantic Ave., was reported to police Saturday.

U.S. Army Protests Russian Roadblock

BERLIN (UP) — The U. S. Army protested Saturday that the Russians suddenly changed their rules on travel through Communist Germany and refused to let six U. S. State Department representatives drive through the Soviet Zone to isolated Berlin.

The Army said the Russians, acting without warning, barred the six Friday at the Marienborn checkpoint on the East-West German border. The six Americans were turned back by Russian guards at the extrance to the 110-mile-long highway and had to return to Hamburg, where they work in the U. S. consulate.

* * * *

THE SIX WERE identified as Consul Edward J. Trost, New York City; Vice Consul Donald Junior, Kansas City, Mo.; Vice Consul Samuel Lee, Honolulu; Vice Consul Bernice Goldstein, Philadelphia, Gladys Bial, a secretary from Dallas, Tex., and Warren E. Slater, a vice consul from New York City.

The new Russian harrassing action came as M. J. Hillenbrand, State Department political affairs chief in Berlin, was reported to have protested to the Soviet deputy commandant in Berlin against Russian refusal to allow American photographer Claude Jacoby to drive to Berlin Wednesday.

The Russians turned Jacoby back on the same grounds the State Department employes found the way to Berlin befred.

Hillenbrand delivered his protest verbally to Col. I. A. Kotsiuba in a discussion of East-West affairs in Berlin.

* * * *

THE SIX WERE turned back on grounds they needed special stamps in their passports identifying them as members of or dependents of members of the U. S. armed forces.

They had travel orders issued by the U. S. embassy in West Germany and Russian translations of those orders. Until now, the Russians have accepted such documents. Only Western Allied nationals stationed in Berlin have been required to have the stamps the Russians demanded of the six motorists.

Garages Looted, Nails Stolen

Two garages at 2841 E. 69th Pl., and 2831 E. 69th Pl., were looted of 12 kegs of nails valued at $144 and a radio worth $75, police reported Saturday. The nails were property of Mayrco Const. Co., and the radio belonged to Benjamin Burt, of Lynwood.

Why DR. CAMPBELL says
"have dentures FIRST and pay LATER"

"I don't have to worry about paying my expenses as a dentist if I am interested first in giving service," Dr. Campbell said. "I have found through trial and error that every one of my offices must give a lot of credit to be prosperous. In the past, when one of my offices curtailed credit, this office became less prosperous. People gladly pay for good service when you are thinking of them before the money. My records prove that this is good business both for my patients and for me."

SEE YOUR SAVINGS

When you go to buy something at a department store you see article tagged with a price. You don't have to be a good bargainer to get a good price. "I am doing this in dentistry," Dr. Campbell said. "Each sample denture, which you choose from, has a price permanently molded into the denture. You see the denture, you see the price, you take your choice."

Spring Portrait

In his younger days, when models were hard to come by, Renoir bribed them to pose for him—tantalizing, cat-faced beauties—by offering them hats. Now, taking a cue from the famous French master, Mr. John, fashion authority, turns to hats with adorable new fabrics and dainty flowers to produce his own portraits for spring. The result? See for yourself.

"Still Life," a Coquette bonnet with Renoir flowered brim laden with Impressionist pink roses, shepherdess' mauve of Lyons silk bows.

"To the One I Love Best." Boulevardier bowler of Cafe Glace toyo straw trimmed with poppy red ribbon and primrose yellow ostrich plume.

"Springtime"—a dress circle "flirt with me" stunner of Leghorn gaily trimmed with frosted cherries, strawberries and field poppies.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1957

SECTION B

Heart Fund March Slated Monday

BEACH COMBING

With MALCOLM EPLEY

IN THE 3300 block on Roxanne Ave., a couple of small boys were watching a woman hanging out an American Flag on Friday Feb. 22. An observer for this dept. happened by and heard one of them ask:

"Why is your mother putting up that Flag?"

"Because it's my daddy's birthday," said the other lad.

"You mean that your daddy has crossed the Delaware?" said Kid No 1, obviously a very smart fellow for his age.

AND BEFORE it's too far gone, here are a couple of other Washington birthday notes from my book.

A friend of mine gave birth to a baby boy on that day, and noted thoughtfully that she had given her son a gift he'll appreciate—he'll never have to go to school on his birthday.

And Gerry Fitzgerald called to brag about the Pomona Ave. block between Broadway and The Toledo. Nine flags were flying on houses there Friday, and fly there every patriotic holiday. She thinks there are few blocks in town that can match that.

IN PUBLICATIONS far and wide, there's a notable tendency to exaggerate the story of Long Beach's subsidence problem. It's serious enough, goodness knows, but it's not the way a lot of imaginative writers, who have obviously never been here, keep describing it.

These scribes get the basic facts right, but go on from there with embellishments that picture a condition of which no one here is aware.

For example, there's an item which appeared in the Weekly Reader, a publication used widely in the public schools. It was spotted by the editor of the Fifth and Cherry Light, little paper put out by the Church of the Brethren schools here.

After telling the cause of subsidence, the Weekly Reader went on:

"The people of Long Beach are saving their land from the sea. Like the Dutch, they are using 'fill' to replace lost land. Pumps are draining water from the land. Dikes are being built to keep the sea from flooding their town."

Now that's not entirely inaccurate, but it pictures a dramatic situation that doesn't exist. It prompted the editor of the Fifth and Cherry Light to exclaim:

"I am sure we will want to extend our sympathy to the poor, perishing people of Long Beach, whose only defense will soon be the dikes to keep the ocean back!"

DRIVING home from the GOP convention at Disneyland Friday evening, I found myself getting very indignant about Garden Grove Blvd.

There can be few if any stretches of highway in the state whose development has lagged so far behind the pace of traffic growth.

Although it carries a tremendous volume of traffic, linking Long Beach with rapidly growing communities to the east where many Long Beach workers live, it is still a two-lane road and in virtually the same development status it had years ago when only a comparative few cars traveled it in a day.

As a narrow road carrying heavy traffic it is dangerous. Twice I saw drivers ahead who took hazardous chances, going around other cars that were moving at snail's pace.

When you ask about the reason Garden Grove Blvd. is that way, you are told that a freeway is going to run more or less along the same route. Well, fair enough, why not bring the stretch up to freeway standards now to meet a very serious need, embracing it in the completed freeway later?

NOW to finish off on a more cheerful note—the story of Mrs. Linda Sue Day's purse. After shopping at a Carson and Orange Market, she left it on her car fender as she drove away. In it was $120, some important escrow papers and other valuables.

She was almost in tears and could hardly answer the telephone when John Williams called her, said he had found it in the middle of the street.

Foreign Aid No Giveaway, Official Says

By BEN ZINSER

U.S. economic aid to foreign nations is not a "giveaway" program, the executive officer for the International Cooperation Administration in Iran insisted here Saturday.

Dewain L. Delp, vacationing here while on home leave from his State Department post, termed the ICA program one of "largely technical assistance."

Of a 45 million dollar annual budget, 80 per cent goes to American suppliers for equipment, he said, with the remaining 20 per cent tabbed for transportation of equipment and supplies and the hiring of American technicians.

DELP

The Iran aid program has been under fire lately. The House Government Operations Committee charges that a quarter billion dollars in U. S. aid in 1951-56 was "administered in a loose, slipshod and unbusinesslike manner." A national magazine recently criticized certain improvement projects in Iran.

• • • •

DELP, WHO HAS BEEN assigned to Iran about one year, said he was not at liberty to comment on the charges.

"But I can tell you about our program and what we are trying to accomplish," he said.

"First, there's a public health program, which includes the training of doctors and nurses. When it comes to health and sanitation, Iran is far behind our nation. Thousands die there from smallpox, for example.

"An education program has seen the construction of more than 6,000 schools, which were financed by the Iranians, by the way. Our program helped develop a proper curricula. In the past, education has meant only the memorizing of quotations from the Koran.

"In agriculture, the ICA is helping the people of Iran improve seed varieties. Purebred livestock is being imported. An extension service is contemplated.

• • • •

ENGINEERS ARE helping Iran set up and manage factories, which are financed by Iranian oil money. They have the money; the U. S. provides the know-how."

Delp said there's a joke that says Iranian women are forbidden to wear high-heeled shoes because of the fear that the impression of the heels might bring in more oil wells.

The aid program also includes education in public administration and, "most important of all," the improvement of transportation and communications.

• • • •

"THE ICA IS trying to create a climate," he said. "We're trying to lay the foundation for the development of an economy that will make Iran a member of the family of capitalistic nations. Thus private enterprise of the United States and nations of western Europe will be able to cooperate and trade with Iran."

4,000 to Campaign in Area Pilot Study

More than 4,000 volunteer workers will canvass homes Monday for the 1957 Heart Fund.

Led by 200 district captains and 70 area chairman, the volunteers will solicit donations from householders in Long Beach, Signal Hill and Lakewood from 4 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Heart Fund goal is $72,000, an increase of $14,000 over last year's objective.

THE LONG BEACH CAMPAIGN this year is a pilot study for the nation's 4,000 heart associations. Here, the door-to-door drive has been set for Monday instead of the traditional Sunday. Other communities will be conducting their heart drive today.

Give HEART FUND

"We have found that many persons cannot, or do not wish to work on drives on Sunday," Daniel W. Farnham, Heart Fund chairman, said. "By changing Heart Day to Monday, we hope to increase funds by 100 per cent."

Each worker will wear a Heart Monday identification tag, carry a volunteer worker's kit and will offer an official container for contributions.

Donors are asked to check the identifications, Farnham reminded.

CAMPAIGN PROCEEDS will be used to support programs of research, education and community service designed to combat diseases of the heart and blood vessels. Such diseases are responsible for more than 800,000 deaths annually and affect more than 10 million living Americans.

A special Heart Fund breakfast will be held from 7 a. m. to 2 p. m. today in Mon's Restaurant, 2116 Pacific Ave. More than 750 persons are expected to attend.

The breakfast, open to the public, will cost $1.50 a person. All proceeds will be turned over to the Long Beach Heart Assn. Mrs. William H. Todd is chairman for the event.

New Attorney Heads Legal Aid Service for Litigants in Need

Long Beach Legal Aid and the Lawyers Reference Service have a new attorney—Jerry Silverman, 28, of Highland Park. Silverman replaces Alvin B. Calof, who has joined the county public defender's staff. A New York City native, Silverman received UCLA degrees in accounting (1951) and law (1954).

JERRY SILVERMAN
Aids Troubled Ones

He was admitted to the state bar in March, 1955, entered Army service the same month, and spent 16 months in Korea.

As Legal Aid head, Silverman tends to the civil legal problems of persons unable financially to hire their own counsel.

• • • • •

MORE THAN 3,000 persons have been aided by Legal Aid's attorneys here since a local office was opened 16 months ago. Most have had family (divorce, child custody, etc.), economic (money claims, promissory notes, installment contracts and garnishments) and property problems.

Legal aid handles no criminal matters. They're the public defender's responsibility.

Lawyers Reference Service is for persons who have money to hire private counsel, but don't know which one to contact.

Silverman's office maintains a file of about 70 lawyers who have volunteered to assist the program. Referral is by rotation.

THEIR AGREED fee is $4 for a half-hour consultation. Any follow-up work, however, such as taking a case to court, is at the attorney's regular rates. Reference Service attorneys handle both criminal and civil matters.

The two services are offered in the Enloe Building. Applicants are screened by a full-time secretary and volunteer workers regarding eligibility for Legal Aid.

There's a $1 registration fee for either service, but the Legal Aid attorney has been known to waive the charge for totally destitute persons.

Lack of a dollar is not considered reason to deprive anyone of legal representation.

Event Pays Tribute to Insurance

Life Insurance Week, accenting a patterned plan of family security, begins today in Long Beach.

Mayor Vermillion, paying tribute to an institution which plays a leading role in the protection of the family and home, proclaimed the event.

High points of Life Insurance Week will be a man-of-the-year banquet Friday in Lafayette Hotel and the honoring of leading men in local agencies.

Loren Evans, president of Life Underwriters Assn., praised the educational program at the Business and Technology Division of City College as "one of the best insurance courses in the nation."

• • • •

MORE THAN 300 are enrolled in insurance classes at the City College division which recognizes "the sociological trend in life insurance," said Fred Massey, chairman of the college life insurance education advisory committee.

Also slated to receive recognition during Life Insurance Week are group life insurance plans like those of the Long Beach Division of Douglas Aircraft Co.

Dr. Trueblood Address Set

Dr. Elton Trueblood will address the Long Beach Ministerial Union at the noon luncheon Tuesday in the Armed Services YMCA, 1076 W. Seaside Blvd.

Dr. Trueblood is well known for his books and religious writings. He served as religious adviser for the Voice of America.

IT'S A SCORCHER

Gridiron Dinner Slated April 23

Annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Gridiron dinner has been set for April 23 in the Wilton Hotel.

Tickets for the $20 a plate affair will be available at JayCee headquarters here.

The annual event features skits poking fun at local leaders.

Bret Harte Book Unit Scheduled

Groundbreaking ceremonies for Bret Harte Library, first of four branches to be financed from a $659,000 city bond issue, will take place at 2 p. m. Monday.

Councilman John F. Baker, in whose district the project is located, will wield the city's chrome-plated shovel at the building site, 1595 W. Willow St., where preliminary construction is already under way.

Other City Council members as well as City Mgr. Sam E. Vickers and Librarian Edwin Castagna will take part in the brief ceremonies.

The $113,000 contract was awarded Dec. 26 to Beswick Construction Co., Long Beach. Completion is scheduled for next summer.

Plans provide for a frame and stucco building of contemporary design encompassing 6,600 square feet of floor area along with 920 square feet of porches and terraces.

The other three units will be Ruth Bach branch, southwest corner of Carson and Bellflower Blvds.; Dana branch, 37th and Atlantic, and Bay Shore branch, 2nd St. and Bay Shore Dr. Bach and Dana branches are scheduled for completion by October and Bay Shore by next year.

New Library Plan Popular in Los Altos

Patrons formed long lines at the new Los Altos library Saturday with attendance boosted by the branch's first children's program.

Four special events are scheduled for the library's first full week of operation. Miss Nina Boyle, film librarian, Monday at 8 p.m. will conduct a cinema night program including four films.

• • • •

A BOOK REVIEW program is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday. Mrs. Mildred Snider, librarian, will be assisted by Mrs. Harriett Covery, Mrs. Alice Titus and Miss Alice Walsh.

Mrs. Mary Pearson, record librarian, will present a program of recordings Wednesday at 8 p.m. A panel of book reviews is scheduled Thursday at 8 p.m., with Miss Blanche Collins, assistant librarian in charge of branches, serving as moderator.

STATE SOCIETIES DECLINE

Loyalty to Dear Old 'Back Home' Recedes

A sociological revolution is taking place in Long Beach, and it might be called "The Decline and Fall of the State Society."

For years an oasis for retired people—many of them from the Midwest—Long Beach now is undergoing economic and population changes that slash deep into the ranks of clubs which were formed long ago to maintain common bonds of friendship and interest.

"We don't like to admit it, but it's true," said Mrs. Ora Lee, secretary of the All States Society, 148 E. Ocean Blvd.

Mrs. Lee's organization represents 26 state societies with a total membership of about 2,000 persons.

ALL THESE GROUPS are trying to stimulate the interest both of members and non-members, she said.

But most of them appear to be failing, she added.

"Membership in a state society seems to appeal only to older people," Mrs. Lee explained. "As present members die, few clubs manage to replace them."

Most of the state society members are retired or semi-retired people who live in or close to the downtown area, she said.

"And it's getting so many of them are afraid to go out nights, for fear they'll be robbed or attacked," Mrs. Lee observed.

All but a few of the state societies have their meetings at night.

One reason for the declining interest in state "alumni" groups is the fabulous growth of the Long Beach area in the post-war years.

Fewer retired people are coming here. Most of the population influx consists of younger persons attracted here by the prospect of good-paying jobs.

THE NEAR-DOWNTOWN residential areas where most older people now live, for convenience's sake, gradually are becoming commercial or industrial zones. The Southland's boom in new housing is aimed at filling the needs of the work force—and these newcomers readily are finding new interests to keep them occupied.

One psychiatrist, who declined to be identified by name, thought the lessening interest in state societies was regrettable because "membership in an organization relieves some of the problems of being alone—the most difficult problem a human being faces.

"Organization gives people a chance to relate more closely to other people," he observed. "It gives them a feeling of belonging."

He thought for a minute, then added—

"People can't just be friendly. They need a reason."

Women's Chairman Selected

Mrs. Donnell V. Davis, Long Beach civic leader, Saturday was named chairman of the women's division in the $4,000,000 United Hospital Fund campaign.

Associate chairman will be Mrs. John Fowler.

Campaign leaders announced solicitation of medical doctors will be finished this week. Doctors already have pledged a total of $860,000. Their group goal is $1,000,000.

Drs. William G. Durnin and Hubert J. Prichard, medical division chairmen in the absence of Dr. H. Milton Van Dyke, said they hoped to reach the goal by Thursday night when the Long Beach branch of the County Medical Assn. meets.

Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Fowler will lead the campaign's biggest sales force—about 900 volunteer workers.

Mrs. Davis, a charter member of the St. Mary's Hospital Guild, is active in the Junior League and in Family Service.

Hit-Runner Breaks Legs of Pedestrian

Police were searching Saturday night for a hit-run driver who knocked a pedestrian down, breaking both his legs.

The pedestrian, Robert Delmar Brady, 34, of the USS Goss, was taken to Seaside Hospital.

Witnesses told police Brady was walking across Santa Fe Ave. at Anaheim St. about 9 p.m. when an old-model sedan ran a stop sign and struck him.

The driver made no effort to stop but sped away from the scene, witnesses said.

Woman Hit by Car; Carried 79 Feet on Hood

A 68-year-old woman, carried 79 feet on the hood of the auto which struck her, apparently suffered only abrasions Saturday.

Ethel Burtner, 243 Redondo Ave., was struck while in a crosswalk at Broadway and Redondo Ave., by a car driven by Frank L. Norton, 78, of 133 Heulett St.

The woman was treated at Community Hospital.

Stole Stolen

A fur stole valued at $400 was reported stolen by Gladys C. Harvey from her home at 2321 Spaulding St., to police Saturday. She told police that Monday was the last time she had worn the coat.

ANNOUNCES FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Duncan Seeks to Retain Office

M. A. (Bud) Duncan, 1505 Armando Dr., announced Saturday he is a candidate for re-election to another four-year term on the Board of Education of the Long Beach Unified School District.

District voters will elect two board members at the April 5 election as terms of Duncan and Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson expire. Mrs. Hudson also seeks re-election.

Duncan, a chemical engineer with the Long Beach Procter & Gamble factory since its start here 26 years ago, cited the unselfish work of the tens of thousands of citizens of Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill and Avalon—which comprise the district—in his appeal for re-election.

"Few school districts in this Southland area of unprecedented growth have met . . . the many problems . . . as well as the LBUSD," he said. "It has taken the combined will of all our people to meet this challenge.

"I have worked for a sound middle-of-the-road school system which will be a credit to the four cities of our school district. I believe in and have worked to provide comparable facilities in all parts of the district."

M. A. DUNCAN
Asks Re-election

• • • •

DUNCAN HAS been active for 18 years in public school affairs in the district and was for eight years chairman of the Public Schools Week Observance Committee.

He was three times chairman of Citizens Committees for Public Schools in fostering bond issues for school expansion. He is an honorary life member of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Duncan, 50, was a 1931 graduate—summa cum laude—of the University of Washington. He is a Phi Beta Kappa and member of five other honoraries.

He is past master of Long Beach Lodge No. 327, F. and A.M.

Further Rain a Possibility Here Tonight

onto sidewalks and banged others together.

Brunt of the rainfall was felt in the West Los Angeles section. Police said one woman reported seeing eight driverless cars go by her house.

On La Cienega Blvd., officers counted 30 to 35 cars which were carried by rapidly flowing waters up onto sidewalks and against store fronts.

Authorities said some parked cars in West Los Angeles were pushed as much as 100 feet along streets by high water.

Many roads—some of them including main arteries between Los Angeles and the San Fernando Valley — were closed temporarily or partly blocked by boulders swept from hillsides onto streets.

Residents of some parts of Torrance placed sandbags around their homes to keep out water. The western section of Inglewood was flooded. Municipal buses were stranded in Santa Monica.

* * * *

AT ONE TIME, three feet of water covered sections of the Hollywood Freeway, restricting traffic to a single lane.

A sanitarium in the Culver City area had to be evacuated because of floodwaters.

In Pasadena, flooding in a home caused a fireplace and chimney to collapse.

* * * *

RAIN CAUSED an apartment house fire in Hollywood when it seeped into a basement and put out a furnace pilot light. The gas leaked into apartments, and fire followed several explosions. One person was injured.

To the north, winds as strong as 70 miles an hour swept the Monterey coast.

Winds reached a velocity of 59 miles an hour at San Francisco Airport early Saturday. Thirty-three false burglar alarms were set off by the wind from midnight to dawn. Store windows were smashed at San Mateo.

In Bakersfield, winds up to 46 miles an hour caused power failures that left the area without light for about two hours.

Postal Clerk Turnover at Costly Level

Turnover of postal workers has reached "alarming rates" which can be stemmed only by a pay raise, the executive board of the California Federation of Post Office Clerks announced Saturday.

Meeting at the Wilton Hotel, the board—headed by President Robert P. Sanders of Fresno—charged that turnover is as high as 25 to 30 per cent in some areas. This is costing the taxpayers millions of dollars for training of new postal employes, the members added.

* * * *

AT THE SAME time,' the board urged governmental recognition of the postal unions.

"It is a strange relationship when government workers cannot enjoy the same privileges established by the government for the rest of the nation's workers under the Wagner Act and the National Labor Relations Act," the board's statement said.

Representing the Long Beach area on the board is Vice President Tom Rico of Lomita.

Solemn Mission Services Slated

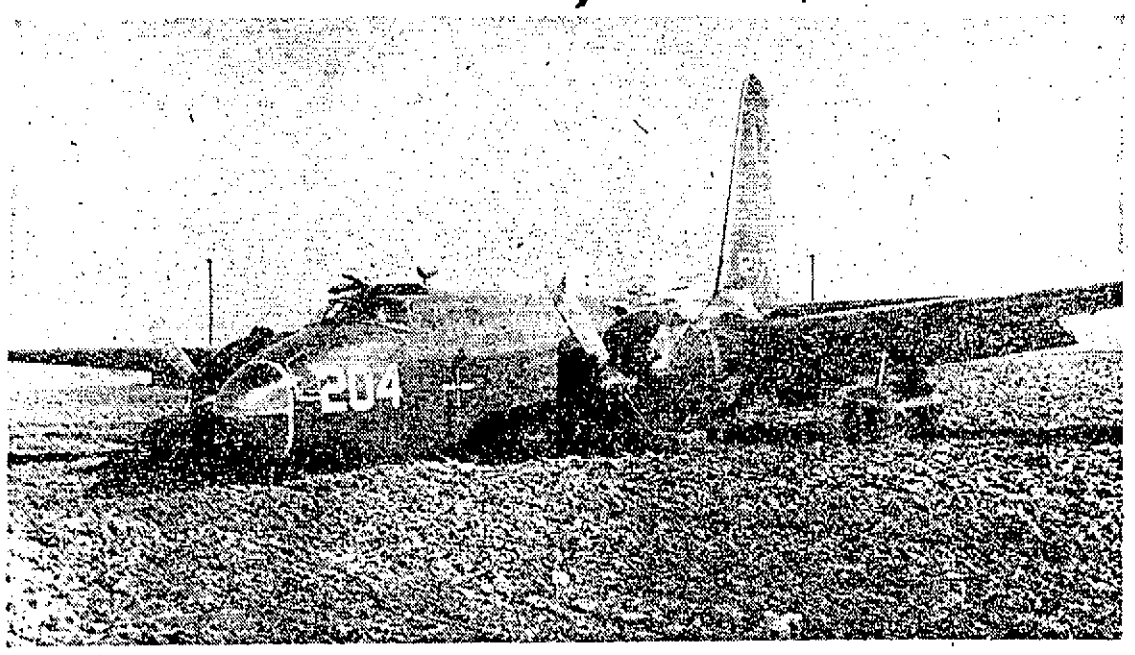

The Solemn Mission at St. Cornelius Parish, 5525 Flagstone St., will be held March 10 through March 24, according to Rev. Francis M. Osborne, pastor.

The nightly services will not begin this evening, as announced in Saturday's Independent and Press-Telegram.

Paulist Fathers, Rev. Richard D. Payne, C.S.P., and Rev. Charles S. White, C.S.P. will conduct services at 7:30 p.m. with masses at 6:30 a.m., 7 a.m. and 8:15 a.m.

Funerals Set for Three Victims of Cave-In

ANAHEIM — Funeral services for the three young boys who died when an excavation on the Santa Ana Freeway underpass here caved in Friday were scheduled for this week.

Rosary for William David Barron, 7, will be Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Back's, Campbell and Kaulbar's Mortuary, with mass in St. Boniface Church at 9 a.m. Wednesday. Interment will be in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

Service for Stephen Wayne Jones, 10, will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the chapel of Bellflower Mortuary, Bellflower. Interment will be in Rose Hills Memorial Park.

Last rites for Larry Joseph Scherer, 13, will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. in Back's, Campbell and Kaulbar's Mortuary. Interment will be in Melrose Abbey Cemetery.

The three boys were buried under several tons of dirt and sand while playing around the excavation shortly after noon Friday. A fourth boy, Billy Hushman, 10, of 1123 W. Broadway, said he had left the three about 1:15 p.m. to go home.

The Barron boy is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Barron, 1613 Redwood Ave., Anaheim, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Barron and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Pinelli of Anaheim.

Stephen Jones is survived by his mother, Ann Jones of Bellflower; father, Billy Jones of Anaheim; sister, Jeanne Ann, and grandparents, Sivan Carlson of Nebraska and Jonne Lawrence of Whittier.

The Scherer youth is survived by his mother, Ida Marr Scherer of Anaheim; father, William F. Scherer, of Long Beach; brother, Gary N., sister, Carol L., and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen L. Bigler of Anaheim.

Sumerian, Aged 5,000, Dug Up

BAHREIN, (dpa) — Danish archaeologists unearthed a 5,000-year-old Sumerian age urn here Saturday containing the skeleton of a man.

The man was believed to have been sacrificed to the gods and his remains placed in the urn as guardian for a Sumerian king.

The urn was found at a depth of 25 feet beside a massive stone wall which had a niche believed built to receive offerings for the dead monarch.

* * * *

NEARBY THE archaeologists turned up a Greek drinking vessel beside a recently discovered altar stone where the people made sacrifices to the snake god.

The drinking vessel is believed to have been part of a tea set given to the king of Tylos, the Greek name for Bahrein, by one of Alexander the Great's admirals more than 2,000 years ago.

Geoffrey Bibby, the expedition's British spokesman, said an Admiral Niarchos visited Bahrein while leading one of Alexander's fleets back from the mouth of the river Indus in India.

* * * *

THE EXPEDITION to this main island of the Persian Gulf state of Bahrein also located a burial chamber. It will be opened Thursday or Friday.

"There is no sign that the burial chamber of its associated treasury have been plundered, Bibby said.

The Danish leader of the expedition, Prof. P. V. Glob, thinks there are other important graves in the vicinity.

Casserole from Italy

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Lasagna Casserole has many advantages: It can be largely put together the day before serving, then heated in the oven, and it is a spicy taste treat.

A CASSEROLE bubbles in the oven while a salad waits in the refrigerator. Just think—you have 15 unhurried minutes until dinnertime!

An oven dish like lasagna (la-san-ya) casserole gives you a pre-meal "breather." And for an informal feast, there's nothing better than a flavorful serving of homemade lasagna — a green salad, fruit dessert and the beverage of your choice.

Thanks to the popularity of Italian-style cooking, the necessary ingredients are available almost everywhere. Mozzarella cheese (Italian soft cheese) is now shipped long distances in refrigerated cars in the new vacuum-sealed, shrunk-to-fit plastic bags. Ricotta cheese (Italian pot cheese) may be more difficult to locate, but cream-style cottage cheese makes a fine substitute. The long, wide lasagna noodles are made by macaroni manufacturers in many parts of the country with plain or rippled edges.

THE RECIPE for lasagna casserole is frightening in length, but take a second look. The meat sauce can be made the day before or early in the day, the casserole is combined in a matter of minutes and the final preparation is completed in the oven without further attention.

Lasagna Casserole

1 lb. ground beef
2 cloves garlic, crushed
2 tsp. seasoned salt
½ tsp. pepper
1 No. 2½ can tomatoes (3½ cups)
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
1 pks. (1½ oz.) spaghetti sauce mix
½ lb. lasagna (broad noodles)
½ lb. mozzarella cheese, sliced
½ lb. ricotta cheese
¼ cup Parmesan cheese

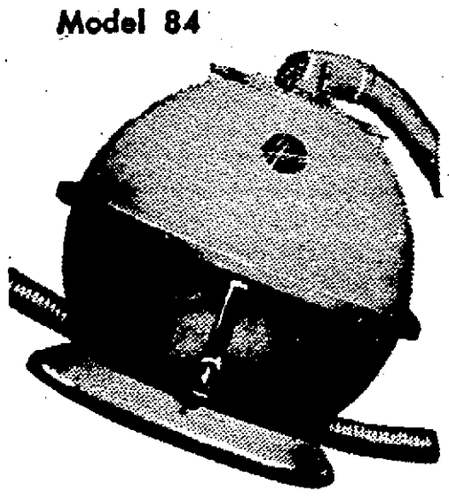

Cottage cheese can be used instead of ricotta, however, be sure to drain thoroughly

Brown meat in hot Dutch oven or deep kettle. Add seasoned salt. (We like to omit fat and brown meat in seasoned salt.) Add crushed garlic and pepper. Simmer slowly about 10 minutes. Add canned tomatoes, tomato sauce and spaghetti sauce mix. Stir thoroughly, cover and simmer 30 minutes. Meanwhile, boil lasagna in salted water until tender, drain and rinse. Pour ⅓ of meat sauce into a 12"x8"x2" baking dish. Cover meat sauce with strips of lasagna. Arrange slices of mozzarella and spoonfuls of ricotta over lasagna. Repeat layers, ending with meat sauce and top with Parmesan cheese. Bake in moderate open (350°F.) about 20 minutes. This is an exceptionally rich casserole, and when doubled, makes an ideal dish for a buffet. Serves six to eight.

'My Aching Back' May Be Passe if Compton Doctor Has His Way

By DON MADDOCK

A Compton physician, Dr. Floyd E. Neff, is helping make "Oh, my aching back" as passe a cliche as "Oh, you kid!"

A comparatively unknown treatment method is his tool. The result has been relief or cure for persons who've suffered low back and other painful disabilities for as long as a half century.

The method hits at what is believed to be the source of most low back troubles—relaxation of joint ligaments. It consists of injecting a proliferating (producing) solution, mixed with a local anesthetic, into the fibrous strands of the ligament.

The solution builds new bone and fibrous tissue, strengthening the relaxed ligaments and forming tight welds at their attachments to bone.

While originally designed for low back treatment, it has been applied successfully to posterior ligaments of all joints of the spine as well as the sacroiliac, sacrococcygeal, hip, wrist and ankle.

• • • •

THE TREATMENT was developed by Dr. George S. Hackett of Canton, Ohio, who made more than 7,000 intraligamentous injections in treating 1,000 patients in 17 years. He reports eighty-two per cent consider themselves cured.

DR. NEFF . . . Trouble Needled at Source

Dr. Neff has treated more than 100 persons with various degrees of back disability. He says results have ranged from good to spectacular.

In the latter category is a 60-year-old woman who had a back ailment for 17 years. Her case history shows frequent periods of hospitalization.

Dr. Neff injected her lower back 10 months ago, and her upper back six months ago. She has been "very comfortable" for four months.

The treatment is painful at first. The first 12 to 18 hours bring the most discomfort. The patient is urged to remain quiet for two or three days, and to avoid strenuous activities.

Relief begins after the second day, Dr. Neff says. Best results are obtained in four to six weeks.

• • • •

DIAGNOSIS is made by obtaining muscular relaxation and applying pressure at the fibro-osseous (trigger point) where ligament relaxation occurs, and where pain and tenderness are located.

When the hypodermic needle is inserted into the trigger point, its pressure and the anesthetic solution reduce local and referred pains immediately.

Referred pains are those in areas other than that of the disability. For example, pain on the sole of the foot, or outer calf, comes from the posterior sacroiliac ligament.

New Records AT CITY LIBRARY

Some of the most refreshing music is performed by the "string family." Long Beach Public Library has a wide range of performers in this category, in the record collection. All are recommended as "best of kind," but these are some of the newest:

Bach, "Works for the Lute" (Podolski, lute); Ives, "Sonatas for Violin and Piano" (Rafael Drulan, violin and John Simms, piano); Mozart, "Quartets for Strings" (New Music Quartet); Prokofiev, "Quartet No. 1 for Strings" (Guilet Quartet) and Walton, "Quartet in A Minor for Strings" (Hollywood String Quartet).

Defendant's Pants Used as Evidence

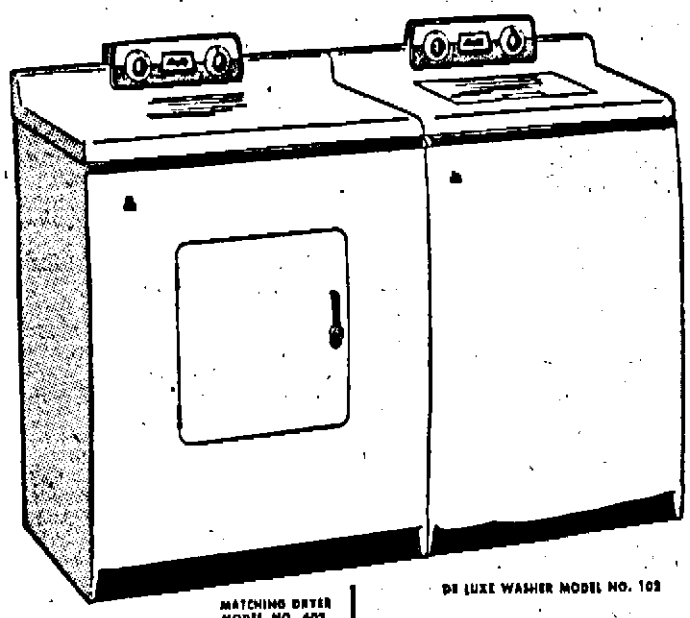

OXFORD, England (UP) — Norman Buchan, 40, had to borrow a pair of police uniform trousers to attend court.

The prosecution had to use Buchan's own pants as evidence. He was accused of stealing them.

THESE MEN SERVE TODAY WITH DISTINCTION TO PROTECT YOUR TOMORROWS

This week the Life Underwriters pictured here are being honored as the outstanding Life Insurance Men for 1956. Each has been chosen in his respective office as "outstanding" . . . not just for the amount of Life Insurance written but also for his genuine helpfulness to his clientele.

The recommendations these men make affect the future of many people. They are "life underwriters"—men whose knowledge of estates and life insurance programs assure their clients a safer tomorrow. Under today's complex tax structure, haphazard planning can reduce even large estates to the point of no return. When the estate is small, the need for wise counsel is even more urgent.

These men have proved they have the knowledge and experience to tailor an insurance program to fit exacting individual needs; to make estate arrangements which guarantee maximum security.

Blasting to Raise Bodies Fatal to One

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP)—A man was blown to bits and a boy apparently was blinded Saturday as dynamite exploded prematurely in a search for the bodies of three youths who drowned Feb. 6.

State Police Sgt. Russell Hoge said Lon Trogden of Peck's Mill was killed.

Sixteen-year-old Billy Williamson of Logan was taken to Logan General Hospital where it was said he had "probably lost his sight." He was one of several persons who came to the scene to watch the blasting.

Searchers had planned to detonate dynamite at intervals in the hope of bringing up the bodies.

The search was being made for the bodies of Charles Hughes, 14, and Ray Hayes and Harold Jeffrey, both 15, who drowned when a boat capsized in swollen Guyan River.

Trogden, 66, was a veteran of 30 years work with explosives in coal mines.

He was preparing one-stick charges, lighting the 15 to 18-inch fuses, and handing them to another man to weight and throw into the river.

He was carrying some eight to 10 sticks of dynamite.

The Williamson boy was standing only a few feet behind him when the blast went off.

T-Men Seize 14,004 Moonshine Stills in Year, Jail 11,000 Owners

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "revenooers" made it rough on the moonshiners last year — mighty rough.

The treasury's Alcohol Tax investigators seized 14,004 stills and made more than 11,000 arrests. They also confiscated property valued at more than four million dollars—and that doesn't count untold jugs of illicit booze.

It wasn't easy.

One group of Kentucky moonshiners hung the carcass of a dead animal in a nearby tree to conceal the odor of fermenting mash. Agents testified it was indeed a potent device, but they found the still anyway.

One investigator was attacked by a vicious bulldog guarding a still. He killed the dog in self-defense, arrested the owner and confiscated the illegal machinery.

An investigator poking around in the hills of a southwestern state found the still he was looking for and went back for a search warrant. The still's owner thought he was leaving the area for good and disconnected a shotgun boobytrap that could have blasted large and uncomfortable holes in the agent. It still was disconnected when the agent returned and closed up the moonshiner's operations.

Another agent went underground to break up the operation of a moonshining syndicate. He posed as a customer, was offered a job and soon was driving trucks, helping around the stills and even collecting money for the operators. When the Feds finally closed in, they seized five large stills, capable of producing 1,500 gallons of whisky a day, and arrested 28 men.

Then there was the case of the South Carolina sheriff and several of his deputies who were selling protection to the moonshiners. The sheriff got five years in jail and a fine of $3,000. Agents seized nine stills and 18 vehicles and said the moonshiners had defrauded Uncle Sam of nearly a million dollars in taxes.

South Carolina was the site of the first successful airplane raid on a still. Investigators spotted it from the air, landed the plane in a nearby field and arrested the operators.

Duke, Queen Tots Take to Horseback

LONDON (UP)—The Duke of Edinburgh, newly proclaimed a prince of the kingdom, took his family horseback riding in the rain Saturday for their first outing together in more than four months.

Queen Elizabeth, the Duke and their children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, rode around the vast grounds of Windsor Castle 30 miles west of London. They spent an hour on horseback despite a chill rain.

One week ago, the duke was reunited with the Queen in Lisbon, Portugal, ending his round-the-world cruise which began Oct. 15. But Saturday was their first day free of official pomp and ceremony which they could spend with their children. The Queen proclaimed her husband a prince of the realm.

* * * *

NEXT WEEK, the duke will resume a rugged schedule of official visits, possibly climaxing in a state visit to the United States next fall.

With his new title of royal prince—something he never has had although he always was called prince by Britons -- he will tour Britain, and then visit France and Norway.

He will visit 20 different places in Britain in March before leaving for his tours abroad.

Authoritative sources kept alive the belief here that the Duke and the Queen also may tour the United States next Autumn.

Mrs. Dulles Sees Revolt in Germany

BERLIN (UP) — Mrs. Eleanor Dulles, sister of U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, said Saturday the Russians are faced in East Germany with a "hostile" population that could revolt.

In a speech here, Mrs. Dulles, who retained her maiden name after her marriage, said the Soviet occupation of Germany has failed. She said East Germans have rejected Communism and continue to tolerate it only because of the 400,000 Russian troops stationed in the Soviet zone.

* * * *

MRS. DULLES, a special assistant in the State Department's office of German affairs, spoke at West Berlin's free university after receiving an honorary degree of doctor of political science.

Communist newspapers attacked Mrs. Dulles as an "informer and agent." But a high Communist government official gave unwitting corroboration to some of her remarks.

Gen. Willi Stolph, East German defense minister, said today the Red Army will remain in the Soviet zone of Germany to protect the East German Communist government.

In a message marking the 39th anniversary of the Red Army, Stolph served notice on anti-Communists that the 22 Soviet divisions stationed in East Germany will put down any Hungarian-type revolt.

Child Center Backers Meet

Individuals interested in having the State Legislature adopt a permanent program for child care centers will meet 7 p.m. at Garfield School, 1401 W. Hill St.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Extended Day Parent Group from Garfield School. It will be conducted in the Extended Day Care bungalow at the school.

A light supper will be served parents at 6 p.m., according to Mrs. Florence Olszowy, chairman of the meeting.

Operation Ol' Fishin' Hole

By Helen Smith

CHEMICAL WARFARE has invaded the peaceful realm of the fisherman.

Drastic though it may sound, an all-out purge of all fish in Big Bear Lake was found necessary recently as the Department of Fish and Game began chemical treatment of this popular angling resort to remove 5,000,000 stunted crappie which were crowding out trout, bass and bluegill.

Big Bear Lake has been receding for years and seining and test spotting revealed that fish were begining to die due to lack of oxygen.

DFG OFFICIALS concluded that the saturation point had been reached and the quota of trout ready for restocking would in all probability die as fish food and growing room were being depleted.

Following a preliminary survey made by the one-helicopter "air force" from Los Alamitos Naval Air Station near Long Beach, six boats were dispatched last October loaded with suffocating chemical. They began spraying the 300 surface acres of Big Bear Lake which resulted in killing 250 tons of fish in one day.

Since the fish died of suffocation rather than poison, hundreds of persons gathered to pick up the two and three-pound bass, bullhead catfish and some trout, all of which were edible despite the fact they did not succumb from orthodox hook-and-line methods.

RESTOCKING OF the lake was delayed following the purge because of low water. Rain and snow will soon be pouring gallons of mountain water into the thirsting shallows offering a revitalized home to the trout, sunfish and large mouthed bass leaping to bait and lure.

When the spring fishing season opens, more than 60,000 catchable sized trout, plus the 1957 allottment of 20,000, will await to match wits with fisherman from this area.

In addition, one quarter million fingerling rainbows will be planted in the lake. They will have an excellent chance of survival with "trash" fish gone.

ACCORDING TO the Department of Fish and Game, results from the unprecedented treatment will not be fully realized until the 1958 season. However, officials expect the recent remedial operation to attract many persons in 1957.

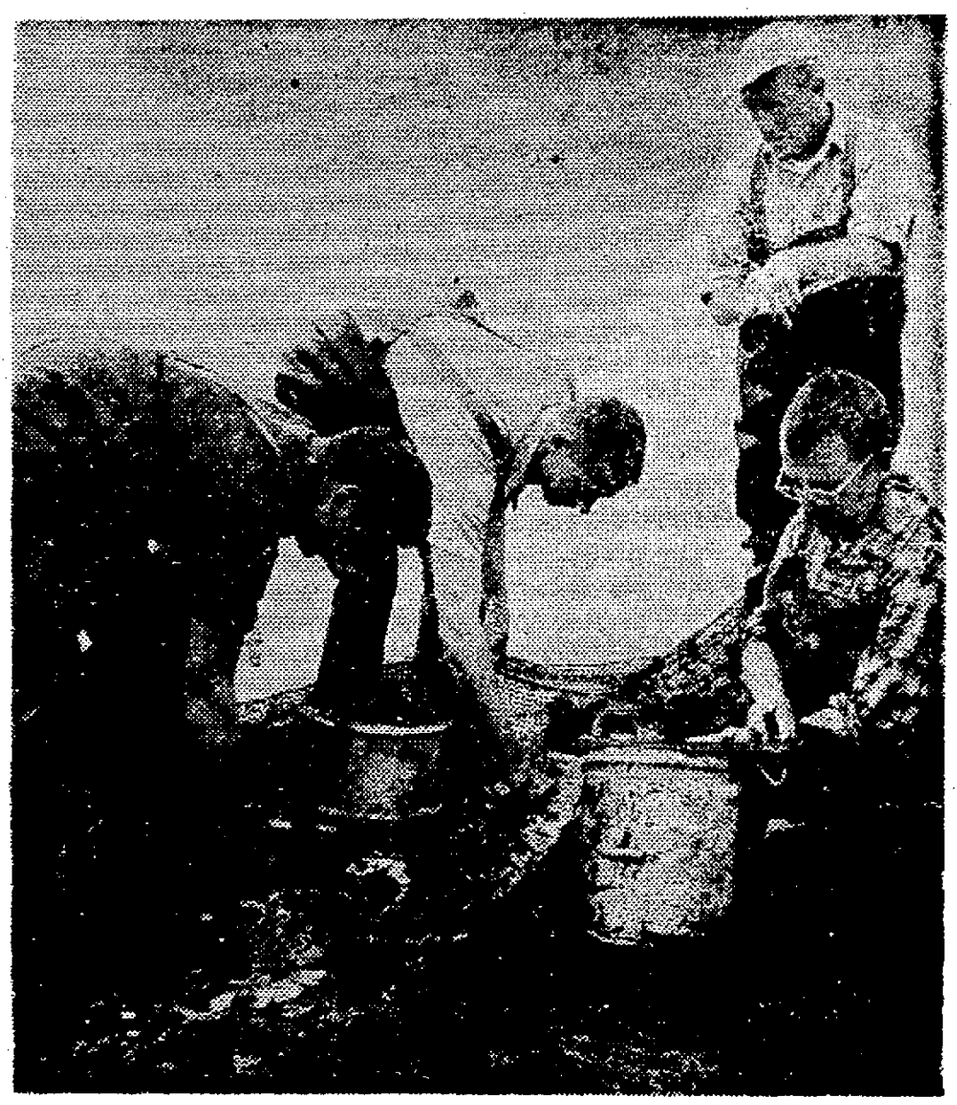

So the day is near when fishermen will no longer have to go far afield to show a creel-full limit for several hours of sport.

Big Bear Lake will again live up to its "fishin' hole" reputation gained in former years.

Shallows of Big Bear Lake were sprayed with fish toxicant with aid of Navy helicopter from Los Alamitos.

Test seine hauls like this had proved Big Bear to be over-populated with stunted crappie, eating up food.

Millions of crappie were knocked off by spraying the lake with toxicant. This is part of the millions killed.

How Lindbergh Kidnaper Was Trapped

Evidence Holds Firm for Quarter Century

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN

HOPEWELL, N. J. (AP)—The night of March 1, 1932, was cold, raw and windy.

The wind whistled through the trees high in the Sourland mountains in East Amwell township where a newcomer, Charles A. Lindbergh, had built a home. Here in the forbidding Sourlands he thought he had found privacy.

On the first floor of the 2½-story whitewashed house Lindbergh and his wife, the former Anne Morrow, were talking. Upstairs in his crib in the nursery was the couple's only child, Charles Jr., now 19 months old.

At 9:10 there was a strange noise which Lindbergh said later sounded like "the top slats of an orange box falling off a chair."

"What's that?" he asked his wife. But he let the incident pass without further thought.

At 10 o'clock the nursemaid, Betty Gow, found the baby gone. "Have you the baby?" she asked Mrs. Lindbergh, now in her upstairs room. The answer was "no."

She went downstairs and asked the same question of Lindbergh. Again the answer was "no."

His own search of the nursery futile, Lindbergh grabbed a rifle from a closet, ran into Mrs. Lindbergh's room and said, "Anne, they have stolen our baby."

This was the beginning of the nation's most famous kidnaping case.

LINDBERGH HIMSELF notified the police and then went out, bareheaded into the night in a forlorn search for his son.

For two hectic months he searched by land, sea and air. He was on a small yacht off the Virginia Capes searching for a phantom ship when word came on May 12 that his son was dead. A workman had stumbled over the body in a shallow grave five miles from the Lindbergh home.

FBI agents and police throughout the nation intensified their search for the kidnaper—or kidnapers.

Two years and four months later—on Sept. 19, 1934—a 35-year-old Bronx carpenter was arrested. His name was Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Hauptmann died for the crime, on April 3, 1936, in the electric chair in New Jersey's state prison at Trenton. He had been convicted of murder in a celebrated trial where the evidence was largely circumstantial.

Now, 25 years after the Lindbergh kidnaping, that circumstantial evidence has stood up. Nothing has been brought to light that would dispute the state's contention that Hauptmann —and Hauptmann alone—committed the crime.

NEW JERSEY'S highest court, hearing Hauptmann's appeal from conviction, said three evidential factors "pointed unerringly to guilt."

They were: Hauptmann's possession of ransom money, his handwriting on the ransom notes, and proof that wood in the kidnap ladder came from the attic of his Bronx home.

The Lindbergh kidnaper had left a crudely written note on the windowsill of the baby's nursery, demanding $50,000 ransom.

Lindbergh paid that ransom the night of April 2, 1932, in a Bronx cemetery. With him was John F. Condon, an intermediary—the famous "Jafsie" (his initials J. F. C. led to the nickname).

"Hey, doctor, doctor, over here!" came a voice from behind the hedge. Condon paid over the $50,000 and got in return a note which said "The boy is on boad Nelly."

"Have you heard that voice since?" Lindbergh was asked at the trial.

"I have."

"Whose voice was it?"

"It was the voice of Bruno Richard Hauptmann."

The ransom payment failed of its purpose—return of the child. But it led to Hauptmann's arrest.

The government distributed 250,000 circulars bearing the serial numbers of the money—$35,000 in gold certificates, $15,000 in other paper currency.

And then the government called in its gold—a measure born of the depression. President Roosevelt set May 1, 1933, as the deadline for conversion of gold certificates. Thereafter, the gold notes of the Lindbergh ransom were indeed "hot."

THE BILLS turned up here and there. They became pinpoints on a central map—and the pinheads bunched in the Bronx.

"And the first thing you know a little gas station attendant in the Bronx found the man that murdered the Lindbergh child" was the way the state's chief prosecutor, Atty. Gen. David T. Wilentz, related the story to the jury.

On Sept. 15, 1934, a man drove up to Walter Lyle's filling station and bought five gallons of gas. He gave Lyle a $10 gold note. Lyle wrote the auto license number on the bill. Four days later Hauptmann was arrested. On his person they found one of the $20 ransom bills.

And in Hauptmann's garage police found $14,600 of the ransom money.

Frank J. Wilson, a special agent in charge of the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Service, was on the stand when the $14,600 was offered in evidence.

"So far as you know, Mr. Wilson, since the indictment of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for murder has there been one ransom bill turned up?" Wilentz asked him.

"No sir."

If the question were asked today, says Wilentz, the answer would be the same.

BUT THE MONEY was not the only incriminating thing found in Hauptmann's house. An expert on wood discovered that a piece of the attic flooring had been used as a rail of the kidnap ladder. The ladder was found near the Lindbergh home the night the child was stolen.

"He has got this ladder right around his neck," Wilentz told the jury. And he set out to prove it by calling as a star witness Arthur Koehler, a wood technologist.

One ladder rail, Koehler said, had once been part of a floor board in the attic. Koehler laid the board on a joist in the attic and found nail holes in the board exactly matched those in the joist. He said:

"There are four nail holes a certain distance apart and a certain direction from each other and in my opinion it wouldn't be possible that there would have been another board somewhere with cut nail holes in them, spaced exactly like these nail holes are in the joists, the same distance apart, the same direction from each other."

He observed also that one nail hole "is slanting, and the nail hole in the joist had the same slant."

In May, 1932, Koehler had set about tracing the origin of the wood used in the ladder.

Koehler detected a tiny groove in the wood which he knew was made by a knife of a certain type.

He canvassed 1,598 planing mills from New York City to Alabama and found only 25 used the specific knives he was looking for. Two of these he ruled out because they did not dress one-by-four stock lumber—the wood used in the ladder. He got samples from the other 23 firms and found only one with markings spaced like those on the ladder rail. That mill was in McCormick, S. C.

He traced 45 carloads of lumber from the mill to 25 firms and finally, in November, 1933, found at a lumber company in the Bronx a piece of lumber with a defect matching that on the ladder rail. This was 10 months before Hauptmann's arrest. It was disclosed later that Hauptmann had bought $10 worth of the lumber there in 1931.

Hauptmann and Officer

THE LADDER, like the ransom money, led to Hauptmann. So did the handwriting on 14 ransom notes. Seven handwriting experts compared the handwriting with Hauptmann's.

All reached the same conclusion—Hauptmann wrote them all.

"And remember this," said the state, "As soon as Bruno Richard Hauptmann received the $50,000 from Dr. Condon, what happened? No more notes—the notes stopped."

This was circumstantial evidence, but the presiding judge, Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard told the jury:

"In order to justify the conviction of the defendant upon circumstantial evidence, it is necessary not only that all the circumstances concur to show that he committed the crime charged, but that they are inconsistent with any other rational conclusion."

Such circumstantial evidence, the court said, was "satisfactory and convincing as that of the most direct and positive character."

The state told the jury:

"Remember, we are not required to have a picture of this man coming down the ladder with the Lindbergh baby."

New Jersey's highest court concurred:

"Our conclusion is that the verdict is not only not contrary to the evidence, but one to which the evidence inescapably led."

LA REINA RULE

★ WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS ★

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like information about my name GOUGH. Our history goes back to King Charles I of England. The family came from Ireland before the Revolutionary War. B. C. G.
Bellflower.

DEAR B. C. G.: The name GOUGH of England and Wales originated in the ancient Welsh word "goch" meaning "of red complexion." John Goch, a Welshman of the early 1400s was recorded as first using this name. His son changed the name to Sir Matthew Gough. He was a gallant soldier under King Henry VI of England. The Gough coat-of-arms, granted at that time, had a blue lion between three gold boars heads on a silver band. These emblems were on a red shield. William Gough (1605-1679) was the executioner of King Charles I in 1649. He fled to America when Charles II was crowned in 1660. He and his family settled at Hadley, Mass.

DEAR MISS RULE: I should like an analysis of the name MOSIER. C. D. M.
Paramount.

DEAR C. D. M.: MOSIER, a re-spelling of the French-Swiss "Moshier" was taken from the German name Moser. This was a medieval home description of your ancestor's location. It meant "man who lived on a moor or wasteland." The Moshier coat-of-arms had a red rose with a rosebud on the side of the stem, placed on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would appreciate your analysis of STEWART. S. Z. S.
Garden Grove.

DEAR S. Z. S.: STEWART is among the noblest and oldest Scotch clan-names and has been synonymous with the Scotch and English royal families for centuries. The family is traced back to Brittany, France and the Count of Dol whose grandnephew Walter went to England about 1125 A.D. He was created High Steward of Scotland by King Malcolm IV in 1157. The surname Stewart (formerly Steward) was taken from his title. The first Stewart to become a Scotch ruler was Robert, crowned king in 1370. The lineage continued down through James V, Mary Queen of Scots and her son who became James I of England. Queen Elizabeth II is descended from this family. The Stewart coat-of-arms has a band of checkered blue and silver squares across a gold shield. Descendants of the clan settled in Connecticut about 1700.

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like your analysis of the name LEWIS. W. M.
Wilmington.

DEAR W. M.: The English LEWIS from the German given-name Ludwig, means "renowned warrior." Before the German usage it was Levi in the Old Testament. In America most Lewises are of Welsh ancestry. Welshmen Anglicized their name Llewellyn into Lewis over 500 years ago. The Welsh Lewises claim descent from Llewellyn, Lord of St. Clair, whose ancestor was Cadivor, an 11th century Prince of Wales. Their coat-of-arms was a black rampant lion on a gold shield. Among the first of the family in America was William Lewis, married in Farmington, Conn., in 1644.

DEAR MISS RULE: My husband's name HALLOWELL sounds English to me. Can you enlighten us? Mrs. C. R. H.
Long Beach 6.

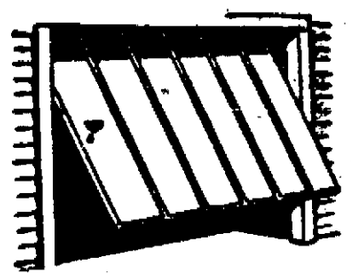

DEAR MRS. C. R. H.: HALLOWELL, with the meaning "at the Holy well" is a town in the parish of Dean, Lancashire, England. John of Hallewelle is recorded as living at this place in 1288. The Hallowell coat-of-arms adopted by John's descendants had three silver goats on a diagonal red stripe across a gold shield. American settlers by this name first built their home in 1738 at Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass.

(Editor's Note: Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for your name-meaning and brief family genealogy. Replies will be printed in this column.)

Plan Luxury Homes Near Country Club

Plans for development of 340 "luxury-type" homes around Lakewood Country Club were announced Saturday by Louis H. Boyar, subdivider.

The tracts comprise virtually the last remaining single-family residential subdivision acreage of Lakewood Park Corp within the City of Lakewood.

Boyar said that 300 lots will be sold in the tracts, to be called "Lakewood Country Club Estates."

The lots will range in price from $1,250 up to $22,500 for the 35 largest lots which will form an island in the middle of the golf course.

The lot sizes will vary from a minimum of 1,450 square feet to 2,500 square feet.

Gene Nebeker Realty Co. was named exclusive agent for the project.

• • • •

BOYAR AND his associates will build "customized" homes selling for about $24,000 on 40 lots located between Carson St. and Warwood Rd. from Klondike Ave. to Leveiside Ave.

The tracts, all located north of Carson St., are on the east side of the Country Club and golf course and extend around the north side of the golf course, ending on the east side of the golf course just north of the Lakewood Estates area.

Boyar said the developers will put in street lights, curbs and other subdivision improvements throughout the tracts during the year.

New Terms Are Offered

Special offer of nothing down terms for vets and good FHA and conventional terms for non-vets is expected to attract large crowds this week to Orangewood Estates to see W. E. Robertson Co.'s new series of Fireside Homes.

"During this event, we shall attempt to work out a solution for any family with a home-buying problem," it was stated by a company official in announcing the terms.

Furnished model homes, he said, are now on view from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. daily at Orangethrope and Eadington Aves., Fullerton.

Particular interest is being shown by visitors in such luxury features as private suites of 2 bedrooms and bath for children which are located across the homes from master suites with their own large baths. Other plans offer a choice of 3 or 4 bedroom with 2 baths.

Also featured are built-in gas ranges and ovens, built-in brick barbecues, paneled fireplaces and sliding glass doors leading from large living rooms to attractive patios.

Warehouse Here Supplies Pharmacies in Southland

Complete in every detail, McKesson & Robbins Inc. big new warehouse, 2100 E. Artesia Blvd., is now serving drugstores and hospital pharmaceutical staffs throughout the Southland.

With 74 employes and a fleet of 8 trucks operating from the big new warehouse, supplies can reach the Southland cities much quicker than in former years when served from a Los Angeles warehouse. This was shown to more than 400 persons last Sunday at an open house.

Among those attending were Max Weisberg, president of the California State Board of Pharmacy; Rollin B. Rucker, district vice president of McKesson & Robbins, Los Angeles; H. I. Barnes, inspector for the State Board of Pharmacy; Fred Shaefer, vice president of California Bank, as well as representation from the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce and other civic leaders.

They were greeted by C. M. Blackhurst, Long Beach division manager; Hubert Conley, sales manager, and Jim Sims, operational manager.

Visitors were given a conducted tour through one of the most modern, up-to-date warehouses in this area. The tour included inspection of the new narcotics vault and an explanation of their system for handling refrigerated antibiotics. The visit ended with a buffet and cocktails.

Silver Dollar Quiz at Realty Meeting

Norman Woest, community relations director for Title Insurance and Trust Co., Los Angeles, will present his "Silver Dollar Quiz" at the Tuesday morning meeting of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, Clyde Graham, program chairman, announced. The meeting is scheduled for 7:15 a.m. at the Lafayette Hotel.

Quizmaster Woest will award silver dollars to those who answer his questions relating to California real estate law. Woest will be assisted in the program by Steve Birch, the company's customer relations representative in the Long Beach area.

Tojo Aide to Be Next Jap Chief

TOKYO (AP)—A lean, affable politician who worked with Premier Hideki Tojo during the war is due to become Japan's next prime minister. Parliament is expected to elect Nobusuke Kishi, now foreign minister and acting prime minister, Monday or Tuesday.

Now 60, Kishi has mellowed since the war years and there is expected to be little change in Japan's pro-Western, pro-Asian policies under his leadership. He spent three years in Sugamo Prison as a war-crimes suspect after the war but never was charged.

* * * *

"WHEN I FOUND out I was not to be indicted or hanged, he said, "I began to think about the rest of my life as a bonus to be spent wisely. I had long reflections on the past and decided that Japan must have real democracy and never again adopt dictatorship by anyone — military or nonmilitary — and never yield to extremists—Communists or Fascists."

His step-up to be Japan's seventh prime minister since the war resulted from the resignation because of illness, Saturday, of Prime Minister Tanzan Ishibashi, 72, after only 65 days in office. Ishibashi remains prime minister in name until his successor is installed by Emperor Hirohito.

* * * *

THE SWITCH was precipitated by an announcement by doctors Friday that Ishibashi needs another two months to recover from bronchial pneumonia and a weakened heart.

Kishi, regarded as more conservative and more pro-American than Ishibashi, is expected to hold both posts—prime minister and foreign minister—and to reappoint Ishibashi's cabinet until the present session of parliament ends in April. There is a talk of changes then and possibly a national election.

India Begins Voting Today

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India starts a marathon general election today with signs already pointing to another victory for Prime Minister Nehru's Congress Party in Parliament.

The last of the votes will be cast March 14.

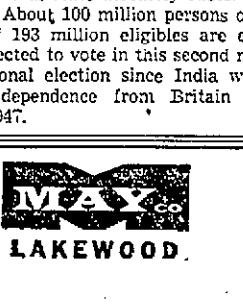

About 1,550 candidates are running for the 494 seats in Parliament's lower house, where the victors will form the new government. More than 10,000 are after seats in 13 state assemblies.

Close contests are likely in several state assembly races.

About 100 million persons out of 193 million eligibles are expected to vote in this second national election since India won independence from Britain in 1947.

A bra-and-girdle designer helped develop suit worn by Maj. Murray who holds 90,000-ft. altitude mark.

By Lisande LaCoste

WHY HAS the U.S. Air Force asked a brassiere and girdle manufacturer to design its latest high-altitude flying suit? A good question.

The new-fangled flying suit is not dissimilar to the corset grandma used to wear. Also, like the corset of old, quite a bit of assistance is needed to don the suit and tie its many laces. A flying suit must fit snugly if it is to perform its life-saving mission.

A high-altitude flight suit literally is a life-saver for the fast-flying modern jet jockey. It protects him if the cockpit should fail—even at 65,000 feet when his body literally would burst from the low pressure.

Actually, the suit holds the "pilot together." And should the plastic windshield shatter in a sonic or supersonic flight, the suit and helmet would automatically fill with compressed oxygen. This would create a temporary balance of air inside and outside the plane and enable the pilot to dive to a lower altitude, thus giving him a new lease on life.

With many laces and supports, new high-altitude suit of the Air Force, resembles a corset of grandma's day.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

FROM MEXICO

We are two not-so-young ladies planning a trip to Mexico. Should we rent a car at the border and drive into Mexico City, or fly? . .

RATHER THAN HIRE a car on the U.S. side of the border, why not bus or fly down? There is about 1,000 miles of semi-desert before the country gets interesting.

You can rent from either Avis or Hertz in Mexico City. Avis has a $9.60 per day, 5 cents a mile and your own gas deal—less by the week. Hertz goes for $9 a day, 9 cents a mile with a weekly rate. All gas paid.

I think they really add up about the same. But if you plan long drives like down to Oaxaca, you might figure which is the better.

. . . What hotel and restaurants would you suggest for us in the capital?

I THINK the Hotel Geneva would be what you want. A good double room will be about $8. This is an excellent small hotel that has had Americans for years. Good location in a quiet but building shopping district. Good service. Good newsstand. Good dining room for breakfast and within two blocks of the best restaurants in Mexico: The 1, 2, 3; Rivoli; Focolare; La Cava; Passy; Parador.

For some atmosphere some night try Gitaneria at Oaxaca 15. About 10 or 11 o'clock. Flamenco dancing and manzanillo wine in the manner of Seville.

On your last trip to Italy you mentioned a restaurant in Florence. What was the name of it?

IT WAS THE PAOLI on the Via Tavolini and I'll never forget the dinner I had there. Scampi alla marinara. They are medium-sized prawns simmered in white wine with a little garlic, red pepper and, I think, oregano. This on a bed of fluffy rice—just a little pepper hot. It would make a fortune in the Texas border country. With it I had the chilled Ciclopi white wine from Sicily. And a green chicory salad, dressed with oil and vinegar on the side. It was wonderful.

Our son is stationed in Bonn and we will visit him this summer. We have reservations at the Petersburg Hotel. Do you know anything about it?

THE PETERSBERG sits on a high hill overlooking the Rhine near Bonn. It is in the de luxe class. The wallpaper is woven in silk. The beds are rococo nests of gray leather with down comforts packed in linen envelopes.

The drapes are expensive. The dining room is a vast hall of black marble and carved wooden pillars with massive crystal chandeliers. The waiters wear tailcoats and white gloves and the menu lists fresh caviar and clear kangaroo tail soup.

I thought it was a rich and gloomy pile of stone and when I was there it had a guest list of rich and gloomy people.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Rome at Easter

Planned so that Easter Sunday and the three most solemn days of Holy Week may be spent in Rome, a pilgrimage tour of four European countries taking only two weeks' time has been announced by Trans World Airlines and the Catholic Travel Division of American Express.

Highlights of the tour are visits to major Christian shrines in the four countries, as well as general sightseeing. Each tour group will be accompanied by an especially-appointed spiritual director.

The tour will leave New York via TWA Constellation April 13, arriving in Paris the next day. Two full-day programs in Paris include visits by motorcoach to the Madeleine Church Palace of the Invalides, the Eiffel Tower, Sacre Coeur Church, the Louvre, Notre Dame Cathedral and Versailles.

The tour will be in Rome from April 18 through April 22, for the observance of Holy Thursday, Good Friday, Holy Saturday and Easter Sunday. (A request has been made through the North American College for an audience with the Pope.)

The return flight will include stops at Madrid and Lisbon.

Cost of the pilgrimage is $874, including all transportation, hotel accommodations in double rooms with private bath at good hotels, Continental breakfast and lunch each day, sightseeing plus entrance fees and the services of an English-speaking guide, transfers between airports and hotels, taxes and gratuities in Europe.

Going to Mexico?

Cinderella Homes Enchanting Visitors by Luxury Features

Cinderella Homes in Anaheim are homes that with one look you can judge the true value inside and out, the salesmen declare.

"A visitor will be enchanted by the features of these nationally acclaimed homes from the practical sturdy construction to the many extra touches throughout. For an example, the homes have hand-painted light switch plates throughout."

Builders Shannon and Jene Vandruff have striven for, and attained, real quality in construction, but their craftsmanship has led to more than that as the most careful attention has been paid to minute finishing details. Each model was carefully planned before construction even began. Even the color coordinator was a "partner" from the very beginning in the creation of the homes, blending and harmonizing materials and colors to a point of supreme artistry not only in every room in every home, but in regard to exteriors as well.

THE OVER-ALL result is that each room in a Cinderella Home is not only cheerful but that it also gives an air of peace and warm restfulness. The exterior designs, in regard to color, are not only individually beautiful, but each home is color coordinated in harmony with all neighboring homes so that the total appearance of the development is singularly attractive.

The many comfort-convenience extras of Cinderella Homes have great appeal to both men and women . . . to name a few there are central hall plans, see-thru-serve-thru shuttered window between kitchen and living room, large walk-in lighted wardrobe closets, two full bathrooms, direct entry from kitchen to garage, and loads of extra storage space in garages.

• • • •

CINDERELLA HOMES are priced at $14,890 to $16,250, with monthly terms to veterans from $73.98 per month including principal and interest, and low FHA terms to anyone.

The four furnished models may be seen by going out the Santa Ana Freeway to Hwy. 39 in Buena Park. Continue south past Knott's Berry Farm to the models, one-quarter mile south of Orange Ave. From Long Beach drive east on Carson St., turn south on Hwy. 39 to models, one-quarter mile south of Orange Ave.

New Prudential Models Drawing Much Attention

Tremendous interest accorded the new Prudential Homes' models by the many homeseekers attending special pre-view showings has resulted in a substantial number of early purchases at the East Anaheim community, according to M. D. Mitchell, general manager of the building organization.

The new Prudential offerings are typical of the care and planning evidenced throughout the entire development, agents say. Each model features an exclusive care-free kitchen and has 3 or 4 bedrooms with 2 or 2½ baths in an individually different floor plan.

For example, in the model the "Westerner," are found such desirable advantages as a sunken living room. Especially attractive is the massive raised hearth red brick fireplace. Adaptable, too, is the large family room equipped with built-in table height food bar and handy kitchen pass through. This room also features a wall of glass with sliding doors opening directly to the oversize covered patio. In addition there are two other patios and a porch which help to make it ideal for outdoor fun.

• • • • •

THE "COUNTRY BELLE" has a sunken living room which is cathedral-like in both design and dimension.

Authentic Eastern propriety is the theme of the split-level "Tiara" model. In its first level are kitchen, dining room, front entry and living room complete with a classic corner fireplace and exquisite exposed beam ceiling. A staircase leads to the Tiara's second level. Here are found the all-purpose room, 3 bedrooms and 2 baths.

Prudential model homes are all on display from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily. To view these dwellings drive out to the development on LaPalma just east of Placentia.

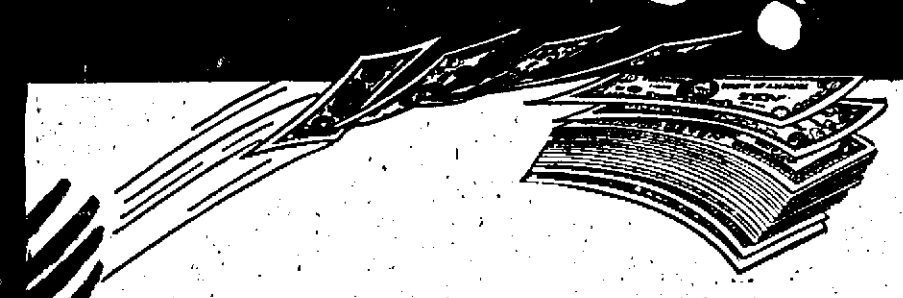

A PRUDENTIAL OFFERING

The rendering above captures much of the charm found in the versatile family room of Prudential's "Westerner" model home. Sliding glass doors open directly to the oversized covered patio. Visible at left is an unusual table-height food bar with pass through to the kitchen.

Throw away $1,100?

Note: all exterior designs and floor plans have been copyrighted by Vandruff Homes, Inc., Anaheim, California.

Since the land was bought and the contracts let for the present CINDERELLA HOMES project, the following has happened:

1. LAND PRICES have risen 10% to 25%.
2. CONSTRUCTION LABOR COSTS have risen 12%.
3. MATERIAL COSTS have risen 4½%.
4. LAND IMPROVEMENT COSTS (streets, sewers, etc.) have risen greatly.
5. FINANCING COSTS will be considerably higher next year.

THEREFORE when Cinderella Homes starts it next home building project in the spring, the same identical homes that are currently available will have to sell for $1,000.00 to $1,300.00 more.

SO IF your dream has been a CINDERELLA HOME NOW is the time to buy it and save $1,000.00 to $1,300.00*

 You will make an actual total saving of many thousands of dollars more, for these are the famous homes appraised by building authorities as being "The Homes with the $23,000 Look"*

Now selling at $14,890 to $16,250

HOW TO GO: Santa Ana Freeway to Hwy. 39. . . . turn South (right) and go past Knott's Berry Farm to Subdivision (¼ mile So. of Orange Ave.) From Long Beach go east on Carson St. (which becomes Lincoln Ave.) and go South on Hwy. 39.

Stubborn Santa Ana Disc Jockey Keeps Phoning; Elvis Won't Reply

SANTA ANA—Disc Jockey Jack Warren figures Elvis (The Pelvis) Presley can't lose. Warren, at the request of thousands of teenage Presley fans, has tried to speak to the rock 'n' roll idol 35 times since Jan. 1 but without success.

And the kids are sore at Warren but not at Presley and associates for ignoring Warren's requests.

"The whole thing began when kids phoned in asking me to get Elvis to say something to them via telephone for broadcast," Warren said. "So, on New Year's Day I made the first call to him at RCA in New York. This call and all those that followed were made during broadcasts, and the kids were listening in.

"It's amazing—I was rebuffed then and have been from then on, and the kids blame me instead of Presley's crew. They tell me I should have tried harder — should have argued more. It's all my fault, they tell me. I guess I can't win."

WARREN, WHO broadcasts over station KWIZ, said he made the New York call and was told by a switchboard operator, "now why would he want to talk to you? I don't even know where Santa Ana is, and I bet he doesn't either."

Warren redoubled his efforts after that, usually following suggestions from his fans of "The Elvis Presley Hour," his nightly show. One call went to Presley's home in Memphis, Tenn., but was intercepted by a hireling before Warren could speak to the sideburn youth.

"When Presley and his manager, Col. Parker came to Hollywood only 40 miles away, I figured I'd reach him," Warren said. "I kept calling the Hollywood Knickerbocker and Paramount but without success. Always a brushoff—and always the kids listening and telling me to try harder.

"I spoke to a guy named Diskin, and he promised to send me a telegram from Elvis. I told him all I wanted was a short telephone interview or even a taped interview. He said, 'thanks—I'll tell Elvis you called, and we'll send you a telegram.'

"He never did send me a telegram, so I took down Elvis' picture from the studio wall. When I next spoke to Diskin—about two weeks ago—he was shocked when he heard about the picture business. Said he'd lost my address and that they'd been awfully busy. I figured Diskin, Parker and Presley weren't interested enough in our kids to say hello to them."

Warren, a local boy who returned to the Los Angeles area six months ago after working in radio and TV for four years at Salt Lake City, Utah, plays Presley records because listeners ask for them.

"I prefer contemporaries like Billy May," he said. "I also like Stan Kenton, Benny Goodman, Jimmie Lunceford and others in their group. Rock 'n' roll isn't exciting to me. I'll tap my foot a little, but that's all. I guess Presley's magnetic, but I'm not a fanatic about him."

Warren's plans are unchanged. Monday he'll make the usual afternoon call to Paramount to try to reach Presley and then an evening call to the hotel.

"The kids expect it," he said. "Besides, know what Diskin said to me? He told me, 'now keep in touch with us.' How about that?"

HOW TO Do Better Work with Drill Press, Using Metal or Wood Materials

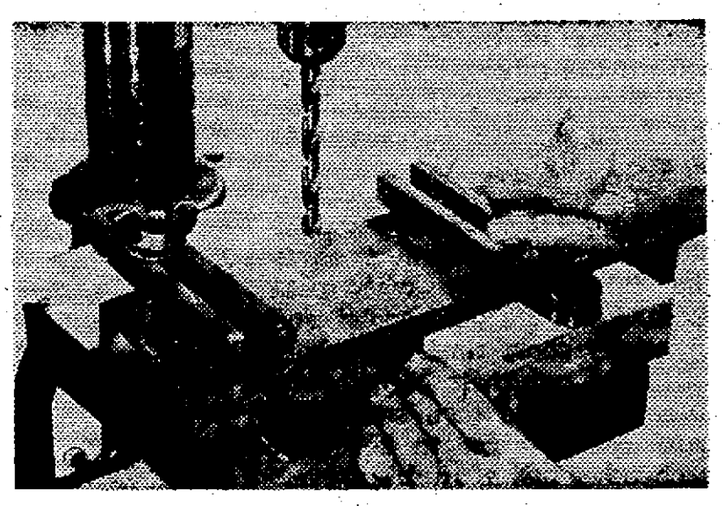

1. CENTER-PUNCH before starting to drill at point where scribed lines intersect.

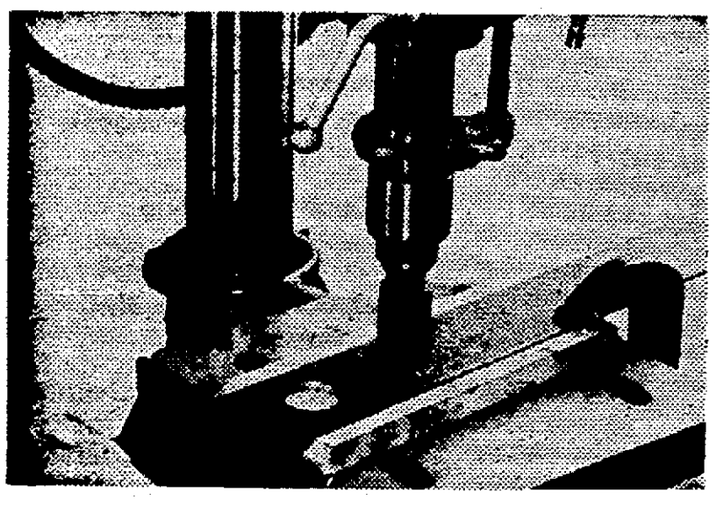

2. AVOID "SPRINGING" thin metal with drill pressure. V-support easily adjusts to support the work on both sides of and close to the drilling.

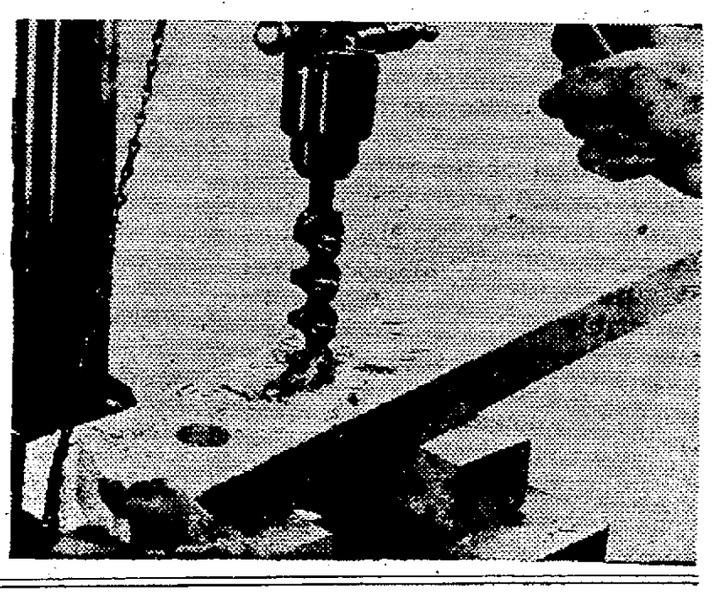

3. ROUND PIPES, rods, bars, shafts held in V of V-block, clamped with U-clamps, are easy to hold. Center-punching is a necessity. The clamps must be kept tight.

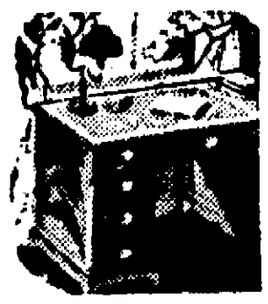

4. U-CLAMPS, HOLDING channel iron here, are adaptable to many shapes of materials; can be made of ⅜-¾-inch mild steel. Wing nuts on bolts in T-slots make them easy to use.

5. LARGE HOLES through thin metal are easily made with a hole saw. Use block of wood to back it up. Very thin metal may need wood on both sides to prevent wrinkling.

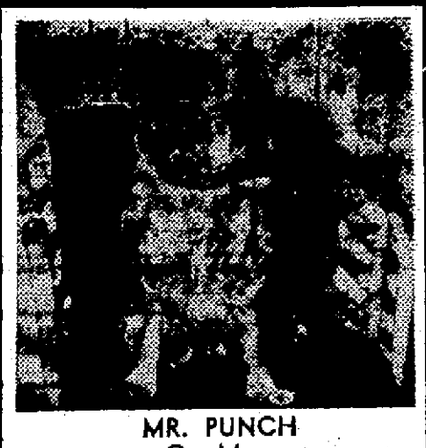

6. MACHINE AUGER bits must run at low speeds. Best is 350-600 rpm. Higher speeds may burn bit. Decrease pressure on drill as bit breaks through to prevent splintering.

Those Foolproof Dahlias Are a Joy

By David I. Gilfillan

Proper care and planting of dahlia tubers results in prize blooms like this.

WE ARE NOW near the end of the bare-root planting season and while I have no intention of discussing further the planting or care of bare-root stock, I do want to urge each one of you to complete this phase of gardening immediately.

Most local nurseries are offering very attractive specials on all bare-root stock this week. Check the ads in today's garden section, take advantage of the many specials and be sure to tell your nurseryman that you saw his ad in the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Today I want to pass along a few suggestions on what should be done in the garden this week. The important thing in local gardening is being on schedule with your garden chores. This is the only way by which you can have an attractive garden.

If you were growing dahlias last year and you have not yet dug up and taken care of the old clumps, do so this week. Dig up the entire clump, being sure that you don't cut into the tubers with your spade. Using a good force of water, wash the soil off the tubers, inspect them and discard any that are suffering from disease (usually rot) or are badly injured.

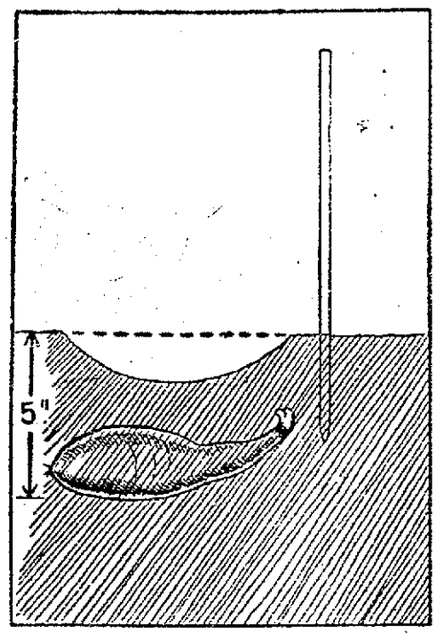

FOLLOWING THIS, place the clump in a regular lug, cover the tubers lightly with peat moss, keep the peat moist and in a very short time the tubers will send out their new shoots. The tubers are then separated, care being taken to see that each tuber has a shoot or "eye." A tuber without an eye is absolutely worthless.

After the dahlias have been dug up and taken care of, the dahlia bed should be prepared, ready for replanting. In preparing the soil, be careful regarding the over-use of manures of any type. Too much manure in the soil will cause the tubers to rot.

Bone meal at the rate of six pounds to 100 sq. ft. along with organic fertilizer four pounds to 100 sq. ft. will give good results. Be sure to mix these products thoroughly with the soil. If you have a very heavy soil, dust the area to be planted with gypsum, using three pounds to 100 sq. ft. All of these products are applied at the same time and turned under the full depth of the spade.

DAHLIA TUBERS should be planted about five inches deep, the tuber being placed flat in the bottom of the hole. In order to eliminate the possibility of injuring the tuber after it has started growing, it is a good idea to set your supporting stake in place at the time of planting. Cover the tuber with three inches of soil, filling in the depression once the new growth is above the surface of the bed.

Give the tubers a good soaking immediately after planting, then water only as the soil begins to dry out. Don't keep the soil continually wet. If you do, the tubers may rot. You will notice that because of the frequent watering, the soil will form a surface crust. Be sure to break this up to allow for proper aeration, being careful that you don't break off the new growth as you do your cultivating.

Plant dahlia tubers five inches deep. Place stake at time tuber is planted.

With the many wonderful new varieties in dahlias now available at all nurseries, be sure and add a few of these foolproof plants to your present collection.

IN PLANTING your dahlias, give them room enough to grow. The large exhibition types should be planted not closer than three feet apart.

If you are in the process of landscaping your home, do as much of the heavy work as possible before we get into the hot summer weather. Your nurseryman has a complete selection of shrubs and trees in gallon and five-gallon containers and by planting now, the shrubs should be well established before the hot weather rolls around.

As you plan your landscaping, keep in mind that the main reason for landscaping is to break

Five Larwin Homes Remain to Sell

There are only five homes left to be sold at the Larwin Co. prize winning development, Town and Country Square, Miller and Crescent in Buena Park, according to company spokesmen. Salesmen say these last homes, still available at 1956 terms and prices, represent the "best buy" value-wise homeseekers now have the chance to make in this area.

The homes are beautifully appointed models with 3 bedrooms and "Jack and Jill" room, 3 bedrooms with den, and 3 bedrooms with family room, each with 2 baths and oversized 2-car garage.

Size, and the thoughtful arrangement of the rooms, are but two of their main attractions. In some of the plans bedrooms can be converted into dens, dens into playrooms and playrooms into huge areas for entertaining. In other plans, there is a den that becomes a full dining room or private retreat simply by opening or closing the handsome folding doors.

• • • •

THE "JACK AND JILL" room has a sliding door to an adjoining bedroom which provides either a huge playroom-bedroom area or two entirely separate bedrooms.

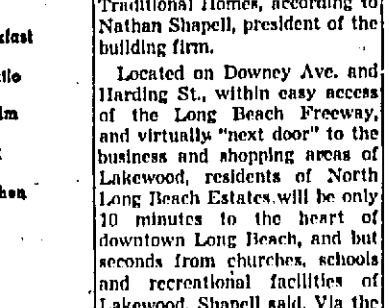

Living rooms, with colorful dramatic fireplaces, have walls of sliding glass up to 24 feet long, leading to broad terraced patios with built-in luau-type barbecues.

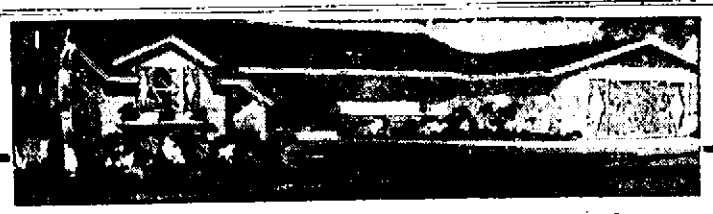

Model homes are reached by driving east on Carson St. and turning north on Miller to Crescent.

Dutch Haven Half Sold Ahead of Grand Opening

Two weeks before its grand opening, Dutch Haven Homes in Anaheim are half sold out, reports William Lyon, executive officer of Luxury Homes, Inc., builders.

Last weekend two model homes were opened for preview inspection. Before the weekend was over, 28 homes had been sold. "The unprecedented response to Dutch Haven Homes is not surprising to us," said Lyon. "Luxury Homes, Inc., are the first builders in Southern California to construct a luxury type home in the $10,000 price range."

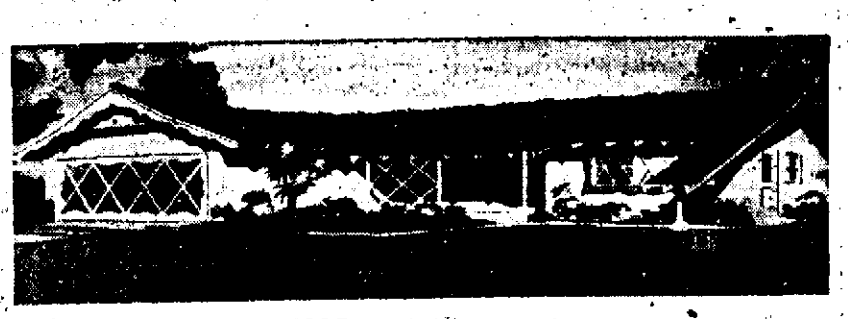

Dutch Haven offers the buyer 3 and 4 bedrooms and 1, 1½ and 2 baths. Homes are priced from $10,500 to $11,995, and monthly payments are from $52.51 per month for principal and interest.

• • • •

A VET MAY BUY at Dutch Haven for as little as $225 down, plus cost and impounds. A Cal-Vet may secure a 3 per cent 20-year loan, and all buyers may avail themselves of an FHA long-term, government guaranteed loan with only 10 per cent down, explained the builder.

A buyer has his choice of four functional floor plans and 9 styled exterior designs.

Included among the features are sheer sliding walls of glass; conventionally-constructed 3-bedroom, 2-bath, 2-car garage residences from only $16,650, and on payments from $83.28 that include principal and interest. Veterans need only a minimum down on 29½-year loans, and nonveterans can buy on excellent terms."

IN $10,000 PRICE RANGE
Typical of the styling of Dutch Haven Homes is the model shown. The development, located at Gilbert St. near Ball Rd. in Anaheim, is priced from $10,500 and offers terms to veterans of $225 down, $62.51 per month.

North L. B. Homes Open

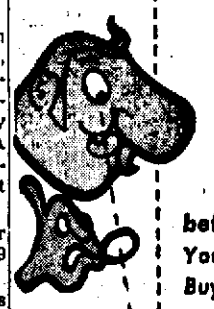

This week-end marks the first public showing of North Long Beach Estates, S. and S. Construction Co.'s newest community of large-family California Traditional Homes, according to Nathan Shapell, president of the building firm.

Located on Downey Ave. and Harding St., within easy access of the Long Beach Freeway, and virtually "next door" to the business and shopping areas of Lakewood, residents of North Long Beach Estates will be only 10 minutes to the heart of downtown Long Beach, and but seconds from churches, schools and recreational facilities of Lakewood, Shapell said. Via the freeway, metropolitan Los Angeles is an easy 20-minute drive, he added.

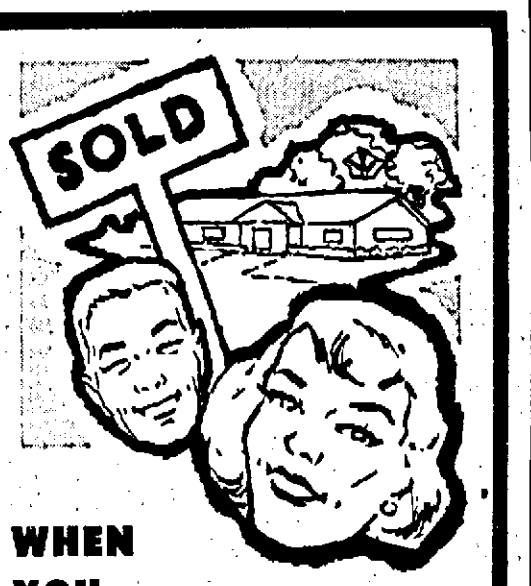

Pointing out that the Southern California area is fast "running out" of good, close-in residential acreage, Shapell explained that land on which North Long Beach Estates will rise was purchased several years ago, before land values reached their present high.

"That is why," he continued, "we can offer these fine, con-

will the price be right?
It can be right — if your home has been well built and offers legitimate value to another buyer. It is always how well built a home may be that determines what you can get for it. If your walls and ceilings are of Genuine lath and plaster construction, then you can be sure of the highest appraisal — for more than you could get for a home built with substitute materials.
This is because walls and ceilings of Genuine lath and plaster are more durable than others — fireproof, soundproof, and most easily refinished to look fresh, beautiful and new.

Service-Pay Advisers to Report Soon

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The Cordiner Committee will meet at the Defense Department this week to try and reach final agreement on a revolutionary military-pay-increase plan.

The plan calls for higher pay based on skills rather than length of service. It would cost almost $600 million a year at the outset but heads of the armed services believe it will bring tremendous savings with less manpower in the future.

* * * *

THE COMMITTEE is headed by Ralph J. Cordiner, president of General Electric Co. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson asked the members to investigate military pay scales and report to him next month.

The report is near completion but several problems still must be ironed out.

The influential Army Navy Air Force Journal said Saturday the report will enable defense officials to present legislative recommendations to the Senate and House Armed Services Committees by mid-March.

THE PROGRAM is designed to make military service more attractive. It would tend to weed out "goldbrickers" and other less ambitious types and pay premiums to those who want to make military service a career.

Clivias Are a Flame in the Garden

By Bob Gilmore

Clivias do well in shade, the orange-red blooms appearing flame-like above the dark-toned greenery.

ONE OF THE MOST brilliant flowers in the plant world is the clivia. The dazzling orange-red blooms will highlight your garden scene, brightening up even the darkest corners. The clivia actually thrives in the shade, a location where it shows off to the best advantage.

A rather interesting characteristic of the clivia is that it enjoys being crowded. Plants grown in containers should be allowed to become potbound. As the plants develop they need not be shifted to increasingly larger-sized pots. They prefer a fairly rich soil.

THE CLIVIA, often referred to as a dual purpose plant, can be grown either outdoors in the shade or potted up for the conservatory or patio. The flowers, characterized by their flame-like appearance, grow to a height of about 18 inches. The stems are stiff and fairly erect.

Clivias must have adequate drainage as the plants are heavy drinkers. Heavy, water-logged soil may turn sour. Adobe or clay soils can be conditioned by adding humus which improves porosity, aeration and general growing conditions. For pot culture use a soil mixture of light loam plus sand and either leaf mold or peat; American peat will undoubtedly show a higher nitrogen content than the imports.

HOW HEALTHY your clivias are can be determined by the condition of the foliage. Leaves that have a lush green appearance will indicate a healthy plant; but yellowing of the foliage means that something is wrong. Frequently lack of moisture will be responsible for this symptom. Apply sufficient water so the moisture gets down to the root zone.

Clivias seem to prosper when grown by themselves in a more or less isolated location. It is best not to disturb them but, if necessary, divisions can be made during the spring season.

Potted clivias can be fertilized easily by applying liquid plant food. Use a well balanced mixture, one that is strong in the basic elements of nitrogen, phosphorous and potash. Nitrogen is beneficial in promoting leaf and stem growth; phosphorous hastens maturity and stimulates root growth while potash strengthens stem and leaf sections and tends to improve the coloring and quality of the flowers.

IN THE OPEN garden either liquid plant food or one of the commercial dry foods may be used. If the latter is utilized, try to keep the particles off the leaves as they have a burning action. Should the plant food alight on the plant be sure to wash the entire plant immediately; this step avoiding damage from burning.

Clivias are usually sold by nurserymen in pots. The stock now being offered is greatly improved to the clivias of 10 or 15 years ago. Certain California nurserymen have improved the strain and the coloring is deeper, the leaves more robust.

Club Speaker

Dorothy Johnson, whose column "Dorothy Digs in the Garden" appears in the Southland magazine, will address the Lakewood Garden Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Cross Roads Community Church, 5420 Clark Ave., Lakewood. Her subject will be "Problems of Western Gardens." Mrs. Johnson's talk will be based on her 20 years experience as a garden consultant, columnist, author and guest lecturer on Western and Southwestern gardens. Mrs. Betty White, 6116 Seaborn St., Lakewood, Garden Club program chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

Foolproof Dahlias

down the acute appearance between the house and the grounds and that the material used should slope from the house down to the street.

With this in mind, be sure that the shrubs or trees you plant have a reason for being there. The most common mistake along this line with home gardeners is the planting of shade trees on the front lawn. If there is a reason for the tree being there, by all means have it, but don't follow this custom just because your neighbor has done so. Next week I will have more for you on this subject, suggesting the best shrubs and trees to use in local gardens.

DON'T FORGET DEPT. . . . Don't forget to apply PAX to your lawn now if you were troubled with crabgrass last summer . . . Don't forget to get all flower beds ready for planting for summer color. Steer manure, organic fertilizer and bonemeal will produce excellent results . . . Don't forget to give your roses a little bloodmeal along with the special rose food on the first feeding. This will give them the boost they require as they go into a new reason of growth . . . Don't forget Southland's garden section next Sunday and don't forget that the man who goes to church on Sunday will enjoy his garden better on Monday.

This is the time to begin preparing your soil where you're going to plant dahlias, chrysanthemums and all the late blooming plants which do not actually go into the ground for another couple of months. Spade barnyard manure into the soil so that it has plenty of time to decompose, and a little bone meal, which requires considerable time to begin to work.

I always use soil sulphur (2½ to 3 lbs.) in soil I'm going to prepare ahead of time. Then it is best to spade it in at least a little, so that it becomes an actual part of your soil structure. Soil sulphur impregnated in the soil begins to release minute quantities of sulphuric acid and, through a phase of decomposition that takes place, the sulphuric acid becomes the working element that releases various trace elements.

Camellias Bloom

With bright, spring weather, camellias burst into bloom last week in the five-acre camellia garden at the Huntington Gardens, San Marino. More than 1,000 named varieties there bloom in February and March.

An excellent way to get to the Huntington Gardens from Long Beach is Atlantic to California, in Pasadena turn right to Allen, and then down Allen to the Gardens.

La Mar Terrace announced new financing terms where anyone may move in with absolutely nothing down, except the usual costs and impounds.

These unusual ranch type homes have many modern features such as the new style Frigidaire hide-away electric range, built-in oven and breakfast bar that save many steps when feeding the children.

These 3 and 4-bedroom homes have 2 baths and each has custom built parquet flooring.

To reach La Mar Terrace from Long Beach drive out either Carson or 7th St. to Gilbert Ave. in Garden Grove and turn left (north) directly to model homes at La Palma.

• • • •

DESIGNED FOR luxury living, the homes are priced from $15,750 to $16,250.

La Mar Terrace is in the heart of a new, modern and fast-growing community. A new multimillion-dollar shopping center is just minutes away. Orange County parks and beaches, nearby, provide wholesome recreation for families.

There are 19 designs from which to select a home. Each has 630 cubic feet of storage space in the house and the 2-car garages have large storage racks.

IN FOOTHILLS

The above typifies the many-styled estate-class homes rising in Sun Gold Hills at Santa Gertrudes and Janine Aves., in the foothill area east of Whittier. Homesites also are available.

VA Terms Still Available on Some Sun Gold Homes

Announcement that only a limited number of homes may still be bought on VA terms has increased crowds at Sun Gold Hills, it was reported Saturday by Robert H. Walter, president, Sun Gold, Inc., developers of the community in the east Whittier area.

Qualified vets still may have a choice of many stylings, however, according to sales manager Robert H. Smith, who said vets' terms are approximately 10 per cent down.

For non-vets terms are approximately 25 per cent down, Smith added. The homes are priced from $19,500, with low FHA monthly payments. Smith said the current homes are in the fifth and final unit at Sun Gold Hills.

• • • •

MODEL HOMES are on view near Santa Gertrudes and Janine Aves., north of Whittier Blvd., in the scenic foothill section. Stylings throughout the community are widely diversified, with 56 different designs available, and no more than three homes of a kind built in each one hundred.

The Sun Gold Hills homes feature large floor-to-ceiling windows, huge fireplaces, built-in barbecues, New Freedom gas kitchens with automatic appliances, forced air heating, and in some baths, walls of mirrors.

Interest in Sun Gold Hills is also stimulated, officials said, by the availability of a limited number of choice homesites at prices ranging from $7,500 to $10,000.

The lots vary widely in location and size, it was stated, running from 90 feet by 120 feet up to full acres. The acres sell for as little as $8,900 and may be bought on terms with 25 per cent down.

Group Will Hear Dorrance Henion

The Long Beach Chapter of the Systems and Procedures Assn. will have as their guest speaker Feb. 27, at the Hawaiian Restaurant, Dorrance D. Henion, manager of the management services department of Ernst & Ernst. Henion will speak on "Better Communication With Management." In addition to his management and accounting qualifications, he is also a journeyman machinist.

Just $95 Needed on Homes

Financing arrangements for non-veterans that places total "move-in" terms at just $95 without costs or impounds, are still available on the remaining homes in Ellanbee Manor, according to Frank H. McFarland, sales agent for the Laramore development near Garden Grove.

"The few remaining 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes in Ellanbee Manor are expected to go fast," McFarland stated, "and these exceptionally liberal terms can be assured on only the homes now available." With over 1,300 square feet of living space designed around a work-saving central hall plan, the large homes are proving particularly attractive to large and growing families, he added.

The homes have been so well received that sales are a full two months ahead of schedule, and the development is predicted to be sold out soon.

MEN LIKE the extra spacious garages that offer work space, and the solid conventional construction that requires a minimum of maintenance and upkeep, salesmen say.

Women are pleased with the all-gas kitchens, which are large enough to provide breakfast space for the entire family in addition too the roomy dining area.

To see these homes, from Long Beach drive east on 7th St. Turn south on Horbor Blvd. to Westminster and west to Newhope and south again to the models.

WANT TO PLUG A SONG?

Tin-Pan Alley Grad Teaches

By BOB HOUSER

Back in the days when singer Tony Martin was being thrown out of every movie studio on the street, he usually bounced against a peppery, gabby little guy named Jack Stern.

Stern was a bruise-proof, pocket-sized Gibraltar who has spent his life changing experts' minds about songs and singers.

In a quaint Alley known as Tin-Pan, Jack Stern was known as a song plugger. He may be one of the last of the vanishing legion of piano-thrumping troubadors who plugged songs when it had to be done "by hand."

Nowadays, the song-plugger is a suave, high-class, sophisticated con man who pitches new tunes over television and radio interviews. Back in the old days, the song-plugger was a leather-lunged, dynamic, persistent con man who perhaps stepped over the seals backstage, tipped the doorman 50 cents and talked the ears off the "main act" to get to try "my new song."

Well, Jack Stern's life and the people in it are the stuff movies are made of. In fact he pounded out tunes for the greatest show biz names of the half-century. They taught him his current profession—how to sell a song in the singing.

* * * *

NOW JACK STERN is a vocal coach. He takes the voice somebody else has built and teaches its owner how to put the song across.

Long Beach voice builder Douglas Steade, 3843 E. Broadway, an old friend of Stern, saw in a twinkling one recent day how Jack's specialty might be a valuable adjunct to his own.

Now Stern is conducting a series of song-selling sessions in the Steade Studio.

This business of making a good voice a commercial success is indefinable, Stern admits. It's easier to cite examples of expert song-sellers. Best male, says he, are Sinatra and Como; female, Patti Page and Doris Day.

An example of a good voice with no idea of how to sell a song, says the expert, is Eddie Fisher. Stern says Bing Crosby was the father of song-selling technique but lately, by his own admission, has lost the thrill of doing it.

"You know who Cole Porter wrote the song, 'Night and Day' for?" Stern asks. "It was for Fred Astaire. He did it in 'Gay Divorcee.' He never hit the note, but what a salesman he is with a song."

* * * *

STERN WAS an associate of Irving Berlin for about 22 years. "That made song-plugging easier but it was still hard work to get the big vaudeville names to even listen to a publisher's new stuff. They were going well with their acts — why should they take a chance with a new thing.

"It was hard. We'd get Al Jolson into a room and sing the song for him. We have to do each song in the manner of the artist we were pitching to. When we sang for Cantor, we'd give it this treatment (he did the Cantor clap-hands gesture)."

Stern rehearsed Irving Berlin scores through the years, accompanying such people as Grace Moore through numbers like "All Alone," and "What'll I Do?" As he recalled, he sang a bar or two from the songs.

The score of a 1935 movie, "Follies Bergere," was scored by Stern. In later years he scored a 15-episode series of Hopalong Cassidy movies.

* * * *

WHAT DOES a singer do with his hands?

"Well, unless you feel it, don't do anything. If you have to do something, the best thing is to reach hard for the floor. One of the best men with hands is Sinatra. He has a wonderful sense of balance."

The hardest people to coach among singers are the good musicians, Stern says.

"They read the music note by note and sing it straight. They can't divorce themselves from the composer's notes to give the lyric timing and phrasing. They can't make themselves come in a beat early or a beat late. After all the written music is just a setting for the vocalist.

"You know this is why really good singers who used to sing with bands have had to get away from the bands. The rigid band accompaniment doesn't give the singer a chance to improvise."

TAKE IT FROM THE TOP

Mission to Italy Ends Thursday

ROME (U.P.)—The U. S. operations mission to Italy will end its activity next Thursday, U. S. Ambassador James D. Zellerbach announced.

The mission handled economic aid to Italy and is the successor to the original Marshal Plan and ECA. Future American economic co-operation activities in Rome will be under the supervision of the ambassador.

Japan Red Tape Delays Subway

TOKYO (AP)—Digging underground is easier than getting permission to do it, the Tokyo Subway Corp. says. Its application to build a four-mile subway has been stamped with 1,249 government seals.

"We were told that some 450 more seals are needed to clear it," an official sighed.

PENSION NEWS REPORT

A report on pension news from Sacramento and Washington will be made at the meeting of the California Institute of Social Welfare at 1:30 p.m. Monday in Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Franco Kicks Out Cabinet Members

MADRID (U.P.)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco has accepted the resignation of a number of his ministers and is considering the resignations of others in a sweeping cabinet reorganization, it was learned Saturday.

Ministers told friends that Franco instructed them Friday to place their resignations at his disposal and that a new era was about to begin in Spain.

There was no official confirmation, but reports of a reorganization in the 5½-year-old cabinet have been current for weeks. Ministers who have been dropped were reported to include Foreign Affairs Minister Alberto Martin Artajo and Labor Minister Antonio Giron.

Divers Work on Plane

SEOUL (Sunday) (AP) — U. S. Army divers and engineers sought today to lift a shattered Air Force transport from the icy Han River and determine finally how many of the 159 men believed aboard were killed in its death plunge Friday.

With 134 accounted for as survivors, the toll may reach 25. Five bodies have been recovered. From 17 to 20 men are missing and feared dead.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Explosion and fire wrecked a four-story apartment building early Saturday, burning two women seriously and sending dozens of residents fleeing into the rainy night.

Smoke clouds shot hundreds of feet into the air from the burning structure at 4015 Melrose Ave. Ellen Thurman, 61, suffered a broken leg when she jumped from a second story window. Mary Manning, 84, was burned on the face, forearms and back.

Names in the News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon Saturday broadened his African good will tour itinerary to include visits to Morocco, Libya and Tunisia and a three-day side trip to Rome, Italy. He leaves Feb. 28.

The White House announced the appointment of Dr. Robert H. Hamlin, of Brookline, Mass., to the newly created post of assistant to Secy. of Welfare Folsom. He will assist in developing department policies.

President Eisenhower sent a shipment of mycostatien, a new American "wonder drug" to West German President Theodor Heuss, who is suffering a severe attack of bronchitis.

New Soviet Air Chief

MOSCOW (U.P.)—Air Marshal Konstantin A. Vershinin has been named commander-in-chief of the Soviet Air Force succeeding Marshal Pavel F. Zhigarev, it was disclosed Saturday.

Police Raid Rebel Arsenal

HAVANA (U.P.) — Police and military intelligence officers forced their way into a boobytrapped rebel arsenal at a house in the suburb of Vedado Saturday and seized a quantity of arms and explosives.

Bandits Terrorize Mexicans

MEXICO CITY (U.P.)—The government was asked Saturday to end a "reign of terror" by bandits in Guanajuato and San Luis Potosi states.

Residents of the central Mexico states appealed to the army and the interior ministry to send troops to halt the armed band led by a Spaniard, Jesus Gonzalez Cazares.

CAMERA ANGLES

Stay Snap-Happy in '57

By the Shutterbug

IF YOU HAVEN'T made your picture-taking resolutions for 1957, here are 10 good ones to follow:

1. Keep your camera "snap-happy" with a semi-annual checkup and cleaning. Like your watch, it's a precision instrument that performs better when it's given a little extra care.

2. Always have a good supply of film and flash bulbs on hand, so you won't be caught short whenever a fine picture opportunity presents itself.

3. Keep your camera handy—and loaded—for shooting unplanned, unposed pictures wherever they happen on the home scene. These usually turn out to be the best shots of all!

4. Remember that flash is important to catch on-the-spot action indoors or after dark. Flash really puts your camera on a full-time working schedule!

5. Aim for simple pictures that tell their story clearly. Choose a single main point of interest and don't let a cluttered background vie with the subject for attention.

6. Make sure you have an interesting picture — one that shows your subject amid some activity he's interested in. This will prevent self-conscious poses and glazed expressions that so often spoil the effect you wanted to capture in your picture.

7. Remember that there's "safety in numbers," so shoot a series of pictures rather than a single one. You'll find a series of shots will do a better job of telling the whole story just as it happened.

8. File your negatives in a box or drawer specially set aside for them. They deserve extra good care because they can't be replaced the way prints can. Once lost, they're gone forever!

9. Make the most of your good pictures. Use them enlarged and framed to brighten your walls; mount them in albums or "remembrance books"; send extra prints to friends and relatives; let them serve as personal greeting cards for holidays and other special occasions.

10. Enclose snapshots in your letters. There's no better way of keeping far-off family members and friends in close touch than by a friendly exchange of pictures throughout the year.

LONG BEACH Camera Guild will have a field trip in the Long Beach harbor district March 3. Trip Chairman Floyd Williamson announces that prizes will be given to the three best dressed "characters," who will be used as models by members. There will be no travel program this week.

Members of the Guild whose slides were accepted by the Circle of Confusion were Virginia Callender, Gerald Church, Don Hayward, Esther Modern, John Scheurer, Neil Shipley, Glenn Sieben, Roy Simpson, Ilsa Stevens, Floyd Williamson. Elva Hayward, judge, did not enter slides in the competition, but four were shown.

TO BOTH PHOTOGRAPHERS and writers of technical books, the name of Jacob Deschin has become synonymous with top-grade work. One of the world's leading photographers, Deschin brings the skill of a professional writer to the field of technical publications and his latest effort in this field is "Canon Photography" (Camera Craft Pub. Co., $5.95), a book devoted to the Canon camera of Japanese make. In his usual thorough manner, Deschin has analyzed the Canon product, considering primarily the Canon IVS2 and V models, and has related all of its various parts and accessories before delving into a "Canon at Work" series. Chapters on flash, closeups, color and underwater photography discuss the use of the Canon in a broad variety of fields. The book is copiously illustrated from both American and Japanese sources and is adequately equipped with numerous tables. Owners of Canons will find this a complete manual of their cameras and photography students will find much information of use.

REALTY OFFICE OF WEEK

In this same location since 1937, Glen A. Gerken, whose office is honored this week by the Long Beach Board of Realtors, has been active in development of North Long Beach since 1923.

Glen Gerken Has Grown With North Long Beach

Honored for having the "Realty Office of the Week," as chosen by the Long Beach Board of Realtors, Glen A. Gerken, 6430 Long Beach Blvd., is one of the veterans in realty in the Southland.

He came to "Virginia City" as the North Long Beach area was known, in 1923. The Dairy Ave. tract was being subdivided and the only building on Long Beach Blvd. in the area was an open fruit stand on the corner of Plymouth St. There were few homes north of Wardlow Rd.

Some of his allied activities in the real estate field are: Appraising, savings and loan affiliation, building contractor, GI appraiser, and one of the organizers of the Pacific National Bank, 2200 Pacific Ave., now First Western Bank.

Gerken believes that every family should own their own home, and for an investment, a well-chosen piece of real estate may give them "independence throughout their lifetime.

Gerken is a past president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors and presently a member of the board of directors; a member and past president of the Long Beach Exchange Club; member of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, member Society of Residential Appraisers; Member of Mayor's and City Council Advisory Committee; member American Society of Appraisers; member executive committee of Goodwill Organization; chairman of board of trustees Starr King United Presbyterian Church; past president and director of Artesia St. and Long Beach Blvd. Improvement Assn.

Bracken to Speak to WIRE Club

Glenn R. Bracken, president of the Bracken Mortgage Co., 1833 American Ave., will speak on "Real Estate Finance", before members of the WIRE Club, composed of women in real estate, Tuesday night.

Bracken is a graduate of the California Institute of Technology and holds a Master's Degree in finance from Harvard. He has had many years experience in all phases of real estate finance and is currently conducting an evening course on this subject for UCLA.

This meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Sanders, 4601 Pine Ave. Non-members will attend by invitation.

MAMA HAD TO WAIT

Her first orchid corsage was received at age 10 by Forrest de Butts of "Squeaky Mesa" during her recent Long Beach visit. Wrote Forrest: "Mama was real old before she had an orchid corsage." Forrest raises an arm to display gift bracelet.—(Staff.)

FORREST LOVED IT HERE

Report From Squeaky Mesa

(Forrest wrote for a Malibu newspaper a lively account of how her 100 pets were endangered at "Squeaky Mesa."

(Then father Edward de Butts brought Forrest to Long Beach while he attended a convention here. Forrest's fame had preceded her. She was treated to such a round of hospitality that her first night away from home became even more memorable than the fire. Here are excerpts from her report to the Malibu Times.)

By FORREST DE BUTTS

Once I wrote in this column that I was never away from Squeaky Mesa all night in my whole life. It was true then. It is not true now. I have been away from Squeaky Mesa all night long.

I went with Papa to Long Beach. We stayed all night at the Wilton Hotel.

The Rural Lettercarriers Board was having a meeting. Papa said I could go with him.

Mama thought that was nice. She has been proud of me. The report card I got before the one I got day before yesterday had three A's on it. One of the A's was for paying attention and not talking all the time. That was the A Mama liked best.

SO MAMA wanted me to have a good time. She wrote to Miss Fern Madeiros at the Wilton Hotel. She didn't want me to pester Papa while he had his meeting. She asked Miss Madeiros what I could do that wouldn't cost too much. Because we are practically broke since the fire.

Miss Madeiros is a nice lady. She is also magic. She is also a millionaire. I guess. She wrote back to Mama and said I could come to the Wilton Hotel free. Because it was my first night away from home for all night long.

I was like the ladies on Queen for a Day. When we got to the hotel . . . Miss Madeiros came up. She brought scads of presents. All from people I didn't know, mind you. A lady named Mrs. Derrick sent some beautiful flowers. She has the flower shop right in the hotel. She gave me an orchid corsage also. This was my first corsage. Mama was real old before she had an orchid corsage. She was real old before she even saw an orchid, she said.

. . . One box with presents was a big surprise to me. It was from Sears and Roebuck in Long Beach. Mama and Papa get things from Sears and Roebuck in Santa Monica. Papa said the Santa Monica store never has to pay any income tax, because for 10 years Papa has paid it every year. I think this is a joke.

MISS MADEIROS brought Mr. John Neagel (I, P-T staff photographer John H. Neagle) to our room and he went to Nu-Pike with us. He is a newspaper person like me so he took some pictures. One was in his paper, called the Independent, Press-Telegram.

(Forrest's report showed a whirl of pleasure at the Nu-Pike, a free movie and "all the free candy I wanted" at United Artists Theater, a ride the next day as guest of Capt. Charley Stillwell on the cruise ship Shearwater.)

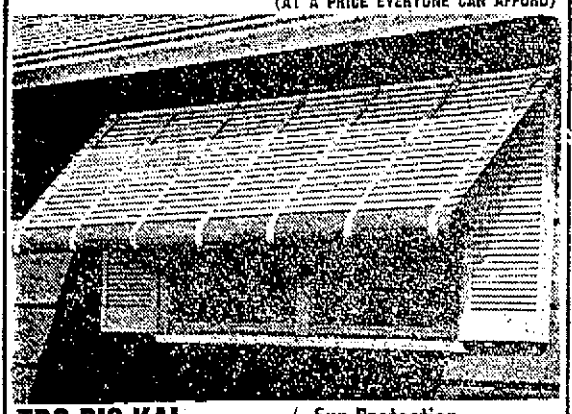

Then we went back to the hotel. We said thank you and goodby and came home to Squeaky Mesa.

The very next day we got our report cards. Those things I got an A on before were B's.

I keep thinking that maybe if we had gotten our report cards sooner Mama might not have written to Miss Fern Madeiros. I guess if God wants you to get to go to Long Beach He will plan things so you can.

PET PARADE

Country Hinny Who's Hep

By Eleanor Avery Price

JODIE BLONDE is a star performer in the animal section of Smoke Tree Ranch in the Palm Springs desert. She is a 9-year-old hinny or hybrid between a stallion and a burro—a rare pet.

Jodie Blonde is exceptionally intelligent, is highly trained and can perform numerous tricks such as pivoting on a stump, waltzing in perfect mechanical rhythm, and other stunts, and she has a terrific neck rein.

This interesting animal lives on a big Palm Springs "spread" called Smoke Tree Ranch which is owned and operated by Eva and Ken Johnson. If you are a lover of equines in any form, you will enjoy a Sunday visit to this top ranch, for besides the hinny the Johnsons own about 90 fine saddle horses, more than 50 burros, a number of mules, and they have 40 boarding horses. They also own another very special little pet, a dwarf burro named Annie Busch after the Anheuser Busch brewing family in St. Louis from whom she was obtained.

Although thousands of visitors to Palm Springs now ride Ken Johnson's famous burro trains and saddle horses into the various desert and mountain scenic spots, the Smoke Tree Ranch had a modest beginning just a few years ago.

JOHNSON, WHO WAS recuperating from pneumonia, hired two burros and he and his wife rode up into Tahquitz Canyon. Intrigued, Ken rode again the next day, this time alone. When he returned he was so highly respectful of the patient, sturdy little desert burro that he announced to Eva that he wanted to start a burro train. From this he branched also into a fine riding stable. He even added a shop for visitors seeking western gear and the like.

Smoke Tree Ranch is located on the south side of Palm Springs about one mile east of Palm Canyon Dr. junction on State Hwy. 111.

FOR THE BENEFIT of dog-owners planning to travel "south of the border," the Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park Ave., New York 17, N. Y., has compiled a special list of Mexican hotels and motor courts that accept guests with dogs. A copy may be had without cost.

SINCE SUCH a large number of children (ages 8 to 14) turned out with their dogs for the six-week free dog training class at Mayfair Park in Lakewood, a new class will start on Saturday, March 2, at 2 p.m. A parent must accompany each child.

Jodie Blonde, a hinny, goes through her tricks led by Ken Johnson, her owner. Jodie Blonde is well-educated.

Report Good Sales Rush in Country Club Estates

More than half of Unit 1 of George J. Heltzer's Country Club Estates, 9th and Katella, in the Anaheim-Garden Grove area, sold in the first three weeks after the grand opening, according to David R. Berman, construction firm executive.

Winning praise from the thousands of visitors, Berman reports, are the seven model homes furnished by C. Tony Pereira, which show the more than 76 special features of these quality-built homes, each with a spacious family room and kitchen area, some up to 27 feet long, living rooms up to 24 feet long and extra large bedrooms.

• • • •

CONVENTIONALLY constructed on sites a quarter-of-an-acre or more, some with 70-foot frontage, Country Club Estates have 3 and 4 bedroms, 2 full baths and oversized attached or detached 2-car garage, available in a choice of 17 floor plans and 31 varied Conventional and Contemporary Modern exterior stylings.

An added big attraction are the full-grown orange trees in each large patio garden.

• • • •

THE BUILT-IN equipment in the completely color-coordinated kitchens includes a deluxe Western-Holly double oven with rotisserie; rangetop; and large, quiet, fully-automatic, built-in dishwasher designed by Waste King. Buyers who purchase their homes before completion may, if desired, have all-electric built-in range and oven instead of gas appliances.

Impressive fireplaces of stone or used brick, many with copper hoods and planters in raised hearths, dominate living rooms with sliding glass walls to covered concrete terraces and large patios for outdoor entertaining.

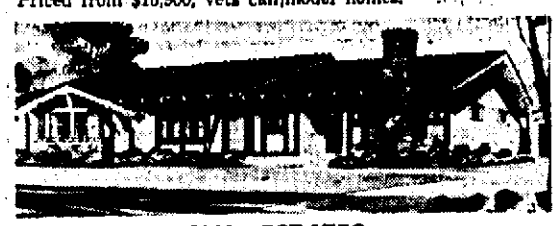

• • • •

DENS, COMPLETELY panelled with ash hardwood, are separated from living rooms by sliding Soji panels, and family rooms are closed off from kitchens by folding walls.

Each home has a built-in intercom music-and-speaker system with "baby monitor," acoustical ceilings, hardwood floors and forced-air heating.

Priced from $16,900, vets can buy with a low down payment plus closing costs and impounds, reports Frank Chandler of Walker and Lee, sales agents.

To visit Country Club Estates from Long Beach, take 7th St., turn north at Stanton (Hwy. 39) to Katella, and east to model homes.

IN COUNTRY CLUB ESTATES

Here is a typical Provincial-styled large three-bedroom residence with two full baths, living room and family room, at George J. Heltzer and Associates new Quality-Built development at 9th and Katella in the Anaheim-Garden Grove area near Disneyland.

IN INSURANCE CIRCLES

One Company Changing Structure of Rate Prices

By WALTER POLAK

A new price structure in which rates on all life insurance will be keyed to the size of the policy was announced recently by the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.

The firm is the nation's first major life insurance company to apply the graded-by-size principle of an "across the board" basis. The quantity-earned savings on premiums became available Jan. 1, according to Fred Keeler, local Northwestern Mutual manager.

In 1957, the company estimates it will pay total dividends of $66.7 million. This is an increase of $5 million, or 8 per cent over the $61.7 million paid in 1956. Half of the increase, will be due to the larger volume of business in force and half to the new dividend scale, Keeler said.

• • • •

NAMED MANAGER

Bryant M. Sells, CLU, has been appointed agency manager for the Continental Assurance Co. in the Long Beach area. His agency will be in the Jergins Trust Building.

Formerly a Florida resident, Sells came to Long Beach in 1947. A former newspaperman, he once played leading roles in summer stock with the Helen Hayes Theater Group.

• • • •

SALESMAN HONORED

John H. Baird, 4559 Knoxville Ave., was nationally honored in being named to the President's Club for New Organization of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. In recognition of his sales performance, he attended a three-day conference at the company's home office in Philadelphia where he was honored in a special ceremony by Malcolm Adam, president. Baird is a member of the James E. Miller Agency, Security Bldg.

• • • •

VISITS HOME OFFICE

Hal R. Shattuck of Long Beach was one of 29 general agency representatives of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. who recently completed an intensive course at the company's home office in Boston. He is a member of the Ray J. Havert General Agency in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Shattuck and son, Gary, make their home at 427 44th Way.

• • • •

RECORDS FALL

New records in almost every phase of operation are cited in the 111th annual report of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., released by C. Carter Schneider, general agent for Long Beach.

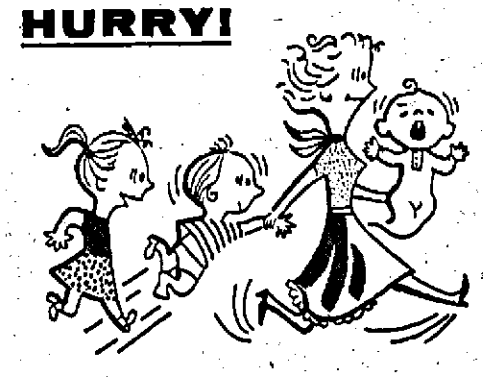

For the 7th consecutive year the company reported a new all-time record in paid volume. Life insurance sales during 1956 totaled $430 million, up $25 million over the previous year. Total insurance in force reached a new peak of $3,397,600,000.

• • • •

TO NEW YORK

Carvel Bayne, manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s Long Beach office at 4202 Atlantic Ave., will go to New York City to participate in a three-day conference of officials and district managers of the company at the Waldorf-Astoria.

'HI-FIDO'

System Soothes Dogs in Animal Shelter

MILWAUKEE (UP) — The Wisconsin Humane Society has installed "hi-fido" system to soothe newcomers to its Milwaukee animal shelter with music.

Gene Matel, manager of the society, said the sound layout was designed to benefit all the animals, despite its name and its being set up by a dogcatcher.

Southern Demo Says Court Impeachment Plan to Fail

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Henderson Lanham (D-Ga) said Saturday the Georgia legislature's move to impeach six U. S. Supreme Court justices "has no earthly chance" of congressional approval.

In a weekly newsletter to his constituents, he said he was "not too sure of the wisdom" of the state legislature in adopting a resolution urging impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren and five associate justices.

He said that even if there were grounds for impeachment, "we simply could not command the votes at this time even to vote an indictment of impeachment."

ARNOLD VANN

Corridor With a Purpose

ANYONE who's been to Welch's, Atlantic Ave. at San Antonio Dr., knows it's a beautiful restaurant with large shining walls of glass and dining rooms green with tropical plants.

Anyone who's been to Welch's also knows it is favored with soft background music, perfect sea food delicacies and perfect service.

Not everyone knows, however, how much planning is required to make Welch's so pleasing. For example, did you know that the main entrance corridor is so lengthy for a very subtle reason? Restaurateur Rex Welch made it 70 feet long so his guests, as they stroll along, have plenty of time to straighten stocking seams, hemlines or neckties and thus feel at ease about their appearance as they arrive at the main dining rooms.

And, of course, there are numerous other thoughtful touches at this Southland showplace. Unique electrically-heated serving carts keep the food warm while it is en route to the tables.... Placecards at each table let the patrons know the names of their waiters and waitresses . . . Hot rolls (light as feathers) are served throughout the meal.... The cocktail lounge is so cleverly concealed that many people don't realize the restaurant has one.

Welch and his man Friday, Manager Arnold Vann, are justifiably proud of the restaurant's sea food items. Among the many featured ocean beauties are grilled swordfish with lemon-parsley butter, $1.85; sea food grill, $2.25; rich shrimp or crab Newburg, $1.85; handsome lobster thermidor, $2.95, and fried jumbo shrimp with hot sauce, $1.85. All are served with soup or tossed green salad bowl, whipped, French fried or baked Idaho potatoes and choice of beverage.

And, while you're there, don't overlook Welch's succulent roast prime rib of beef au jus. Served a la carte with Yorkshire pudding, whipped cream and horseradish sauce, it's $3—and absolutely tantalizing.

Craft Classes for Adults Expanded by Recreation Dept. to 13 Packs

Craft classes for adults will be inaugurated at two more, locations March 7, increasing the number of such municipal centers to 13, it was announced Saturday by Lois De Lano, supervisor of crafts for the Recreation Dept.

Training groups will meet from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. each Thursday at Ramona Park and Truman Boyd Manor. Textile painting will be taught at Ramona. At Truman Boyd subjects will include copper tooling, aluminum tooling and glass painting.

• • • •

Total enrollment in the adult instruction last year was 12,660, Mrs. De Lano reported.

Craft instruction for children also is offered regularly at public playgrounds, with an enrollment last year of 24,292.

• • • •

OTHER SERVICES of this division include the distribution of craft and games bulletins and the lending of game boards to numerous public and private groups.

Employes in the division already are preparing for the annual Long Beach Hobby Show, scheduled for May 24-27 in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium. The event is sponsored by the Recreation Dept. in collaboration with the Long Beach Hobby Clubs Council.

Russian Subs Real Threat, Admiral Says

HONOLULU (UP) — Admiral Felix B. Stump, commander-in-chief of U. S. Pacific Forces declared flatly Saturday that Russian submarines operating in the Pacific "constitute a very definite threat" to the security of the United States.

Stump made this statement in reply to a question asked at a briefing of 27 members of the United States Society of Editors and Commentators. He was asked to assess Russian naval strength in the Pacific.

• • • •

STUMP SAID the Russians now have a long range fleet-type submarine that "should be able to go anywhere in the world any other submarine can."

"How good it is, I don't know," he said, "but they've (the Russians) had benefit of experience of German submarine designers and probably from some Japanese too. I don't believe they have an atomic submarine, but then, we have only one of those."

Stump placed the cost of military aid to Asia at a billion dollars annually, but said "there is no question that, without it, the whole area from east Asia to Korea would be Communist."

Monthly Income on Soviet Farms

LONDON (UP)—A new system of monthly payments to farmers has been introduced in Russian collective farms, Moscow Radio reports.

The broadcast heard here said it was "something in the nature of steady monthly wages." In the past, farmers received a lump sum either at various stages of the year or at the end of the year "as an incentive," depending in amount on the income of the farm, the report said.

Models Sought With Clothes On

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Vice squad officers had a big supply of nude pictures today—but they said they were interested only in faces.

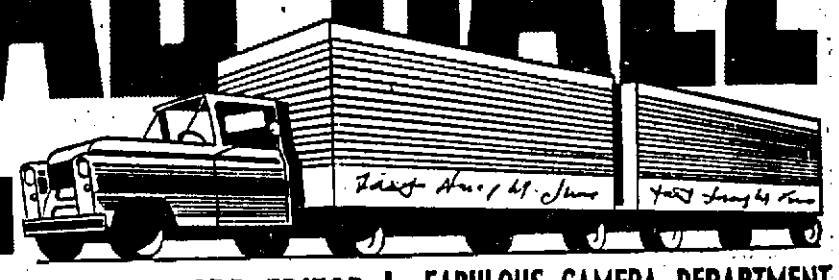

The pictures, seized in a novelty shop raid, clearly showed the faces of two women who posed for them, and lawmen were hoping to recognize the models on the street.

Color Blind Artist

HANNOVER (UP)—A 19-year-old German painter almost wept when his draft board announced he is unfit for service in the new West German army. Examiners found him completely color blind.

Eagle Scouts to Hear Talk by Explorer

How a man can survive, pitted against the elements of nature, will be told by Dana Lamb, explorer-photographer, when he addresses the third annual Eagle Scout recognition dinner at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Lafayette Hotel.

Lamb will show his film, "Survival," and tell experiences of himself and his wife, Ginger, in exploring rugged areas of the west coast of the Americas. His 45-minute colored film will show how he and Ginger found ample food and water where others had failed. He gives much credit to his Boy Scout training.

Business and professional men of Long Beach will sponsor the dinner.

Each boy who has earned an Eagle Scout award or a Silver or Quartermaster award in exploring will be the guest of a Long Beach man, matched occupationally to the boy's chosen career.

L.B. Residents to Sail on Wilson to Far East

Two Long Beach couples will be aboard the SS President Wilson when it sails from Pier 154, Wilmington, bound for the Far East, at 4 p.m. Monday.

Carrying 464 passengers and a crew of 333, the Wilson is augmenting passenger service from Pacific Coast ports.

• • • •

LONG BEACH residents aboard will include Freeman A. McKenzie of 600 Havana Ave., an auto dealer, and his wife, and Edward Gunn of 1065 E. Ocean Blvd., U. S. vice counsul at Djarkarta, and Mrs. Gunn.

Also on the passenger list are Alejandre Galang, counsul general of the Philippines; Leland Barrows, director of a U. S. mission to Viet Nam; Mrs. Roberta Dewey, widow of philosopher John Dewey, and Baroness Ella van Heemstra, the mother of actress Audrey Hepburn.

6 Million Live in Chicago Area

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The population of metropolitan Chicago has soared past 6 million, a survey by the University of Chicago revealed.

The survey said that more than 500,000 residents have been added to the metropolitan area—embracing five counties in Illinois and one in Indiana—since 1950.

U. S. Ships to Norway

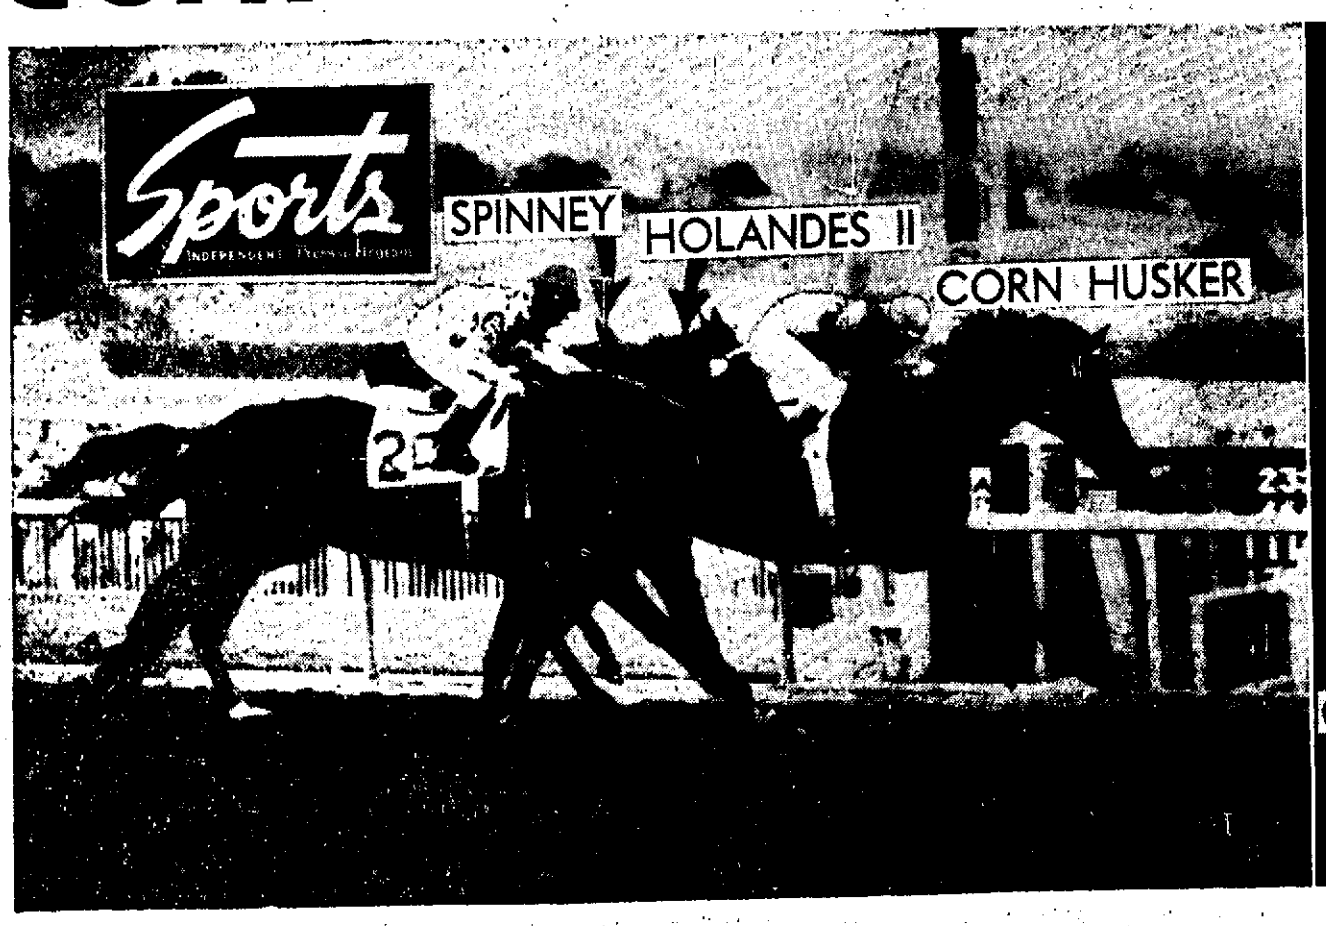

OSLO (AP)—Norway's navy is switching from British to U. S.-built warships. It already has some and Rear Adm. Rolf Andresen, chief of staff, said that on a visit to Washington he was promised two American destroyers.

CORN HUSKER MAKES HIS MOVE

JENKINS WHIPS COURTNEY

Delany Captures Mile by 10 Yards Over Tabori: 4:07

NEW YORK (UP)—Dublin's Ron Delany, refusing to get his "Irish up" against charges that he dogs it, ran his usual late race to score a smashing 10-yard triumph to take the featured mile in the 69th National AAU track meet at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The Irish whippet from Villanova blasted into the lead with two laps to go and dusted off Laszlo Tabori, the handsome Hungarian refugee, to win easily as Fred Dwyer finished third and Ted Wheeler of the University of Chicago fourth.

Delany extended himself only on the last two laps in accordance with his intention of "running only as fast as I have to," and was clocked in 4:07—a meet record but not his best time of the year.

Other defending champions Bob Backus in the 35-pound weight, Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College in the 60-yard high hurdles, Arnie Sowell of Pitt at 1,000 yards and Lt. Parry O'Brien, the California muscleman, in the shotput, all kept their titles.

• • • •

DWYER SET the pace with a 60.5 first quarter. But, although Delany and Tabori — both of whom have run 3:59 outdoors — were right on his heels they ran only 2:04.1 as Tabori took over at the halfway mark. Tabori was clocked at 3:07.6 at three-quarters.

Calhoun, Olympic high hurdles king, led all the way and shaded decathlon champ Milt Campbell in 7.2 in the 60-yard high hurdles.

• • • •

IRA MURCHISON, another Olympian, won the 60-yard dash by a yard over Ira Davis in 6.2. He equalled the indoor record of 6.1 in his heat.

Arnie Sowell romped to a five-yard victory over Harry Bright in winning the 1,000-yard run in 2:12.6.

Olympic 400-meter champion Charley Jenkins scored a smashing five-yard victory in the 600 in 1:10.4 to match the meet record set by Mal Whitfield in 1953.

Jenkins led all the way with Tom Courtney, Games 800-meter champ, coming from fifth to stride shoulder to shoulder with him on the final turn. Reggie Pearman came on for second and Joe Gaffney third as Courtney misjudged the finish line and pulled up 20 yards short.

• • • •

PARRY O'BRIEN won the shotput with a 59-8 effort. Ken Bantum was second at 58-10 and Dave Owen of Michigan third at 56-8.

Polish refugee John Macy scored a three-quarter lap victory in the three-mile in 13:57.4. Alex Breckenridge was second. Horace Ashenfelter lost his shoe after one mile, lost a full lap in putting it back on, and then came on to finish fifth.

Bob Richards won the pole vault at 15-3, with Don Bragg second at 15-0. Phil Reavis of Villanova broke a meet record by high jumping 6-9½. Villanova won the team title with 28½ points to 27 for the New York Pioneer Club.

Sacs Vote Against Transfer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — President Fred David of the Sacramento Solons indicated Saturday night that he will lead the fight for the preservation of the Pacific Coast League as it now exists and that his club will probably vote against the transfer of the Los Angeles Angel franchise to Brooklyn Dodger ownership.

"I can't say whether I will vote for or against Brooklyn coming into our league," declared David. "But if we don't vote for the Dodger deal it won't be the first time the Coast League has rejected majority league ownership. We turned down Milwaukee and Cleveland late in 1953 when both wanted to buy the San Francisco franchise."

David said he "couldn't take it for granted" Brooklyn would continue to operate Los Angeles as a farm club.

"These people are coming here with the intent of putting us out of business. On what I heard Saturday, I'd have to vote against transferring the franchise from the Wrigley interests to Brooklyn."

David continued, "Furthermore we don't want to make Los Angeles just another minor league farm. Previously the Wrigley interests have operated the Angels as a separate baseball organization on the highest level. And we are sorry to have them desirous of leaving our league.

"If the Brooklyn organization is seriously considering putting in a major league club in Los Angeles, their intent alone will do irreparable damage to the Pacific Coast League.

"But on the other hand, we would change our vote to yes if Brooklyn would provide a written statement that their main purpose will be to uphold the Pacific Coast League, in its entire status as it now exists, which is in open classification."

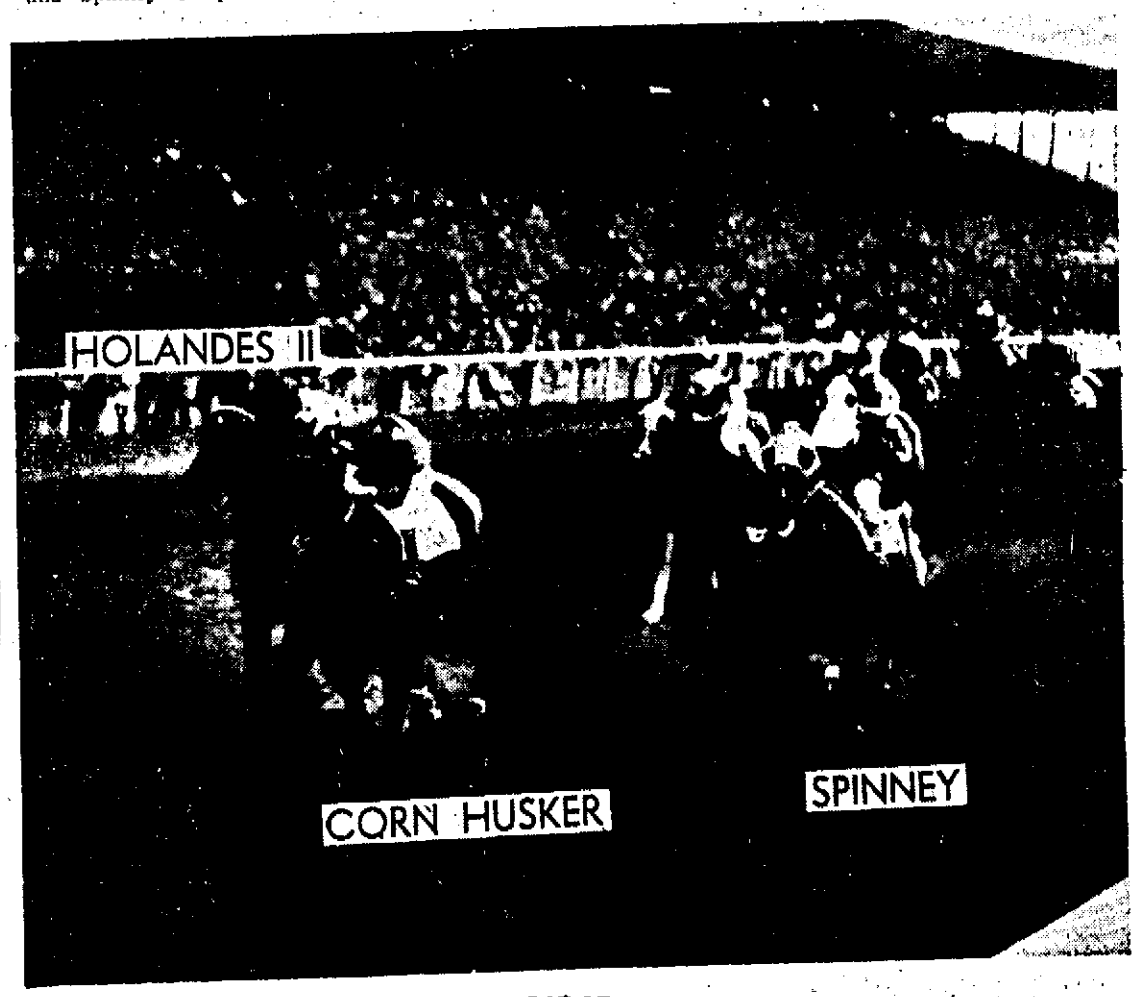

David, admitting he was suspicious of Brooklyn motives, added:

"On the surface it seems the Brooklyn organization is merely using Los Angeles as a means to get a new baseball park built in Brooklyn."

Basilio Expects to Meet Fullmer in July N.Y. Bout

CLEVELAND (AP) — Carmen Basilio, looking for new worlds to conquer, expects to box Gene Fullmer for the middleweight title in July because he thinks Fullmer will whip Sugar Ray Robinson in their April 24 rematch at Chicago.

The welterweight champion wore no marks of battle from Friday night's shattering knockout victory over ex-champ Johnny Saxton in 2:42 of the second round. Poised and confident, he handled himself smartly in a "morning after" press conference.

A match between Basilio and the Robinson-Fullmer winner is in the works, probably for Yankee Stadium in New York in July. A June ball park date is being held open for a heavyweight title match, probably Floyd Patterson and Hurricane Jackson.

Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club, said Saturday he hopes to put Basilio into a middleweight championship scrap. Basilio and his co-managers, Johnny DeJohn and Joe Netro, are more than willing.

Asked which he would consider the toughest opponent, Basilio named Fullmer. "He didn't fight his usual fight against Robinson. He wasn't sure of going 15 rounds so he was very cautious and paced himself. If he fights me he will have more confidence and it will be the same with him in his next fight with Robinson.

"I think he'll beat Robinson, more decisively than last time. He'll set a stronger pace and slow down Robinson late in the fight."

There are no challengers in the welterweight class for the 29-year-old champ. Basilio agreed Tony DeMarco, a former champ who was knocked out twice by him, would be the "best drawing card." He also mentioned Gaspar Ortega, winner in two of three meetings with DeMarco, and Vince Martinez, who boxes Kid Gavilan Tuesday at Newark.

Co-manager Netro, commenting on a reported $75,000 offer to fight Martinez if he wins, said, "It would have to be at least that."

Basilio has no plans for another welter defense before he goes after the middleweights. However, he'll take one or two "tune-up" matches over the weight, probably in Syracuse, N. Y. near his home town of Canastota. He said he would weigh about 151 pounds for his middleweight bid, giving almost 10 pounds to his opponent.

'I'VE HAD IT,' SAYS 3:58 MILER

Landy Runs 2nd, Retires From Major Competition

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP) — John Landy, world mile record-holder once described by Britain's Roger Bannister as the "most unselfish" of the top international athletes, Saturday retired from major competition after finishing second in an 880-yard inter-club race.

"I've had it—for good this time. I'll hang up my spikes now," Landy said, sweat trickling down his face.

Landy six times ran the mile in less than four minutes—more than any other man—but lost Saturday's half-mile to an unheralded Australian named Geoff Fleming by two yards in 1:54.6.

It apparently was the last straw for Landy, holder of the world mile record of 3:58 and the Australian half-mile record of 1:50.4.

"I won't run seriously anymore, but just have an occasional outing in inter-club events," Landy said. "I have had a few good innings but it's too much of a strain to compete in major racing if you aren't fit enough to get the pace.

"Now I cannot do that because I am teaching miles from a decent track."

Davis Beaten by So. African Hurdler

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Jack Davis of Glendale, Calif., holder of the world 110 meter hurdles record at 13.4 seconds, was beaten by South African Koos Vanndermerwe in a 120-yard hurdles race at Kreugersdorp, near Johannesburg Saturday.

The time was 14.7 seconds on a rain-sodden grass track. Davis, who is making an American State Department sponsored goodwill tour of Africa, has complained of stomach trouble since his arrival in Johannesburg on Thursday.

Holandes II, Spinney Trail Ex-'Hurdler'

By DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

SANTA ANITA PARK—Llangollen Farm's Corn Husker, a converted jumper who won a hurdles event at Belmont Park only four months ago, outlasted Holandes II and Spinney in a furious drive to the wire here Saturday to become the second "hurdler" ever to win the rich Santa Anita Handicap.

Described by his owner, Mrs. Richard Lunn, the former Liz Whitney, as "a big country horse that just grits his teeth and runs as fast and far as he can," Corn Husker collected $103,600 first money with a half-length win over Holandes II while the South American favorite finished another half-length in front of the third-place Spinney before a crowd of 52,500.

In fourth place, another 3¼ lengths to the rear, came the fast-closing Lover Boy followed in order by Arrogate, Battle Dance, Social Climber, Honeys Alibi, Pit Boss, Traffic Judge, Count Chic, Bounty Bay, All She Wrote, Eugenio and Vaquero II.

• • • •

THERE WERE THREE scratches from the original field of 18—Blen Host, Gigantic and Poona II, winner of the 1953 Big 'Cap.

Time for the gruelling mile and one-quarter test over a track labeled "good" after drying out miraculously fast following Friday night's heavy rain was a creditable 2:01 4/5.

Corn Husker, coupled with Social Climber and Traffic Judge in the wagering, returned $9.60, $4.70 and 3.20 as the second betting choice. The public favorite, Holandes II, coupled with Eugenio, paid $5.10 and 3.70, while Spinney, coupled with Arrogate, kicked back $4.50 to show.

The Big 'Cap grossed $140,700.

A VICTORY IN the 20th running of the Big 'Cap by a hurdler certainly didn't establish a precedent since the inaugural Santa Anita Handicap, which wrote turf history in 1934 as the first $100,000 race in American racing history, was won by Azucar, a converted steeplechaser.

Corn Husker's victory as the lightweight in the field with an impost of 105 pounds also recalled the running of the 1938 Hundred Grander when Stagehand, with only 100 pounds up, outlasted by a nose the mighty Seabiscuit, who was burdened with 130 pounds.

Corn Husker got into the race with 104 pounds, but went postward with 105 pounds . . . lightest jockey Ralph Neves was able to make. Holandes II was the second high weight at 121 pounds. Spinney carried 108.

Eddie Arcaro originally was slated to ride Corn Husker, but couldn't take off enough weight and Neves was given the mount when he trimmed down five pounds to 105.

• • • •

RALPH SAID AFTER the race that "it was sure worth taking off those five pounds. I've never been so happy in my life. I could have gone to the lead at any time after the half-mile pole. I knew that if he had the class with that weight he was going to win it. And he sure had class.

"I lost some ground on the clubhouse turn," he explained, "but after that I laid up a little closer than we had planned because he was so full of run. I finally let him loose at the head of the stretch and we were home."

In scoring his first win in the Big 'Cap, Neves admitted that he did it the first time he ever climbed aboard Corn Husker. He had never ridden him before . . . not even in a workout. "However," Ralph said, "I've liked the looks of him for several weeks and told my agent, over a month ago to get me the ride if he could."

Battle Dance charged to the front at the break and took a length and one-half lead through the early going followed by Spinney, Bounty Bay and Eugenio with Corn Husker laying in fifth spot and Holandes settling down in 10th place until they headed into the back stretch when he gradually began working his way to the heels of Corn Husker.

• • • •

BATTLE DANCE, Spinney and Pit Boss, the latter making a bold move down the backside, were only heads apart in a torrid duel on the stretch turn when Corn Husker and Holandes made their moves together.

They came around the three other horses with Holandes getting a little the worst of it on the outside when he lost a good half-length or so.

Once they straightened out for the run home, it quickly developed into a two-horse duel for the win honors with Spinney just a stride back ready to take over if either faltered.

Once Over Lightly
by DAVE LEWIS

Some observers keep harping on the fact that the Brooklyn Dodgers could use Wrigley Field as an interim park until a new stadium is built to take care of the Bums when and if they move to Southern California.

If the Dodgers do come West, and despite prevailing optimism there is still plenty of room for doubt, they would lose at least two years of unprecedented attendance if they were forced to operate in Wrigley Field.

Thus, if a new ball park is not made available by at least 1960 . . . I, for one, doubt if the Dodgers will move to Los Angeles.

A 50,000 to 55,000-seat stadium would be necessary to fully capitalize on the attendance potential of the Southern California area in the first two years.

Wrigley Field's seating could be boosted to around 30,000, which is only 1,902 short of Brooklyn's present capacity at Ebbets Field.

And a great many of the seats in an expanded Wrigley Field would have to be classified as "poor" because of the layout of the park. The additional seating, by necessity, would put fans in "outfield locations."

Even if they filled a 30,000-seat Wrigley Field for every one of the 77 home games, the total attendance would just barely get over the two million mark . . . and not even the most optimistic baseball men will go so far as to predict much more than a 50 to 60 per cent capacity for a daily average.

Availability of Wrigley Field, the extremely poor parking facilities and the fantastic cost of adding more seats are against the 42nd and Avalon plant as a site . . . even as an interim field.

AS WE POINTED out not long ago, the Southern California area is the only one left in the country with a potential attendance of 3,000,000.

But to reach this tremendous total, the Dodgers or any club would have to accomplish it in the first two years when the "curiosity" angle is still prevalent.

After that, television will be the major factor in attendance leveling off . . . and you can be sure that any major league team that comes West will wrangle a fabulous TV contract.

A few readers, recalling several articles I did a few years ago on the fact that the St. Louis Browns of the American League were set to operate out of Los Angeles in 1942 until the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor nipped the move, have called in to ask if Wrigley Field was adequate then . . . why not now?

Things have changed greatly since then.

The deal in '42 called for the city to condemn some adjoining property and close the street which the left field fence borders so that more grandstand seats could be added to boost the seating capacity to slightly over 30,000.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce further agreed to guarantee the Browns a home attendance of 500,000 for the first three years (1942-43-44).

Thus, if the Browns drew only 350,000 . . . the Chamber would have had to make up the difference.

It was a fine deal for the Browns at the time. In 1941, the St. Louis entry in the American League lured only 280,000 fans to its home games.

IN THOSE YEARS, 500,000 home attendance was considered very good. In fact, virtually every major league club could crack the nut with that kind of a gate. The teams with extensive farm operations, of course, needed a bit more.

Now it takes close to a million attendance for the average club to break even . . . more if it has any kind of a farm operation.

The vast Dodger chain can no longer depend on the parent club's home attendance in Brooklyn, which averages slightly better than a million per year, but needs an annual take of $750,000 from radio and TV to produce a profit despite the fact they are operating out of the nation's No. 1 market.

Brooklyn's minor league chain, however, is one of the costliest in the business.

Thus, some baseball men are wondering if they would be any better off in Los Angeles, the nation's No. 3 market . . . providing, of course, New York is able to supply the Dodgers with a new ball park.

There is no doubt but that the Dodgers would do a landoffice business in Southern California, particularly the first two seasons.

However, Brooklyn undoubtedly would insist on a big television deal—at least $750,000 and more likely over $1,000,000 —if moved to Los Angeles.

And there is little doubt in the minds of most baseball men that the crowds ultimately would level off because of television.

Milwaukee's record attendance figures of the past few years has been the result of a no-TV policy. Television admittedly would cut heavily into attendance.

Thus, after two or three years when the crowds do level off, the Dodgers may not be in any better shape in Los Angeles than they are right now in Brooklyn.

Therefore, in the event of a move, it is necessary for the club to operate immediately out of a big new park in the Los Angeles area.

IN VIEW OF THIS, it would be wise to immediately map concrete plans for a new stadium to be completed by the end of 1959 . . . rather than to figure on the use of Wrigley Field as an interim field.

There is no doubt but what Southern California could have major league baseball by 1960 . . . or sooner, if a new ball park was available.

That doesn't necessarily mean the Brooklyn Dodgers, though.

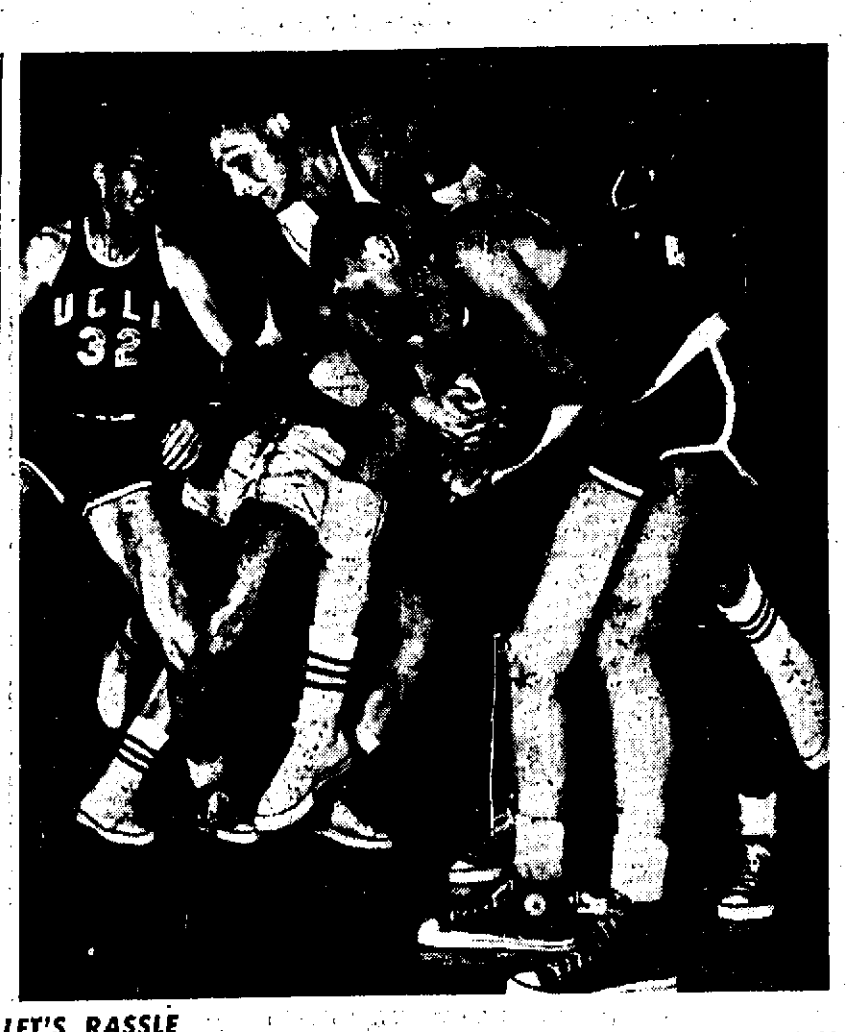

If a new ball park is built in New York . . . the Dodgers can always peddle the Los Angeles franchise.

A major point that has been overlooked by most people thus far is that the Dodger move went farther than just the club itself.

It sewed up Southern California for the National League.

The Dodgers, meanwhile have protected themselves and the National League for any eventuality through the purchase of the Angeles and Wrigley Field.

And in the long run when and if a new ball park is provided in the Los Angeles area, there is just as good a chance that the Dodgers would step aside (at a profit, of course) and let Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cincinnati or even the St. Louis Cardinals come West than to make the move themselves.

Rebel Ace in Scoring Lead

BATON ROUGE, La. (UP) — Joe Gibbon of Mississippi took over as the nation's leading major-college basketball scorer Saturday night by scoring 46 points in an 83-76 victory over Louisiana State.

Gibbon's performance boosted his season average to 30.3 points per game with one game remaining next Thursday against Mississippi State.

Gibbon replaced Grady Wallace of South Carolina, who scored 43 points Saturday night despite a 94-81 loss to Duke at Durham, N. C., to increase his average to 30.13 points per game.

RAPS ROSEWALL

Pancho in 2-Set Win

Big Pancho Gonzales pounced on Ken Rosewall like a bargain-hungry housewife Saturday night to defeat his little Aussie opponent, 6-4, 8-6, at Pan Pacific Auditorium and stretch his pro tennis tour lead to 10-6.

Rosewall was just as tough as Friday night when he defeated Gonzales in straight sets, but his six foot, three-inch rival wouldn't give him the break he needed Saturday.

Pancho's heralded service boomed with its old magnificence off new-strung rackets as he stayed on top of the tough, 143-pound sharpshooter.

Hoosiers Maintain 1st Place

(Compiled from UP and AP)

Indiana maintained its grip on first place in the Big Ten basketball race Saturday night, walloping last place Wisconsin, 85-74, but Ohio State and Michigan State stayed just one game off the pace as they scored victories, along with Illinois and Iowa.

Ohio State trailed most of the way but rallied in the final six minutes to defeat Michigan, 94-88, while Michigan State also staged a come-from-behind act in clipping Minnesota, 70-65.

Among the also rans in the race, Iowa, ahead by 15 points at halftime, had to fight off a spirited Northwestern rally to win, 74-66, and Illinois eked past Purdue, 80-78, in a game that was in doubt until the final gun.

• • • •

INDIANA NOW HAS a 9-2 record in Big Ten play compared to an 8-3 slate for Ohio State and Michigan State. The Hoosiers' conference scoring ace, Archie Dees, again paced his teammates with a 24-point production.

The Hoosiers started slowly and remained on the short end of the score until 12 minutes had elapsed, but then caught fire to go ahead, 36-25, at halftime.

Wilt Gets 30 in 87-60 Win

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Kansas maintained its Big Seven basketball lead Saturday night with an easy 87-60 victory over Nebraska as Wilt Chamberlain scored 30 points for the Jayhawks.

Kansas broke from a 23-all tie with 8:25 left in the first half and blasted the Huskers 21-4 to gain a 44-27 halftime advantage.

Nebraska, which never was ahead, was unable to make a challenge after that. The largest Kansas leads were 64-34 and 63-36. Then Kansas substitutes began to pour onto the court.

Chamberlain left the game with 5:15 to go. He got 17 points in the first half.

The victory gave Kansas an 18-2 season record and 8-1 in the Big Seven. Nebraska is 9-11 for the season and 3-6 in the league.

May Buy Race Track

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Evening Star said Saturday Clint W. Murchison, Texas oil man, has obtained an option to buy the Charles Town, W. Va., race track for four million dollars—three million of it in cash.

FORTE IN TEAM WORK

Lions' Ace Scores 23

NEW YORK (UP)—With high-scoring Chet Forte turning into a superb playmaker, Columbia swamped Brown, 82-64, in an Ivy League basketball game Saturday night.

Forte wound up with 23 points but it was his passing in the first half which moved Columbia to a 35-38 halftime lead. The Lions coasted home in the second half.

Forte, who went into the game as the nation's third highest scorer, broke a Columbia school record as he pushed his season point total to 579. He thus snapped the mark of 559 he set in 1955. However, his scoring average for this season dropped from 29.26 to 28.95.

ROYALS SALE IMMINENT

Report Kansas City Will Get Lakers' Franchise

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers, once the mightiest team in professional basketball, "probably will be sold," president Ben Berger said Saturday.

Berger said a firm offer for the club's franchise was made through Maurice Podoloff, National Basketball Assn., president, at a meeting Saturday afternoon.

Berger declined to name the prospective buyers or the size of their offer. The Minneapolis Star, however, said the prospective purchasers are believed to include Ken Fischman of Kansas City and Marty Marion, former Chicago White Sox baseball manager. The club's new home presumably would be in Kansas City.

At Cincinnati, where another NBA transaction is in the making, a Cincinnati group spokesman spiked reports that the Rochester club had been purchased for that city. But the spokesman, Robert Siegel, said "the outlook is encouraging." Siegel said there would be a meeting early in March concerning the franchise.

Mustangs Clinch Southwest Crown

HOUSTON, TEX. (UP) — The Southern Methodist Mustangs Saturday night won their third straight Southwest basketball championship and a berth in the NCAA regional tournament at Dallas March 15-16 with a nip-and-tuck 75-72 victory over Rice.

Jim Krebs, big Pony center, had one of his best nights of the season with 33 points.

The Mustangs won the game at the free throw line as SMU hit on 23 of 29 charity shots while Rice got 8 of 16.

Larson, Ex-Cal QB Star, Inks Card Pact

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback Paul Larson, who set a NCAA record for passing accuracy at California in 1954, has been signed by the Chicago Cardinals, it was announced Saturday.

Larson, 25, will end a two-year hitch in the service in plenty of time to go to the Cardinals training camp this summer. The 185-pounder completed 125 out of 195 passes for 64.1 per cent in 1954.

39 for Hot Rod

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) —West Virginia, led by Hot Rod Hundley's 39 points, knocked over traditional rival Pitt, 107-93, in a rough, often-wild basketball game Saturday night. Sophomore Don Hennon scored 38 for Pitt.

Aggie J. Takes Overall Honors in Cruiser Race

Johnny Miller's power yacht Aggie J, a class B contender representing Long Beach Yacht Club, scored overall honors to win the Arthur L. Bobrick trophy in a 25-mile San Pedro - Balboa cruiser race in Saturday's feature of the Midwinter Regatta.

A total of 355 boats in four divisions established a new overall entry record in the 28th edition of the winter sail-power classic, it was announced by general chairman John Esdenshade. The breakdown was:

Large boats, 163 in 13 classes at LAYC; small boats, 118 in nine classes at Cabrillo Beach YC; dinghies, 62 in six classes at Alamitos Bay YC; power yachts, 12 in two classes.

In the feature sailing competition, 31 Division Two Ocean Rule yachts, largest class, were led for the second straight day by Ash Brown's Carousel of San Diego.

Lusty southwest winds of 20-and-upward-mile velocity prevailed for sailing action, while the power yachts encountered heavy, rough seas for their trans-coast feature.

Cal Bounces Back to Drub Huskies

SEATTLE (AP)—California's Bears came bolling back from a Friday night defeat to trounce Washington's Huskies, 72-62, in the final Pacific Coast Conference home basketball game of the season for the losers.

Combined with UCLA's triumph over Oregon, the decision left California deadlocked for the conference lead with the Uclans. The two leaders meet next week. Each has one loss in conference play.

With its full court press working to perfection, California reversed the trend of Friday night's game to take an early lead and dominate the contest all the way.

The count was tied twice in the early going and Washington took a short lived lead—its only one of the game—at 6-4 after three and a half minutes.

• • • •

EARL ROBINSON tied it up with two free throws for Cal, then stole the ball and tallied on a layup to make it 8-6 and the Bears were in front to stay.

The two big Washington scoring stars who killed the Bears Friday night—Doug Smart and Bruno Bein—were squeezed off the boards and bottled up in the first half Saturday night. Smart found the range in the second half and led all scorers with 22 points.

California got its biggest first half lead on nine points two minutes before recess but Washington put on a surge to reach halftime trailing, 31-34.

• • • •

THE CROWD OF 9,000, most of them hoping this was a hint of change, found the Bears were unperturbed in the second stanza. With Larry, Friend, Robinson and sub guard Mike Diaz pointing the way, California quickly spread the gap to 11 points.

Washington never again got into serious contention, although the Huskies shaved the margin to six points with eight minutes left to play.

THWARTS RALLY

UCLA Nets 73-65 Win Over Oregon

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—The UCLA Bruins raced to their second consecutive victory over Oregon Saturday night, 73-65, to remain in a tie with California for the Pacific Coast Conference basketball lead.

For the Bruins it was the 20th win in 22 starts this season, but they had to withstand a late rally by the tail-end team of the conference.

After holding a comfortable 16-point lead early in the second half, the Bruins suddenly found their margin cut to four points, 55-51, with eight minutes remaining.

The teams traded scores for the next two minutes, but with the count 59-55 and six minutes remaining, guard Walt Torrence finally led UCLA out of danger. With only two minutes remaining the Bruins were in front, 69-57.

• • • •

TORRENCE WOUND up with 17 points, the same total reached by center Ben Rogers and Oregon's high-point man, forward Charley Franklin.

It was ball-hawking that put Oregon in the game for those few moments in the second half. Guard Phil McHugh was the particular thorn in the side of the victors, but he picked up fouls in chasing the ball closely, and had to leave the game with 2:20 minutes remaining.

Salas Gains Legion Nod

Lauro Salas, 130, Los Angeles, took a unanimous decision from Montreal's Armand Savoie, 134¾, Saturday night in a 10-round lightweight match at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Savoie did his best punching in the infighting. But the brawling Salas took the long range exchanges with wild-swinging flurries that gave him a substantial edge in points.

Judge Jimmy Wallace had it 98-94, Judge Russ Bradford 97-95 and Referee Charley Randolph 96-94 for the "Little Lion" of Monterrey, Mexico, who now fights out of Los Angeles. He was slightly favored.

It was Savoie's Southern California ring debut and Salas' first victory of the year. There were no knockdowns but Salas suffered a slight cut over his right eye and Savoie a cut on his left eye.

Variety on Caliente Card

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. — Caliente offers a wide variety of racing for today with eight middle distance stars going a mile in the Antipodes Handicap, seven marathoners traveling two miles in the Joe Eaton Cup, while 11 sprinters, the best here, will step three quarters in the six-furlong Heart Fund Allowances.

Gay Marvel heads the Antipodes field with the high weight of 122 pounds, two more than assigned Muy Tony. Fancy Dresser, 116 and L'Aigle, 108, both impressive winners last week are named to go. Two recent marthon-winners, Dr. Fury and Film Control, will oppose two strong newcomers to the extra long races in Californian and Alizumba.

Going in the Heart Fund are the best of the local sprinters, including Damp Abbey, Reliapon, My Urchin, Tare and Down De Lane.

2ND PLACE WINS

Caliente to Change 5-10

AGUA CALIENTE (AP) — The Caliente horse race track said Saturday it was changing its 5-10 pool on Sunday races so that second-place bettors could win.

Starting March 3, the track said, 75 per cent of the pool payout will go to bettors picking the most winners in the fifth through tenth races. The remaining 25 per cent will go to those picking the second highest number of winners.

The pool, since it was established at Caliente last April, has paid only those picking the most winners. The track takes 10 per cent.

OH, SAY—HE COULDN'T SEE

NEW YORK (UP) — Bill Rahn, a member of Villanova's one-mile relay team, found out Saturday night the meaning of "bombs bursting in air" in the National Anthem.

The anthem was being played to open the National AAU indoor track and field meet at Madison Square Garden when, in the darkness, Rahn stepped out of the arena.

He did not know there was a four-step drop. He was taken to a New York hospital for observation of head injuries.

Rogers' 29 Spark SC Over Tribe

PALO ALTO (AP)—The Southern California Trojans had too much class Saturday night as they defeated the Stanford Indians, 86-73, in a Pacific Coast Conference basketball game.

Coming on top of Friday night's 72-69 victory, the triumph gave SC a firm hold on fourth place with a 6-4 conference record. Stanford fell to 6-8.

Capt. Danny Rogers of SC proved the big star, getting eight field goals and 13 free throws for 29 points.

SC was never headed. At halftime, the Trojans led 43-35. At the start of the second half Bill Bond of Stanford sank two field goals and a free throw to give the Indians some hope. But Rogers started connecting and the Trojans pulled away.

With 10 minutes remaining, SC was safely in front, 71-55, and both teams began substituting freely.

Bond, who is striving to become the third highest scorer in Stanford history, got only 14 points against the Trojans, one of his lowest totals of the season. He needs 17 points in the next two games to gain the third spot.

L.B.-Owned Horse Wins at Caliente

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (UP) —Kittly-Taurus, a six-year-old sprinter owned by Mrs. H. M. Cullum of Long Beach, caught a muddy strip and romped home by two lengths over odds-on favorite Zodiakos in the six furlong feature at Caliente racetrack Saturday. Miss Solaci was third.

The winner paid $15.40, $5.60 and $4.00. Time was 1:14 1/5.

Antique and A-Lock combined to produce a $458.80 daily double.

Two New Records Set by YMCA Swimmers

Two downtown YMCA swimmers set new meet records Saturday at Watsonville in the 2nd annual Pacific Southwest Area boy-girl YMCA championships.

In the 11-12 year group, Mike McQuarie lowered the old record of 43.3 to 36.2 in the 50 breastroke and Bill Rose was clocked in 35.0 in the 13-14 group, breaking the old mark of 35.2.

USF Spanks Lions, 75-65

The University of San Francisco Dons outscored Loyola, 75-65 Saturday and are headed for another California Basketball Conference championship.

Santa Clara, one of their chief contenders, was upset by Loyola Friday.

The Dons got off to a 12-0 lead. San Francisco's CBA record is now 10 wins and two losses.

49er Volleyball Team Places 4th

Long Beach State was knocked out of the Pt. Mugu men's volleyball tourney Saturday after clinching fourth place.

The 49ers topped Hamilton Air Force Base, 3-15,15-10, 15-11, but then lost to the Ingleaires, 13-15, 13-15. In the losers' bracket they beat the UCLA Reserves, 15-17, 14-12, 12-10, but then fell to Hamilton in a return match, 12-15, 15-8, 10-15.

North Long Beach, one of the title favorites, is still in strong contention for the crown.

Black Hawks Win TV Game in Last Minute

CHICAGO (UP)—Eddie Litzenberger scored with 49 seconds to play Saturday to give the Chicago Black Hawks their second win of the season over the National Hockey League-leading Detroit Red Wings, 4-3, in the weekly televised hockey game.

The Chicago win broke a three-game victory streak for Detroit, and pulled the Hawks within five games of fifth place Toronto.

Heart Fund March Slated Monday

BEACH COMBING

With MALCOLM ERLEY

IN THE 3300 block on Roxanne Ave., a couple of small boys were watching a woman hanging out an American Flag on Friday, Feb. 22. An observer for this dept. happened by and heard one of them ask:

"Why is your mother putting up that Flag?"

"Because it's my daddy's birthday," said the other lad.

"You mean that your daddy has crossed the Delaware?" said Kic No 1, obviously a very smart fellow for his age.

AND BEFORE it's too far gone, here are a couple of other Washington birthday notes from my book.

A friend of mine gave birth to a baby boy on that day, and noted thoughtfully that she had given her son a gift he'll appreciate—he'll never have to go to school on his birthday.

And Gerry Fitzgerald called to brag about the Pomona Ave. block between Broadway and The Toledo. Nine flags were flying on houses there Friday, and fly there every patriotic holiday. She thinks there are few blocks in town that can match that.

IN PUBLICATIONS far and wide, there's a notable tendency to exaggerate the story of Long Beach's subsidence problem. It's serious enough, goodness knows, but it's not the way a lot of imaginative writers, who have obviously never been here, keep describing it.

These scribes get the basic facts right, but go on from there with embellishments that picture a condition of which no one here is aware.

For example, there's an item which appeared in the Weekly Reader, a publication used widely in the public schools. It was spotted by the editor of the Fifth and Cherry Light, little paper put out by the Church of the Brethren schools here.

After telling the cause of subsidence, the Weekly Reader went on:

"The people of Long Beach are saving their land from the sea. Like the Dutch, they are using 'fill' to replace lost land. Pumps are draining water from the land. Dikes are being built to keep the sea from flooding their town."

Now that's not entirely inaccurate, but it pictures a dramatic situation that doesn't exist. It prompted the editor of the Fifth and Cherry Light to exclaim:

"I am sure we will want to extend our sympathy to the poor, perishing people of Long Beach, whose only defense will soon be the dikes to keep the ocean back!"

DRIVING home from the GOP convention at Disneyland Friday evening, I found myself getting very indignant about Garden Grove Blvd.

There can be few if any stretches of highway in the state whose development has lagged so far behind the pace of traffic growth.

Although it carries a tremendous volume of traffic, linking Long Beach with rapidly growing communities to the east where many Long Beach workers live, it is still a two-lane road and in virtually the same development status it had years ago when only a comparative few cars traveled it in a day.

As a narrow road carrying heavy traffic it is dangerous. Twice I saw drivers ahead who took hazardous chances, going around other cars that were moving at snail's pace.

When you ask about the reason Garden Grove Blvd. is that way, you are told that a freeway is going to run more or less along the same route. Well, fair enough, why not bring the stretch up to freeway standards now to meet a very serious need, embracing it in the completed freeway later?

NOW to finish off on a more cheerful note—the story of Mrs. Linda Sue Day's purse. After shopping at a Carson and Orange Market, she left it on her car fender as she drove away. In it was $120, some important escrow papers and other valuables.

She was almost in tears and could hardly answer the telephone when John Williams called her, said he had found it in the middle of the street.

Foreign Aid No Giveaway, Official Says

By BEN ZINSER

U.S. economic aid to foreign nations is not a "giveaway" program, the executive officer for the International Cooperation Administration in Iran insisted here Saturday.

Dewain L. Delp, vacationing here while on home leave from his State Department post, termed the ICA program one of "largely technical assistance."

Of a 45 million dollar annual budget, 80 per cent goes to American suppliers for equipment, he said, with the remaining 20 per cent tabbed for transportation of equipment and supplies and the hiring of American technicians.

DELP

The Iran aid program has been under fire lately. The House Government Operations Committee charges that a quarter billion dollars in U. S. aid in 1951-56 was "administered in a loose, slipshod and unbusinesslike manner." A national magazine recently criticized certain improvement projects in Iran.

* * * *

DELP, WHO HAS BEEN assigned to Iran about one year, said he was not at liberty to comment on the charges.

"But I can tell you about our program and what we are trying to accomplish," he said.

"First, there's a public health program, which includes the training of doctors and nurses. When it comes to health and sanitation, Iran is far behind our nation. Thousands die there from smallpox, for example.

"An education program has seen the construction of more than 6,000 schools, which were financed by the Iranians, by the way. Our program helped develop a proper curricula. In the past, education has meant only the memorizing of quotations from the Koran.

"In agriculture, the ICA is helping the people of Iran improve seed varieties. Purebred livestock is being imported. An extension service is contemplated.

* * * *

ENGINEERS ARE helping Iran set up and manage factories, which are financed by Iranian oil money. They have the money; the U. S. provides the know-how."

Delp said there's a joke that says Iranian women are forbidden to wear high-heeled shoes because of the fear that the impression of the heels might bring in more oil wells.

The aid program also includes education in public administration and, "most important of all," the improvement of transportation and communications.

* * * *

"THE ICA IS trying to create a climate," he said. "We're trying to lay the foundation for the development of an economy that will make Iran a member of the family of capitalistic nations. Thus private enterprise of the United States and nations of western Europe will be able to cooperate and trade with Iran."

Women's Chairman Selected

Mrs. Donnell V. Davis, Long Beach civic leader, Saturday was named chairman of the women's division in the $4,000,000 United Hospital Fund campaign.

Associate chairman will be Mrs. John Fowler.

Campaign leaders announced solicitation of medical doctors will be finished this week. Doctors already have pledged a total of $860,000. Their group goal is $1,000,000.

Drs. William G. Durnin and Hubert J. Prichard, medical division chairmen in the absence of Dr. H. Milton Van Dyke, said they hoped to reach the goal by Thursday night when the Long Beach branch of the County Medical Assn. meets.

Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Fowler will lead the campaign's biggest sales force—about 900 volunteer workers.

Mrs. Davis, a charter member of the St. Mary's Hospital Guild, is active in the Junior League and in Family Service.

New Attorney Heads Legal Aid Service for Litigants in Need

Long Beach Legal Aid and the Lawyers Reference Service have a new attorney—Jerry Silverman, 28, of Highland Park. Silverman replaces Alvin B. Calof, who has joined the county public defender's staff. A New York City native, Silverman received UCLA degrees in accounting (1951) and law (1954).

JERRY SILVERMAN
Aids Troubled Ones

He was admitted to the state bar in March, 1955, entered Army service the same month, and spent 16 months in Korea.

As Legal Aid head, Silverman tends to the civil legal problems of persons unable financially to hire their own counsel.

* * * *

MORE THAN 3,000 persons have been aided by Legal Aid's attorneys here since a local office was opened 16 months ago. Most have had family (divorce, child custody, etc.), economic (money claims, promissory notes, installment contracts and garnishments) and property problems.

Legal aid handles no criminal matters. They're the public defender's responsibility.

Lawyers Reference Service is for persons who have money to hire private counsel, but don't know which one to contact.

Silverman's office maintains a file of about 70 lawyers who have volunteered to assist the program. Referral is by rotation.

* * * *

THEIR AGREED fee is $4 for a half-hour consultation. Any follow-up work, however, such as taking a case to court, is at the attorney's regular rates. Reference Service attorneys handle both criminal and civil matters.

The two services are offered in the Enloe Building. Applicants are screened by a full-time secretary and volunteer workers regarding eligibility for Legal Aid.

There's a $1 registration fee for either service, but the Legal Aid attorney has been known to waive the charge for totally destitute persons.

Lack of a dollar is not considered reason to deprive anyone of legal representation.

STATE SOCIETIES DECLINE

Loyalty to Dear Old 'Back Home' Recedes

A sociological revolution is taking place in Long Beach, and it might be called "The Decline and Fall of the State Society."

For years an oasis for retired people—many of them from the Midwest—Long Beach now is undergoing economic and population changes that slash deep into the ranks of clubs which were formed long ago to maintain common bonds of friendship and interest.

"We don't like to admit it, but it's true," said Mrs. Ora Lee, secretary of the All States Society, 148 E. Ocean Blvd.

Mrs. Lee's organization represents 26 state societies with a total membership of about 2,000 persons.

ALL THESE GROUPS are trying to stimulate the interest both of members and non-members, she said.

But most of them appear to be failing, she added.

"Membership in a state society seems to appeal only to older people," Mrs. Lee explained. "As present members die, few clubs manage to replace them."

Most of the state society members are retired or semi-retired people who live in or close to the downtown area, she said.

"And it's getting so many of them are afraid to go out nights, for fear they'll be robbed or attacked," Mrs. Lee observed.

All but a few of the state societies have their meetings at night.

One reason for the declining interest in state "alumni" groups is the fabulous growth of the Long Beach area in the post-war years.

Fewer retired people are coming here. Most of the population influx consists of younger persons attracted here by the prospect of good-paying jobs.

THE NEAR-DOWNTOWN residential areas where most older people now live, for convenience's sake, gradually are becoming commercial or industrial zones. The Southland's boom in new housing is aimed at filling the needs of the work force—and these newcomers readily are finding new interests to keep them occupied.

One psychiatrist, who declined to be identified by name, thought the lessening interest in state societies was regrettable because "membership in an organization relieves some of the problems of being alone—the most difficult problem a human being faces.

"Organization gives people a chance to relate more closely to other people," he observed. "It gives them a feeling of belonging."

He thought for a minute, then added—

"People can't just be friendly. They need a reason."

Hit-Runner Breaks Legs of Pedestrian

Police were searching Saturday night for a hit-run driver who knocked a pedestrian down, breaking both his legs.

The pedestrian, Robert Delmar Brady, 34, of the USS Goss, was taken to Seaside Hospital.

Witnesses told police Brady was walking across Santa Fe Ave. at Anaheim St. about 9 p.m. when an old-model sedan ran a stop sign and struck him.

The driver made no effort to stop but sped away from the scene, witnesses said.

Woman Hit by Car; Carried 79 Feet on Hood

A 68-year-old woman, carried 79 feet on the hood of the auto which struck her, apparently suffered only abrasions Saturday.

Ethel Burtner, 243 Redondo Ave., was struck while in a crosswalk at Broadway and Redondo Ave., by a car driven by Frank L. Norton, 78, of 133 Heulett St.

The woman was treated at Community Hospital.

Stole Stolen

A fur stole valued at $400 was reported stolen by Gladys C. Harvey from her home at 2321 Spaulding St., to police Saturday. She told police that Monday was the last time she had worn the coat.

Event Pays Tribute to Insurance

Life Insurance Week, accenting a patterned plan of family security, begins today in Long Beach.

Mayor Vermillion, paying tribute to an institution which plays a leading role in the protection of the family and home, proclaimed the event.

High points of Life Insurance Week will be a man-of-the-year banquet Friday in Lafayette Hotel and the honoring of leading men in local agencies.

Loren Evans, president of Life Underwriters Assn., praised the educational program at the Business and Technology Division of City College as "one of the best insurance courses in the nation."

* * * *

MORE THAN 300 are enrolled in insurance classes at the City College division which recognizes "the sociological trend in life insurance," said Fred Massey, chairman of the college life insurance education advisory committee.

Also slated to receive recognition during Life Insurance Week are group life insurance plans like those of the Long Beach Division of Douglas Aircraft Co.

Dr. Trueblood Address Set

Dr. Elton Trueblood will address the Long Beach Ministerial Union at the noon luncheon Tuesday in the Armed Services YMCA, 1076 W. Seaside Blvd.

Dr. Trueblood is well known for his books and religious writings. He served as religious adviser for the Voice of America.

4,000 to Campaign in Area Pilot Study

More than 4,000 volunteer workers will canvass homes Monday for the 1957 Heart Fund.

Led by 200 district captains and 70 area chairman, the volunteers will solicit donations from householders in Long Beach, Signal Hill and Lakewood from 4 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Heart Fund goal is $72,000, an increase of $14,000 over last year's objective.

THE LONG BEACH CAMPAIGN this year is a pilot study for the nation's 4,000 heart associations. Here, the door-to-door drive has been set for Monday instead of the traditional Sunday. Other communities will be conducting their heart drive today.

"We have found that many persons cannot, or do not wish to work on drives on Sunday," Daniel W. Farnham, Heart Fund chairman, said. "By changing Heart Day to Monday, we hope to increase funds by 100 per cent."

Each worker will wear a Heart Monday identification tag, carry a volunteer worker's kit and will offer an official container for contributions.

Donors are asked to check the identifications, Farnham reminded.

CAMPAIGN PROCEEDS will be used to support programs of research, education and community service designed to combat diseases of the heart and blood vessels. Such diseases are responsible for more than 800,000 deaths annually and affect more than 10 million living Americans.

A special Heart Fund breakfast will be held from 7 a. m. to 2 p. m. today in Mon's Restaurant, 2116 Pacific Ave. More than 750 persons are expected to attend.

The breakfast, open to the public, will cost $1.50 a person. All proceeds will be turned over to the Long Beach Heart Assn. Mrs. William H. Todd is chairman for the event.

New Library Plan Popular in Los Altos

Patrons formed long lines at the new Los Altos library Saturday with attendance boosted by the branch's first children's program.

Four special events are scheduled for the library's first full week of operation. Miss Nina Boyle, film librarian, Monday at 8 p.m. will conduct a cinema night program including four films.

* * * *

A BOOK REVIEW program is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday. Mrs. Mildred Snider, librarian, will be assisted by Mrs. Harriett Covery, Mrs. Alice Titus and Miss Alice Walsh.

Mrs. Mary Pearson, record librarian, will present a program of recordings Wednesday at 8 p.m. A panel of book reviews is scheduled Thursday at 8 p.m., with Miss Blanche Collins, assistant librarian in charge of branches, serving as moderator.

Bret Harte Book Unit Scheduled

Groundbreaking ceremonies for Bret Harte Library, first of four branches to be financed from a $659,000 city bond issue, will take place at 2 p. m. Monday.

Councilman John F. Baker, in whose district the project is located, will wield the city's chrome-plated shovel at the building site, 1595 W. Willow St., where preliminary construction is already under way.

Other City Council members as well as City Mgr. Sam E. Vickers and Librarian Edwin Castagna will take part in the brief ceremonies.

The $113,000 contract was awarded Dec. 26 to Beswick Construction Co., Long Beach. Completion is scheduled for next summer.

Plans provide for a frame and stucco building of contemporary design encompassing 6,600 square feet of floor area along with 920 square feet of porches and terraces.

The other three units will be Ruth Bach branch, southwest corner of Carson and Bellflower Blvds.; Dana branch, 37th and Atlantic, and Bay Shore branch, 2nd St. and Bay Shore Dr. Bach and Dana branches are scheduled for completion by October and Bay Shore by next year.

ANNOUNCES FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Duncan Seeks to Retain Office

M. A. (Bud) Duncan, 1505 Armando Dr., announced Saturday he is a candidate for re-election to another four-year term on the Board of Education of the Long Beach Unified School District.

District voters will elect two board members at the April 5 election as terms of Duncan and Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson expire. Mrs. Hudson also seeks re-election.

Duncan, a chemical engineer with the Long Beach Procter & Gamble factory since its start here 26 years ago, cited the unselfish work of the tens of thousands of citizens of Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill and Avalon—which comprise the district—in his appeal for re-election.

"Few school districts in this Southland area of unprecedented growth have met . . . the many problems . . . as well as the LBUSD," he said. "It has taken the combined will of all our people to meet this challenge.

"I have worked for a sound middle-of-the-road school system which will be a credit to the four cities of our school district. I believe in and have worked to provide comparable facilities in all parts of the district."

M. A. DUNCAN
Asks Re-election

* * * *

DUNCAN HAS been active for 18 years in public school affairs in the district and was for eight years chairman of the Public Schools Week Observance Committee.

He was three times chairman of Citizens Committees for Public Schools in fostering bond issues for school expansion. He is an honorary life member of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Duncan, 50, was a 1931 graduate—summa cum laude—of the University of Washington. He is a Phi Beta Kappa and member of five other honoraries.

He is past master of Long Beach Lodge No. 327, F. and A.M.

Sports smorgasboard . . .

OUT. Joe Hicks, who admits his heart belongs to baseball isn't interested in succeeding Cecil Coleman, resigned, in the football command post at Long Beach City College.

Handsome Joe, one of our town's more popular coaches and skipper of the Viking baseball ship, has eliminated himself with this statement:

For the past three seasons I have felt that it has been becoming increasingly difficult to be a good football assistant, husband, father and baseball coach.

"Therefore, I have requested to be relieved of my football assignment (under Coleman end coach and scout) in order to concentrate on baseball."

"I'm so bushed by the end of football season under present arrangements that I need a good rest before I can assume my baseball tasks with the proper zest and enthusiasm I should show for them. Moreover, the time spent in football should be used in recruiting and counseling the members of the baseball squad. I have lost several of them to pro ball because I haven't had enough time to devote to them."

Joe first served the Viking grid cause in 1940 as end coach and scout under Buck Andreasen. He remained on Buck's staff until 1954 when he put in a brief tour of duty in the military service. He rejoined Buck in 1955 and stayed on in the same job after Coleman took over.

Cecil has returned to his alma mater, Arizona State of Tempe, as backfield coach. Since his resignation, there has been talk of Joe moving up.

With Joe out of the picture, what about a successor?

Why not Jim Clayton, who has served under three different head men at Vikingville as line coach? Why not give Jim a shot at it? He deserves the opportunity for having toiled so faithfully and efficiently under Eddie Wagner for two years, under Andreasen for seven and under Coleman for one!

Shouldn't devoted service call for an opportunity to shoulder bigger responsibilities?

DEBUNKED. At best, the value of the training table and thick steaks, medium rare—a way of life in college football—is dubious. So says a well known medical publication after considered research.

Perhaps there is a psychological advantage in having football warriors dine together week after week and month after month. It concedes, but close study shows no other particular values.

This, however, will not lead all football coaches in the land to immediate elimination of their favorite institution. As one so coyly put it:

"If we tried feeding them a vegetable plate, they would really go out on the practice field and fight—yeah, fight us!"

OUTBID. Know the real reason the Los Angeles Rams didn't land John Witte's signature on a contract?

The Oregon State all-America tackle received better treatment from the Canadian League.

He signed for 10 grand. The Rams offered him only $8,000. He received another $1,000 for signing. The Rams offered him only $500.

There were other advantages to the Canadian offer. He will be given a part-time outside job during the football season, then in the off months will be guaranteed steady work in professional wrestling.

He may make as much in the grunt and groan racket as he does in football.

LEAVING. Paul Reginato, one of the central figures in the $325,000 damage suit won by a Dunsmir High School football player, has resigned his Dunsmuir grid job after nine years of duty.

He has accepted the head post at Livermore High School. His departure is not the direct result of the damage action to Anthony L. Welch.

In announcing its plans to appeal the colossal verdict, the Dunsmuir board of education said it does not hold Reginato negligent or responsible for the injury which paralyzed Welch.

"I advised the board at the end of last football season that I was leaving," Reginato stated. "I am making the move purely to advance myself into a position which will open the doors to administrative work. The opportunities I will have in Livermore are too good to pass up."

Rickey Bat Instructor

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Branch Rickey, still intrigued by challenge, said Saturday he was delighted to pinch hit for ailing George Sisler, the greatest all-around player he ever managed.

The chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Pirates accepted an invitation by his successor, General Manager Joe L. Brown, and Manager Bobby Bragan to take over Sisler's duties as special batting instructor iff spring training at Ft. Myers, Fla.

"The invitation is a challenging one and will definitely become my main interest," Rickey said.

Nielsen, Flam Gain Net Finals

NEW YORK (AP)—Kurt Nielsen, a big, mustachioed Dane and Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., scored surprising straight set victories Saturday to gain the final round of the National Indoor championships.

They clash for the title today with Nielsen favored to seize the crown which has eluded him twice before after he had gone this far.

The 28-year-old clouter from Copenhagen changed his tactics and used a soft, defensive slice to upset the top-seeded Dick Savitt of South Orange, N. J., 6-3, 8-6, 8-6.

Flam, although seeded third, gave a demonstration of almost unbelievable steadiness to crush Barry MacKay, 21-year-old University of Michigan senior from Dayton, Ohio, who was riding a string of sensational indoor victories. The score was 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

MacKay and Grant Golden of Wilmette, Ill., upset the No. 1 men's doubles team, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, and Schmidt 11-9, 6-0, 3-6, 6-3. They go into the finals against Savitt and Bill Talbert of New York, who won over Sidney Wood Jr., and son, Sydney III, of New York, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4.

Braves Sell 'All' Tickets

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves announced Saturday night that for the first time in the four years they've been setting National League attendance marks in Milwaukee, they've sold out their entire season ticket supply of 12,000.

If each ticket is used for each of the 72 home dates—and in Milwaukee that usually happens—the Braves would have an attendance of 864,000 for the 1957 season before they even start selling individual game tickets. Those go on sale today for the April 18 home opener against Cincinnati.

28 in Big Stock Test at Pomona

Jimmy Bryan, two-time national driving champion, will be seeking his second straight stock car victory as he heads an entry list of 28 of the nation's top drivers, including a dozen Indianapolis veterans and eight national champions, in this afternoon's 100-mile USAC national championship stock car race at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

Qualifying for the five event program starts at 12:30 p.m.

• • • •

BRYAN, WHO WAS just named captain of the American team that is going to race at Monza, Italy, after Indianapolis, tops the "500" veterans and national champions who'll be driving stock cars for the first time on the 11-turn, two-mile road racing course on the parking lot at Pomona.

• • • •

BILL STROPPE of Long Beach will have a three-car Mercury entry including the one driven by Bryan. Hanks and Mantz will be in the other two. Stevenson will be driving a Ford for Peter De Paolo Engineering of Long Beach who also has a three-car entry. The other two drivers are Ruttman and Jerry Unser Jr., Bill Stammer of Garden Grove will be at the controls of Beach City's Chevrolet.

Stram, SMU Aide, Shifts to Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—Henry Stram, backfield coach last year at Southern Methodist, has been hired at Notre Dame for the same job, Athletic Director Edward W. Krause announced Saturday.

The new Irish coach played football for Purdue. He was an assistant at Purdue until last year, when he tutored the SMU backfield.

Stram succeeds Jim Finks, who resigned to coach in the Canadian League.

Ferrie, Stevenson, Carmody, Olson to Compete in L.B. 'Masters' Tourney

By JERRY WYNN

The first annual Long Beach Masters—a golf tournament in which the club champions of Virginia CC, Recreation Park, Lakewood and Meadowlark will compete against each other in 72-hole medal play on all four courses—will begin Saturday.

The first round will be played at Lakewood; the second Sunday at Meadowlark; the third Saturday, March 9, at Virginia, and the fourth Sunday, March 10, at Recreation Park.

Representing Virginia will be Jim Ferrie, the former Southern California Amateur and Long Beach City champion and perennially one of the Southland's ranking golfers.

Recreation Park's candidate is youthful Pinky Stevenson, the Wilson High senior who holds the USGA National Junior Championship and was Long Beach's "golfer of the year" for 1956.

Carrying Lakewood's standard will be Dick Carmody, the sharp-shooting Long Beach City College star.

Meadowlark will pin its hopes on Craig Olson, the math teacher who calculates his golf scores in simple twos, threes and fours.

To the victor will go The Independent, Press-Telegram perpetual trophy to be kept at his club, an individual trophy and other prizes.

• • • •

ORIGINATED BY Lakewood Men's Club president Andy Holmes and this writer and being held with the cooperation and assistance of the men's clubs of each course, the tournament is designed both as a Long Beach "tournament of champions" and a capsule version of a Long Beach medal championship.

Since the Long Beach City Championship is match play and open to all golfers, there long has been a need for a new tournament here, medal play and restricted to clubs in the immediate Long Beach area.

The Masters should fill the vacuum.

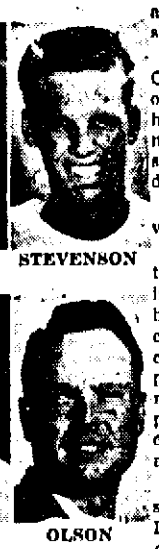

It figures to be an excellent test of golf. Unlike match play, in which several bad shots can be written off without serious consequences, every shot will count. The 72-hole distance will preclude the possibility of winning with just one hot round. By playing each round at a different course, the "home-course" advantage is eliminated.

Foremost, in Ferrie, Stevenson, Carmody and Olson, the Long Beach Masters will be contested by authentic golfing masters.

Tee-off time Saturday is 10 a. m.

Bob Kelley Says---

So close were the Washington Senators to moving into Los Angeles that a plan had already been formulated to placate Phil Wrigley for drafting his territory here. As the plan went, Washington would come into L.A. in 1958, after Wrigley's property here was drafted by the American League.

Next, the American League, which owns the San Francisco rights through the Boston Red Sox, planned to shift the Chicago White Sox to the Bay city. In this way, Wrigley would be left with the only team in Chicago. That was the thinking. But when the National League heard of it, Phil Wrigley moved first.

If the Brooklyn Dodgers decide to move here, it is not impossible that Wrigley Field will be their future home. Not the Wrigley Field we know now. But an enlarged model, with the surrounding property cleared for parking.

Obviously, there is only one way to land that property. Asking prices would be prohibitive. The syndicate that owns it would attempt to hold up a prospective buyer who needed it desperately to enlarge a ball park.

THE ANSWER might lie in Brooklyn selling Wrigley Field to the city of Los Angeles, having the city condemn the surrounding property, and then lease the expanded stadium back to the Walter O'Malley interests.

Of course, half the people in Southern California are taking credit for the Dodgers' purchase of the Angeles, and their possible future move here. These are the same people and politicians who have been screaming for major league ball for years—screaming, that's all they have been doing.

Sure, they were sincere in their urgings for big league baseball, I wanted it, too. But I didn't do anything to bring it here. Neither did they.

Only one man has ever done anything along that line—Mr. Phillip K. Wrigley. Right after the end of the war, when crowds were booming in the Coast League, Wrigley genuinely felt the answer was a third major league. But when the other PCL clubs didn't go along with improvements, he abandoned the possibility.

As his next move, Wrigley sent Bill Veeck here with a padded expense account and freedom to spend many thousands of dollars in surveys to determine the proper way of getting major league baseball for our area. When Veeck came up empty, Wrigley tried another plan.

Why not a 10-team National League, enveloping Los Angeles and San Francisco? This, however, was voted down by the other owners in his own league.

So Phil Wrigley had taken three swipes at the old apple without connecting. Being a man devoted to a crusade to bring Major League ball to Los Angeles, he made another move. He sold his property to Brooklyn, in hopes the Dodgers might be the answer.

The politicians and others may take credit for the big league possibility, but only one man, Phillip K. Wrigley, has really done anything about it.

Butler pointed out, however, that the vote of the directors and the subsequent transaction "would be contingent upon acceptance by the Pacific Coast League of the transfer of ownership of the Los Angeles franchise from Chicago to Brooklyn."

Heavy Downpour Postpones Third Round in Texas

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) — A heavy downpour which followed a nightlong drizzle rained out the third round of the $36,000 Houston Open golf tournament Saturday.

The third round will be played today, weather permitting, and the finals Monday.

Young Gene Bone is at the peak of his two-year pro career with a one-stroke lead over veteran Doug Ford at the halfway mark.

Winner of only $33.34 in seven 1957 tournaments, Bone said he was planning to return home from here for lack of funds.

"Now, I don't know," he said. "Maybe if I can win $100 I'll go on."

'My Aching Back' May Be Passe if Compton Doctor Has His Way

By DON MADDOCK

A Compton physician, Dr. Floyd E. Neff, is helping make "Oh, my aching back" as passe a cliche as "Oh, you kid!"

A comparatively unknown treatment method is his tool. The result has been relief or cure for persons who've suffered low back and other painful disabilities for as long as a half century.

The method hits at what is believed to be the source of most low back troubles—relaxation of joint ligaments. It consists of injecting a proliferating (producing) solution, mixed with a local anesthetic, into the fibrous strands of the ligament.

The solution builds new bone and fibrous tissue, strengthening the relaxed ligaments and forming tight welds at their attachments to bone.

While originally designed for low back treatment, it has been applied successfully to posterior ligaments of all joints of the spine as well as the sacroiliac, sacrococcygeal, hip, wrist and ankle.

* * * *

THE TREATMENT was developed by Dr. George S. Hackett of Canton, Ohio, who made more than 7,000 intraligamentous injections in treating 1,000 patients in 17 years. He reports eighty-two per cent consider themselves cured.

DR. NEFF . . . Trouble Needled at Source

Dr. Neff has treated more than 100 persons with various degrees of back disability. He says results have ranged from good to spectacular.

In the latter category is a 60-year-old woman who had a back ailment for 17 years. Her case history shows frequent periods of hospitalization.

Dr. Neff injected her lower back 10 months ago, and her upper back six months ago. She has been "very comfortable" for four months.

The treatment is painful at first. The first 12 to 18 hours bring the most discomfort. The patient is urged to remain quiet for two or three days, and to avoid strenuous activities.

Relief begins after the second day, Dr. Neff says. Best results are obtained in four to six weeks.

* * * *

DIAGNOSIS is made by obtaining muscular relaxation and applying pressure at the fibro-osseous (trigger point) where ligament relaxation occurs, and where pain and tenderness are located.

When the hypodermic needle is inserted into the trigger point, its pressure and the anesthetic solution reduce local and referred pains immediately.

Referred pains are those in areas other than that of the disability. For example, pain on the sole of the foot, or outer calf, comes from the posterior sacroiliac ligament.

New Records AT CITY LIBRARY

Some of the most refreshing music is performed by the "string family." Long Beach Public Library has a wide range of performers in this category in the record collection. All are recommended as "best of kind," but these are some of the newest:

Bach, "Works for the Lute" (Podolski, lute); Ives, "Sonatas for Violin and Piano" (Rafael Druian, violin and John Simms, piano); Mozart, "Quartets for Strings" (New Music Quartet); Prokofiev, "Quartet No. 1 for Strings" (Guilet Quartet) and Walton, "Quartet in A Minor for Strings" (Hollywood String Quartet).

THESE MEN SERVE TODAY WITH DISTINCTION TO PROTECT YOUR TOMORROWS

This week the Life Underwriters pictured here are being honored as the outstanding Life Insurance Men for 1956. Each has been chosen in his respective office as "outstanding" . . . not just for the amount of Life Insurance written but also for his genuine helpfulness to his clientele.

The recommendations these men make affect the future of many people. They are "life underwriters"—men whose knowledge of estates and life insurance programs assure their clients a safer tomorrow. Under today's complex tax structure, haphazard planning can reduce even large estates to the point of no return. When the estate is small, the need for wise counsel is even more urgent.

These men have proved they have the knowledge and experience to tailor an insurance program to fit exacting individual needs; to make estate arrangements which guarantee maximum security.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Those tentative trout seasons, mentioned a couple of weeks ago in this column, are now official. It will be April 27 for the general season, May 18 for the northern Sierra Nevada season and May 30 for certain portions of the northern coast.

The Fish and Game Commission, meeting in Sacramento Friday, approved the dates and, at the same time, refused to lower the limit from 15 fish per day to 10.

No action was needed on the eight southern counties, inasmuch as there is no closed season. Incidentally, Department of Fish and Game wardens made several big plants in Southern California last week. Streams and reservoirs stocked were Little Rock, East and West Forks of the San Gabriel River, Fulmor Lake, Hemet Lake, Sweetwater River, Santa Ysabel Creek, San Luis Rey River, Deep Cat Lake, Matilija Reservoir, Piru Lake, and Santa Paula Creek.

Trout fishing has been excellent at Arrowhead and Gregory Lakes, with even shirt-sleeve weather most of the time.

• • • •

THE F&GC BANNED liver and other meat as bait for taking trout. Most California hatcheries feed liver to young fish and when they are planted in lakes and streams they are easy prey to liver anglers.

It is still legal to dangle a ball of cheese in front of a trout. A proposal to ban cheese was dropped after an impassioned plea by Mrs. Armeine Howey of Los Angeles, who said most fisherwomen dislike handling worms.

• • • •

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the F&GC session at Sacramento: The commissioners said that they would not order an either-sex deer season for any part of California in 1957 unless the Legislature spells out the authority for them to limit the numbers of hunters in certain areas. Apparently the commissioners feel they have had enough abuse—yes, even threats—about the 1956 hunts and they are going to throw the controversial matter into the laps of the legislators.

Seth Gordon, director of the DF&G, told the commissioners that there will be a definite need for strict protection of salmon by 1958. For 1957, there will be no further regulations than those which already are in effect. Gordon said that the state's salmon fishery is in dire danger of depletion.

All of Amador County and that portion of Butte County north of the North Fork of the Feather River were placed in the April 27 season, instead of the May 3.

OFFICERS OF THE Long Beach Sportsman's Club were installed at a recent dinner-dance attended by more than 200 persons (members and wives). William T. (Bill) Skidmore took over as president, replacing Harry DuBay. Other officers: Dave Davis, vice president; Willie Hendrickson, secretary; William M. Ramsell, treasurer; H. J. (Dutch) Krutzfeldt, sgt. at arms; Harry DuBay, Cecil Blumenstein and Johnnie Miller, board members.

The Sportsman's Club, one of the oldest in the city, is exceptionally active in conservation work. It takes part in the Southern Council of Conservation Clubs, and the Ocean Fish Protective Assn. For many years, the LBSC and its affiliate, the Lady Anglers, have carried on an intensive campaign for Ducks Unlimited.

Trophies for the 1956 fishing season went to J. C. Morse, largest fresh-water fish (10½-pound bass); John Staples, largest yellowtail; Hal Ritter, largest albacore; Ivan Bowman and Johnny Holmes, albacore and Zeke Kennedy, largest trout.

Cobb Menke, Dave Davis, Johnnie Cerillo and Jack Bowman were singled out for their untiring committee efforts. Tex Herndon presented 20-year pins to several members. Joe Sears, club historian, gave a resume of the club's activities for 1956.

SPRING FEVER is hitting the ocean landings, with the result that many operators are planning early expeditions to banks where they hope to catch more than the usual winter take of rockfish. Already some boats are taking barracuda at Catalina Island and in Santa Monica Bay.

When that kind of word gets around, other skippers usually start warming up for early spring runs.

Meanwhile, the winter boats are bringing in some of the biggest loads of rock cod and grouper seen on this coast for many seasons. Pacific Landing claims that in the new Estrella it will have the most modern fishing boat on the coast. The Estrella is getting a real face-lifting and will appear shortly with a large lounge and topside controls.

The Malden II and the Bright I, are sailing daily from Santa Monica Pier. They were shifted there because of the reconstruction work at Ocean Park Pier.

Shell Oil Co.'s application to conduct seismic explorations between Pt. Arguello and the mouth of the Santa Ana River has been denied by the Fish and Game Commission.

SC, UCLA Collide at Pan-Pacific Tuesday

Neighborly pals, SC and UCLA come to a parting of the ways this week in basketball. They meet Tuesday night at the Pan-Pacific Auditorium — by way of warming up(?) for weekend Pacific Coast Conference dates with Oregon's Webfoots and the California Golden Bears.

For the high-flying Bruins, it's a case of travel. The Uclans meet the Bears at Berkeley Friday and Saturday nights, while SC will stay at home to play the Webfoots at the Pan the same nights.

The situation the next week is similar. On Tuesday, March 5, the Trojans and Bruins will tangle again, this one marking the end of the UCLA PCC season. Then it will be SC's turn to tackle the Bears, hosting them Friday and Saturday, March 8-9, at the Pan-Pacific.

Other PCC pairings this week: Stanford at Idaho, Washington State at Oregon State and Washington idle, March 1-2.

Loyola invades San Diego State Tuesday night, then hosts College of Pacific Friday and Fresno State Saturday at the Lion gym in California Basketball Assn. games. Pepperdine entertains Fresno Friday and COP Saturday.

Long Beach State College's 49ers, finished with their regular season, will portray the role of the host to the annual Brown and Gold Tournament at the LBSC gym this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. With many of the Southland's small college quints enrolled, it will be a big week for the Staters.

Dye Gains Finals Against Romack

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Mrs. Alice O'Neal Dye of Indianapolis, Ind., staged a brilliant comeback Saturday and sank a 36-foot putt on the 21st hole to gain the final of the South Atlantic women's golf championship. She defeated Anne Richardson of Columbus, O., 1 up.

Mrs. Dye will play Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., in the 36-hole final today. Miss Romack, who has lost only one hole in four matches here, ousted Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, Md., 5 and 4 in the other semi-final.

TIGERS READY TO GIVE YANKS SERIOUS CHASE?

Lane Sees 4-Team Race in NL

By JOE REICHLER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Is this the year Mickey Mantle will break Babe Ruth's home run record? Will the Cinderella story of Sal Maglie add another lustrous chapter or will the clock strike midnight for the old Barber? Can the Brooklyn Dodgers successfully defend their National League crown without Jackie Robinson?

Is Roy Campanella really "washed up?" How long can Cleveland's Bob Lemon and Early Wynn continue to win 20? Is Detroit ready to challenge the Yankees? Is this Ted Williams' last year? Will last year's September jitters leave any scars on the Milwaukee Braves? Is this the year for the slugging Redlegs of Cincinnati or were they simply one-year wonders?

These and other questions stood out on the baseball horizon today as the 16 major league teams prepared to launch their annual spring training preparations.

As in 1956, a dozen clubs will make their bases in Florida while Cleveland, Baltimore, the New York Giants and Chicago Cubs will train in Arizona. A handful of clubs already have gotten under way. By March 1 all clubs will be in action.

To nobody's surprise, the Yankees and Dodgers have been established as winter favorites to meet again in the World Series next October. Most observers believe the Yankees will have an even easier time capturing the American League flag than they had last year when they finished nine games in front of runner-up Cleveland. They're not so sure of the Dodgers, however.

• • • •

"THE DODGERS won by the skin of their teeth last year," reminded Frank Lane, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. "They didn't do it until the last day. Now they find themselves without Jackie Robinson, who was the inspirational force, the blood and guts of the ball club. They're not sure about Roy Campanella's hands, they don't know what effect those beatings by the Yankees will have on Don Newcombe and they have no right to expect Sal Maglie to pitch the kind of ball he did last year.

"You can't have a tighter race than we had last year," Lane continued, "but I believe the league will be better balanced this year. With one or two exceptions every club has improved. I know we'll be from 10 to 12 games better. I look for it to be a four-team race this year with the Cardinals joining last year's three contenders."

THERE ARE MANY who still believe the Braves had the best club in the National League last year and should have romped off with the flag. Inexperience and a case of understandable jitters down the homestretch hurt them as much as the opposing teams. The question now remains: Can they weather another tight struggle down the wire or must they jump off to a giant-sized lead—as Brooklyn did in 1955—to ease the pressure?

There's a surprising amount of support for the Redlegs, who surprised last year by finishing a strong third under the expert direction of manager Birdie Tebbetts. Realists reason, however, that it took almost superhuman slugging effort by the team (a record-tying 221 home runs) to make the club a challenger. Cincinnati's mediocre pitching staff remains a question along with whether Frank Robinson, Ed Bailey, Wally Post, Ted Kluszewski, Johnny Temple and Roy McMillan can all repeat their standout seasons.

• • • •

WITH NEARLY everyone conceding the AL pennant to the Yankees, most of the attention will be focused on Mantle, the world champion's switch-hitting slugger. Even if Mickey fails to top Ruth's 60 home runs in 1927, he is favored to capture the home run, runs batted in and batting titles just as he did last year to become the majors' first triple crown champion since Williams in '47. It wouldn't surprise many if the 26-year-old strong boy from Commerce, Okla., were to improve on his 1956 figures of .353, 130 runs batted in and 52 home runs.

Many experts believe the Tigers will displace the Indians as the most serious threat to the Yankees. They base their opinions on the presence of such fine hitters in the Tiger lineup as Harvey Kuenn, Al Kaline, Ray Boone and Charley Maxwell and the strong young hurling staff headed by 20-game winners Frank Lary and Billy Hoeft. The Tigers were fifth last year.

• • • •

THE INDIANS, already short on power, figure to be even harder hit by the retirement of Al Rosen, who represented their most potent righthanded weapon. They still possess the best pitching in the league but Wynn is 37 and Lemon is 36. The Indians probably will have more fire and hustle under Kerby Farrell, their new manager.

Jack Tighe at Detroit and Bob Scheffing, with the Chicago Cubs, are the other pilots who will make their major league debuts. Two others—Al Lopez with the White Sox and Fred Haney with the Braves—will be making their first training trip with new clubs. Lopez switched from Cleveland to Chicago during the winter and Haney succeeded Charley Grimm last June.

• • • •

THE RED SOX and White Sox, who finished far behind the Yankees last year, must depend on almost the same personnel this year. They were among the inactives in a light trading season. Kansas City, which figured in two of the five important deals, was the briskest trader. The A's acquired four players, including veteran pitchers Ned Garver and Virgil Trucks, in an eight-player deal with Detroit. They also obtained pitchers Tom Morgan, Mickey McDermott and Rip Coleman, outfielder Irv Noren and infielders Billy Hunter and Milt Graff from the Yankees for pitchers Art Ditmar and Bobby Shantz.

The Cardinals were the most active traders in the National League. They sent Rip Repulski and infielder Bobby Morgan to Philadelphia for slugger Del Ennis and acquired pitchers Sam Jones and Jim Davis in a 10-player deal with the Cubs, who received catcher Ray Katt and pitchers Tom Poholsky and Jackie Collum. The Cubs also sent pitcher Warren Hacker and infielder Don Hoak to the Reds for third baseman Ray Jablonski and purchased catcher Charlie Silvera from the Yankees.

Pirates' Shepard Retires

Catcher Jack Shepard agreed verbally to 1957 contract terms with the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday, then later informed the club he was quitting baseball "for good."

General manager Joe L. Brown said the 24-year-old veteran of three seasons in the National League wired him Saturday, saying he would accept "one of several business opportunities" offered him. Shepard did not elaborate.

Last season he hit .242 in 100 games.

Lee Walls, an outfielder, is the only Pirate still not signed.

PHILLIES—Signed outfielder Frankie Baumholtz (.270) to bring roster to 31.

BRAVES—Signed pitcher Gene Conley (9-9) for reported $17,000. Pitchers Bob Buhl and Lew Burdette, who won 37 games between them last year, are still unsigned.

CARDINALS—Tom Hughes, Ed Mayer and Harold Ratchal will pitch today in a practice game against Phillies rookies.

DODGERS—Pitchers Roger Craig, Don Drysdale and Don Bessent will be given special instructions this spring designed to improve their effectiveness.

CUBS—Completed roster with signing of outfielder Bob Speake.

YANKEES—Bobby Shantz reported to St. Petersburg, Fla., camp and told manager Casey Stengel that his left arm is sound and that he is capable of winning a job as a starting pitcher. Stengel warned the ex-Athletics star to take it easy at first. "I don't know if he'll be a starter or reliever," Stengel said. "If he wants to try the pressure of a full game, I'll let him."

ATHLETICS—Ned Garver, obtained in trade with Detroit, signed his contract. Righthander Tracy Hargrave (1-13) has been optioned to Little Rock.

INDIANS—Bulk of squad is expected to report at Tucson, Ariz., today. Nine players will be given Salk shots for prevention of polio.

Casper Leads in Initial Ratings for Pro Awards

HOUSTON (AP) — Billy Casper Jr., Bonita, Calif., is the leader in initial ratings for a new top tournament player award designed to allow the payment of legitimate appearance money at PGA-sponsored golf tournaments.

The new system will select the top 10 players each year under a formula that includes points for championship, money winning and early entries in tournaments. Penalty points will be deducted for such violations as failure to report for a tournament after an entry has been filed.

Under the new system, the No. 1 players for 1957 will receive $400 in "appearance money" at each PGA-sponsored tournament he enters in 1958. After the $400 for the No. 1 player, the payments are scaled downward to $80 each for those ranked ninth and tenth.

All players must compete in at least 20 tournaments to be eligible for the new points program's monetary awards.

Corn Husker Takes 'Cap

Corn Husker and Holandes raced head-and-head to a point just inside the 16th pole when Corn Husker suddenly found that extra drive which enabled him to fight off the South American's challenge and pull out to a half-length advantage which he held to the wire 100 yards away with Spinney finishing only another half-length back.

• • • •

WILLIE SHOEMAKER, who rode Holandes, said he had no great trouble other than losing a little ground on the stretch turn, but was of the opinion that the weight spread told on him a bit.

"But no excuses," he declared. "We just couldn't get there!"

Willie Harmatz, who piloted Spinney to a stunning upset in the rich Maturity a month ago, said his horse "wanted to run all the way, but tired a bit at the end."

Gordon Glisson, on the fast-closing Lover Boy, said that when he was ready to move, the front-runners were "dying" and there was so much traffic that "I had to go outside and in doing so lost a lot of ground."

It was the consensus of the riders that there was quite a traffic jam as the field turned for home . . . trapping some of the horses and preventing them from finishing farther up.

Corn Husker, which opened at 100-1 in the future book and closed at 6-1, undoubtedly would have gone postward Saturday at least 20-1 if it hadn't been for the fact he was part of trainer Charley Whittingham's three-horse entry.

• • • •

AFTER THE race, Whittingham sheepishly admitted that Corn Husker was shipped to Santa Anita this winter as an "extra horse" in the Llangollen shipment from Pimlico. "I didn't want any hurdlers," he said, "but Mrs. Lunn added the horse to the shipment at the last minute."

"I knew he was a great horse all along and he's been sort of a pet of mine," Mrs. Lunn declared. "I had him schooled over the hurdles because I wanted to win the Louie Stoddard Memorial Race at Belmont. Mr. Stoddard was a very close friend of mine and I thought it would be nice to have a winner in the event dedicated to his memory."

Corn Husker won the mile and three-quarters Stoddard hurdle race last October by three-quarters of a length carrying 141 pounds. A month before that he won a hurdles "tuneup" over the same course by 15 lengths carrying 131 pounds.

• • • •

THUS, HIS 105 pounds Saturday was a "feather" compared to what the four-year-old brown gelding has carried in winning efforts.

Corn Husker got his name from his dam, Miss Nebraska, whom Mrs. Lunn is in the process of buying back. She also owns his sire, the Argentine Endeavor II.

Incidentally, Corn Husker gets his size from his father, one of the largest thoroughbreds ever to race. Endeavor took a crack at the Hundred Grander in 1948, but finished 12th in the event won by Talon.

Corn Husker broke even in his first four starts at Santa Anita this winter.

• • • •

HE WON THE mile and one-quarter San Gabriel 'Cap on the turf on New Year's Day; placed third to Blen Host and Count Chic in an overnight affair; was third to Alidon and Battle Dance in the San Marcos turf event, and in his final tightener, whipped Pit Boss and Spinney under 119-pound impost in an overnighter Feb. 14.

Corn Husker's future? No more hurdles. He'll stick to the flat course from here on out.

He's nominated for the Camino Real turf event next Saturday but may skip it to go in the $100,000 San Juan Capistrano, mile and three-quarters turf classic, in two weeks.

Long Beach's Johnny Tate fulfilled a long-standing ambition this week by announcing his decision to follow a professional career in golf.

"By making the move now, I'll be eligible for collecting money on next year's winter tour," said the 22-year-old former junior whiz. "I held my own against Littler, Casper, Holscher and Whitt while playing for San Diego Navy and hope to do as well against them as a pro."

Tate is a 100 per cent Long Beach product and comes from a golfing family that also features sister Norma Deeble. As a 13-year-old in 1948, he won the Recreation Park Junior Championship and went on from there to capture a bushel-full of Southern California titles including the 1951 Long Beach Junior. He was "golfer of the year" for three years at Wilson High.

JOHNNY TATE
Joins Pro Ranks

In senior competition, he reached the semi-finals of the Long Beach City Championship in 1951 and the finals in 1952, bowing to Irv. Cooper in an all-L. B. title match. He was city medalist that year with a sensational seven-under par 65 at Recreation Park. Also in 1952, he represented this area in the National Amateur.

After serving in the Navy, Tate returned home to lead Long Beach City College to the Metropolitan Conference title last year.

Although his plans for the immediate future are indefinite, he has already started to give lessons at Chuck Beatty's Circle Fairways range. As an extra attraction to his teaching, he takes motion pictures of his pupils' swings.

A new Long Beach pro and a good one . . . Johnny Tate.

IT'S OFFICIAL. The 1957 Southern California PGA Championship at Recreation Park will be played for a record purse of $7,500.

Mark down and underline the dates, July 11-14, for with defending champion Eric Monti, runnerup Paul Runyan and Tommy Bolt, Jerry Barber, Jim Ferrier, Joe Kirkwood Jr. and Jimmy Clark probable starters and even Lloyd Mangrum a strong possibility, the tournament should be the best year.

The increase of $1,500 over last year's purse will enable the 16 golfers who have won just two matches to earn $75 apiece. The victor's slice has been boosted from $1,200 to $1,500—only $500 less than a winner of a $15,000 national PGA tournament receives.

"The new setup should greatly stimulate interest and add pressure to the finals," says tournament chairman George Lake. "Since the runner-up will still get $800, there'll be $700 riding on the match."

THE VIRGINIA Thursday SCGA team followed the lead of its Sunday club-mates by taking a healthy first-place lead in its battle for the Group I title. With two matches left, Sol Deeble's squad is 17 points ahead of second-place Wilshire. The Sunday squad has already clinched its Group VI crown.

Deadline for entering the Southern California Publinx Class Championships is Friday. Entries may be obtained at all pro shops.

"ISN'T IT STRANGE that men who have successfully made Long Beach golf their life's work cannot qualify for advancement?

This is the situation confronting certain Recreation Park employes who are unable to apply for the new position of assistant manager, City Golf Division, because of requirements that demand two years greens-keeping experience.

The City won't be able to find better men than some it already has working devotedly for it at Recreation Park.

Why go elsewhere?

Bardstown Wins Widener in Hand

MIAMI (AP)—The old saying that "Calumet wins the big ones" proved true again Saturday when Bardstown took the $119,400 Widener Handicap before 30,657 racing fans at Hialeah Park.

Bardstown, under top weight of 126 pounds, carried jockey Willie Hartack to a 4½-length victory over Mr. First in the mile and a quarter race. He covered the distance in 2:03 over a track rated "good."

Summer Tan, who beat Bardstown in the McLennan two weeks ago and went off as the odds-on favorite faded badly in the stretch and finished fourth in the five-horse field behind Castle Rock Farm's Mr. First and Formella Stable's Switch On. Mrs. J. A. Leone's Rockcastle was fifth.

• • • •

BARDSTOWN took the lead coming out of the gate and never slowed up, leaving the four others chasing him all the way. Along the back stretch he was only three quarters of a length in front. But when they entered the home stretch he was sailing along and nobody could catch him.

Summer Tan, favored at 55 cents on the dollar, was running third behind Bardstown and Switch On down the back stretch. He made his move rounding the home turn and pulled out a length ahead of Switch On after a mile. He held that length lead at the start of the stretch but Bardstown had blazed out to a four-length lead.

• • • •

WHEN SUMMER Tan faltered in the stretch, Mr. First, who was eight lengths back in fourth, turned on a closing burst which put him in second place at the wire, Switch On moved up to third, a head in front of Summer Tan. Rockcastle was 17 lengths back.

Bardstown, 8-5 in the odds, paid $5.40 and $4.10. Mr. First returned $8.10 to place. There was no show betting because of the small field—smallest in the 20 runnings of the Widener.

It was Calumet's fifth Widener victory and Bardstown earned $82,200, boosting his total earnings to $315,150 in 16 starts.

International Stable's Rumbo, a recent import from Argentina, beat out the favored Better Weapon by a neck to win the $10,675 Burlingame Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Rumbo, with Rene Cruzat up, covered the 1 1/16 miles in 1:45 3/5 on a sloppy track. An outsider, he paid $21.50, $6.90 and $3.90.

Rumbo was second top-weight with 117. Better Weapon carried 119.

The 9-race program attracted 13,948 fans who wagered $691,893.

How Lindbergh Kidnaper Was Trapped

Evidence Holds Firm for Quarter Century

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN

HOPEWELL, N. J. (AP)—The night of March 1, 1932, was cold, raw and windy.

The wind whistled through the trees high in the Sourland mountains in East Amwell township where a newcomer, Charles A. Lindbergh, had built a home. Here in the forbidding Sourlands he thought he had found privacy.

On the first floor of the 2½-story whitewashed house Lindbergh and his wife, the former Anne Morrow, were talking. Upstairs in his crib in the nursery was the couple's only child, Charles Jr., now 19 months old.

At 9:10 there was a strange noise which Lindbergh said later sounded like "the top slats of an orange box falling off a chair."

"What's that?" he asked his wife. But he let the incident pass without further thought.

At 10 o'clock the nursemaid, Betty Gow, found the baby gone. "Have you the baby?" she asked Mrs. Lindbergh, now in her upstairs room. The answer was "no."

She went downstairs and asked the same question of Lindbergh. Again the answer was "no."

His own search of the nursery futile, Lindbergh grabbed a rifle from a closet, ran into Mrs. Lindbergh's room and said, "Anne, they have stolen our baby."

This was the beginning of the nation's most famous kidnaping case.

LINDBERGH HIMSELF notified the police and then went out, bareheaded into the night in a forlorn search for his son.

For two hectic months he searched by land, sea and air. He was on a small yacht off the Virginia Capes searching for a phantom ship when word came on May 12 that his son was dead. A workman had stumbled over the body in a shallow grave five miles from the Lindbergh home.

FBI agents and police throughout the nation intensified their search for the kidnaper—or kidnapers.

Two years and four months later—on Sept. 19, 1934—a 35-year-old Bronx carpenter was arrested. His name was Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Hauptmann died for the crime, on April 3, 1936, in the electric chair in New Jersey's state prison at Trenton. He had been convicted of murder in a celebrated trial where the evidence was largely circumstantial.

Now, 25 years after the Lindbergh kidnaping, that circumstantial evidence has stood up. Nothing has been brought to light that would dispute the state's contention that Hauptmann —and Hauptmann alone—committed the crime.

NEW JERSEY'S highest court, hearing Hauptmann's appeal from conviction, said three evidential factors "pointed unerringly to guilt."

They were: Hauptmann's possession of ransom money, his handwriting on the ransom notes, and proof that wood in the kidnap ladder came from the attic of his Bronx home.

The Lindbergh kidnaper had left a crudely written note on the windowsill of the baby's nursery, demanding $50,000 ransom.

Lindbergh paid that ransom the night of April 2, 1932, in a Bronx cemetery. With him was John F. Condon, an intermediary—the famous "Jafsie" (his initials J. F. C. led to the nickname).

"Hey, doctor, doctor, over here!" came a voice from behind the hedge. Condon paid over the $50,000 and got in return a note which said "The boy is on boad Nelly."

"Have you heard that voice since?" Lindbergh was asked at the trial.

"I have."

"Whose voice was it?"

"It was the voice of Bruno Richard Hauptmann."

The ransom payment failed of its purpose—return of the child. But it led to Hauptmann's arrest.

The government distributed 250,000 circulars bearing the serial numbers of the money—$35,000 in gold certificates, $15,000 in other paper currency.

And then the government called in its gold—a measure born of the depression. President Roosevelt set May 1, 1933, as the deadline for conversion of gold certificates. Thereafter, the gold notes of the Lindbergh ransom were indeed "hot."

THE BILLS turned up here and there. They became pinpoints on a central map—and the pinheads bunched in the Bronx.

"And the first thing you know a little gas station attendant in the Bronx found the man that murdered the Lindbergh child" was the way the state's chief prosecutor, Atty. Gen. David T. Wilentz, related the story to the jury.

On Sept. 15, 1934, a man drove up to Walter Lyle's filling station and bought five gallons of gas. He gave Lyle a $10 gold note. Lyle wrote the auto license number on the bill. Four days later Hauptmann was arrested. On his person they found one of the $20 ransom bills.

And in Hauptmann's garage police found $14,600 of the ransom money.

Frank J. Wilson, a special agent in charge of the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Service, was on the stand when the $14,600 was offered in evidence.

"So far as you know, Mr. Wilson, since the indictment of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for murder has there been one ransom bill turned up?" Wilentz asked him.

"No sir."

If the question were asked today, says Wilentz, the answer would be the same.

BUT THE MONEY was not the only incriminating thing found in Hauptmann's house. An expert on wood discovered that a piece of the attic flooring had been used as a rail of the kidnap ladder. The ladder was found near the Lindbergh home the night the child was stolen.

"He has got this ladder right around his neck," Wilentz told the jury. And he set out to prove it by calling as a star witness Arthur Koehler, a wood technologist.

One ladder rail, Koehler said, had once been part of a floor board in the attic. Koehler laid the board on a joist in the attic and found nail holes in the board exactly matched those in the joist. He said:

"There are four nail holes a certain distance apart and a certain direction from each other and in my opinion it wouldn't be possible that there would have been another board somewhere with cut nail holes in them, spaced exactly like these nail holes are in the joists, the same distance apart, the same direction from each other."

He observed also that one nail hole "is slanting, and the nail hole in the joist had the same slant."

In May, 1932, Koehler had set about tracing the origin of the wood used in the ladder.

Koehler detected a tiny groove in the wood which he knew was made by a knife of a certain type.

He canvassed 1,598 planing mills from New York City to Alabama and found only 25 used the specific knives he was looking for. Two of these he ruled out because they did not dress one-by-four stock lumber—the wood used in the ladder. He got samples from the other 23 firms and found only one with markings spaced like those on the ladder rail. That mill was in McCormick, S. C.

He traced 45 carloads of lumber from the mill to 25 firms and finally, in November, 1933, found at a lumber company in the Bronx a piece of lumber with a defect matching that on the ladder rail. This was 10 months before Hauptmann's arrest. It was disclosed later that Hauptmann had bought $10 worth of the lumber there in 1931.

THE LADDER, like the ransom money, led to Hauptmann. So did the handwriting on 14 ransom notes. Seven handwriting experts compared the handwriting with Hauptmann's.

All reached the same conclusion—Hauptmann wrote them all.

"And remember this," said the state. "As soon as Bruno Richard Hauptmann received the $50,000 from Dr. Condon, what happened? No more notes—the notes stopped."

This was circumstantial evidence, but the presiding judge, Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard told the jury:

"In order to justify the conviction of the defendant upon circumstantial evidence, it is necessary not only that all the circumstances concur to show that he committed the crime charged, but that they are inconsistent with any other rational conclusion."

Such circumstantial evidence, the court said, was "satisfactory and convincing as that of the most direct and positive character."

The state told the jury:

"Remember, we are not required to have a picture of this man coming down the ladder with the Lindbergh baby."

New Jersey's highest court concurred:

"Our conclusion is that the verdict is not only not contrary to the evidence, but one to which the evidence inescapably led."

It Happened Last Night

By Earl Wilson

JOAN IS GOIN'

NEW YORK—"This is my no-makeup day," Joan Crawford announced on a recent Saturday afternoon. "My husband hates makeup. He likes my well-scrubbed look."

Al Steele nodded. "I think without makeup she looks younger and prettier," he said.

Joan Crawford

They were having a quiet afternoon in the Sutton Pl. apartment they're occupying until their new triplex in the E. 70s is ready. Joan's hair was drawn back tightly in a bun and she wore a yellow satin coolie coat, black Jamaican pants and black hand-crocheted shoes with rhinestones. Three French poodles rolled around on the divan contesting for her attention.

It would have been absurb to ask how the marriage is going. The answer was right there to see—and it'll be two years in May.

"I just have my suitcases open ready to go when Al wants to shove off for somewhere," she said. "With me it's 'Go, girl, go!'"

Her husband hoarded all his not-too-pressing European business until last August; then he accompanied her to England where she made the film, "The Golden Virgin," with Rossano Brazzi.

"I've put my Hollywood house up for sale," Joan offered.

"I adore Hollywood. But in the future I'll only make pictures 'there when Al can be there. Other times I'll just live right here in his lap. A 3-week separation in Europe was enough—are you kidding?"

• • • •

AL WONDERED if it would be all right if he brought out a scrapbook of Joan's press clippings which accumulated while she was in England.

"It's interesting because, with all the other American people getting their brains beat out, my bride didn't get one bad story," he explained.

Joan got down on the floor and piloted me through the clippings. One very tough London columnist had rhapsodized about her as "an authentic beauty." Another had written so glowingly of her that his editor told him, "I sent you to do a story on her, not to fall in love with her."

"I don't think the London press is unfriendly to Americans," Joan said, "as long as you're honest with them and if you appear when you're supposed to.

"Naturally they don't like to wait for hours for somebody to show up."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . . "DON'T PRINT THAT!": An expose magazine publisher admires a famous TV entertainer, so he buys up all the derogatory articles about his hero—and destroys 'em.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Nothing is impossible to the man who doesn't have to do it himself."—Outspan.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Publicist Eddie Jaffee, who made a TV appearance got a call a week later from a pal who said, "Ed, we're having trouble with our set—I can't get your picture off the screen!"

Tony Bennett, whose album, "Tony," is a best-seller, said jokingly, "I know how to make it sell better—put Sinatra's picture on it" . . . That's earl, brother.

WELK COMING

Lawrence Welk and his entire "Champagne Music" aggregation will be in Long Beach Tuesday evening, March 5, appearing at Municipal Auditorium. Advance ticket sales will be started Monday, at the Auditorium boxoffice. The appearance is sponsored by the Carmelite Auxiliary and admission will be $1.50.

'Little Hut' Run Extended

"The Little Hut," now playing at The Theatre, 2400 Magnolia Ave., has extended its run through March 10. Due to an overwhelming demand for tickets for this sparkling and mirthful comedy, this holdover has become a "Must" for The Theatre. Many who have enjoyed this hilarious play are now ordering their tickets to see it the second time.

Signs Stars for Records

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Geordie Hormel, who would rather press wax than smoke hams, has signed 15 movie stars—most of whom never have sung before—for a record album.

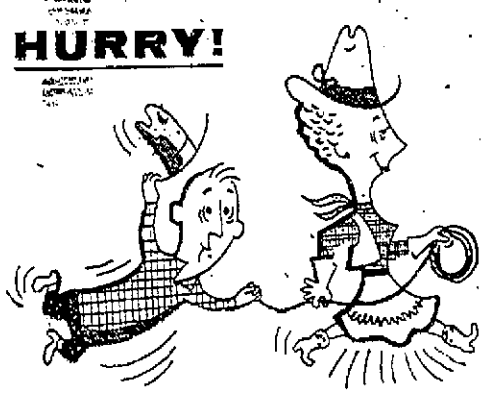

Hormel, scion of the meat packing family, is now president of Zephyr Records, an up-and-coming label.

None of the movie star performers—until now—has been known as a singer. They are Debra Paget, Pat O'Brien, Eva Gabor, Marge and Gower Champion, Mark Stevens, Ida Lupino, Preston Foster, Corinne Calvet, Ricardo Montalban, Margaret O'Brien, Howard Duff, Rita Moreno, Eve Arden and Rory Calhoun.

Plan Luxury Homes Near Country Club

Plans for development of 340 "luxury-type" homes around Lakewood Country Club were announced Saturday by Louis H. Boyar, subdivider.

The tracts comprise virtually the last remaining single-family residential subdivision acreage of Lakewood Park Corp within the City of Lakewood.

Boyar said that 300 lots will be sold in the tracts, to be called "Lakewood Country Club Estates."

The lots will range in price from $7,250 up to $22,500 for the 33 largest lots which will form an island in the middle of the golf course.

The lot sizes will vary from a minimum of 1,450 square feet to 2,500 square feet.

Gene Nebeker Realty Co. was named exclusive agent for the project.

• • • •

BOYAR AND his associates will build "customized" homes selling for about $24,000 on 40 lots located between Carson St. and Warwood Rd. from Klondike Ave. to Levelside Ave.

The tracts, all located north of Carson St., are on the east side of the Country Club and golf course and extend around the north side of the golf course, ending on the east side of the golf course just north of the Lakewood Estates area.

Boyar said the developers will put in street lights, curbs and other subdivision improvements throughout the tracts during the year.

Warehouse Here Supplies Pharmacies in Southland

Complete in every detail, McKesson & Robbins Inc. big new warehouse, 2100 E. Artesia Blvd., is now serving drugstores and hospital pharmaceutical staffs throughout the Southland.

With 74 employes and a fleet of 8 trucks operating from the big new warehouse, supplies can reach the Southland cities much quicker than in former years when served from a Los Angeles warehouse. This was shown to more than 400 persons last Sunday at an open house.

Among those attending were Max Weisberg, president of the California State Board of Pharmacy; Rollin B. Rucker, district vice president of McKesson & Robbins, Los Angeles; H. I. Barnes, inspector for the State Board of Pharmacy; Fred Shafer, vice president of California Bank, as well as representation from the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce and other civic leaders.

They were greeted by C. M. Blackhurst, Long Beach division manager; Hubert Conley, sales manager, and Jim Sims, operational manager.

Visitors were given a conducted tour through one of the most modern, up-to-date warehouses in this area. The tour included inspection of the new narcotics vault and an explanation of their system for handling refrigerated antibiotics. The visit ended with a buffet and cocktails.

Silver Dollar Quiz at Realty Meeting

Norman Woest, community relations director for Title Insurance and Trust Co., Los Angeles, will present his "Silver Dollar Quiz" at the Tuesday morning meeting of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, Clyde Graham, program chairman, announced. The meeting is scheduled for 7:15 a.m. at the Lafayette Hotel.

Quizmaster Woest will award silver dollars to those who answer his questions relating to California real estate law. Woest will be assisted in the program by Steve Birch, the company's customer relations representative in the Long Beach area.

New Terms Are Offered

Special offer of nothing down terms for vets and good FHA and conventional terms for non-vets is expected to attract large crowds this week to Orangewood Estates to see W. E. Robertson Co.'s new series of Fireside Homes.

"During this event, we shall attempt to work out a solution for any family with a home-buying problem," it was stated by a company official in announcing the terms.

Furnished model homes, he said, are now on view from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. daily at Orangethrope and Eadington Aves., Fullerton.

Particular interest is being shown by visitors in such luxury features as private suites of 2 bedrooms and bath for children which are located across the homes from master suites with their own large baths. Other plans offer a choice of 3 or 4 bedroom with 2 baths.

Also featured are built-in gas ranges and ovens, built-in brick barbecues, paneled fireplaces and sliding glass doors leading from large living rooms to attractive patios.

A Job Well Done in Critical Times

ONE OF THE BIGGEST jobs in the field of education in the world today is that of Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of California.

The man who holds that job is not, however, often in the spotlight of public attention. He deserves more attention than he gets, and we'd like to pay him this small notice.

DR. ROY E. SIMPSON has been Superintendent of Public Instruction during a decade which has seen the number of boys and girls in California schools jump from 1,401,211 to 2,749,462.

During the same decade, a total of 17,800 new classrooms were put under construction or completed and an additional 1,994 were put in the planning stage.

The Department of Education is big business—with an operating budget of more than $3,000,000. For the current fiscal year the state school support cost comes to $460,995,369. From 1945 through December 31, 1956, $1,803,864 worth of school buildings were constructed in the state of California. In the same period the people of California and the Legislature authorized, for capital outlay, State Aid funds totaling $690,000,000.

DURING Dr. Simpson's tenure, three new state colleges have been added—Los Angeles State College of Applied Arts and Sciences, Sacramento State College, and our own Long Beach State College, which is the most recent and which will soon be the largest.

Under his leadership, the Department of Education has been reorganized to meet the challenges of the population boom and he has been responsible for numerous professional improvements in the office of County Superintendent of Schools—the key level of school administration.

DR. SIMPSON HAS DONE a good job at a critical time in the history of education in our state. The critical era is not over. By the year 1970, 4,345,200 boys and girls will be enrolled in California schools. What is now a big job grows bigger with the opening of each new term; the responsibilities and the problems grow ever larger in size and number. The parents of California should be thankful that a wise and experienced administrator has the conduct of this department.

President's Speech Took Rare Courage

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER made a bold talk to the nation last Wednesday night.

It took rare political courage, even for a President, to say that unless Israel pulls back her troops from the Gaza strip, the United Nations has no choice but to exert pressure to obtain compliance with the withdrawal resolution.

Nearly all politicians, including former Presidents, have carefully avoided saying or doing anything about Israel that might alienate the so-called Jewish vote.

By maintaining a consistent position with respect to U. S. support of the United Nations, President Eisenhower has shown that he cannot be swayed by emotional appeals from a course which he believes to be right.

IT SEEMS TO ME THAT Israel may be forfeiting much of the good will that has accured to her cause through the years by too rigid insistence upon guarantees that are difficult of immediate fulfillment.

To be sure, she has the right to demand protection from border raids by Egyptian commandos. She should have access to the Suez Canal and the right of innocent navigation in the Gulf of Aqaba. But the fact remains that Israel, with Britain and France, was an aggressor against Egypt under the terms of aggression as defined in the United Nations charter. She should therefore, not expect to be "rewarded" for this act of aggression, or the U. N. charter will become meaningless as a document for peace.

THERE IS NO FUTURE profit, as Israel should realize, in defying world opinion.

As the President has said, Israel's "best immediate and long-term interests lie in compliance with the U. N. and in placing its trust in the resolutions of the U. N. and in the declaration of the United States with reference to the future."

Great Britain and France have both yielded to world opinion. By withdrawing their troops unconditionally from Egypt, these two nations have acknowledged their initial blunder, and at a high cost in both money and prestige.

Israel, on the other hand, has defied world opinion by flouting the U. N.'s resolution and keeping troops on Egyptian soil.

It would appear that negotiation and conciliation, rather than insistence and obstinacy, would constitute a wiser course for Israel to pursue.

Nevertheless, Israel is now in a position where intense pride and nationalism will make the task of compliance with U. N. demands difficult.

ON THE QUESTION of employing sanctions against Israel, a form of international boycott with respect to aid, trade and arms, the United States may find itself in a wholly untenable position.

The state of Israel is largely supported by American aid and contributions. Israel is not, and probably never will be, self-supporting. Therefore, the use of economic sanctions against a nation largely of our own creation and nourished with American assistance, would be incredibly unrealistic and self-defeating.

But Mr. Eisenhower's dilemma is that he is pledged to the United Nations.

Do we intend to join with the Arab, Afro-Asian and Soviet bloc in coercing Israel while Egypt's violations of the U. N. charter go unrestrained?

The President's answer is that both Israel and Egypt have violated the Palestine truce, but that the first order of business is the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Egyptian soil.

When that has been accomplished, he indicated that "the society of nations" should deal firmly with any future violation by Egypt of the Israeli-Arab armistice agreement or other internal obligations.

While this is sound theoretical procedure, the President will not find too much public or Congressional support for crippling Israel's economic status at this juncture in history.

OUR PREDICAMENT is that we are again discovering that the role of the peacemaker is not a happy one.

Our newly acquired prestige with the Arab world can be dissipated if we deal too lightly with Israel.

Should we join in economic sanctions against Israel, the United States will be undermining the economy of a state that could not exist without our support.

If no action is taken by the United Nations, and that means by us, all nations can rightly conclude that the U. N. charter is a mere scrap of paper and that aggression brings its own reward.

Now's the Time to Lock the Stable Door

Nasser Has Pact With Russia to Consult About Suez Policy

WASHINGTON — Egypt has signed a secret agreement with Soviet Russia whereby Col. Nasser will make no decisions regarding the Suez Canal without consulting Moscow first.

This secret commitment was made in return for Russian arms, and is considered the reason why Nasser is slowing up repair of the Suez Canal until Israeli troops have been withdrawn.

• • • •

THIS ALSO is considered the reason why Nasser has required the United States to give 10 days advance notice to Egypt before American warships are permitted to pass through the canal.

This latter point was disclosed for the first time by handsome Henry Byroade, ex-Ambassador to Egypt, during a grueling grilling given him by members of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committee.

The ambassador was not what might be called a cooperative witness and revealed nothing about Egyptian-Soviet alliances. He did reveal, however, that Nasser held up an American transport in the canal until the captain reported the number of troops aboard. Nasser's ultimatum called for military information that he had no right to ask and which, it's suspected, he relayed to the Russians.

Minnesota's trigger-tongued Sen. Hubert Humphrey angrily denounced the acts as "Egyptian intransigence toward the United States."

Byroade, who is known to be vigorously pro-Nasser, lamely agreed. He said the problem "was referred by our naval attache immediately to Washington," but he did not recall the "specific policy reply."

• • • •

ARKANSAS' caustic Sen. Bill Fullbright, peering through spectacles halfway down his nose, tried to pin Byroade down on why Nasser made an arms deal with Russia instead of the United States.

Byroade reported he had offered an arms deal to Nasser, but the Egyptian dictator had turned it down.

"Why?" demanded the Arkansas Democrat.

"His reasoning," explained Byroade, "was that . . . he might be accused of selling his country out to another big power before the British even got out of the place."

So Sen. Fulbright pointed out that Nasser promptly turned around and got arms from another big power, Russia, in return for cotton.

• • • •

SEN. HUMPHREY asked Byroade pointblank what he did about Nasser's anti-American propaganda blasts.

"I have some Radio Cairo transcripts," said Humphrey.

SEN. FULBRIGHT
Asks Embarrassing Questions

"There were some pretty vicious attacks on us."

"I protested officially and discussed it with Nasser many times," Byroade claimed.

"What was his reaction?" asked the Minnesotan.

"I never could quite fathom that," shrugged Byroade. "But I want the record to show I was very critical on that phase of Egyptian policy."

Byroade defended Egypt, however, regarding her border troubles with Israel. He also defended Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal.

He urged economic aid to Egypt, but acknowledged Nasser probably would not cancel his Soviet arms deal as long as "he has any reason to believe he needs strength against Israel."

"If he is going to continue to accept large amounts of arms (from Russia) and pay for them with his cotton, that depletes his economy," pointed out Fulbright. "Do you really think he ought to make up the deficit with assistance under our program?"

In other words, Nasser would be paying for Communist arms, in effect, with American aid. This was one question Byroade never got around to answering.

SENATOR SOAPER SAYS:

Former President Gets a Promotion

By BILL VAUGHAN

THERE are now more than 170,000,000 of us Americans, but the rear ends of buses and streetcars are still as empty as ever.

YOUR JOY MEANS MORE

If you should ever leave me, love . . . I know I would be sad . . . But if it meant your happiness . . . I think I could be glad . . . That is, I would be glad for you . . . Because your joy means more . . . Than all the treasures that could be . . . Delivered at my door . . . Yes, I would walk the streets at night . . . And surely I would sigh . . . And in my counting of the sheep . . . I probably would cry . . . If you should ever leave me, love . . . Each morning would be gray . . . And there would be an emptiness . . . That could not pass away . . . But I would not go hungry . . . and . . . I would not die of thirst . . . No matter how I long for you . . . Your happiness comes first.

State Sen. Richards Leaving Several Political Doors Open

WHEN STATE Sen. Richard Richards remarked here last midweek that he is "leaving the door open" on the matter of running for the U. S. Senate, he might well have added that he is leaving several doors ajar.

For with Democrat Richards, as with other leading California politicians, 1958 looks like a year of tantalizing possibilities with more than the usual number of running opportunities beckoning the man who wants to "step up."

EPLEY

It's not that there will be more jobs open at the elections than usual, but present indications point to more major contests in which there will be no incumbent participating.

From Sen. Richards' point of view, that will be a big factor in his consideration of running for the U. S. Senate. In 1956 his bid for a U. S. Senate job was made against an incumbent, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, and Richards lost. But in 1958, the other California Senate post will be open, and the present occupant, Sen. W. F. Knowland, isn't going to run again. Richards, with one statewide campaign behind him, probably figures he would have as good a chance as any Democrat to succeed Knowland. Those of us who talked about it with him the other evening felt he is definitely a potential contender.

THERE'S ANOTHER important difference, however, that Sen. Richards must consider in connection with the 1958 race. The term of his present job as State Senator from Los Angeles County runs out next year. He cannot, as he did in 1954, make a bid for another office with the assurance that if he loses, he will still be in public office. Whatever office he seeks next year he must win, or he'll be out.

Some Democrats think that when the chips are down, Richards will decide to seek re-election to his present post. And many Los Angeles County Democrats, who want to keep the L. A. senatorship in the Democratic column, are definitely hoping that will be his decision. Before Richards took over, the job was long held by a Republican, and GOP chances of getting it back would probably be improved if Richards, as incumbent, were not in the 1958 race.

Another door that Sen. Richards may be keeping open is that to the race for state Attorney General. Such a possibility depends, of course, on the decision of Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, Democrat, who has stated he may seek re-election, or he may run for governor, or he may run for the U. S. Senate. Some friends of Richards think that the Senator is a strong possibility as an Attorney General contender if Brown decides not to seek re-election.

WITHOUT MAKING any definite predictions, Richards indicated in his conversation with reporters here the other night that he thinks Brown will go for another job, and he probably had the governorship in mind.

In discussing his own future, Richards made much of the "good of the party" as the determining factor. "It's not what Richard Richards may want for himself, but how the interests of the party that can best be advanced," he said.

Richards got into the U. S. Senate race last year through endorsement by the California Democratic Council, the organization of volunteer Democratic clubs. He said before endorsement that he wouldn't run unless given the green light by the CDC. His remarks here indicated that his decision for 1958 will depend again on such a showing of party opinion.

As an opponent of Republican Sen. Kuchel last year, Richards was handicapped by the fact he was not too well known in the northern part of the state. The contest with Kuchel, despite its unfavorable outcome for him, did much to cure that defect.

THERE ARE NOT TOO many Democrats, of statewide stature. One reason the party has had poor success in statewide contests is that its candidates have been relatively unknown in various parts of the state before election campaigns, whereas such Republicans as Sen. Knowland, Sen. Kuchel, Gov. Knight and Lt. Gov. Powers are familiar figures to nearly all Californians. In the last couple of years, Sen. Richards has become one of the state's few widely known Democrats.

TOWN MEETING

Why Wait Century to Beautify City?

TO THE EDITOR:

The Park Department is trying to beautify the city by placing trees in the parkways and seeing that they are spaced properly so that in 50 to 100 years they will beautify the city. This is all well and good but what about the streets, sidewalks, curbs and homes that are in need of a good paint job?

• • • •

THERE IS NOT a street you can go on without it being like a washboard or full of holes. The city patches the holes but within a few weeks the holes are back again because the job is only half done. They need to be fixed from curb to curb. The sidewalks are a hazard to the public as well as the curbs. The city claims these so why don't they start beautifying the city with new streets, sidewalks and curbs? Why wait for the taxpayer to put in the sidewalks and curbs? What does he pay taxes for?

• • • •

IN 50 TO 100 years I hate to think what Long Beach will look like. It is fast becoming one of the dirtiest cities. People throw papers, beer cans, etc., on the streets and parkway strips. Some of the homes are in need of paint or have been painted with horrible looking colors (which cheapens a city). Some of the yards look like pig pens or junk yards. Why wait 50 to 100 years for the city to be beautiful when it could be now if everyone would help?

90 Out of 100 Oppose L. A. Aud

TO THE EDITOR:

We have learned through our petition circulators that 90 out of every 100 taxpayers are opposed to the proposal of the County Supervisors to build a $51,000,000 auditorium within Los Angeles City, and charge the cost to county taxpayers without their voted approval, and these people will readily sign a petition when it is presented.

This is our reason for being anxious to have every petition out on the streets for signatures, and as we still have a number of petitions on hand we urge people to lend a hand by getting a petition and take amongst neighbors and friends. A short time each day for a few days will fill a petition.

Israel Can't Be Blamed for Balking

TO THE EDITOR:

Why doesn't the President, Secretary Dulles and the U. N. Secretary put the pressure on Nasser for an agreement on equal rights without discrimination in the future use of the Suez Canal? That's all Israel asks as a condition of complete withdrawal.

• • • •

NASSER for years has been nipping at the heels of the Jews, operating from the sanctuary of the Gaza Strip. Why should the President demand that Israel relinquish what protection she has acquired through her own initiative and permit the mad dog his unrestrained freedom on the promise of the President that if he resumes his depredations, Israel can be assured of the "moral support" of the U. S., and we will try to get the U. N. to do something.

The U. N. having had some seven years to protest the discrimination by Egypt against Israel in the use of the canal, one can scarcely blame Israel for her present procrastination.

U. S. Witlessly Aids Red Design

TO THE EDITOR:

When one considers what George Washington accomplished with a "baby" nation as against the might of Great Britain, and with his wariness against "foreign entanglements," it is not wild guessing to predict what he would do today. The U. S. was the "mighty" nation at the close of World War II, but our leaders grovelled before Moscow and are doing it yet. No, G. W. would not abase himself and his country as have our last three Presidents since 1945. Neither would A. Lincoln have done so.

• • • •

IT HAS been no secret what communism has planned for this country. They wrote a book about it long ago. One part of the plan was to maneuver the U. S. into spending itself into bankruptcy. With what gusto have our leaders cooperated in that detail, digging rat holes like fury when they couldn't find them ready-made! The budget Congress is asked to approve this year is 16 billion dollars higher than Fair Deal Truman's average.

Knowland Praised for Israel Stand

TO THE EDITOR:

Sen. Knowland is to be praised for his forthright defense of Israel. All Americans take pride in his stand against adopting double standards in the U. N. which would result in imposing unilateral sanctions against Israel.

• • • •

HIS POSITION is logical when one reviews the history of the U. N. and its failure to employ sanctions against Egypt, Russia, and now India for their failure to obey U. N. requests. And in fact, it becomes only obvious that had Egypt obeyed previous U. N. orders commanding her to allow Israel ships through the Suez Canal, cease border raids on Israel, and end the blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba the present situation would not have developed. Sen. Knowland is 100 per cent right in opposing adoption of double standards by the U. S. and the U. N. The American people wholeheartedly support him in this.

• • • •

ARE SANCTIONS to be employed only against democratic and small countries like Israel but not against totalitarian regimes such as Egypt and Russia?

Cinderella Homes Enchanting Visitors by Luxury Features

Cinderella Homes in Anaheim are homes that with one look you can judge the true value inside and out, the salesmen declare.

"A visitor will be enchanted by the features of these nationally acclaimed homes from the practical sturdy construction to the many extra touches throughout. For an example, the homes have hand-painted light switch plates throughout."

Builders Shannon and Jone Vandruff have striven for, and attained, real quality in construction, but their craftsmanship has led to more than that as the most careful attention has been paid to minute finishing details. Each model was carefully planned before construction even began. Even the color coordinator was a "partner" from the very beginning in the creation of the homes, blending and harmonizing materials and colors to a point of supreme artistry not only in every room in every home, but in regard to exteriors as well.

* * * *

THE OVER-ALL result is that each room in a Cinderella Home is not only cheerful but that it also gives an air of peace and warm restfulness. The exterior designs, in regard to color, are not only individually beautiful, but each home is color coordinated in harmony with all neighboring homes so that the total apeparance of the development is singularly attractive.

The many comfort-convenience extras of Cinderella Homes have great appeal to both men and women . . . to name a few there are central hall plans, see-thru-serve-thru shuttered window between kitchen and living room, large walk-in lighted wardrobe closets, two full bathrooms, direct entry from kitchen to garage, and loads of extra storage space in garages.

* * * *

CINDERELLA HOMES are priced at $14,890 to $16,250, with monthly terms to veterans from $73.99 per month including principal and interest, and low FHA terms to anyone.

The four furnished models may be seen by going out the Santa Ana Freeway to Hwy. 39 in Buena Park. Continue south past Knott's Berry Farm to the models, one-quarter mile south of Orange Ave. From Long Beach drive east on Carson St., turn south on Hwy. 39 to models, one-quarter mile south of Orange Ave.

New Prudential Models Drawing Much Attention

Tremendous interest accorded the new Prudential Homes' models by the many homeseekers attending special pre-view showings has resulted in a substantial number of early purchases at the East Anaheim community, according to M. D. Mitchell, general manager of the building organization.

The new Prudential offerings are typical of the care and planning evidenced throughout the entire development, agents say. Each model features an exclusive care-free kitchen and has 3 or 4 bedrooms with 2 or 2½ baths in an individually different floor plan.

For example, in the model the "Westerner," are found such desirable advantages as a sunken living room. Especially attractive is the massive raised hearth red brick fireplace. Adaptable, too, is the large family room equipped with built-in table height food bar and handy kitchen pass through. This room also features a wall of glass with sliding doors opening directly to the oversize covered patio. In addition there are two other patios and a porch which help to make it ideal for outdoor fun.

* * * *

THE "COUNTRY BELLE" has a sunken living room which is cathedral-like in both design and dimension.

Authentic Eastern propriety is the theme of the split-level "Tiara" model. In its first level are kitchen, dining room, front entry and living room complete with a classic corner fireplace and exquisite exposed beam ceiling. A staircase leads to the Tiara's second level. Here are found the all-purpose room, 3 bedrooms and 2 baths.

Prudential model homes are all on display from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily. To view these dwellings drive out to the development on LaPalma just east of Placentia.

A PRUDENTIAL OFFERING

The rendering above captures much of the charm found in the versatile family room of Prudential's "Westerner" model home. Sliding glass doors open directly to the oversized covered patio. Visible at left is an unusual table-height food bar with pass through to the kitchen.

Throw away $1,100?

Since the land was bought and the contracts let for the present CINDERELLA HOMES project, the following has happened:

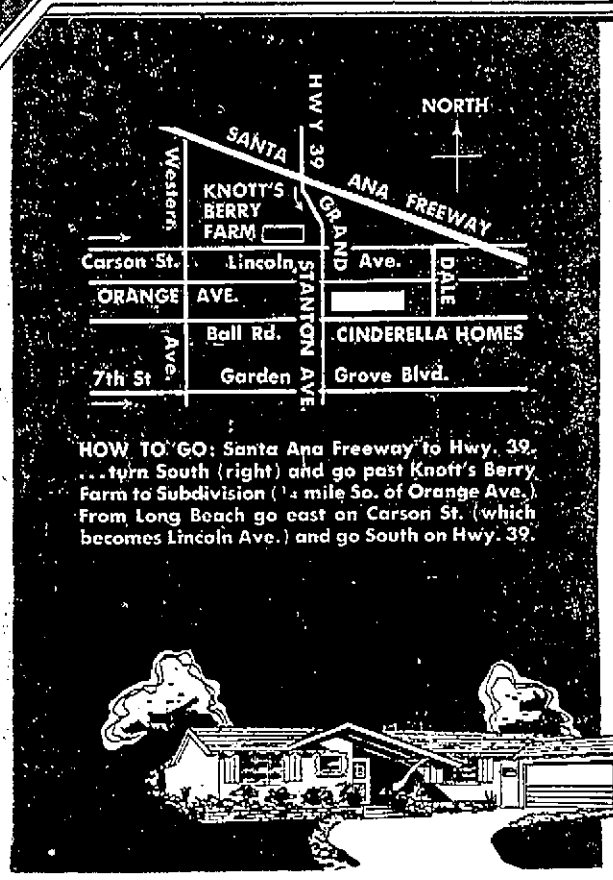

1. LAND PRICES have risen 10% to 25%.
2. CONSTRUCTION LABOR COSTS have risen 12%.
3. MATERIAL COSTS have risen 4½%.
4. LAND IMPROVEMENT COSTS (streets, sewers, etc.) have risen greatly.
5. FINANCING COSTS will be considerably higher next year.

THEREFORE when Cinderella Homes starts it next home building project in the spring, the same identical homes that are currently available will have to sell for $1,000.00 to $1,300.00 more.

SO IF your dream has been a CINDERELLA HOME NOW is the time to buy it and save $1,000.00 to $1,300.00*

You will make an actual total saving of many thousands of dollars more, for these are the famous homes appraised by building authorities as being "The Homes with the $23,000 Look"*

Note: all exterior designs and floor plans have been copyrighted by Vandruff Homes, Inc., Anaheim, California.

HOW TO GO: Santa Ana Freeway to Hwy. 39. . . . turn South (right) and go past Knott's Berry Farm to Subdivision (¼ mile So. of Orange Ave.) From Long Beach go east on Carson St. (which becomes Lincoln Ave.) and go South on Hwy. 39.

DE SOTO ADVENTURER HERE TODAY

Marking the first appearance in Long Beach, the glamorous De Soto Golden Adventurer will go on display today at the showrooms of McClure-Nowling De Soto-Plymouth, 5105 Atlantic Ave. Flashing superpower-for-safety and unmatched beauty in styling is claimed for the Adventurer.

WORLD OF WHEELS

By ART STEPHAN
Independent, Press-Telegram Auto Editor

If you're out riding around today and you want to see a hot hunk of automobile, stop in at Bob McClure's De Soto-Plymouth hacienda at 5105 Atlantic Ave. for a look at the '57 De Soto Adventurer, one of the first of its kind to be delivered on the West Coast.

Bob will be there to proudly show off his "beautiful bomb" as he refers to the Adventurer, and, believe me, it's a lot of each.

This is the car that is completely restyled and re-engineered as the successor to the superpowered-for-safety special two-door De Soto Firefiite hardtop which sold out in weeks after its introduction last year, with many refinements being added to the '57 Adventurer. The car was first displayed publicly at the Chicago Automobile Show last Jan. 5, and as they say in the "theatuh," virtually stole the show.

McCLURE IS particularly high on the Adventurer's power prowess. According to Bob the car is the most powerful in De Soto's history, offering 345 horsepower to give it the long-sought one horsepower per cubic inch displacement, which McClure says is today's optimum automotive performance. (I did not want to ask what optimum meant but I guess we can presume it means the top performance for the size of the engine.)

If while you're eyeing the Adventurer, you stand a little too close, Bob will have the door open and pop you behind the wheel before you can say, . . . "but my old bus has plenty of miles left in her yet." But it's a worthwhile experience because you'll be treated to one of the most sparkling interiors of any car in production today.

Gold, combined with white is the theme color inside to match the outside decor, and it's a stylist's dream. There are color-keyed tweed seats and back insert fabrics in wheat-gold tones. Matching wheat-gold bolsters are of simulated leather vinyl, as is the door panelling. The safety dash pad is covered in charcoal gray vinyl and a charcoal carpet, with irridescent gold Lurex flecks throughout, covers the floor, front and rear. The deluxe steering wheel rim is white plastic with gold hand grips. All interior metal surfaces are painted wheat-gold.

• • • •

A FEW OF THE little glamor touches on the exterior of the Adventurer include wheel discs which are sunburst-patterned, gold-anodized aluminum. Five striking stainless steel strips run the length of the deck lid, while the name "Adventurer" appears in gold script on the rear quarter panels and on the instrument panel, along with a "Forward Look" medallion, also in gold, superimposed on a field of traditional race checks.

In addition—why not go out and look at the Adventurer yourself—McClure-Nowling, 5105 Atlantic, Berry De Soto-Plymouth, the other De Soto-Plymouth dealerships in Long Beach, will be displaying the Adventurer at a later date.

Makers Trying to Guess What Type Car Is Favored

By JIM KLOCKENKEMPER

DETROIT (AP)—Auto makers, trying to keep up with the trends of car buying, have come up with "authoritative" opinions which show buyers are leaning in at least a dozen different directions.

Within the past fortnight, various experts have announced people want more:

Shorter cars, lower cars, smaller cars, compact cars, sports cars, higher horsepower, lower horsepower, fuel economy, fuel injection, hardtops, station wagons, medium priced cars and low priced cars.

Now, a lot of these experts believe so strongly in their own opinions of what people want that they've put millions of dollars into their guesses—excuse me, market analyses.

• • • •

FOR INSTANCE, Ford Motor Co. spokesmen are strong on the lower car. Ford's 1957 lines were not only among the lowest, but Ford has a new drive train—transmission, drive shaft, rear axle-design which it figures give it a big lead in future streamlining.

Ford's chief research engineer, Victor G. Raviolo, has predicted that in 10 years the height of cars will be down to 52 inches. Raviolo said people want lower cars because they look better, ride better and have less wind resistance.

Ford also is a disciple of the medium priced car—and it had better be, because it has several hundred million dollars invested in production of the new "Edsel," which will appear next fall, and will sell over a wide range of the medium priced field.

But George Romney, president of American Motors Corp., will tell you that trend which sent buyers into the medium priced field for bigger cars a few years ago is all over now. Romney believes the U. S. is entering the era of the small car, the compact car, fuel economy and low priced cars.

• • • •

AND IT BETTER BE, because Romney has hinged a large part of his company's product program on this idea. He calls the big, long cars of today "dinosaurs" and points to traffic congestion, parking problems, high fuel prices, material shortages and suburban driving as factors working for smaller, more compact cars.

Edward T. Ragsdale, general manager of Buick, has made quite a few speeches lately to assure his dealers that although the 1957 Buick so far has lost third place in sales to Plymouth, Buick will be back in third place when the year ends. Ragsdale says one big reason this is so is because people want hardtops, and Buick, which has led the way in popular hardtops, is geared to produce them faster than Plymouth.

But while Buick and Plymouth are fighting the battle of the hardtops, the two smaller domestic bulldwers—American Motors and Studebaker-Packard—have been impressed by another body style.

YIPPEE! WATCH THAT HOSSPOWER!

Car Club Members to Compete in Driving Skill Contest Here

By PAUL WALLACE

Local car clubbers will have a chance to compete for a trip to the Indianapolis 500-Mile Race April 14, when the area Road-eo will be held in Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Members of bona fide car clubs in Long Beach, San Pedro, Wilmington, Lakewood, Compton and Signal Hill may enter the skilled driving contests at the stadium.

The winner will join top drivers from nine other Los Angeles area districts for the week-long trip to the big race.

The affair will be under the guidance of the Police Advisory Council for Car Clubs in Los Angeles County. Long Beach Police Officer Bob Cabot, advisor to the Associated Car Clubs of Long Beach, will head the Road-eo here.

A TWO-DAY RALLY to Las Vegas has been scheduled by the Harbor Sports Car Club for March 30-31.

The affair will start from East Los Angeles at 11 p.m. Friday night and wind up some 12 hours and 400 miles later at the Hacienda Hotel in Las Vegas.

Entry fee of $28 includes lodging for two at the Hacienda. A victory dinner is slated for Saturday night.

A non-championship event open to all, the rally will be directed by Jiggs and Maggie Schwab.

Entry deadline is March 15 with further information available from Mrs. Schwab at UNiversity 4-8733, or Jo Hogan at TErminal 4-0312.

SEVEN LOS ANGELES area drag strips including the Lions strip here outlaw any fuel except pump gasoline beginning next weekend.

Biggest reason for the new rule is because the hot cars are going too fast on nitro fuels. The shut-off areas are too short for safety.

Other reasons include the danger in handling the very potent special fuels and the high cost of the nitro mixtures.

Dragsters believe, however, that it is only a matter of time before the hot boys will be back storming the 166.97 m.p.h. mark of Emory Cook—on pump gas.

The Long Beach strip has put up a $100 bond for the first man to crack 150 m.p.h. on gasoline. Lloyd Scott, former Long Beach resident, now holds the gasoline record of 147.05 in the twin-engined Bustle Bomb. Fritz Voight holds the single-engine gas record.

Other strips adopting the no-fuel-rule include Santa Ana, San Fernando, Pomona, Saugus, Colton and San Gabriel. We understand that Bakersfield will run fuel cars once a month.

To Plant Shrubbery Along Highway 101

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Division of Highways says plans are nearing completion for planting of shrubbery along a 10-mile section of U. S. 101 in San Diego County and a 2½-mile section along the same highway in San Luis Obispo.

The San Diego County project, described as one of the most extensive screen plantings undertaken by the division, calls for the placing of more than 10,000 oleander shrubs from the Mexican border to National City.

The shrubs will be planted along the entire length of the median strips to serve as a screen against headlight glare as well as along the sides of the roadway, the division said.

The San Luis project calls for planting of shrubs and flowering trees between Marsh street and the north city limits. Oleander shrubs also will be planted in the median strip.

Cadillac

Relaxing... Across America!

Behind them are the majestic mountain roadways of Southern California and the picturesque desert drive through Arizona.

And ahead lie the broad highways of Texas . . . the scenic roads that wind through Oklahoma and Missouri . . . and the great Midwestern turnpikes that lead to the Eastern Seaboard.

What's it like to spend the better part of a week in a 1957 Cadillac?

Well, first of all, there is the marvelous restfulness a Cadillac provides. The car is so incredibly smooth and quiet and comfortable that even the longest journey becomes an occasion for glorious relaxation.

And for the lucky gentleman in the driver's seat, there is the added reward of Cadillac's brilliant new performance.

In fact, the car is so nimble and eager, so responsive and alert that day's end will usually find them well beyond their morning's destination!

And then there will be the many other Cadillac virtues to enhance the pleasure of their journey . . .

. . . its vast areas of vision to give them the full panorama of America's great beauty and grandeur

. . . its extraordinary safety and dependability to add to their peace of mind . . . and its remarkable economy of operation to remind them how practical their odyssey is.

So there they are—seeing our wonderful land from the finest vantage point on the American road: through the windshield of a 1957 Cadillac!

Of course, you don't have to travel 3,000 miles in this newest "car of cars" to realize why its owners call it "the greatest of all Cadillacs".

The evidence is waiting in our showroom now—and an hour at the wheel will tell you the whole story.

Five Larwin Homes Remain to Sell

There are only five homes left to be sold at the Larwin Co. prize winning development, Town and Country Square, Miller and Crescent in Buena Park, according to company spokesmen. Salesmen say these last homes, still available at 1956 terms and prices, represent the "best buy" value-wise homeseekers now have the chance to make in this area.

The homes are beautifully appointed models with 3 bedrooms and "Jack and Jill" room, 3 bedrooms with den, and 3 bedrooms with family room, each with 2 baths and oversized 2-car garage.

Size, and the thoughtful arrangement of the rooms, are but two of their main attractions. In some of the plans bedrooms can be converted into dens, dens into playrooms and playrooms into huge areas for entertaining. In other plans, there is a den that becomes a full dining room or private retreat simply by opening or closing the handsome folding doors.

* * * *

THE "JACK AND JILL" room has a sliding door to an adjoining bedroom which provides either a huge playroom-bedroom area or two entirely separate bedrooms.

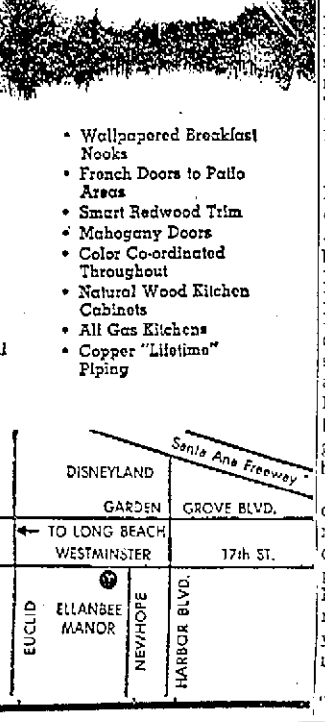

Living rooms, with colorful dramatic fireplaces, have walls of sliding glass up to 24 feet long, leading to broad terraced patios with built-in luau-type barbecues.

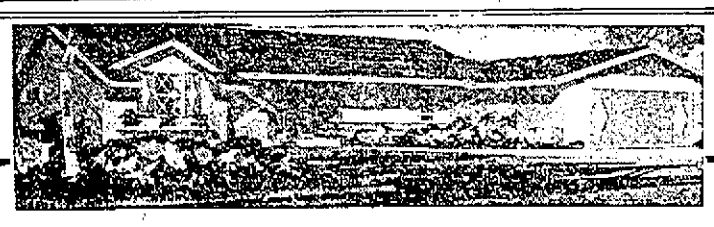

Model homes are reached by driving east on Carson St. and turning north on Miller to Crescent.

Dutch Haven Half Sold Ahead of Grand Opening

Two weeks before its grand opening, Dutch Haven Homes in Anaheim are half sold out, reports William Lyon, executive officer of Luxury Homes, Inc., builders.

Last weekend two model homes were opened for preview inspection. Before the weekend was over, 28 homes had been sold. "The unprecedented response to Dutch Haven Homes is not surprising to us," said Lyon. "Luxury Homes, Inc., are the first builders in Southern California to construct a luxury type home in the $10,000 price range."

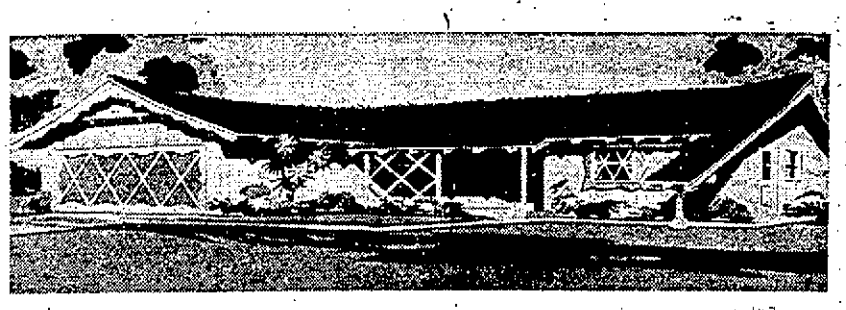

Dutch Haven offers the buyer 3 and 4 bedrooms and 1, 1½ and 2 baths. Homes are priced from $10,500 to $11,995, and monthly payments are from $52.51 per month for principal and interest.

* * * *

A VET MAY BUY at Dutch Haven for as little as $225 down, plus cost and impounds. A Cal-Vet may secure a 3 per cent 20-year loan, and all buyers may avail themselves of an FHA long-term, government guaranteed loan with only 10 per cent down, explained the builder.

A buyer has his choice of four functional floor plans and 9 styled exterior designs.

Included among the features are sheer sliding walls of glass; conventionally-constructed 3-bedroom, 2-bath, 2-car garage residences from only $16,650, and on payments from $83.28 that include principal and interest. Veterans need only a minimum down on 29½-year loans, and nonveterans can buy on excellent terms."

IN $10,000 PRICE RANGE
Typical of the styling of Dutch Haven Homes is the model shown. The development, located at Gilbert St. near Ball Rd. in Anaheim, is priced from $10,500 and offers terms to veterans of $225 down, $62.51 per month.

North L. B. Homes Open

This week-end marks the first public showing of North Long Beach Estates, S. and S. Construction Co.'s newest community of large-family California Tradltional Homes, according to Nathan Shapell, president of the building firm.

Located on Downey Ave. and Harding St., within easy access of the Long Beach Freeway, and virtually "next door" to the business and shopping areas of Lakewood, residents of North Long Beach Estates will be only 10 minutes to the heart of downtown Long Beach, and but seconds from churches, schools and recreational facilities of Lakewood, Shapell said. Via the freeway, metropolitan Los Angeles is an easy 20-minute drive, he added.

Pointing out that the Southern California area is fast "running out" of good, close-in residential acreage, Shapell explained that land on which North Long Beach Estates will rise was purchased several years ago, before land values reached their present high.

"That is why," he continued, "we can offer these fine, con-

will the price be right?
It can be right — if your home has been well built and offers legitimate value to another buyer. It is always how well built a home may be that determines what you can get for it. If your walls and ceilings are of Genuine lath and plaster construction, then you can be sure of the highest appraisal — far more than you could get for a home built with substitute materials.
This is because walls and ceilings of Genuine lath and plaster are more durable than others — fireproof, soundproof, and most easily refinished to look fresh, beautiful and new.

La Mar Terrace announced new financing terms where anyone may move in with absolutely nothing down, except the usual costs and impounds.

These unusual ranch type homes have many modern features such as the new style Frigidaire slide-away electric range, built-in oven and breakfast bar that save many steps when feeding the children.

These 3 and 4-bedroom homes have 2 baths and each has custom built parquet flooring.

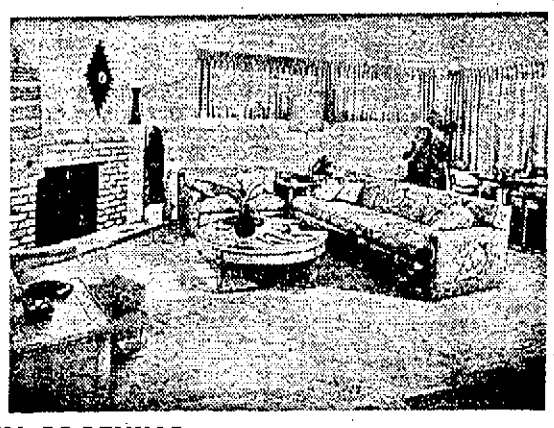

To reach La Mar Terrace from Long Beach drive out either Carson or 7th St. to Gilbert Ave. in Garden Grove and turn left (north) directly to model homes at La Palma.

* * * *

DESIGNED FOR luxury living, the homes are priced from $15,750 to $16,250.

La Mar Terrace is in the heart of a new, modern and fast-growing community. A new multimillion-dollar shopping center is just minutes away. Orange County parks and beaches, nearby, provide wholesome recreation for families.

There are 19 designs from which to select a home. Each has 630 cubic feet of storage space in the house and the 2-car garages have large storage racks.

IN FOOTHILLS

The above typifies the many-styled estate-class homes rising in Sun Gold Hills at Santa Gertrudes and Janine Aves., in the foothill area east of Whittier. Homesites also are available.

VA Terms Still Available on Some Sun Gold Homes

Announcement that only a limited number of homes may still be bought on VA terms has increased crowds at Sun Gold Hills, it was reported Saturday by Robert H. Walter, president, Sun Gold, Inc., developers of the community in the east Whittier area.

Qualified vets still may have a choice of many stylings, however, according to sales manager Robert H. Smith, who said vets' terms are approximately 10 per cent down.

For non-vets terms are approximately 25 per cent down, Smith added. The homes are priced from $19,500, with low FHA monthly payments. Smith said the current homes are in the fifth and final unit at Sun Gold Hills.

* * * *

MODEL HOMES are on view near Santa Gertrudes and Janine Aves., north of Whittier Blvd., in the scenic foothill section. Stylings throughout the community are widely diversified, with 56 different designs available, and no more than three homes of a kind built in each one hundred.

The Sun Gold Hills homes feature large floor-to-ceiling windows, huge fireplaces, built-in barbecues, New Freedom gas kitchens with automatic appliances, forced air heating, and in some baths, walls of mirrors.

Interest in Sun Gold Hills is also stimulated, officials said, by the availability of a limited number of choice homesites at prices ranging from $7,500 to $10,000.

The lots vary widely in location and size, it was stated, running from 90 feet by 120 feet up to full acres. The acres sell for as little as $8,900 and may be bought on terms with 25 per cent down.

Group Will Hear Dorrance Henion

The Long Beach Chapter of the Systems and Procedures Assn. will have as their guest speaker Feb. 27, at the Hawaiian Restaurant, Dorrance D. Henion, manager of the management services department of Ernst & Ernst Henion will speak on "Better Communication With Management." In addition to his management and accounting qualifications, he is also a journeyman machinist.

Just $95 Needed on Homes

Financing arrangements for non-veterans that places total "move-in" terms at just $95 without costs or impounds, are still available on the remaining homes in Ellanbee Manor, according to Frank H. McFarland, sales agent for the Laramore development near Garden Grove.

"The few remaining 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes in Ellanbee Manor are expected to go fast," McFarland stated, "and these exceptionally liberal terms can be assured on only the homes now available." With over 1,300 square feet of living space designed around a work saving central hall plan, the large homes are proving particularly attractive to large and growing families, he added.

The homes have been so well received that sales are a full two months ahead of schedule, and the development is predicted to be sold out soon.

MEN LIKE the extra spacious garages that offer work space, and the solid conventional construction that requires a minimum of maintenance and upkeep, salesmen say.

Women are pleased with the all-gas kitchens, which are large enough to provide breakfast space for the entire family in addition too the roomy dining area.

To see these homes, from Long Beach drive east on 7th St. Turn south on Harbor Blvd. to Westminster and west to Newhope and south again to the models.

Real Estate Club Will Hear Francis

The North Long Beach Real Estate Club will meet Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, at Mayo's Restaurant, 5929 Cherry Ave. Ruby Peterson will be in charge of the program and will have as her speaker Tommy Francis, president of the Liberty Group Escrow Co.

SOMEONE WANTS those articles you no longer need. Tell him via a low-cost Classified Ad. Call ME 2-5959.

Roberts to Discuss Outlook on Taxes

Sam Roberts, city finance director, will be the speaker at the membership meeting of the Long Beach Apartment House Association Thursday evening at the Lafayette Hotel Starlight Roof. His subject will be: "The New Long Beach Tax Outlook—What Can Be Done About It?"

REALTY OFFICE OF WEEK

In this same location since 1937, Glen A. Gerken, whose office is honored this week by the Long Beach Board of Realtors, has been active in development of North Long Beach since 1923.

Glen Gerken Has Grown With North Long Beach

Honored for having the "Realty Office of the Week," as chosen by the Long Beach Board of Realtors, Glen A. Gerken, 6430 Long Beach Blvd., is one of the veterans in realty in the Southland.

He came to "Virginia City" as the North Long Beach area was known, in 1923. The Dairy Ave. tract was being subdivided and the only building on Long Beach Blvd. in the area was an open fruit stand on the corner of Plymouth St. There were few homes north of Wardlow Rd.

Some of his allied activities in the real estate field are: Appraising, savings and loan affiliation, building contractor, GI appraiser, and one of the organizers of the Pacific National Bank, 2200 Pacific Ave., now First Western Bank.

Gerken believes that every family should own their own home, and for an investment, a well-chosen piece of real estate may give them independence throughout their lifetime.

Gerken is a past president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors and presently a member of the board of directors; a member and past president of the Long Beach Exchange Club; member of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, member Society of Residential Appraisers; Member of Mayor's and City Council Advisory Committee; member American Society of Appraisers; member executive committee of Goodwill Organization; chairman of board of trustees Starr King United Presbyterian Church; past president and director of Artesia St. and Long Beach Blvd. Improvement Assn.

Bracken to Speak to WIRE Club

Glenn R. Bracken, president of the Bracken Mortgage Co., 1833 American Ave., will speak on "Real Estate Finance" before members of the WIRE Club, composed of women in real estate, Tuesday night.

Bracken is a graduate of the California Institute of Technology and holds a Master's Degree in finance from Harvard. He has had many years experience in all phases of real estate finance and is currently conducting an evening course on this subject for UCLA.

This meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Sanders, 4001 Pine Ave. Non-members will attend by invitation.

We have immediate need for five clean cut, neat appearing, aggressive men with various backgrounds who know that their last job has lead them nowhere and promised no future. Many times a person gets tired of the "same old routine" & wonders if there is a job available where a sincere, aggressive man can really make a future for himself. If you are presently dissatisfied, there are three things you can do!

1—Change your location.
2—Change your occupation.
3—Change yourself.

In most instances, you should only change your occupation to help you decide what work you are best suited for. We offer you:

Unbiased Scientific Aptitude Testing Plan

Which is absolutely free, which we welcome you to take advantage of. This will tell us whether you possess the fundamental qualities to success with the Scott & Fetzer Co. We start our men at $400 month guarantee, plus a bonus plan.
Paid vacation, etc. PAY increases rapidly as you learn the work. Don't mind initial drive to Long Beach. Because of heavy office schedule, our meeting will be held

NOT $6,000— NOT $8,000 BUT $20,000 IN A YEAR

We pay our top men in other cities exceptional earnings . . . as much as $20,000 in a year. This opening in the Long Beach area is worth just as much to the right man.

Our company is one of the largest in the field. We take care of all deliveries, collections and require no investment.

If you are between 45 and 65 . . . can make auto trips for about a week at a time . . . can call on small town industrial and rural property owners — then I hope you will get in touch with me right away. I would like to have you start with us soon, and stay for a long time. All replies confidential.

Will adapt standard designs to customer's specifications & solve problems of a mechanical nature. Work involves interpretation of specific design of special parts & preparation of descriptive parts lists.

Each assignment involves a minimum of supervision and a maximum of incentive in following a project from beginning to final results.

Newport Beach is the home of our new $2,500,000 engineering research facility.

Recent ME degree or related on the job training, or a background of math thru calc., physics, machine shop or drafting.

Report Good Sales Rush in Country Club Estates

More than half of Unit 1 of George J. Heltzer's Country Club Estates, 9th and Katella, in the Anaheim-Garden Grove area, sold in the first three weeks after the grand opening, according to David R. Berman, construction firm executive.

Winning praise from the thousands of visitors, Berman reports, are the seven model homes furnished by C. Tony Pereira, which show the more than 76 special features of these quality-built homes, each with a spacious family room and kitchen area, some up to 27 feet long, living rooms up to 24 feet long and extra large bedrooms.

* * * *

CONVENTIONALLY constructed on sites a quarter-of-an-acre or more, some with 70-foot frontage, Country Club Estates have 3 and 4 bedroms, 2 full baths and oversized attached or detached 2-car garage, available in a choice of 17 floor plans and 31 varied Conventional and Contemporary Modern exterior stylings.

An added big attraction are the full-grown orange trees in each large patio garden.

* * * *

THE BUILT-IN equipment in the completely color-coordinated kitchens includes a deluxe Western-Holly double oven with rotisserie; rangetop; and large, quiet, fully-automatic, built-in dishwasher designed by Waste King. Buyers who purchase their homes before completion may, if desired, have all-electric built-in range and oven instead of gas appliances.

Impressive fireplaces of stone or used brick, many with copper hoods and planters in raised hearths, dominate living rooms with sliding glass walls to covered concrete terraces and large patios for outdoor entertaining.

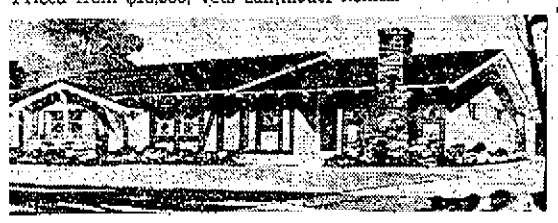

* * * *

DENS, COMPLETELY paneled with ash hardwood, are separated from living rooms by sliding Soji panels, and family rooms are closed off from kitchens by folding walls.

Each home has a built-in intercom music-and-speaker system with "baby monitor," acoustical ceilings, hardwood floors and forced-air heating.

Priced from $16,900, vets can buy with a low down payment plus closing costs and impounds, reports Frank Chandler of Walker and Lee, sales agents.

To visit Country Club Estates from Long Beach, take 7th St., turn north at Stanton (Hwy. 39) to Katella, and east to model homes.

IN COUNTRY CLUB ESTATES

Here is a typical Provincial-styled large three-bedroom residence with two full baths, living room and family room, at George J. Heltzer and Associates new Quality-Built development at 9th and Katella in the Anaheim-Garden Grove area near Disneyland.

IN INSURANCE CIRCLES

One Company Changing Structure of Rate Prices

By WALTER POLAK

A new price structure in which rates on all life insurance will be keyed to the size of the policy was announced recently by the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.

The firm is the nation's first major life insurance company to apply the graded-by-size principle of an "across the board" basis. The quantity-earned savings on premiums became available Jan. 1, according to Fred Keeler, local Northwestern Mutual manager.

In 1957, the company estimates it will pay total dividends of $66.7 million. This is an increase of $5 million, or 8 per cent over the $61.7 million paid in 1956. Half of the increase, will be due to the larger volume of business in force and half to the new dividend scale, Keeler said.

* * * *

NAMED MANAGER

Bryant M. Sells, CLU, has been appointed agency manager for the Continental Assurance Co. in the Long Beach area. His agency will be in the Jergins Trust Building.

Formerly a Florida resident, Sells came to Long Beach in 1947. A former newspaperman, he once played leading roles in summer stock with the Helen Hayes Theater Group.

* * * *

SALESMAN HONORED

John H. Baird, 4559 Knoxville Ave., was nationally honored in being named to the President's Club for New Organization of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. In recognition of his sales performance, he attended a three-day conference at the company's home office in Philadelphia where he was honored in a special ceremony by Malcolm Adam, president. Baird is a member of the James E. Miller Agency, Security Bldg.

* * * *

VISITS HOME OFFICE

Hal R. Shattuck of Long Beach was one of 29 general agency representatives of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. who recently completed an intensive course at the company's home office in Boston. He is a member of the Ray J. Havert General Agency in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Shattuck and son, Gary, make their home at 427 44th Way.

* * * *

RECORDS FALL

New records in almost every phase of operation are cited in the 111th annual report of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., released by C. Carter Schneider, general agent for Long Beach.

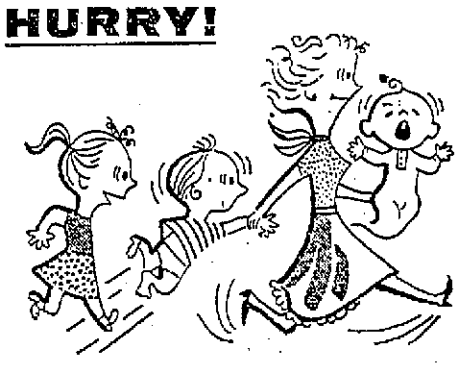

For the 7th consecutive year the company reported a new all-time record in paid volume. Life insurance sales during 1956 totaled $430 million, up $25 million over the previous year. Total insurance in force reached a new peak of $3,397,500,000.

* * * *

TO NEW YORK

Carvel Bayne, manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s Long Beach office at 4202 Atlantic Ave., will go to New York City to participate in a three-day conference of officials and district managers of the company at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Craft Classes for Adults Expanded by Recreation Dept. to 13 Packs

Craft classes for adults will be inaugurated at two more locations March 7, increasing the number of such municipal centers to 13, it was announced Saturday by Lois De Lano, supervisor of crafts for the Recreation Dept.

Training groups will meet from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. each Thursday at Ramona Park and Truman Boyd Manor. Textile painting will be taught at Ramona. At Truman Boyd subjects will include copper tooling, aluminum tooling and glass painting.

• • • •

ADULT CRAFT CLASSES already meet regularly in the main Municipal Recreation Center at 350 E. Ocean Blvd., Belmont Recreation Center and Bixby, Cabrillo, Cherry Ave., El Dorado, Houghton, MacArthur, Pan American, Silverado and Wardlow Parks.

Total enrollment in the adult instruction last year was 12,660, Mrs. De Lano reported.

Craft instruction for children also is offered regularly at public playgrounds, with an enrollment last year of 24,292.

• • • •

OTHER SERVICES of this division include the distribution of craft and games bulletins and the lending of game boards to numerous public and private groups.

Employes in the division already are preparing for the annual Long Beach Hobby Show, scheduled for May 24-27 in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium. The event is sponsored by the Recreation Dept. in collaboration with the Long Beach Hobby Clubs Council.

Russian Subs Real Threat, Admiral Says

HONOLULU (UP) — Admiral Felix B. Stump, commander-in-chief of U. S. Pacific Forces declared flatly Saturday that Russian submarines operating in the Pacific "constitute a very definite threat" to the security of the United States.

Stump made this statement in reply to a question asked at a briefing of 27 members of the United States Society of Editors and Commentators. He was asked to assess Russian naval strength in the Pacific.

• • • •

STUMP SAID the Russians now have a long range fleet-type submarine that "should be able to go anywhere in the world any other submarine can."

"How good it is, I don't know," he said, "but they've (the Russians) had benefit of experience of German submarine designers and probably from some Japanese too. I don't believe they have an atomic submarine, but then, we have only one of those."

Stump placed the cost of military aid to Asia at a billion dollars annually, but said "there is no question that, without it, the whole area from east Asia to Korea would be Communist."

Monthly Income on Soviet Farms

LONDON (UP)—A new system of monthly payments to farmers has been introduced in Russian collective farms, Moscow Radio reports.

The broadcast heard here said it was "something in the nature of steady monthly wages." In the past, farmers received a lump sum either at various stages of the year or at the end of the year "as an incentive," depending in amount on the income of the farm, the report said.

Models Sought With Clothes On

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Vice squad officers had a big supply of nude pictures today—but they said they were interested only in faces.

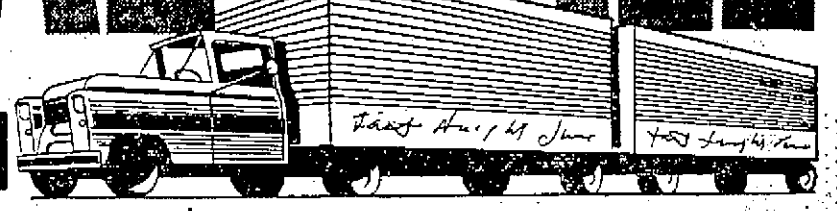

The pictures, seized in a novelty shop raid, clearly showed the faces of two women who posed for them, and lawmen were hoping to recognize the models on the street.

Color Blind Artist

HANNOVER (AP)—A 19-year-old German painter almost wept when his draft board announced he is unfit for service in the new West German army. Examiners found him completely color blind.

Delany Captures Mile by 10 Yards Over Tabori: 4:07

NEW YORK (UP)—Dublin's Ron Delany, refusing to get his "Irish up" against charges that he dogs it, ran his usual late race to score a smashing 10-yard triumph to take the featured mile in the 69th National AAU track meet at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The Irish whippet from Villanova blasted into the lead with two laps to go and dusted off Laszlo Tabori, the handsome Hungarian refugee, to win easily as Fred Dwyer finished third and Ted Wheeler of the University of Chicago fourth.

Delany extended himself only on the last two laps in accordance with his intention of "running only as fast as I have to," and was clocked in 4:07—a meet record but not his best time of the year.

Other defending champions Bob Backus in the 35-pound weight, Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College in the 60-yard high hurdles, Arnie Sowell of Pitt at 1,000 yards and Lt. Parry O'Brien, the California muscleman, in the shotput, all kept their titles.

* * * *

DWYER SET the pace with a 60.5 first quarter. But, although Delany and Tabori — both of whom have run 3:59 outdoors — were right on his heels they ran only 2:04.1 as Tabori took over at the halfway mark. Tabori was clocked at 3:07.6 at three-quarters.

Calhoun, Olympic high hurdles king, led all the way and shaded decathlon champ Milt Campbell in 7.2 in the 60-yard high hurdles.

* * * *

IRA MURCHISON, another Olympian, won the 60-yard dash by a yard over Ira Davis in 6.2. He equalled the indoor record of 6.1 in his heat.

Arnie Sowell romped to a five-yard victory over Harry Bright in winning the 1,000-yard run in 2:12.6.

Olympic 400-meter champion Charley Jenkins scored a smashing five-yard victory in the 600 in 1:10.4 to match the meet record set by Mal Whitfield in 1953.

Jenkins led all the way with Tom Courtney, Games 800-meter champ, coming from fifth to stride shoulder to shoulder with him on the final turn. Reggie Pearman came on for second and Joe Gaffney third as Courtney misjudged the finish line and pulled up 20 yards short.

* * * *

PARRY O'BRIEN won the shotput with a 59-8 effort. Ken Bantum was second at 58-10 and Dave Owen of Michigan third at 56-8.

Polish refugee John Macy scored a three-quarter lap victory in the three-mile in 13:57.4. Alex Breckenridge was second. Horace Ashenfelter lost his shoe after one mile, lost a full lap in putting it back on, and then came on to finish fifth.

Bob Richards won the pole vault at 15-3, with Don Bragg second at 15.0. Phil Reavis of Villanova broke a meet record by high jumping 6-9½. Villanova won the team title with 28½ points to 27 for the New York Pioneer Club.

Sacs Vote Against Transfer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — President Fred David of the Sacramento Solons indicated Saturday night that he will lead the fight for the preservation of the Pacific Coast League as it now exists and that his club will probably vote against the transfer of the Los Angeles Angel franchise to Brooklyn Dodger ownership.

"I can't say whether I will vote for or against Brooklyn coming into our league," declared David. "But if we don't vote for the Dodger deal it won't be the first time the Coast League has rejected majority league ownership. We turned down Milwaukee and Cleveland late in 1955 when both wanted to buy the San Francisco franchise."

David said he "couldn't take it for granted" Brooklyn would continue to operate Los Angeles as a farm club.

"These people are coming here with the intent of putting us out of business. On what I heard Saturday, I'd have to vote against transferring the franchise from the Wrigley interests to Brooklyn."

David continued. "Furthermore we don't want to make Los Angeles just another minor league farm. Previously the Wrigley interests have operated the Angels as a separate baseball organization on the highest level. And we are sorry to have them desirous of leaving our league.

"If the Brooklyn organization is seriously considering putting in a major league club in Los Angeles, their intent alone will do irreparable damage to the Pacific Coast League.

"But on the other hand, we would change our vote to yes if Brooklyn would provide a written statement that their main purpose will be to uphold the Pacific Coast League, in its entire status as it now exists, which is in open classification."

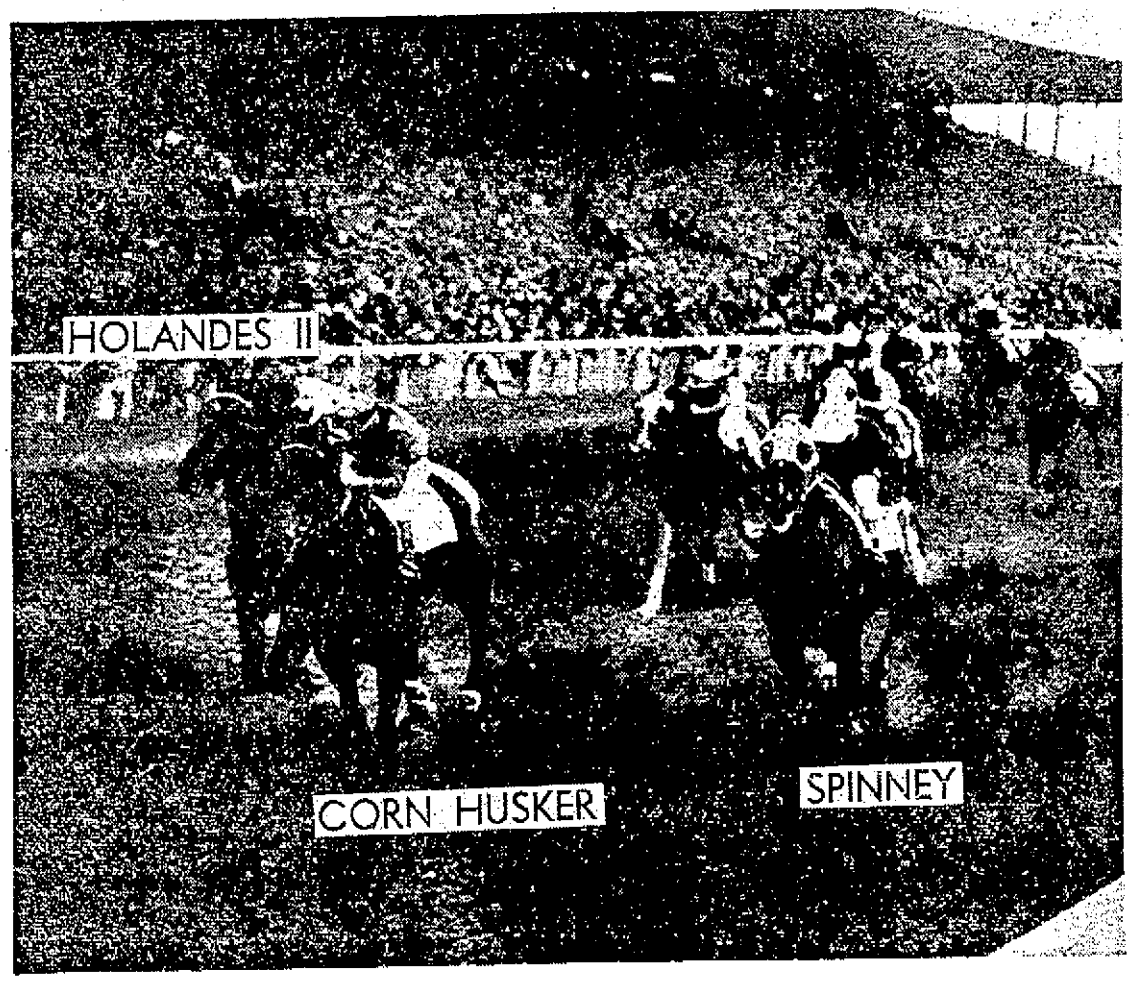

David, admitting he was suspicious of Brooklyn motives, added:

"On the surface it seems the Brooklyn organization is merely using Los Angeles as a means to get a new baseball park built in Brooklyn."

'INSIDE VIEW' OF SANTA ANITA HANDICAP

Here is view of Corn Husker's Santa Anita Handicap victory as seen by infield camera. A crowd of 52,500 was on hand to watch 20th running of rich event.—(Associated Press Wirephoto)

Holandes II, Spinney Trail Ex-'Hurdler'

By DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

SANTA ANITA PARK—Llangollen Farm's Corn Husker, a converted jumper who won a hurdles event at Belmont Park only four months ago, outlasted Holandes II and Spinney in a furious drive to the wire here Saturday to become the second "hurdler" ever to win the rich Santa Anita Handicap.

Described by his owner, Mrs. Richard Lunn, the former Liz Whitney, as "a big country horse that just grits his teeth and runs as fast and far as he can," Corn Husker collected $103,600 first money with a half-length win over Holandes II while the South American favorite finished another half-length in front of the third-place Spinney before a crowd of 52,500.

In fourth place, another 3¼ lengths to the rear, came the fast-closing Lover Boy followed in order by Arrogate, Battle Dance, Social Climber, Honeys Alibi, Pit Boss, Traffic Judge, Count Chic, Bounty Bay, All She Wrote, Eugenio and Vaquero II.

* * * *

THERE WERE THREE scratches from the original field of 18—Blen Host, Gigantic and Poona II, winner of the 1955 Big 'Cap.

Time for the gruelling mile and one-quarter test over a track labeled "good" after drying out miraculously fast following Friday night's heavy rain was a creditable 2:01 4/5.

Corn Husker, coupled with Social Climber and Traffic Judge in the wagering, returned $9.60, $4.70 and 3.20 as the second betting choice. The public favorite, Holandes II, coupled with Eugenio, paid $5.10 and 3.70, while Spinney, coupled with Arrogate, kicked back $4.50 to show.

The Big 'Cap grossed $140,700.

* * * *

A VICTORY IN the 20th running of the Big 'Cap by a hurdler certainly didn't establish a precedent since the inaugural Santa Anita Handicap, which wrote turf history in 1934 as the first $100,000 race in American racing history, was won by Azucar, a converted steeplechaser.

Corn Husker's victory as the lightweight in the field with an impost of 105 pounds also recalled the running of the 1938 Hundred Grander when Stagehand, with only 100 pounds up, outlasted by a nose the mighty Seabiscuit, who was burdened with 130 pounds.

Corn Husker got into the race with 104 pounds, but went postward with 105 pounds . . . lightest jockey Ralph Neves was able to make. Holandes II was the second high weight at 121 pounds. Spinney carried 108.

Eddie Arcaro originally was slated to ride Corn Husker, but couldn't take off enough weight and Neves was given the mount when he trimmed down five pounds to 105.

* * * *

RALPH SAID AFTER the race that "it was sure worth taking off those five pounds. I've never been so happy in my life. I could have gone to the lead at any time after the half-mile pole. I knew that if he had the class with that weight he was going to win it. And he sure had class.

"I lost some ground on the clubhouse turn," he explained, "but after that I laid up a little closer than we had planned because he was so full of run. I finally let him loose at the head of the stretch and we were home."

In scoring his first win in the Big 'Cap, Neves admitted that he did it the first time he ever climbed aboard Corn Husker. He had never ridden him before . . . not even in a workout. "However," Ralph said, "I've liked the looks of him for several weeks and told my agent over a month ago to get me the ride if he could."

Battle Dance charged to the front at the break and took a length and one-half lead through the early going followed by Spinney, Bounty Bay and Eugenio with Corn Husker laying in fifth spot and Holandes settling down in 10th place until they headed into the back stretch when he gradually began working his way to the heels of Corn Husker.

* * * *

BATTLE DANCE, Spinney and Pit Boss, the latter making a bold move down the backside, were only heads apart in a torrid duel on the stretch turn when Corn Husker and Holandes made their moves together.

They came around the three other horses with Holandes getting a little the worst of it on the outside when he lost a good half-length or so.

Once they straightened out for the run home, it quickly developed into a two-horse duel for the win honors with Spinney just a stride back ready to take over if either faltered.

Middleweight Challenger

Basilio Expects to Meet Fullmer in July N.Y. Bout

CLEVELAND (UP) — Carmen Basilio, looking for new worlds to conquer, expects to box Gene Fullmer for the middleweight title in July because he thinks Fullmer will whip Sugar Ray Robinson in their April 24 rematch at Chicago.

The welterweight champion wore no marks of battle from Friday night's shattering knockout victory over ex-champ Johnny Saxton in 2:42 of the second round. Poised and confident, he handled himself smartly in a "morning after" press conference.

A match between Basilio and the Robinson-Fullmer winner is in the works, probably for Yankee Stadium in New York in July. A June ball park date is being held open for a heavyweight title match, probably Floyd Patterson and Hurricane Jackson.

Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club, said Saturday he hopes to put Basilio into a middleweight championship scrap. Basilio and his co-managers, Johnny DeJohn and Joe Netro, are more than willing.

Asked which he would consider the toughest opponent, Basilio named Fullmer. "He didn't fight his usual fight against Robinson. He wasn't sure of going 15 rounds so he was very cautious and paced himself. If he fights me he will have more confidence and it will be the same with him in his next fight with Robinson.

"I think he'll beat Robinson, more decisively than last time. He'll set a stronger pace and slow down Robinson late in the fight."

There are no challengers in the welterweight class for the 29-year-old champ. Basilio agreed Tony DeMarco, a former champ who was knocked out twice by him, would be the "best drawing card." He also mentioned Gaspar Ortega, winner in two of three meetings with DeMarco, and Vince Martinez, who boxes Kid Gavilan Tuesday at Newark.

Co-manager Netro, commenting on a reported $75,000 offer to fight Martinez if he wins, said, "it would have to be at least that."

Basilio has no plans for another welter defense before he goes after the middleweights. However, he'll take one or two "tune-up" matches over the weight, probably in Syracuse, N. Y. near his home town of Canastota. He said he would weigh about 151 pounds for his middleweight bid, giving almost 10 pounds to his opponent.

'I'VE HAD IT,' SAYS 3:58 MILER

Landy Runs 2nd, Retires From Major Competition

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP) — John Landy, world mile record-holder once described by Britain's Roger Bannister as the "most unselfish" of the top international athletes, Saturday retired from major competition after finishing second in an 880-yard inter-club race.

"I've had it—for good this time. I'll hang up my spikes now," Landy said, sweat trickling down his face.

Landy six times ran the mile in less than four minutes—more than any other man—but lost Saturday's half-mile to an unheralded Australian named Feoff Fleming by two yards in 1:54.6.

It apparently was the last straw for Landy, holder of the world mile record of 3:58 and the Australian half-mile record of 1:50.4.

"I won't run seriously anymore, but just have an occasional outing in inter-club events," Landy said. "I have had a few good innings but it's too much of a strain to compete in major racing if you aren't fit enough to get the pace.

"Now I cannot do that because I am teaching miles from a decent track."

Davis Beaten by So. African Hurdler

JOHANNESBURG (UP)—Jack Davis of Glendale, Calif., holder of the world 110 meter hurdles record at 13.4 seconds, was beaten by South African Koos Vanindermerwe in a 120-yard hurdles race at Kreugersdorp, near Johannesburg Saturday.

The time was 14.7 seconds on a rain-sodden grass track. Davis, who is making an American State Department sponsored goodwill tour of Africa, has complained of stomach trouble since his arrival in Johannesburg on Thursday.

Once Over Lightly
by DAVE LEWIS

Some observers keep harping on the fact that the Brooklyn Dodgers could use Wrigley Field as an interim park until a new stadium is built to take care of the Bums when and if they move to Southern California.

If the Dodgers do come West, and despite prevailing optimism there is still plenty of room for doubt, they would lose at least two years of unprecedented attendance if they were forced to operate in Wrigley Field.

Thus, if a new ball park is not made available by at least 1960 . . . I, for one, doubt if the Dodgers will move to Los Angeles.

A 50,000 to 55,000-seat stadium would be necessary to fully capitalize on the attendance potential of the Southern California area in the first two years.

Wrigley Field's seating could be boosted to around 30,000, which is only 1,902 short of Brooklyn's present capacity at Ebbets Field.

And a great many of the seats in an expanded Wrigley Field would have to be classified as "poor" because of the layout of the park. The additional seating, by necessity, would put fans in "outfield locations."

Even if they filled a 30,000-seat Wrigley Field for every one of the 77 home games, the total attendance would just barely get over the two million mark . . . and not even the most optimistic baseball men will go so far as to predict much more than a 50 to 60 per cent capacity for a daily average.

Availability of Wrigley Field, the extremely poor parking facilities and the fantastic cost of adding more seats are against the 42nd and Avalon plant as a site . . . even as an interim field.

AS WE POINTED out not long ago, the Southern California area is the only one left in the country with a potential attendance of 3,000,000.

But to reach this tremendous total, the Dodgers or any club would have to accomplish it in the first two years when the "curiosity" angle is still prevalent.

After that, television will be the major factor in attendance leveling off . . . and you can be sure that any major league team that comes West will wrangle a fabulous TV contract.

A few readers, recalling several articles I did a few years ago on the fact that the St. Louis Browns of the American League were set to operate out of Los Angeles in 1942 until the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor nipped the move, have called in to ask if Wrigley Field was adequate then . . . why not now?

Things have changed greatly since then.

The deal in '42 called for the city to condemn some adjoining property and close the street which the left field fence borders so that more grandstand seats could be added to boost the seating capacity to slightly over 50,000.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce further agreed to guarantee the Browns a home attendance of 500,000 for the first three years (1942-43-44).

Thus, if the Browns drew only 350,000 . . . the Chamber would have had to make up the difference.

It was a fine deal for the Browns at the time. In 1941, the St. Louis entry in the American League lured only 280,000 fans to its home games.

IN THOSE YEARS, 500,000 home attendance was considered very good. In fact, virtually every major league club could crack the nut with that kind of a gate. The teams with extensive farm operations, of course, needed a bit more.

Now it takes close to a million attendance for the average club to break even . . . more if it has any kind of a farm operation.

The vast Dodger chain can no longer depend on the parent club's home attendance in Brooklyn, which averages slightly better than a million per year, but needs an annual take of $750,000 from radio and TV to produce a profit despite the fact they are operating out of the nation's No. 1 market.

Brooklyn's minor league chain, however, is one of the costliest in the business.

Thus, some baseball men are wondering if they would be any better off in Los Angeles, the nation's No. 3 market . . . providing, of course, New York is able to supply the Dodgers with a new ball park.

There is no doubt but that the Dodgers would do a land-office business in Southern California, particularly the first two seasons.

However, Brooklyn undoubtedly would insist on a big television deal—at least $750,000 and more likely over $1,000,000—if moved to Los Angeles.

And there is little doubt in the minds of most baseball men that the crowds ultimately would level off because of television.

Milwaukee's record attendance figures of the past few years has been the result of a no-TV policy. Television admittedly would cut heavily into attendance.

Thus, after two or three years when the crowds do level off, the Dodgers may not be in any better shape in Los Angeles than they are right now in Brooklyn.

Therefore, in the event of a move, it is necessary for the club to operate immediately out of a big new park in the Los Angeles area.

IN VIEW OF THIS, it would be wise to immediately map concrete plans for a new stadium to be completed by the end of 1959 . . . rather than to figure on the use of Wrigley Field as an interim field.

There is no doubt but what Southern California could have major league baseball by 1960 . . . or sooner, if a new ball park was available.

That doesn't necessarily mean the Brooklyn Dodgers, though.

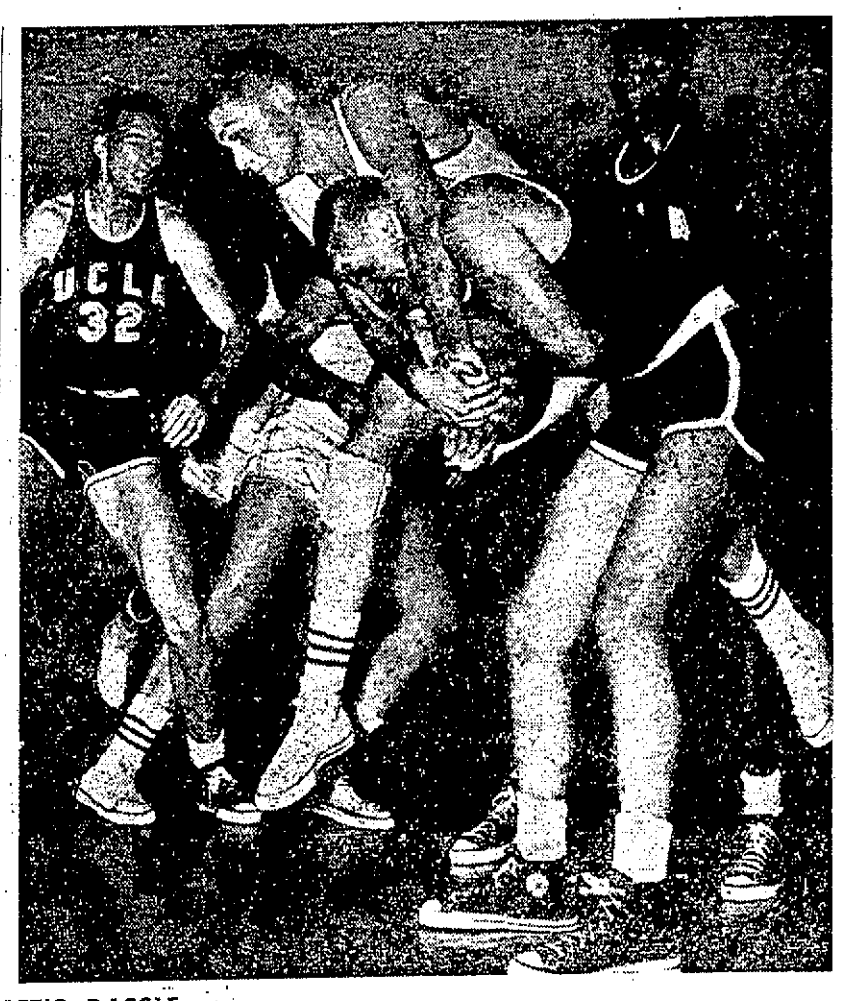

If a new ball park is built in New York . . . the Dodgers can always peddle the Los Angeles franchise.

A major point that has been overlooked by most people thus far is that the Dodger move went farther than just the club itself.

It sewed up Southern California for the National League.

The Dodgers, meanwhile have protected themselves and the National League for any eventuality through the purchase of the Angeles and Wrigley Field.

And in the long run when and if a new ball park is provided in the Los Angeles area, there is just as good a chance that the Dodgers would step aside (at a profit, of course) and let Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cincinnati or even the St. Louis Cardinals come West than to make the move themselves.

Cal Bounces Back to Drub Huskies

SEATTLE (AP)—California's Bears came bolting back from a Friday night defeat to trounce Washington's Huskies, 72-62, in the final Pacific Coast Conference home basketball game of the season for the losers.

Combined with UCLA's triumph over Oregon, the decision left California deadlocked for the conference lead with the Uclans. The two leaders meet next week. Each has one loss in conference play.

With its full court press working to perfection, California reversed the trend of Friday night's game to take an early lead and dominate the contest all the way.

The count was tied twice in the early going and Washington took a short lived lead—its only one of the game—at 6-4 after three and a half minutes.

* * * *

EARL ROBINSON tied it up with two free throws for Cal, then stole the ball and tallied on a layup to make it 8-6 and the Bears were in front to stay.

The two big Washington scoring stars who killed the Bears Friday night—Doug Smart and Bruno Boin—were squeezed off the boards and bottled up in the first half Saturday night. Smart found the range in the second half and led all scorers with 22 points.

California got its biggest first half lead on nine points two minutes before recess but Washington put on a surge to reach halftime trailing, 31-34.

* * * *

THE CROWD OF 9,000, most of them hoping this was a hint of change, found the Bears were unperturbed in the second stanza. With Larry, Friend, Robinson and sub guard Mike Diaz pointing the way, California quickly spread the gap to 11 points.

Washington never again got into serious contention, although the Huskies shaved the margin to six points with eight minutes left to play.

THWARTS RALLY

UCLA Nets 73-65 Win Over Oregon

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—The UCLA Bruins raced to their second consecutive victory over Oregon Saturday night, 73-65, to remain in a tie with California for the Pacific Coast Conference basketball lead.

For the Bruins it was the 20th win in 22 starts this season, but they had to withstand a late rally by the tail-end team of the conference.

After holding a comfortable 16-point lead early in the second half, the Bruins suddenly found their margin cut to four points, 55-51, with eight minutes remaining.

The teams traded scores for the next two minutes, but with the count 59-55 and six minutes remaining, guard Walt Torrence finally led UCLA out of danger. With only two minutes remaining the Bruins were in front, 69-57.

* * * *

TORRENCE WOUND up with 17 points, the same total reached by center Ben Rogers and Oregon's high-point man, forward Charley Franklin.

It was ball-hawking that put Oregon in the game for those few moments in the second half. Guard Phil McHugh was the particular thorn in the side of the victors, but he picked up fouls in chasing the ball closely, and had to leave the game with 2:20 minutes remaining.

OH, SAY—HE COULDN'T SEE

NEW YORK (UP) — Bill Rahn, a member of Villanova's one-mile relay team, found out Saturday night the meaning of "bombs bursting in air" in the National Anthem.

The anthem was being played to open the National AAU indoor track and field meet at Madison Square Garden when, in the darkness, Rahn stepped out of the arena.

He did not know there was a four-step drop. He was taken to a New York hospital for observation of head injuries.

Rogers' 29 Spark SC Over Tribe

PALO ALTO (AP)—The Southern California Trojans had too much class Saturday night as they defeated the Stanford Indians, 86-73, in a Pacific Coast Conference basketball game.

Coming on top of Friday night's 72-69 victory, the triumph gave SC a firm hold on fourth place with a 6-4 conference record. Stanford fell to 6-8.

Capt. Danny Rogers of SC proved the big star, getting eight field goals and 13 free throws for 29 points.

SC was never headed. At halftime, the Trojans led 43-35. At the start of the second half Bill Bond of Stanford sank two field goals and a free throw to give the Indians some hope. But Rogers started connecting and the Trojans pulled away.

With 10 minutes remaining, SC was safely in front, 71-55, and both teams began substituting freely.

Bond, who is striving to become the third highest scorer in Stanford history, got only 14 points against the Trojans, one of his lowest totals of the season. He needs 17 points in the next two games to gain the third spot.

Hoosiers Maintain 1st Place

(Compiled from UP and AP)

Indiana maintained its grip on first place in the Big Ten basketball race Saturday night, walloping last place Wisconsin, 85-74, but Ohio State and Michigan State stayed just one game off the pace as they scored victories, along with Illinois and Iowa.

Ohio State trailed most of the way but rallied in the final six minutes to defeat Michigan, 94-88, while Michigan State also staged a come-from-behind act in clipping Minnesota, 70-65.

Among the also rans in the race, Iowa, ahead by 15 points at halftime, had to fight off a spirited Northwestern rally to win, 74-66, and Illinois eked past Purdue, 80-78, in a game that was in doubt until the final gun.

* * * *

INDIANA NOW HAS a 9-2 record in Big Ten play compared to an 8-3 slate for Ohio State and Michigan State. The Hoosiers' conference scoring ace, Archie Dees, again paced his teammates with a 24-point production.

The Hoosiers started slowly and remained on the short end of the score until 12 minutes had elapsed, but then caught fire to go ahead, 36-25, at halftime.

ROYALS SALE IMMINENT

Report Kansas City Will Get Lakers' Franchise

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers, once the mightiest team in professional basketball, "probably will be sold," president Ben Berger said Saturday.

Berger said a firm offer for the club's franchise was made through Maurice Podoloff, National Basketball Assn., president, at a meeting Saturday afternoon.

Berger declined to name the prospective buyers or the size of their offer. The Minneapolis Star, however, said the prospective purchasers are believed to include Ken Fischman of Kansas City and Marty Marion, former Chicago White Sox baseball manager. The club's new home presumably would be in Kansas City.

At Cincinnati, where another NBA transaction is in the making, a Cincinnati group spokesman spiked reports that the Rochester club had been purchased for that city. But the spokesman, Robert Siegel, said "the outlook is encouraging." Siegel said there would be a meeting early in March concerning the franchise.

Salas Gains Legion Nod

Lauro Salas, 130, Los Angeles, took a unanimous decision from Montreal's Armand Savoie, 134¾, Saturday night in a 10-round lightweight match at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Savoie did his best punching in the infighting. But the brawling Salas took the long range exchanges with wild-swinging flurries that gave him a substantial edge in points.

Judge Jimmy Wallace had it 98-94, Judge Russ Bradford 97-95 and Referee Charley Randolph 96-94 for the "Little Lion" of Monterrey, Mexico, who now fights out of Los Angeles. He was slightly favored.

It was Savoie's Southern California ring debut and Salas' first victory of the year. There were no knockdowns but Salas suffered a slight cut over his right eye and Savoie a cut on his left eye.

Variety on Caliente Card

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. — Caliente offers a wide variety of racing for today with eight middle distance stars going a mile in the Antipodes Handicap, seven marathoners traveling two miles in the Joe Eaton Cup, while 11 sprinters, the best here, will step three quarters in the six-furlong Heart Fund Allowances.

Gay Marvel heads the Antipodes field with the high weight of 122 pounds, two more than assigned Muy Tony. Fancy Dresser, 116 and L'Aigle, 108, both impressive winners last week are named to go. Two recent marthon-winners, Dr. Fury and Film Control, will oppose two strong newcomers to the extra long races in Californian and Alizumba.

Going in the Heart Fund are the best of the local sprinters, including Damp Abbey, Reliapon, My Urchin, Tare and Down De Lane.

2ND PLACE WINS

Caliente to Change 5-10

AGUA CALIENTE (AP) — The Caliente horse race track said Saturday it was changing its 5-10 pool on Sunday races so that second-place bettors could win.

Starting March 3, the track said, 75 per cent of the pool payout will go to bettors picking the most winners in the fifth through tenth races. The remaining 25 per cent will go to those picking the second highest number of winners.

The pool, since it was established at Caliente last April, has paid only those picking the most winners. The track takes 10 per cent.

Rebel Ace in Scoring Lead

BATON ROUGE, La. (UP) — Joe Gibbon of Mississippi took over as the nation's leading major-college basketball scorer Saturday night by scoring 46 points in an 83-76 victory over Louisiana State.

Gibbon's performance boosted his season average to 30.3 points per game with one game remaining next Thursday against Mississippi State.

Gibbon replaced Grady Wallace of South Carolina, who scored 43 points Saturday night despite a 94-81 loss to Duke at Durham, N. C., to increase his average to 30.13 points per game.

Recreation Park Netters Play

Bob and Gloria Hendricks outlasted Ted and Jean Matthews, 6-4, 6-4, in an "A" mixed doubles match to feature play in the Recreation Park doubles tournament Saturday.

Women—Bray-Matthews def. Lohmuller-Murdoch, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3.

RAPS ROSEWALL

Pancho in 2-Set Win

Big Pancho Gonzales pounced on Ken Rosewall like a bargain-hungry housewife Saturday night to defeat his little Aussie opponent, 6-4, 8-6, at Pan Pacific Auditorium and stretch his pro tennis tour lead to 10-6.

Rosewall was just as tough as Friday night when he defeated Gonzales in straight sets, but his six foot, three-inch rival wouldn't give him the break he needed Saturday.

Pancho's heralded service boomed with its old magnificence off new-strung rackets as he stayed on top of the tough, 143-pound sharpshooter.

Will Gets 30 in 87-60 Win

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Kansas maintained its Big Seven basketball lead Saturday night with an easy 87-60 victory over Nebraske as Wilt Chamberlain scored 30 points for the Jayhawks.

Kansas broke from a 23-all tie with 8:25 left in the first half and blasted the Huskers 21-4 to gain a 44-27 halftime advantage.

Nebraska, which never was ahead, was unable to make a challenge after that. The largest Kansas leads were 64-34 and 63-36. Then Kansas substitutes began to pour onto the court.

Chamberlain left the game with 5:15 to go. He got 17 points in the first half.

The victory gave Kansas an 18-2 season record and 8-1 in the Big Seven. Nebraska is 9-11 for the season and 3-6 in the league.

May Buy Race Track

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Evening Star said Saturday Clint W. Murchison, Texas oil man, has obtained an option to buy the Charles Town, W. Va., race track for four million dollars—three million of it in cash.

FORTE IN TEAM WORK

Lions' Ace Scores 23

NEW YORK (UP)—With high-scoring Chet Forte turning into a superb playmaker, Columbia swamped Brown, 82-64, in an Ivy League basketball game Saturday night.

Forte wound up with 23 points but it was his passing in the first half which moved Columbia to a 55-38 halftime lead. The Lions coasted home in the second half.

Forte, who went into the game as the nation's third highest scorer, broke a Columbia school record as he pushed his season point total to 579. He thus snapped the mark of 559 he set in 1955. However, his scoring average for this season dropped from 28.26 to 28.95.

Mustangs Clinch Southwest Crown

HOUSTON, TEX. (UP) — The Southern Methodist Mustangs Saturday night won their third straight Southwest basketball championship and a berth in the NCAA regional tournament at Dallas March 15-16 with a nip-and-tuck 75-72 victory over Rice.

Jim Krebs, big Pony center, had one of his best nights of the season with 33 points.

The Mustangs won the game at the free throw line as SMU hit on 23 of 29 charity shots while Rice got 8 of 16.

Larson, Ex-Cal QB Star, Inks Card Pact

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback Paul Larson, who set a NCAA record for passing accuracy at California in 1954, has been signed by the Chicago Cardinals, it was announced Saturday.

Larson, 25, will end a two-year hitch in the service in plenty of time to go to the Cardinals training camp this summer. The 185-pounder completed 125 out of 195 passes for 64.1 per cent in 1954.

39 for Hot Rod

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) —West Virginia, led by Hot Rod Hundley's 39 points, knocked over traditional rival Pitt, 107-93, in a rough, often-wild basketball game Saturday night. Sophomore Don Hennon scored 38 for Pitt.

Prep Cage Scores

Excelsior Cees 55, Anaheim 30 (finals, Capistrano tourney).

Aggie J. Takes Overall Honors in Cruiser Race

Johnny Miller's power yacht Aggie J, a class B contender representing Long Beach Yacht Club, scored overall honors to win the Arthur L. Bobrick trophy in a 25-mile San Pedro - Balboa cruiser race in Saturday's feature of the Midwinter Regatta.

A total of 355 boats in four divisions established a new overall entry record in the 28th edition of the winter sail-power classic, it was announced by general chairman John Esdenshade. The breakdown was:

Large boats, 163 in 13 classes at LAYC; small boats, 118 in nine classes at Cabrillo Beach YC; dinghies, 62 in six classes at Alamitos Bay YC; power yachts, 12 in two classes.

In the feature sailing competition, 31 Division Two Ocean Rule yachts, largest class, were led for the second straight day by Ash Brown's Carousel of San Diego.

Lusty southwest winds of 20-and-upward-mile velocity prevailed for sailing action, while the power yachts encountered heavy, rough seas for their trans-coast feature.

USF Spanks Lions, 75-65

The University of San Francisco Dons outscored Loyola, 75-65 Saturday and are headed for another California Basketball Conference championship.

Santa Clara, one of their chief contenders, was upset by Loyola Friday.

The Dons got off to a 12-0 lead. San Francisco's CBA record is now 10 wins and two losses.

49er Volleyball Team Places 4th

Long Beach State was knocked out of the Pt. Mugu men's volleyball tourney Saturday after clinching fourth place.

The 49ers topped Hamilton Air Force Base, 3-15,15-10, 15-11, but then lost to the Ingleaires, 13-15, 13-15. In the losers' bracket they beat the UCLA Reserves, 15-17, 14-12, 12-10, but then fell to Hamilton in a return match, 12-15, 15-8, 10-15.

North Long Beach, one of the title favorites, is still in strong contention for the crown.

L.B.-Owned Horse Wins at Caliente

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (UP) —Kittly-Taurus, a six-year-old sprinter owned by Mrs. H. M. Cullum of Long Beach, caught a muddy strip and romped home by two lengths over odds-on favorite Zodiakos in the six furlong feature at Caliente racetrack Saturday. Miss Solaci was third.

The winner paid $15.40, $5.60 and $4.00. Time was 1:14 1/5.

Antique and A-Lock combined to produce a $458.80 daily double.

Two New Records Set by YMCA Swimmers

Two downtown YMCA swimmers set new meet records Saturday at Watsonville in the 2nd annual Pacific Southwest Area boy-girl YMCA championships.

In the 11-12 year group, Mike McQuarie lowered the old record of 43.3 to 36.2 in the 50 breastroke and Bill Rose was clocked in 35.0 in the 13-14 group, breaking the old mark of 35.2.

Black Hawks Win TV Game in Last Minute

CHICAGO (UP)—Eddie Litzenberger scored with 49 seconds to play Saturday to give the Chicago Black Hawks their second win of the season over the National Hockey League-leading Detroit Red Wings, 4-3, in the weekly televised hockey game.

The Chicago win broke a three-game victory streak for Detroit, and pulled the Hawks within five games of fifth place Toronto.

OUT. Joe Hicks, who admits his heart belongs to baseball isn't interested in succeeding Cecil Coleman, resigned, in the football command post at Long Beach City College.

Handsome Joe, one of our town's more popular coaches and skipper of the Viking baseball ship, has eliminated himself with this statement:

For the past three seasons I have felt that it has been becoming increasingly difficult to be a good football assistant, husband, father and baseball coach.

"Therefore, I have requested to be relieved of my football assignment (under Coleman end coach and scout) in order to concentrate on baseball."

"I'm so bushed by the end of football season under present arrangements that I need a good rest before I can assume my baseball tasks with the proper zest and enthusiasm I should show for them. Moreover, the time spent in football should be used in recruiting and counseling the members of the baseball squad. I have lost several of them to pro ball because I haven't had enough time to devote to them."

Joe first served the Viking grid cause in 1949 as end coach and scout under Buck Andreasen. He remained on Buck's staff until 1954 when he put in a brief tour of duty in the military service. He rejoined Buck in 1955 and stayed on in the same job after Coleman took over.

Cecil has returned to his alma mater, Arizona State of Tempe, as backfield coach. Since his resignation, there has been talk of Joe moving up.

With Joe out of the picture, what about a successor?

Why not Jim Clayton, who has served under three different head men at Vikingville as line coach? Why not give Jim a shot at it? He deserves the opportunity for having toiled so faithfully and efficiently under Eddie Wagner for two years, under Andreasen for seven and under Coleman for one!

Shouldn't devoted service call for an opportunity to shoulder bigger responsibilities?

DEBUNKED. At best, the value of the training table and thick steaks, medium rare—a way of life in college football—is dubious. So says a well known medical publication after considered research.

Perhaps there is a psychological advantage in having football warriors dine together week after week and month after month, it concedes, but close study shows no other particular values.

This, however, will not lead all football coaches in the land to immediate elimination of their favorite institution. As one so coyly put it:

"If we tried feeding them a vegetable plate, they would really go out on the practice field and fight—yeah, fight us!"

OUTBID. Know the real reason the Los Angeles Rams didn't land John Witte's signature on a contract?

The Oregon State all-America tackle received better treatment from the Canadian League.

He signed for 10 grand. The Rams offered him only $8,000. He received another $1,000 for signing. The Rams offered him only $500.

There were other advantages to the Canadian offer. He will be given a part-time outside job during the football season, then in the off months will be guaranteed steady work in professional wrestling.

He may make as much in the grunt and groan racket as he does in football.

LEAVING. Paul Reginato, one of the central figures in the $325,000 damage suit won by a Dunsmir High School football player, has resigned his Dunsmuir grid job after nine years of duty.

He has accepted the head post at Livermore High School. His departure is not the direct result of the damage action to Anthony L. Welch.

In announcing its plans to appeal the colossal verdict, the Dunsmuir board of education said it does not hold Reginato negligent or responsible for the injury which paralyzed Welch.

"I advised the board at the end of last football season that I was leaving," Reginato stated. "I am making the move purely to advance myself into a position which will open the doors to administrative work. The opportunities I will have in Livermore are too good to pass up."

TUTORS PIRATES

Rickey Bat Instructor

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Branch Rickey, still intrigued by challenge, said Saturday he was delighted to pinch hit for ailing George Sisler, the greatest all-around player he ever managed.

The chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Pirates accepted an invitation by his successor, General Manager Joe L. Brown, and Manager Bobby Bragan to take over Sisler's duties as special batting instructor in spring training at Ft. Myers, Fla.

"The invitation is a challenging one and will definitely become my main interest," Rickey said.

JIMMY BRYAN
Seeks Second Straight

28 in Big Stock Test at Pomona

Jimmy Bryan, two-time national driving champion, will be seeking his second straight stock car victory as he heads an entry list of 28 of the nation's top drivers, including a dozen Indianapolis veterans and eight national champions, in this afternoon's 100-mile USAC national championship stock car race at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

Qualifying for the five event program starts at 12:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★ ★

BRYAN, WHO WAS just named captain of the American team that is going to race at Monza, Italy, after Indianapolis, tops the "500" veterans and national champions who'll be driving stock cars for the first time on the 11-turn, two-mile road racing course on the parking lot at Pomona.

Besides Ryan, the Indianapolis veterans include Troy Ruttman, 1952 "500" winner; Johnnie Parsons, 1949 national driving champion and 1950 Indianapolis victor; national driving champions Chuck Stevenson (1952) and Sam Hanks (1953); national stock car champions Rodger Ward (1951), Marshall Teague (1952 and '54), and Johnny Mantz (1956); Johnnie Tolan, 1952 national midget champion; Ray Crawford, 1954 Mexican Road Race winner; Billy Garrett and Bob Christie.

★ ★ ★ ★

BILL STROPPE of Long Beach will have a three-car Mercury entry including the one driven by Bryan. Hanks and Mantz will be in the other two. Stevenson will be driving a Ford for Peter De Paolo Engineering of Long Beach who also has a three-car entry. The other two drivers are Ruttman and Jerry Unser Jr., Bill Stammer of Garden Grove will be at the controls of Beach City's Chevrolet.

Other top drivers include George Amick, Dempsey Wilson, Bill Cheesbourg, Les Snow, Rosie Roussel, Larry Dunham, Danny Weinberg, Jack Jordan, Tony Settenber, Cecil Chambers, Les Scott, Buzz Rose and Don Basile.

Nielsen, Flam Gain Net Finals

NEW YORK (AP)—Kurt Nielsen, a big, mustachioed Dane and Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., scored surprising straight set victories Saturday to gain the final round of the National Indoor championships.

They clash for the title today with Nielsen favored to seize the crown which has eluded him twice before after he had gone this far.

The 28-year-old clouter from Copenhagen changed his tactics and used a soft, defensive slice to upset the top-seeded Dick Savitt of South Orange, N. J., 6-3, 8-6, 8-6.

Flam, although seeded third, gave a demonstration of almost unbelievable steadiness to crush Barry MacKay, 21-year-old University of Michigan senior from Dayton, Ohio, who was riding a string of sensational indoor victories. The score was 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

MacKay and Grant Golden of Wilmette, Ill., upset the No. 1 men's doubles team, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, and Schmidt 11-9, 6-0, 3-6, 6-3. They go into the finals against Savitt and Bill Talbert of New York, who won over Sidney Wood Jr., and son, Sydney III, of New York, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4.

Braves Sell 'All' Tickets

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves announced Saturday night that for the first time in the four years they've been setting National League attendance marks in Milwaukee, they've sold out their entire season ticket supply of 12,000.

If each ticket is used for each of the 72 home dates—and in Milwaukee that usually happens—the Braves would have an attendance of 864,000 for the 1957 season before they even start selling individual game tickets. Those go on sale today for the April 18 home opener against Cincinnati.

Stram, SMU Aide, Shifts to Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—Henry Stram, backfield coach last year at Southern Methodist, has been hired at Notre Dame for the same job, Athletic Director Edward W. Krause announced Saturday.

The new Irish coach played football for Purdue. He was an assistant at Purdue until last year, when he tutored the SMU backfield.

Stram succeeds Jim Finks, who resigned to coach in the Canadian League.

Ferrie, Stevenson, Carmody, Olson to Compete in L.B. 'Masters' Tourney

By JERRY WYNN

The first annual Long Beach Masters—a golf tournament in which the club champions of Virginia CC, Recreation Park, Lakewood and Meadowlark will compete against each other in 72-hole medal play on all four courses—will begin Saturday.

The first round will be played at Lakewood; the second Sunday at Meadowlark; the third Saturday, March 9, at Virginia, and the fourth Sunday, March 10, at Recreation Park.

Representing Virginia will be Jim Ferrie, the former Southern California Amateur and Long Beach City champion and perennially one of the Southland's ranking golfers.

Recreation Park's candidate is youthful Pinky Stevenson, the Wilson High senior who holds the USGA National Junior Championship and was Long Beach's "golfer of the year" for 1956.

Carrying Lakewood's standard will be Dick Carmody, the sharp-shooting Long Beach City College star.

Meadowlark will pin its hopes on Craig Olson, the math teacher who calculates his golf scores in simple twos, threes and fours.

To the victor will go The Independent, Press-Telegram perpetual trophy to be kept at his club, an individual trophy and other prizes.

★ ★ ★ ★

ORIGINATED BY Lakewood Men's Club president Andy Holmes and this writer and being held with the cooperation and assistance of the men's clubs of each course, the tournament is designed both as a Long Beach "tournament of champions" and a capsule version of a Long Beach medal championship.

Since the Long Beach City Championship is match play and open to all golfers, there long has been a need for a new tournament here, medal play and restricted to clubs in the immediate Long Beach area.

The Masters should fill the vacuum.

It figures to be an excellent test of golf. Unlike match play, in which several bad shots can be written off without serious consequences, every shot will count. The 72-hole distance will preclude the possibility of winning with just one hot round. By playing each round at a different course, the "home-course" advantage is eliminated.

Foremost, in Ferrie, Stevenson, Carmody and Olson, the Long Beach Masters will be contested by authentic golfing masters.

Tee-off time Saturday is 10 a. m.

FERRIE STEVENSON

CARMODY OLSON

Bob Kelley Says---

So close were the Washington Senators to moving into Los Angeles that a plan had already been formulated to placate Phil Wrigley for drafting his territory here. As the plan went, Washington would come into L.A. in 1958, after Wrigley's property here was drafted by the American League.

Next, the American League, which owns the San Francisco rights through the Boston Red Sox, planned to shift the Chicago White Sox to the Bay city. In this way, Wrigley would be left with the only team in Chicago. That was the thinking. But when the National League heard of it, Phil Wrigley moved first.

If the Brooklyn Dodgers decide to move here, it is not impossible that Wrigley Field will be their future home. Not the Wrigley Field we know now. But an enlarged model, with the surrounding property cleared for parking.

Obviously, there is only one way to land that property. Asking prices would be prohibitive. The syndicate that owns it would attempt to hold up a prospective buyer who needed it desperately to enlarge a ball park.

THE ANSWER might lie in Brooklyn selling Wrigley Field to the city of Los Angeles, having the city condemn the surrounding property, and then lease the expanded stadium back to the Walter O'Malley interests.

Of course, half the people in Southern California are taking credit for the Dodgers' purchase of the Angeles, and their possible future move here. These are the same people and politicians who have been screaming for major league ball for years—screaming, that's all they have been doing.

Sure, they were sincere in their urgings for big league baseball. I wanted it, too. But I didn't do anything to bring it here. Neither did they.

Only one man has ever done anything along that line—Mr. Phillip K. Wrigley. Right after the end of the war, when crowds were booming in the Coast League, Wrigley genuinely felt the answer was a third major league. But when the other PCL clubs didn't go along with improvements, he abandoned the possibility.

As his next move, Wrigley sent Bill Veeck here with a padded expense account and freedom to spend many thousands of dollars in surveys to determine the proper way of getting major league baseball for our area. When Veeck came up empty, Wrigley tried another plan.

Why not a 10-team National League, enveloping Los Angeles and San Francisco? This, however, was voted down by the other owners in his own league.

So Phil Wrigley had taken three swipes at the old apple without connecting. Being a man devoted to a crusade to bring Major League ball to Los Angeles, he made another move. He sold his property to Brooklyn, in hopes the Dodgers might be the answer.

The politicians and others may take credit for the big league possibility, but only one man, Phillip K. Wrigley, has really done anything about it.

ARAGON CALLED me after my program last night. It was the first time I'd spoken to him since his conviction, inasmuch as I had been out of town. I expected a tearful plea for sympathy. Instead, I was dumbfounded to learn the Golden Boy was still making "funnies."

"Don't worry about me," he greeted. "I'm a cinch in the rematch. Say, how do I get a rematch?"

City Cage Playoffs Under Way Monday

City League basketball playoffs start Monday and run through March 26.

The double elimination tournament, to decide the champion in each division, will feature all teams that played during regular season.

To be eligible, a player must have played in three games in any round or two games in each of two rounds.

Jack Eliot, Jr. of Newport Beach was named to the professional 1957 All-America skeet teams Saturday.

CUBS-DODGERS

Texas Loop OKs Switch

DALLAS (AP)—Directors of the Texas League were unanimous in approving the transfer of the Fort Worth franchise from the Brooklyn Dodgers to the Chicago Cubs, league president Dick Butler announced here Saturday.

Butler pointed out, however, that the vote of the directors and the subsequent transaction "would be contingent upon acceptance by the Pacific Coast League of the transfer of ownership of the Los Angeles franchise from Chicago to Brooklyn."

Heavy Downpour Postpones Third Round in Texas

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A heavy downpour which followed a nightlong drizzle rained out the third round of the $36,000 Houston Open golf tournament Saturday.

The third round will be played today, weather permitting, and the finals Monday.

Young Gene Bone is at the peak of his two-year pro career with a one-stroke lead over veteran Doug Ford at the halfway mark.

Winner of only $33.34 in seven 1957 tournaments, Bone said he was planning to return home from here for lack of funds.

"Now, I don't know," he said. "Maybe if I can win $100 I'll go on."

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Those tentative trout seasons, mentioned a couple of weeks ago in this column, are now official. It will be April 27 for the general season, May 18 for the northern Sierra Nevada season and May 30 for certain portions of the northern coast.

The Fish and Game Commission, meeting in Sacramento Friday, approved the dates and, at the same time, refused to lower the limit from 15 fish per day to 10.

No action was needed on the eight southern counties, inasmuch as there is no closed season. Incidentally, Department of Fish and Game wardens made several big plants in Southern California last week. Streams and reservoirs stocked were Little Rock, East and West Forks of the San Gabriel River, Fulmor Lake, Hemet Lake, Sweetwater River, Santa Ysabel Creek, San Luis Rey River, Deep Cat Lake, Matilija Reservoir, Piru Lake, and Santa Paula Creek.

Trout fishing has been excellent at Arrowhead and Gregory Lakes, with even shirt-sleeve weather most of the time.

* * * *

THE F&GC BANNED liver and other meat as bait for taking trout. Most California hatcheries feed liver to young fish and when they are planted in lakes and streams they are easy prey to liver anglers.

It is still legal to dangle a ball of cheese in front of a trout. A proposal to ban cheese was dropped after an impassioned plea by Mrs. Armeine Howey of Los Angeles, who said most fisherwomen dislike handling worms.

* * * *

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the F&GC session at Sacramento:

The commissioners said that they would not order an either-sex deer season for any part of California in 1957 unless the Legislature spells out the authority for them to limit the numbers of hunters in certain areas. Apparently the commissioners feel they have had enough abuse—yes, even threats—about the 1956 hunts and they are going to throw the controversial matter into the laps of the legislators.

Seth Gordon, director of the DF&G, told the commissioners that there will be a definite need for strict protection of salmon by 1958. For 1957, there will be no further regulations than those which already are in effect. Gordon said that the state's salmon fishery is in dire danger of depletion.

All of Amador County and that portion of Butte County north of the North Fork of the Feather River were placed in the April 27 season, instead of the May 3.

OFFICERS OF THE Long Beach Sportsman's Club were installed at a recent dinner-dance attended by more than 200 persons (members and wives). William T. (Bill) Skidmore took over as president, replacing Harry DuBay. Other officers: Dave Davis, vice president; Willie Hendickson, secretary; William M. Ramsell, treasurer; H. J. (Dutch) Krutzfeldt, sgt. at arms; Harry DuBay, Cecil Blumenstein and Johnnie Miller, board members.

The Sportsman's Club, one of the oldest in the city, is exceptionally active in conservation work. It takes part in the Southern Council of Conservation Clubs, and the Ocean Fish Protective Assn. For many years, the LBSC and its affiliate, the Lady Anglers, have carried on an intensive campaign for Ducks Unlimited.

BILL SKIDMORE
Heads Sportsman's Club

Trophies for the 1956 fishing season went to J. C. Morse, largest fresh-water fish (10½-pound bass); John Staples, largest yellowtail; Hal Ritter, largest albacore; Ivan Bowman and Johnny Holmes, albacore and Zeke Kennedy, largest trout.

Cobb Menke, Dave Davis, Johnnie Cerillo and Jack Bowman were singled out for their untiring committee efforts. Tex Herndon presented 20-year pins to several members. Joe Sears, club historian, gave a resume of the club's activities for 1956.

SPRING FEVER is hitting the ocean landings, with the result that many operators are planning early expeditions to banks where they hope to catch more than the usual winter take of rockfish. Already some boats are taking barracuda at Catalina Island and in Santa Monica Bay.

When that kind of word gets around, other skippers usually start warming up for early spring runs.

Meanwhile, the winter boats are bringing in some of the biggest loads of rock cod and grouper seen on this coast for many seasons. Pacific Landing claims that in the new Estrella it will have the most modern fishing boat on the coast. The Estrella is getting a real face-lifting and will appear shortly with a large lounge and topside controls.

The Maiden II and the Bright I, are sailing daily from Santa Monica Pier. They were shifted there because of the reconstruction work at Ocean Park Pier.

Shell Oil Co.'s application to conduct seismic explorations between Pt. Arguello and the mouth of the Santa Ana River has been denied by the Fish and Game Commission.

SC, UCLA Collide at Pan-Pacific Tuesday

Neighborly pals, SC and UCLA come to a parting of the ways this week in basketball. They meet Tuesday night at the Pan-Pacific Auditorium — by way of warming up(?) for weekend Pacific Coast Conference dates with Oregon's Webfoots and the California Golden Bears.

For the high-flying Bruins, it's a case of travel. The Uclans meet the Bears at Berkeley Friday and Saturday nights, while SC will stay at home to play the Webfoots at the Pan the same nights.

The situation the next week is similar. On Tuesday, March 5, the Trojans and Bruins will tangle again, this one marking the end of the UCLA PCC season. Then it will be SC's turn to tackle the Bears, hosting them Friday and Saturday, March 8-9, at the Pan-Pacific.

Other PCC pairings this week: Stanford at Idaho, Washington State at Oregon State and Washington idle, March 1-2.

Loyola invades San Diego State Tuesday night, then hosts College of Pacific Friday and Fresno State Saturday at the Lion gym in California Basketball Assn. games. Pepperdine entertains Fresno Friday and COP Saturday.

Long Beach State College's 49ers, finished with their regular season, will portray the role of the host to the annual Brown and Gold Tournament at the LBSC gym this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. With many of the Southland's small college quints enrolled, it will be a big week for the Staters.

Dye Gains Finals Against Romack

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Mrs. Alice O'Neal Dye of Indianapolis, Ind., staged a brilliant comeback Saturday and sank a 36-foot putt on the 21st hole to gain the final of the South Atlantic women's golf championship. She defeated Anne Richardson of Columbus, O., 1 up.

Mrs. Dye will play Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., in the 36-hole final today. Miss Romack, who has lost only one hole in four matches here, ousted Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, Md., 5 and 4 in the other semi-final.

TIGERS READY TO GIVE YANKS SERIOUS CHASE?

Lane Sees 4-Team Race in NL

By JOE REICHLER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)—Is this the year Mickey Mantle will break Babe Ruth's home run record? Will the Cinderella story of Sal Maglie add another lustrous chapter or will the clock strike midnight for the old Barber? Can the Brooklyn Dodgers successfully defend their National League crown without Jackie Robinson?

Is Roy Campanella really "washed up?" How long can Cleveland's Bob Lemon and Early Wynn continue to win 20? Is Detroit ready to challenge the Yankees? Is this Ted Williams' last year? Will last year's September jitters leave any scars on the Milwaukee Braves? Is this the year for the slugging Redlegs of Cincinnati or were they simply one-year wonders?

These and other questions stood out on the baseball horizon today as the 16 major league teams prepared to launch their annual spring training preparations.

As in 1956, a dozen clubs will make their bases in Florida while Cleveland, Baltimore, the New York Giants and Chicago Cubs will train in Arizona. A handful of clubs already have gotten under way. By March 1 all clubs will be in action.

To nobody's surprise, the Yankees and Dodgers have been established as winter favorites to meet again in the World Series next October. Most observers believe the Yankees will have an even easier time capturing the American League flag than they had last year when they finished nine games in front of runner-up Cleveland. They're not so sure of the Dodgers, however.

* * * *

"THE DODGERS won by the skin of their teeth last year," reminded Frank Lane, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. "They didn't do it until the last day. Now they find themselves without Jackie Robinson, who was the inspirational force, the blood and guts of the ball club. They're not sure about Roy Campanella's hands, they don't know what effect those beatings by the Yankees will have on Don Newcombe and they have no right to expect Sal Maglie to pitch the kind of ball he did last year.

"You can't have a tighter race than we had last year," Lane continued, "but I believe the league will be better balanced this year. With one or two exceptions every club has improved. I know we'll be from 10 to 12 games better. I look for it to be a four-team race this year with the Cardinals joining last year's three contenders."

* * * *

THERE ARE MANY who still believe the Braves had the best club in the National League last year and should have romped off with the flag. Inexperience and a case of understandable jitters down the homestretch hurt them as much as the opposing teams. The question now remains: Can they weather another tight struggle down the wire or must they jump off to a giant-sized lead—as Brooklyn did in 1955—to ease the pressure?

There's a surprising amount of support for the Redlegs, who surprised last year by finishing a strong third under the expert direction of manager Birdie Tebbetts. Realists reason, however, that it took almost superhuman slugging effort by the team (a record-tying 221 home runs) to make the club a challenger. Cincinnati's mediocre pitching staff remains a question along with whether Frank Robinson, Ed Bailey, Wally Post, Ted Kluszewski, Johnny Temple and Roy McMillan can all repeat their standout seasons.

* * * *

WITH NEARLY everyone conceding the AL pennant to the Yankees, most of the attention will be focused on Mantle, the world champion's switch-hitting slugger. Even if Mickey fails to top Ruth's 60 home runs in 1927, he is favored to capture the home run, runs batted in and batting titles just as he did last year to become the majors' first triple crown champion since Williams in '47. It wouldn't surprise many if the 26-year-old strong boy from Commerce, Okla., were to improve on his 1956 figures of .353, 130 runs batted in and 52 home runs.

Many experts believe the Tigers will displace the Indians as the most serious threat to the Yankees. They base their opinions on the presence of such fine hitters in the Tiger lineup as Harvey Kuenn, Al Kaline, Ray Boone and Charley Maxwell and the strong young hurling staff headed by 20-game winners Frank Lary and Billy Hoeft. The Tigers were fifth last year.

* * * *

THE INDIANS, already short on power, figure to be even harder hit by the retirement of Al Rosen, who represented their most potent righthanded weapon. They still possess the best pitching in the league but Wynn is 37 and Lemon is 36. The Indians probably will have more fire and hustle under Kerby Farrell, their new manager.

Jack Tighe at Detroit and Bob Scheffing, with the Chicago Cubs, are the other pilots who will make their major league debuts. Two others—Al Lopez with the White Sox and Fred Haney with the Braves—will be making their first training trip with new clubs. Lopez switched from Cleveland to Chicago during the winter and Haney succeeded Charley Grimm last June.

* * * *

THE RED SOX and White Sox, who finished far behind the Yankees last year, must depend on almost the same personnel this year. They were among the inactives in a light trading season, Kansas City, which figured in two of the five important deals, was the briskest trader. The A's acquired four players, including veteran pitchers Ned Garver and Virgil Trucks, in an eight-player deal with Detroit. They also obtained pitchers Tom Morgan, Mickey McDermott and Rip Coleman, outfielder Irv Noren and infielders Billy Hunter and Milt Graff from the Yankees for pitchers Art Ditmar and Bobby Shantz.

The Cardinals were the most active traders in the National League. They sent Rip Repulski and infielder Bobby Morgan to Philadelphia for slugger Del Ennis and acquired pitchers Sam Jones and Jim Davis in a 10-player deal with the Cubs, who received catcher Ray Katt and pitchers Tom Poholsky and Jackie Collum. The Cubs also sent pitcher Warren Hacker and infielder Don Hoak to the Reds for third baseman Ray Jablonski and purchased catcher Charlie Silvera from the Yankees.

Corn Husker Takes 'Cap

Corn Husker and Holandes raced head-and-head to a point just inside the 16th pole when Corn Husker suddenly found that extra drive which enabled him to fight off the South American's challenge and pull out to a half-length advantage which he held to the wire 100 yards away with Spinney finishing only another half-length back.

* * * *

WILLIE SHOEMAKER, who rode Holandes, said he had no great trouble other than losing a little ground on the stretch turn, but was of the opinion that the weight spread told on him a bit.

"But no excuses," he declared. "We just couldn't get there!"

Willie Harmatz, who piloted Spinney to a stunning upset in the rich Maturity a month ago, said his horse "wanted to run all the way, but tired a bit at the end."

Gordon Glisson, on the fast-closing Lover Boy, said that when he was ready to move, the front-runners were "dying" and there was so much traffic that "I had to go outside and in doing so lost a lot of ground."

It was the consensus of the riders that there was quite a traffic jam as the field turned for home . . . trapping some of the horses and preventing them from finishing farther up.

Corn Husker, which opened at 100-1 in the future book and closed at 6-1, undoubtedly would have gone postward Saturday at least 20-1 if it hadn't been for the fact he was part of trainer Charley Whittingham's three-horse entry.

* * * *

AFTER THE race, Whittingham sheepishly admitted that Corn Husker was shipped to Santa Anita this winter as an "extra horse" in the Llangollen shipment from Pimlico. "I didn't want any hurdlers," he said, "but Mrs. Lunn added the horse to the shipment at the last minute."

"I knew he was a great horse all along and he's been sort of a pet of mine," Mrs. Lunn declared. "I had him schooled over the hurdles because I wanted to win the Louie Stoddard Memorial Race at Belmont. Mr. Stoddard was a very close friend of mine and I thought it would be nice to have a winner in the event dedicated to his memory."

Corn Husker won the mile and three-quarters Stoddard hurdle race last October by three-quarters of a length carrying 141 pounds. A month before that he won a hurdles "tuneup" over the same course by 15 lengths carrying 131 pounds.

* * * *

THUS, HIS 105 pounds Saturday was a "feather" compared to what the four-year-old brown gelding has carried in winning efforts.

Corn Husker got his name from his dam, Miss Nebraska, whom Mrs. Lunn is in the process of buying back. She also owns his sire, the Argentine Endeavor II.

Incidentally, Corn Husker gets his size from his father, one of the largest thoroughbreds ever to race. Endeavor took a crack at the Hundred Grander in 1948, but finished 12th in the event won by Talon.

Corn Husker broke even in his first four starts at Santa Anita this winter.

* * * *

HE WON THE mile and one-quarter San Gabriel 'Cap on the turf on New Year's Day; placed third to Blen Host and Count Chic in an overnight affair; was third to Alidon and Battle Dance in the San Marcos turf event, and in his final tightener, whipped Pit Boss and Spinney under 119-pound impost in an overnighter Feb. 14.

Corn Husker's future? No more hurdles. He'll stick to the flat course from here on out.

He's nominated for the Camino Real turf event next Saturday but may skip it to go in the $100,000 San Juan Capistrano, mile and three-quarters turf classic, in two weeks.

Casper Leads in Initial Ratings for Pro Awards

HOUSTON (UP) — Billy Casper Jr., Bonita, Calif., is the leader in initial ratings for a new top tournament player award designed to allow the payment of legitimate appearance money at PGA-sponsored golf tournaments.

The new system will select the top 10 players each year under a formula that includes points for championship, money winning and early entries in tournaments. Penalty points will be deducted for such violations as failure to report for a tournament after an entry has been filed.

Under the new system, the No. 1 players for 1957 will receive $400 in "appearance money" at each PGA-sponsored tournament he enters in 1958. After the $400 for the No. 1 player, the payments are scaled downward to $80 each for those ranked ninth and tenth.

All players must compete in at least 20 tournaments to be eligible for the new points program's monetary awards.

SUMMER TAN FADES

Bardstown Wins Widener in Hand

MIAMI (UP)—The old saying that "Calumet wins the big ones" proved true again Saturday when Bardstown took the $119,400 Widener Handicap before 30,657 racing fans at Hialeah Park.

Bardstown, under top weight of 126 pounds, carried jockey Willie Harlack to a 4½-length victory over Mr. First in the mile and a quarter race. He covered the distance in 2:03 over a track rated "good."

Summer Tan, who beat Bardstown in the McLennan two weeks ago and went off as the odds-on favorite faded badly in the stretch and finished fourth in the five-horse field behind Castle Rock Farm's Mr. First and Formella Stable's Switch On. Mrs. J. A. Leone's Rockcastle was fifth.

* * * *

BARDSTOWN took the lead coming out of the gate and never slowed up, leaving the four others chasing him all the way. Along the back stretch he was only three quarters of a length in front. But when they entered the home stretch he was sailing along and nobody could catch him.

Summer Tan, favored at 55 cents on the dollar, was running third behind Bardstown and Switch On down the back stretch. He made his move rounding the home turn and pulled out a length ahead of Switch On after a mile. He held that length lead at the start of the stretch but Bardstown had blazed out to a four-length lead.

* * * *

WHEN SUMMER Tan faltered in the stretch, Mr. First, who was eight lengths back in fourth, turned on a closing burst which put him in second place at the wire. Switch On moved up to third, a head in front of Summer Tan. Rockcastle was 17 lengths back.

Bardstown, 8-5 in the odds, paid $5.40 and $4.10. Mr. First returned $8.10 to place. There was no show betting because of the small field—smallest in the 20 runnings of the Widener.

It was Calumet's fifth Widener victory and Bardstown earned $82,200, boosting his total earnings to $315,150 in 16 starts.

International Stable's Rumbo, a recent import from Argentina, beat out the favored Better Weapon by a neck to win the $10,675 Burlingame Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Rumbo, with Rene Cruzat up, covered the 1 1/16 miles in 1:45 3/5 on a sloppy track. An outsider, he paid $21.50, $6.90 and $3.90.

Rumbo was second top-weight with 117. Better Weapon carried 119.

The 9-race program attracted 13,948 fans who wagered $691,893.

PARTICULARS by JERRY WYNN

Long Beach's Johnny Tate fulfilled a long-standing ambition this week by announcing his decision to follow a professional career in golf.

"By making the move now, I'll be eligible for collecting money on next year's winter tour," said the 22-year-old former junior whiz. "I held my own against Littler, Casper, Holscher and Whitt while playing for San Diego Navy and hope to do as well against them as a pro."

Tate is a 100 per cent Long Beach product and comes from a golfing family that also features sister Norma Deeble. As a 13-year-old in 1948, he won the Recreation Park Junior Championship and went on from there to capture a bushel-full of Southern California titles including the 1951 Long Beach Junior. He was "golfer of the year" for three years at Wilson High.

In senior competition, he reached the semi-finals of the Long Beach City Championship in 1951 and the finals in 1952, bowing to Irv. Cooper in an all-L. B. title match. He was city medalist that year with a sensational seven-under par 65 at Recreation Park. Also in 1952, he represented this area in the National Amateur.

After serving in the Navy, Tate returned home to lead Long Beach City College to the Metropolitan Conference title last year.

Although his plans for the immediate future are indefinite, he has already started to give lessons at Chuck Beatty's Circle Fairways range. As an extra attraction to his teaching, he takes motion pictures of his pupils' swings.

A new Long Beach pro and a good one . . . Johnny Tate.

IT'S OFFICIAL. The 1957 Southern California PGA Championship at Recreation Park will be played for a record purse of $7,500.

Mark down and underline the dates, July 11-14, for with defending champion Eric Monti, runnerup Paul Runyan and Tommy Bolt, Jerry Barber, Jim Ferrier, Joe Kirkwood Jr. and Jimmy Clark probable starters and even Lloyd Mangrum a strong possibility, the tournament should be the best year.

The increase of $1,500 over last year's purse will enable the 16 golfers who have won just two matches to earn $75 apiece. The victor's slice has been boosted from $1,200 to $1,500—only $500 less than a winner of a $15,000 national PGA tournament receives.

"The new setup should greatly stimulate interest and add pressure to the finals," says tournament chairman George Lake. "Since the runner-up will still get $800, there'll be $700 riding on the match."

THE VIRGINIA Thursday SCGA team followed the lead of its Sunday club-mates by taking a healthy first-place lead in its battle for the Group I title. With two matches left, Sol Deeble's squad is 17 points ahead of second-place Wilshire. The Sunday squad has already clinched its Group VI crown.

Deadline for entering the Southern California Publinx Class Championships is Friday. Entries may be obtained at all pro shops.

Interested in making a golf tour of Great Britain and (or) the European continent this summer? Several luxury tours have been arranged. For further information, please contact PARticulars.

"ISN'T IT STRANGE that men who have successfully made Long Beach golf their life's work cannot qualify for advancement?

This is the situation confronting certain Recreation Park employes who are unable to apply for the new position of assistant manager, City Golf Division, because of requirements that demand two years greens-keeping experience.

The City won't be able to find better men than some it already has working devotedly for it at Recreation Park.

Why go elsewhere?

PLAY SCENE

Politics is something hard to explain, and Wally Anderson cast as a governor in "Parlor Story," being presented at the Long Beach Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St., is shown arguing an issue with his wife, played by Fay Olson. Presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, the play runs through March 2.

It Happened Last Night

By Earl Wilson

JOAN IS GOIN'

NEW YORK—"This is my no-makeup day," Joan Crawford announced on a recent Saturday afternoon. "My husband hates makeup. He likes my well-scrubbed look."

Al Steele nodded. "I think without makeup she looks younger and prettier," he said.

Joan Crawford

They were having a quiet afternoon in the Sutton Pl. apartment they're occupying until their new triplex in the E. 70s is ready. Joan's hair was drawn back tightly in a bun and she wore a yellow satin coolie coat, black Jamaican pants and black hand-crocheted shoes with rhinestones. Three French poodles rolled around on the divan contesting for her attention.

It would have been absurb to ask how the marriage is going. The answer was right there to see—and it'll be two years in May.

"I just have my suitcases open ready to go when Al wants to shove off for somewhere," she said. "With me it's 'Go, girl, go!' "

Her husband hoarded all his not-too-pressing European business until last August; then he accompanied her to England where she made the film, "The Golden Virgin," with Rossano Brazzi.

"I've put my Hollywood house up for sale," Joan offered.

"I adore Hollywood. But in the future I'll only make pictures there when Al can be there. Other times I'll just live right here in his lap. A 3-week separation in Europe was enough—are you kidding?"

* * * *

AL WONDERED if it would be all right if he brought out a scrapbook of Joan's press clippings which accumulated while she was in England.

"It's interesting because, with all the other American people getting their brains beat out, my bride didn't get one bad story," he explained.

Joan got down on the floor and piloted me through the clippings. One very tough London columnist had rhapsodized about her as "an authentic beauty." Another had written so glowingly of her that his editor told him, "I sent you to do a story on her, not to fall in love with her."

"I don't think the London press is unfriendly to Americans," Joan said, "as long as you're honest with them and if you appear when you're supposed to.

"Naturally they don't like to wait for hours for somebody to show up."

* * * *

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . . "DON'T PRINT THAT!": An expose magazine publisher admires a famous TV entertainer, so he buys up all the derogatory articles about his hero—and destroys 'em.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Nothing is impossible to the man who doesn't have to do it himself."—Outspan.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Publicist Eddie Jaffee, who made a TV appearance got a call a week later from a pal who said, "Ed, we're having trouble with our set—I can't get your picture off the screen!"

Tony Bennett, whose album, "Tony," is a best-seller, said jokingly, "I know how to make it sell better—put Sinatra's picture on it" . . . That's earl, brother.

WELK COMING

Lawrence Welk and his entire "Champagne Music" aggregation will be in Long Beach Tuesday evening, March 5, appearing at Municipal Auditorium. Advance ticket sales will be started Monday at the Auditorium boxoffice. The appearance is sponsored by the Carmelite Auxiliary and admission will be $1.50.

'Little Hut' Run Extended

"The Little Hut," now playing at The Theatre, 2400 Magnolia Ave., has extended its run through March 10. Due to an overwhelming demand for tickets for this sparkling and mirthful comedy, this holdover has become a "Must" for The Theatre. Many who have enjoyed this hilarious play are now ordering their tickets to see it the second time.

Signs Stars for Records

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Geordie Hormel, who would rather press wax than smoke hams, has signed 15 movie stars—most of whom never have sung before—for a record album.

Hormel, scion of the meat packing family, is now president of Zephyr Records, an up-and-coming label.

None of the movie star performers—until now—has been known as a singer. They are Debra Paget, Pat O'Brien, Eva Gabor, Marge and Gower Champion, Mark Stevens, Ida Lupino, Preston Foster, Corinne Calvet, Ricardo Montalban, Margaret O'Brien, Howard Duff, Rita Moreno, Eve Arden and Rory Calhoun.

A Job Well Done in Critical Times

ONE OF THE BIGGEST jobs in the field of education in the world today is that of Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of California.

The man who holds that job is not, however, often in the spotlight of public attention. He deserves more attention than he gets, and we'd like to pay him this small notice.

DR. ROY E. SIMPSON has been Superintendent of Public Instruction during a decade which has seen the number of boys and girls in California schools jump from 1,401,211 to 2,749,462.

During the same decade, a total of 17,800 new classrooms were put under construction or completed and an additional 1,994 were put in the planning stage.

The Department of Education is big business—with an operating budget of more than $3,000,000. For the current fiscal year the state school support cost comes to $460,995,369. From 1945 through December 31, 1956, $1,803,864 worth of school buildings were constructed in the state of California. In the same period the people of California and the Legislature authorized, for capital outlay, State Aid funds totaling $690,000,000.

DURING Dr. Simpson's tenure, three new state colleges have been added—Los Angeles State College of Applied Arts and Sciences, Sacramento State College, and our own Long Beach State College, which is the most recent and which will soon be the largest.

Under his leadership, the Department of Education has been reorganized to meet the challenges of the population boom and he has been responsible for numerous professional improvements in the office of County Superintendent of Schools—the key level of school administration.

DR. SIMPSON HAS DONE a good job at a critical time in the history of education in our state. The critical era is not over. By the year 1970, 4,345,200 boys and girls will be enrolled in California schools. What is now a big job grows bigger with the opening of each new term; the responsibilities and the problems grow ever larger in size and number. The parents of California should be thankful that a wise and experienced administrator has the conduct of this department.

President's Speech Took Rare Courage

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER made a bold talk to the nation last Wednesday night.

It took rare political courage, even for a President, to say that unless Israel pulls back her troops from the Gaza strip, the United Nations has no choice but to exert pressure to obtain compliance with the withdrawal resolution.

Nearly all politicians, including former Presidents, have carefully avoided saying or doing anything about Israel that might alienate the so-called Jewish vote.

By maintaining a consistent position with respect to U. S. support of the United Nations, President Eisenhower has shown that he cannot be swayed by emotional appeals from a course which he believes to be right.

IT SEEMS TO ME THAT Israel may be forfeiting much of the good will that has accured to her cause through the years by too rigid insistence upon guarantees that are difficult of immediate fulfillment.

To be sure, she has the right to demand protection from border raids by Egyptian commandos. She should have access to the Suez Canal and the right of innocent navigation in the Gulf of Aqaba. But the fact remains that Israel, with Britain and France, was an aggressor against Egypt under the terms of aggression as defined in the United Nations charter. She should therefore, not expect to be "rewarded" for this act of aggression, or the U. N. charter will become meaningless as a document for peace.

THERE IS NO FUTURE profit, as Israel should realize, in defying world opinion.

As the President has said, Israel's "best immediate and long-term interests lie in compliance with the U. N. and in placing its trust in the resolutions of the U. N. and in the declaration of the United States with reference to the future."

Great Britain and France have both yielded to world opinion. By withdrawing their troops unconditionally from Egypt, these two nations have acknowledged their initial blunder, and at a high cost in both money and prestige.

Israel, on the other hand, has defied world opinion by flouting the U. N.'s resolution and keeping troops on Egyptian soil.

It would appear that negotiation and conciliation, rather than insistence and obstinacy, would constitute a wiser course for Israel to pursue.

Nevertheless, Israel is now in a position where intense pride and nationalism will make the task of compliance with U. N. demands difficult.

ON THE QUESTION of employing sanctions against Israel, a form of international boycott with respect to aid, trade and arms, the United States may find itself in a wholly untenable position.

The state of Israel is largely supported by American aid and contributions. Israel is not, and probably never will be, self-supporting. Therefore, the use of economic sanctions against a nation largely of our own creation and nourished with American assistance, would be incredibly unrealistic and self-defeating.

But Mr. Eisenhower's dilemma is that he is pledged to the United Nations.

Do we intend to join with the Arab, Afro-Asian and Soviet bloc in coercing Israel while Egypt's violations of the U. N. charter go unrestrained?

The President's answer is that both Israel and Egypt have violated the Palestine truce, but that the first order of business is the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Egyptian soil.

When that has been accomplished, he indicated that "the society of nations" should deal firmly with any future violation by Egypt of the Israeli-Arab armistice agreement or other internal obligations.

While this is sound theoretical procedure, the President will not find too much public or Congressional support for crippling Israel's economic status at this juncture in history.

OUR PREDICAMENT is that we are again discovering that the role of the peacemaker is not a happy one.

Our newly acquired prestige with the Arab world can be dissipated if we deal too lightly with Israel.

Should we join in economic sanctions against Israel, the United States will be undermining the economy of a state that could not exist without our support.

If no action is taken by the United Nations, and that means by us, all nations can rightly conclude that the U. N. charter is a mere scrap of paper and that aggression brings its own reward.

Nasser Has Pact With Russia to Consult About Suez Policy

WASHINGTON — Egypt has signed a secret agreement with Soviet Russia whereby Col. Nasser will make no decisions regarding the Suez Canal without consulting Moscow first.

This secret commitment was made in return for Russian arms, and is considered the reason why Nasser is slowing up repair of the Suez Canal until Israeli troops have been withdrawn.

• • • •

THIS ALSO is considered the reason why Nasser has required the United States to give 10 days advance notice to Egypt before American warships are permitted to pass through the canal.

This latter point was disclosed for the first time by handsome Henry Byroade, ex-Ambassador to Egypt, during a grueling grilling given him by members of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committee.

The ambassador was not what might be called a cooperative witness and revealed nothing about Egyptian-Soviet alliances. He did reveal, however, that Nasser held up an American transport in the canal until the captain reported the number of troops aboard. Nasser's ultimatum called for military information that he had no right to ask and which, it's suspected, he relayed to the Russians.

Minnesota's trigger-tongued Sen. Hubert Humphrey angrily denounced the acts as "Egyptian intransigence toward the United States."

Byroade, who is known to be vigorously pro-Nasser, lamely agreed. He said the problem "was referred by our naval attache immediately to Washington," but he did not recall the "specific policy reply."

• • • •

ARKANSAS' caustic Sen. Bill Fullbright, peering through spectacles halfway down his nose, tried to pin Byroade down on why Nasser made an arms deal with Russia instead of the United States.

Byroade reported he had offered an arms deal to Nasser, but the Egyptian dictator had turned it down.

"Why?" demanded the Arkansas Democrat.

"His reasoning," explained Byroade, "was that . . . he might be accused of selling his country out to another big power before the British even got out of the place."

So Sen. Fulbright pointed out that Nasser promptly turned around and got arms from another big power, Russia, in return for cotton.

• • • •

SEN. HUMPHREY asked Byroade pointblank what he did about Nasser's anti-American propaganda blasts.

"I have some Radio Cairo transcripts," said Humphrey.

SEN. FULBRIGHT
Asks Embarrassing Questions

"There were some pretty vicious attacks on us."

"I protested officially and discussed it with Nasser many times," Byroade claimed.

"What was his reaction?" asked the Minnesotan.

"I never could quite fathom that," shrugged Byroade. "But I want the record to show I was very critical on that phase of Egyptian policy."

Byroade defended Egypt, however, regarding her border troubles with Israel. He also defended Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal.

He urged economic aid to Egypt, but acknowledged Nasser probably would not cancel his Soviet arms deal as long as "he has any reason to believe he needs strength against Israel."

"If he is going to continue to accept large amounts of arms (from Russia) and pay for them with his cotton, that depletes his economy," pointed out Fulbright. "Do you really think he ought to make up the deficit with assistance under our program?"

In other words, Nasser would be paying for Communist arms, in effect, with American aid. This was one question Byroade never got around to answering.

State Sen. Richards Leaving Several Political Doors Open

WHEN STATE Sen. Richard Richards remarked here last midweek that he is "leaving the door open" on the matter of running for the U. S. Senate, he might well have added that he is leaving several doors ajar.

For with Democrat Richards, as with other leading California politicians, 1958 looks like a year of tantalizing possibilities with more than the usual number of running opportunities beckoning the man who wants to "step up."

EPLEY

It's not that there will be more jobs open at the elections than usual, but present indications point to more major contests in which there will be no incumbent participating.

From Sen. Richards' point of view, that will be a big factor in his consideration of running for the U. S. Senate. In 1956 his bid for a U. S. Senate job was made against an incumbent, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, and Richards lost. But in 1958, the other California Senate post will be open, and the present occupant, Sen. W. F. Knowland, isn't going to run again. Richards, with one statewide campaign behind him, probably figures he would have as good a chance as any Democrat to succeed Knowland. Those of us who talked about it with him the other evening felt he is definitely a potential contender.

THERE'S ANOTHER important difference, however, that Sen. Richards must consider in connection with the 1958 race. The term of his present job as State Senator from Los Angeles County runs out next year. He cannot, as he did in 1954, make a bid for another office with the assurance that if he loses, he will still be in public office. Whatever office he seeks next year he must win, or he'll be out.

Some Democrats think that when the chips are down, Richards will decide to seek re-election to his present post. And many Los Angeles County Democrats, who want to keep the L. A. senatorship in the Democratic column, are definitely hoping that will be his decision. Before Richards took over, the job was long held by a Republican, and GOP chances of getting it back would probably be improved if Richards, as incumbent, were not in the 1958 race.

Another door that Sen. Richards may be keeping open is that to the race for state Attorney General. Such a possibility depends, of course, on the decision of Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, Democrat, who has stated he may seek re-election, or he may run for governor, or he may run for the U. S. Senate. Some friends of Richards think that the Senator is a strong possibility as an Attorney General contender if Brown decides not to seek re-election.

WITHOUT MAKING any definite predictions, Richards indicated in his conversation with reporters here the other night that he thinks Brown will go for another job, and he probably had the governorship in mind.

In discussing his own future, Richards made much of the "good of the party" as the determining factor. "It's not what Richard Richards may want for himself, but how the interests of the party that can best be advanced," he said.

Richards got into the U. S. Senate race last year through endorsement by the California Democratic Council, the organization of volunteer Democratic clubs. He said before endorsement that he wouldn't run unless given the green light by the CDC. His remarks here indicated that his decision for 1958 will depend again on such a showing of party opinion.

As an opponent of Republican Sen. Kuchel last year, Richards was handicapped by the fact he was not too well known in the northern part of the state. The contest with Kuchel, despite its unfavorable outcome for him, did much to cure that defect.

THERE ARE NOT TOO many Democrats of statewide stature. One reason the party has had poor success in statewide contests is that its candidates have been relatively unknown in various parts of the state before election campaigns, whereas such Republicans as Sen. Knowland, Sen. Kuchel, Gov. Knight and Lt. Gov. Powers are familiar figures to nearly all Californians. In the last couple of years, Sen. Richards has become one of the state's few widely known Democrats.

Why Wait Century to Beautify City?

TO THE EDITOR:

The Park Department is trying to beautify the city by placing trees in the parkways and seeing that they are spaced properly so that in 50 to 100 years they will beautify the city. This is all well and good but what about the streets, sidewalks, curbs and homes that are in need of a good paint job?

• • • •

THERE IS NOT a street you can go on without it being like a washboard or full of holes. The city patches the holes but within a few weeks the holes are back again because the job is only half done. They need to be fixed from curb to curb. The sidewalks are a hazard to the public as well as the curbs. The city claims these so why don't they start beautifying the city with new streets, sidewalks and curbs? Why wait for the taxpayer to put in the sidewalks and curbs? What does he pay taxes for?

• • • •

IN 50 TO 100 years I hate to think what Long Beach will look like. It is fast becoming one of the dirtiest cities. People throw papers, beer cans, etc., on the streets and parkway strips. Some of the homes are in need of paint or have been painted with horrible looking colors (which cheapens a city). Some of the yards look like pig pens or junk yards. Why wait 50 to 100 years for the city to be beautiful when it could be now if everyone would help?

90 Out of 100 Oppose L. A. Aud

TO THE EDITOR:

We have learned through our petition circulators that 90 out of every 100 taxpayers are opposed to the proposal of the County Supervisors to build a $51,000,000 auditorium within Los Angeles City, and charge the cost to county taxpayers without their voted approval, and these people will readily sign a petition when it is presented.

This is our reason for being anxious to have every petition out on the streets for signatures, and as we still have a number of petitions on hand we urge people to lend a hand by getting a petition and take amongst neighbors and friends. A short time each day for a few days will fill a petition.

Israel Can't Be Blamed for Balking

TO THE EDITOR:

Why doesn't the President, Secretary Dulles and the U. N. Secretary put the pressure on Nasser for an agreement on equal rights without discrimination in the future use of the Suez Canal? That's all Israel asks as a condition of complete withdrawal.

• • • •

NASSER for years has been nipping at the heels of the Jews, operating from the sanctuary of the Gaza Strip. Why should the President demand that Israel relinquish what protection she has acquired through her own initiative and permit the mad dog his unrestrained freedom on the promise of the President that if he resumes his depredations, Israel can be assured of the "moral support" of the U. S., and we will try to get the U. N. to do something.

The U. N. having had some seven years to protest the discrimination by Egypt against Israel in the use of the canal, one can scarcely blame Israel for her present procrastination.

U. S. Witlessly Aids Red Design

TO THE EDITOR:

When one considers what George Washington accomplished with a "baby" nation as against the might of Great Britain, and with his wariness against "foreign entanglements," it is not wild guessing to predict what he would do today. The U. S. was the "mighty" nation at the close of World War II, but our leaders grovelled before Moscow and are doing it yet. No, G. W. would not abase himself and his country as have our last three Presidents since 1945. Neither would A. Lincoln have done so.

• • • •

IT HAS been no secret what communism has planned for this country. They wrote a book about it long ago. One part of the plan was to maneuver the U. S. into spending itself into bankruptcy. With what gusto have our leaders cooperated in that detail, digging rat holes like fury when they couldn't find them ready-made! The budget Congress is asked to approve this year is 16 billion dollars higher than Fair Deal Truman's average.

Knowland Praised for Israel Stand

TO THE EDITOR:

Sen. Knowland is to be praised for his forthright defense of Israel. All Americans take pride in his stand against adopting double standards in the U. N. which would result in imposing unilateral sanctions against Israel.

• • • •

HIS POSITION is logical when one reviews the history of the U. N. and its failure to employ sanctions against Egypt, Russia, and now India for their failure to obey U. N. requests. And in fact, it becomes only obvious that had Egypt obeyed previous U. N. orders commanding her to allow Israel ships through the Suez Canal, cease border raids on Israel, and end the blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba the present situation would not have developed. Sen. Knowland is 100 per cent right in opposing adoption of double standards by the U. S. and the U. N. The American people wholeheartedly support him in this.

• • • •

ARE SANCTIONS to be employed only against democratic and small countries like Israel but not against totalitarian regimes such as Egypt and Russia?

DE SOTO ADVENTURER HERE TODAY

Marking the first appearance in Long Beach, the glamorous De Soto Golden Adventurer will go on display today at the showrooms of McClure-Nowling De Soto-Plymouth, 5105 Atlantic Ave. Flashing superpower-for-safety and unmatched beauty in styling is claimed for the Adventurer.

WORLD OF WHEELS

By ART STEPHAN
Independent, Press-Telegram Auto Editor

If you're out riding around today and you want to see a hot hunk of automobile, stop in at Bob McClure's De Soto-Plymouth hacienda at 5105 Atlantic Ave. for a look at the '57 De Soto Adventurer, one of the first of its kind to be delivered on the West Coast.

Bob will be there to proudly show off his "beautiful bomb" as he refers to the Adventurer, and, believe me, it's a lot of each.

This is the car that is completely restyled and re-engineered as the successor to the superpowered-for-safety special two-door De Soto Fireflite hardtop which sold out in weeks after its introduction last year, with many refinements being added to the '57 Adventurer. The car was first displayed publicly at the Chicago Automobile Show last Jan. 5, and as they say in the "theatuh," virtually stole the show.

McCLURE IS particularly high on the Adventurer's power prowess. According to Bob the car is the most powerful in De Soto's history, offering 345 horsepower to give it the long-sought one horsepower per cubic inch displacement, which McClure says is today's optimum automotive performance. (I did not want to ask what optimum meant but I guess we can presume it means the top performance for the size of the engine.)

If while you're eyeing the Adventurer, you stand a little too close, Bob will have the door open and pop you behind the wheel before you can say, . . . "but my old bus has plenty of miles left in her yet." But it's a worthwhile experience because you'll be treated to one of the most sparkling interiors of any car in production today.

Gold, combined with white is the theme color inside to match the outside decor, and it's a stylist's dream. There are color-keyed tweed seats and back insert fabrics in wheat-gold tones. Matching wheat-gold bolsters are of simulated leather vinyl, as is the door panelling. The safety dash pad is covered in charcoal gray vinyl and a charcoal carpet, with irridescent gold Lurex flecks throughout, covers the floor, front and rear. The deluxe steering wheel rim is white plastic with gold hand grips. All interior metal surfaces are painted wheat-gold.

* * * *

A FEW OF THE little glamor touches on the exterior of the Adventurer include wheel discs which are sunburst-patterned, gold-anodized aluminum. Five striking stainless steel strips run the length of the deck lid, while the name "Adventurer" appears in gold script on the rear quarter panels and on the instrument panel, along with a "Forward Look" medallion, also in gold, superimposed on a field of traditional race checks.

In addition—why not go out and look at the Adventurer yourself—McClure-Nowling, 5105 Atlantic. Berry De Soto-Plymouth, the other De Soto-Plymouth dealerships in Long Beach, will be displaying the Adventurer at a later date.

AROUND THE ROW—Claude Bowling, popular auto row veteran, has given up his interests in the West Coast Auto Auction and is back in the retail business under his old name of B & B Motors at 1544 American Ave. Claude will continue his old policy of specializing in Cadillacs.

Makers Trying to Guess What Type Car Is Favored

By JIM KLOCKENKEMPER

DETROIT (UP)—Auto makers, trying to keep up with the trends of car buying, have come up with "authoritative" opinions which show buyers are leaning in at least a dozen different directions.

Within the past fortnight, various experts have announced people want more:

Shorter cars, lower cars, smaller cars, compact cars, sports cars, higher horsepower, lower horsepower, fuel economy, fuel injection, hardtops, station wagons, medium priced cars and low priced cars.

Now, a lot of these experts believe so strongly in their own opinions of what people want that they've put millions of dollars into their guesses—excuse me, market analyses.

* * * *

FOR INSTANCE, Ford Motor Co. spokesmen are strong on the lower car. Ford's 1957 lines were not only among the lowest, but Ford has a new drive train—transmission, drive shaft, rear axle-design which it figures give it a big lead in future streamlining.

Ford's chief research engineer, Vietor G. Raviolo, has predicted that in 10 years the height of cars will be down to 52 inches. Raviolo said people want lower cars because they look better, ride better and have less wind resistance.

Ford also is a disciple of the medium priced car—and it had better be, because it has several hundred million dollars invested in production of the new "Edsel," which will appear next fall, and will sell over a wide range of the medium priced field.

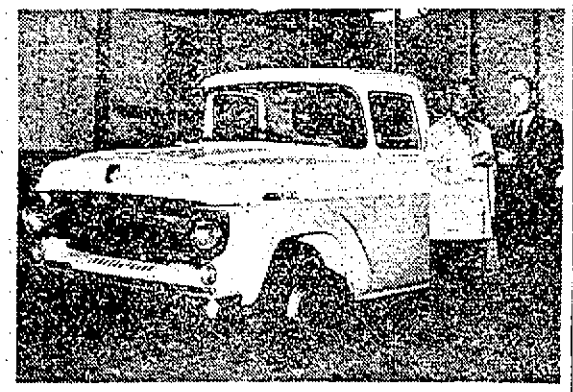

But George Romney, president of American Motors Corp., will tell you that trend which sent buyers into the medium priced field for bigger cars a few years ago is all over now. Romney believes the U. S. is entering the era of the small car, the compact car, fuel economy and low priced cars.

* * * *

AND IT BETTER BE, because Romney has hinged a large part of his company's product program on this idea. He calls the big, long cars of today "dinosaurs" and points to traffic congestion, parking problems, high fuel prices, material shortages and suburban driving as factors working for smaller, more compact cars.

Edward T. Ragsdale, general manager of Buick, has made quite a few speeches lately to assure his dealers that although the 1957 Buick so far has lost third place in sales to Plymouth, Buick will be back in third place when the year ends. Ragsdale says one big reason this is so is because people want hardtops, and Buick, which has led the way in popular hardtops, is geared to produce them faster than Plymouth.

But while Buick and Plymouth are fighting the battle of the hardtops, the two smaller domestic bulldwers — American Motors and Studebaker-Packard — have been impressed by another body style.

YIPPEE! WATCH THAT HOSSPOWER!

Car Club Members to Compete in Driving Skill Contest Here

By PAUL WALLACE

Local car clubbers will have a chance to compete for a trip to the Indianapolis 500-Mile Race April 14, when the area Road-eo will be held in Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Members of bona fide car clubs in Long Beach, San Pedro, Wilmington, Lakewood, Compton and Signal Hill may enter the skilled driving contests at the stadium.

The winner will join top drivers from nine other Los Angeles area districts for the week-long trip to the big race.

The affair will be under the guidance of the Police Advisory Council for Car Clubs in Los Angeles County. Long Beach Police Officer Bob Cabot, advisor to the Associated Car Clubs of Long Beach, will head the Road-eo here.

* * * *

A TWO-DAY RALLY to Las Vegas has been scheduled by the Harbor Sports Car Club for March 30-31.

The affair will start from East Los Angeles at 11 p.m. Friday night and wind up some 12 hours and 400 miles later at the Hacienda Hotel in Las Vegas.

Entry fee of $28 includes lodging for two at the Hacienda. A victory dinner is slated for Saturday night.

A non-championship event open to all, the rally will be directed by Jiggs and Maggie Schwab.

Entry deadline is March 15 with further information available from Mrs. Schwab at UNiversity 4-8733, or Jo Hogan at TErminal 4-0312.

* * * *

SEVEN LOS ANGELES area drag strips including the Lions strip here outlaw any fuel except pump gasoline beginning next weekend.

Biggest reason for the new rule is because the hot cars are going too fast on nitro fuels. The shut-off areas are too short for safety.

Other reasons include the danger in handling the very potent special fuels and the high cost of the nitro mixtures.

Dragsters believe, however, that it is only a matter of time before the hot boys will be back storming the 166.97 m.p.h. mark of Emory Cook—on pump gas.

The Long Beach strip has put up a $100 bond for the first man to crack 150 m.p.h. on gasoline. Lloyd Scott, former Long Beach resident, now holds the gasoline record of 147.05 in the twin-engined Bustle Bomb. Fritz Voight holds the single-engine gas record.

Other strips adopting the no-fuel-rule include Santa Ana, San Fernando, Pomona, Saugus, Colton and San Gabriel. We understand that Bakersfield will run fuel cars once a month.

A RECENT import from Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, Derek Brown, has set up a foreign car service garage at 3801 Cherry Ave.

Brown operated a garage in his native country and has been working and playing with sports cars for quite a few of his 25 years. He combines his profession with his hobby.

Presently the owner of an MC-TD, Brown had a 1937

To Plant Shrubbery Along Highway 101

SACRAMENTO (UP) — The State Division of Highways says plans are nearing completion for planting of shrubbery along a 10-mile section of U. S. 101 in San Diego County and a 2½-mile section along the same highway in San Luis Obispo.

The San Diego County project, described as one of the most extensive screen plantings undertaken by the division, calls for the placing of more than 10,000 oleander shrubs from the Mexican border to National City.

The shrubs will be planted along the entire length of the median strips to serve as a screen against headlight glare as well as along the sides of the roadway, the division said.

The San Luis project calls for planting of shrubs and flowering trees between Marsh street and the north city limits. Oleander shrubs also will be planted in the median strip.

Cadillac

Relaxing... Across America!

Behind them are the majestic mountain roadways of Southern California and the picturesque desert drive through Arizona.

And ahead lie the broad highways of Texas . . . the scenic roads that wind through Oklahoma and Missouri . . . and the great Midwestern turnpikes that lead to the Eastern Seaboard.

What's it like to spend the better part of a week in a 1957 Cadillac?

Well, first of all, there is the marvelous restfulness a Cadillac provides. The car is so incredibly smooth and quiet and comfortable that even the longest journey becomes an occasion for glorious relaxation.

And for the lucky gentleman in the driver's seat, there is the added reward of Cadillac's brilliant new performance.

In fact, the car is so nimble and eager, so responsive and alert that day's end will usually find them well beyond their morning's destination!

And then there will be the many other Cadillac virtues to enhance the pleasure of their journey . . .

. . . its vast areas of vision to give them the full panorama of America's great beauty and grandeur

. . . its extraordinary safety and dependability to add to their peace of mind

. . . and its remarkable economy of operation to remind them how practical their odyssey is.

So there they are—seeing our wonderful land from the finest vantage point on the American road: through the windshield of a 1957 Cadillac!

Of course, you don't have to travel 3,000 miles in this newest "car of cars" to realize why its owners call it "the greatest of all Cadillacs".

The evidence is waiting in our showroom now—and an hour at the wheel will tell you the whole story.

NEW OFFICE
FOR LOCAL BUSINESS
$450 Mo. Guar.

We have immediate need for five clean cut, neat appearing, aggressive men with various backgrounds who know that their last job has lead them nowhere and promised no future. Many times a person gets tired of the "same old routine" & wonders if there is a job available where a sincere, aggressive man can really make a future for himself. If you are presently dissatisfied, there are three things you can do:
1—Change your location.
2—Change your occupation.
3—Change yourself.
In most instances, you should only change your occupation to help you decide what work you are best suited for. We offer you:

Unbiased Scientific Aptitude Testing Plan

Which is absolutely free, which we welcome you to take advantage of. This will tell us whether you possess the fundamental qualities to success with the Scott & Fetzer Co. We start our men at $450 month guarantee, plus a bonus plan. Paid vacation, etc. PAY increases rapidly as you learn the work. Don't mind initial drive to Long Beach. Because of heavy office schedule, our meeting will be held

STUDEBAKER JAGUAR
PACKARD VOLVO
or a BIG J USED CAR
POINT NO. 3
One Price Policy — THE LOWEST
Some here-today, gone-tomorrow dealers juggle prices to fool the public. But, during 10 successful years in this Long Beach harbor area, James sold some 15,000 new and used cars on a policy of giving the lowest price first. And we made 15,000 friends.
Your investment in a new or used car is too important to risk playing games with sharpies who figure too fast.
Drive down to 1350 American Avenue. Compare prices. Compare values. Here where every car is backed by the 100% protection of the new Big J plan that benefits you 10 ways. Come on over NOW!

Excitement Kindles Over Opulent League Ball

SWINGING GAIT of these Assistance Leaguers will resolve to swinging rhythm Saturday night when bandleader Harry James brings his orchestra to the League's benefit ball which officially opens the Lafayette Hotel grand ballroom. The noted bandleader's friends, from left, are Mmes. Frank Vessels Jr., ball chairman; Francis Heusel, League president, and James W. Wood.

ENVISIONING DECORATIONS in the huge ballroom from a sketch held by Dave Taillchet, Lafayette manager, are Mrs. Morris Holmquist, chairman, and Mrs. Thomas E. Noble, assistant chairman and head of West Long Beach Girls' Club building fund committee. Ball proceeds go to Girls' Club.—(Staff photos.)

Fashions Will Draw City's 'Younger Set'

Clothes and car styles may come and go, but women's interest never wavers, not even when tradition shatterers like Dior come along. True, most women are more fascinated with a change in wearing apparel than new auto lines, and with that knowledge securely in its smartly gloved hand, Ebell Juniors are making ready for a capacity crowd Friday noon in the Supper and Ballerina Rooms of Lafayette Hotel.

Guests will not only benefit from seeing firsthand the dictates of spring fashions, but will be warm with the knowledge that proceeds from their delightful afternoon will be put to worthy cause. All funds realized will be turned over to the Juniors' philanthropy, this year the Exceptional Children's Foundation of Long Beach.

Gathering for luncheon, the Juniors, one of the city's smartest appearing of the younger crowd, will find their tables decorated with modernistic interpretations of a mannequin figure draped with pastel chiffon scarves and tiny flowers. These will alternate with floral arrangements on other tables. Mrs. B. J. Buchanan is decorations chairman.

With Easter but a rabbit's hop away, the fashion accent will be on lilting new colors and styles. Sparkling commentary by Wilma Hastings will heighten the fashion picture presented

INVITATIONS in delicate script announcing the Assistance League and Rick Racker ball have been received by the socially prominent in the city. Last-minute check of names is being made by, from left, Mmes. Houston C. Fairley, chairman; Harold H. Morris, Girls' Club chairman, and Ethel Severson, Rick Racker.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, FEB. 24, 1957 SECTION W

Benefit for Girls' Club

By JEAN B. MOORE

On the pages of its impressive history, the Assistance League of Long Beach may write another memorable first when, along with its junior auxiliary, the Rick Rackers, it celebrates Saturday the grand opening of the ballroom of the Lafayette Hilton Hotel.

Heralded as one of the year's most auspicious social events in Long Beach, the ball promises to bring out a colorful and sparkling bouquet of new spring gowns as fashion conscious members dance in the arms of their escorts to Harry James and his Music Makers.

Dinner will be served the gay throng at 8:30 p. m., but prior to the dinner hour ball guests will congregate in both the Cavalier and Red Velvet Rooms of the hotel for cocktails or in the gracious homes of members.

Vying with the array of gowns will be the striking decorations planned by Mrs. Morris Holmquist and her committee. In vivid contrast to the wood and rock decor of the new ballroom will be flamboyant orange and gold birds of paradise, orange hued carnations and gold lemon leaves in exotic arrangements on the intimate circular dining tables.

Then another shade and shape of gold—the trumpet of Harry James—takes the spotlight, and the ballroom, said to be the largest hotel

Ebell Juniors Clasp Hands With Spring

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

"GONE TO THE horses" is a new version of "gone to the dogs" in this town.

Most afflicted at the moment are members of St. Mary's Hospital Guild who are up to their withers, pardon us, SHOULDERS, in plans for their annual, ever fabulous "Day at the Races."

Scheduled for April 24 at Los Alamitos Race Track, the guildsters have lots of new ideas for this year's event including hi-fi music to soothe those who have lost their quarters on the quarter horses.

Jackie Oliver and Mary Louise Miller, co-chairmen of entertainment, are gathering records by the dozens to be played before Jimmy Whetmore and his bandsmen take over for dancing after dinner. They've collected everything from Elvis to Bach. Anybody got an old disc of "Crazy Over Horses"? Everybody will be in April!

IT'S GETTING SO you can't have any fun if you don't have a costume. Dress up shindigs are richochetting around the party calendar like 6-year-olds on pogo sticks.

"HEART'S DESIRE" was the theme of Alamitos Bay Garden Club's masquerade dinner dance last Saturday night at the Garden of Allah. President Elizabeth Robeson was fetching as a sort of feminine version of Dennis, the Menace; her husband, Ralph, proved his "heart's desire" is NOT to wear a costume, at all. He's a hold-out, Elizabeth says, and always goes dressed as a modern American business man. (Fooled you for a minute, about Ralph, didn't we!)

Prizes were awarded to Mary and Dr. Don Truitt, who came as frogmen. How they stood it for an entire evening only a frog could say!

Betty and Fred Tebbetts carted home second prize. They were dressed in horizontally striped pajamas. Whether they hoped to be prisoners of Morpheus or Biscailuz was never determined.

Tom White, the faker, came as a fakir, all spooky in turban, mahogany skin and beard. Lillian, a gal after our own heart, came as a lot of money. They toted off third prize.

Chairman Nancy Carroll was cute as a pixie, dead ringer for Tinkerbell, and husband, Jim, was a swashbuckling fresh air fiend—at least he wore a costume that featured an open shirt front!

INVITATIONS FOR an "Around the World" costume party were sent by Elizabeth and Gene Jones, who will be co-pilots of the fun flight on March 9 in their home, 5000 Bayshore Wk. Guests are to come in the native dress of the country they would most like to visit! Wow! What a temptation for the uninhibited!

"Take-off" time is 7 p. m. and VIP's aboard will be Comdr. Jim and Coralea Vellis, guests of honor, who have been reassigned to Navy duty in Long Beach after an absence of nine years.

"WHO NEEDS a plane"? say Betty Bixby and Ellie Person, who are floating around three feet off the ground in anticipation of their flying trip to Mexico City and Central America. "We do" say husbands "Bix" and Frank who, with the aid of an aircraft, will be airborne with their wives on March 14.

WHEN PEOPLE start acting like penguins in April that will be the signal for several hundred youngsters to become theater fans. Penguin people will appear in "Mr. Popper's Penguins," a comedy Children's Theater produced with such great success last fall they've decided to do it again; first repeat show in the group's history. Sybil Reed and Gladys Niver will again play the Poppers.

LAUGHTER EDDIED around Beth and Kelly Williams' house last Sunday, coating everything with merriment when Vada and Johnny Webb showed colored slides of their several weeks motoring trip through Mexico.

Why so funny? It wasn't the pictures—they're beautiful—but Johnny's running patter in explanation of the film that triggered giggles. Dinner guests with the Webbs were Peg and Julian Davis and Maryann and Bill McGrath.

BACK ON Long Beach's terra firma are Margaret and Dick Kimball who have been trying out New York's terra and report it's just as firma as ours. They returned Monday from 10 days at the national convention of club managers.

TRAVELING together everywhere these days in merry mother-daughter combination are Jane Teasley and her visiting mater, Mrs. Evelyn Hurst, of Madison, Wis. When they aren't sightseeing and shopping together (Disneyland this weekend; Farmer's Market next), they're having luncheon with friends like they'll be doing Tuesday at the Lelani in company with Georgia McCord and Ann Bowler.

NOW WE'RE BACK to costume parties, again! With the arrival of Laura Killingsworth and Betty Arntzen at Symphony Juniors' colorful Mardi Gras ball at the Lafayette Hotel last night, everyone else had to pancake themselves against the walls! Welllll, maybe it wasn't that bad. But ALMOST!

Here's how it was. Laura was gowned in one of the tremendously full skirted costumes she wore in "Song of Norway" and Betty wore another from the Singers' workshop production. Wherever the two behooped, be-yarded gals went there just wasn't much space left.

PRECEDING the party (which ended with a swish champagne breakfast at midnight) Laura and Ed hosted one of the many preball cocktail parties.

'The Previewers' to Be Tres Gala

As Ed Sullivan would say, something "rilly, rilly neeyou" is forming in Long Beach. It's "The Previewers."

To be composed of a group of theater fans, all members will attend opening nights at Long Beach Community Playhouse (as frequently as possible), always dressed formally.

Socialites are greeting the idea of tres gala opening nights with enthusiasm according to Florence (Mrs. Orville) Cole. "The Previewers" will preview (and themselves be previewed!) for the first time on March 8, opening of the player's next, "A Man Called Peter."

Among those who will be there in "black tie and evening dress" that night are Burton and Polly Chace, Vada and Don Spring, Madeleine and Milton Roberts, the H. O. Foxes and W. J. Schinnerers, Dorothy and Dr. Paul Southgate, the Howard Conrads, Ruth and Guy Balser, Pat and Dr. Walter Gilkey, the Joseph Kelloggs, the O. L. Dahls and Barbara and Norb Dean.

SINGERS TO ENTERTAIN AT GOP MEETING

Musical selections from light opera will be presented by members of Singers' Workshop at the 1 p. m. Wednesday meeting of 18th Congressional District Republican Women, Federated in Woman's City Club. Discussing program plans are, from left, Jacqueline McFadden, soprano; Henri Scanlon, founder and director of the Workshop; Mrs. Glenn B. Scott and Mrs. John Messerschmitt of 18th District and Bette Arntzen, prima donna in the forthcoming "The Desert Song" production. The business session will be followed by a reciprocity tea honoring members of Presidents Club.—(Staff photo.)

Heartwells Return From Honeymoon

A wedding of special interest to their many friends in the Southland is that of Erlene S. Davis and James C. Heartwell. They exchanged marriage vows and rings Feb. 10 in St. Francis Chapel, Mission Inn, Riverside, in a private ceremony attended only by Mrs. Kathleen Mumma and Paul Murray.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Steuber of 955 E. Fourth St., chose to wear a wool suit in powder blue with matching stole trimmed in blue fox. She is a member of Long Beach Quota Club.

Heartwell, a graduate of Polytechnic High School and Oregon State College, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Heartwell, 341 Carroll Park West. He is assistant vice president of Farmers and Merchants Bank. His college fraternity is Theta Chi.

After a wedding trip to Palm Springs, they are now residing at 93 Corinthian Walk.

WEDDING PLANS

Ann C. Petre, a student at St. Vincent's College of Nursing, Los Angeles, will wed Richard M. Trippe in the winter. her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Bolinger, 4838 Sunfield Ave., have announced. She is a graduate of Wilson High School. Her flance, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Trippe, 403 Plenty St., is a graduate of Jordan High School.

Will Toast Traveling McKenzies

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman A. McKenzie Jr. of 600 Havana Ave. have bidden 75 guests to a cocktail party Monday aboard the President Wilson, when they embark on an extended trip to the Orient.

The Imperial Hotel in Tokyo will be the couple's headquarters while visiting the shrines, temples and gardens. They will tour to Kamakura and Miyanoshita, continuing along the seacoast to the famous Fujiya Hotel spa at Hakone National Park.

Several days will be spent at the beautiful mountain resort of Kyoto before flying to Hong Kong, Kowloon and Macau and Bangkok. A cruise is planned for Bankok, along the Menam River, affording views of native life in floating houses and royal ceremonial barges, where Buddhist priests make daily calls.

They will make flying stops in Singapore and Djakarta, Den Pasar and Bali. Their stay in Bali will be filled with excursions to the Elephant Caves, Royal Tombs, Rock Monastery and Batur Volcano and sacred bathing springs.

Boarding the Royal Interocean liner, they will sail to the Philippine Islands, where they will visit in Manila and Hong Kong. The cherry blossoms will be in full bloom in May when they leave Tokyo for three weeks in Honolulu, at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

Friends of the McKenzies will occupy their home until their return in June.

Satellite Club

Satellite Social Club of Palos Verdes Chapter 310, Order of Eastern Star, will meet for a noon covered dish luncheon Tuesday at Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave., with Marie Fischer as chairman of the dining room. Beulah Broadwell will preside at the business session.

Engagement Announced

A surprise engagement party honoring Ellen Fulsang of Anaheim and Jim Belk of North Long Beach was arranged by Misses Darlene Russell, Marianne Lies, Mickey Carter and Better Craver in the latter's home, 146 W. Louise St.

An appropriate heart theme was effectively portrayed in red and white appointments, and a towering white cake was inscribed in red with the names of the betrothed pair. The couple will be married in September.

Guests included Annette Laberge, Rose Mary and Ralph Zigeler, Lowell Foglesong, Bob Wonder, Bill Miles, Kenny Smith, Louie Evanson, Mike Demuth and Pres Welch.

DUV Meeting

Anna Etheridge Tent No. 58, Daughters of Union Veterans, will meet Monday afternoon at 12:30 in Veterans Memorial Building.

NLB Juniors Will Spin Guests 'Round the World

With an imaginative and unusual program North Long Beach Junior Women's Club will take members of North Long Beach Women's Club on a globe trotting tour at 1 p. m. March 6 in Houghton Park Club House.

Program chairman Athene Johnson will enact the role of stewardess, inviting guests to sit back, relax and fasten their safety belts as she guides them on an imaginary trip by plane to fascinating places.

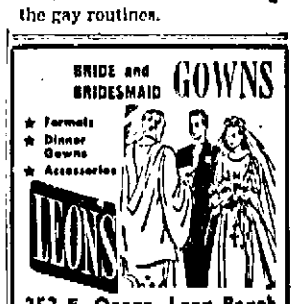

First stop in the Ozarks will include a visit to Mammy and Pappy Yokum (Betty Humrich and Dolores Lilibrecht) via pantomime. At the London Paladium Dorothy Negri will sing "I Could Have Danced All Night" at a command performance.

Costumed in old-fashioned bathing suits, eight members will do a lively routine during a visit to the seashore of the Caribbean.

At a stop in Paris, models will show latest Christian Dior designs and in Arabia dancing girls will perform before the King's harem.

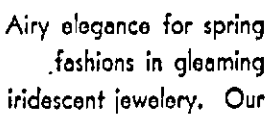

Alighting briefly in Hawaii, the travelers will watch hula dancers at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, then will hasten to San Francisco. At Alcatraz prison members of a chain gang,, thinly disguised Junior Gaveleers, will recall the days when they were president of the Junior Women's Club.

Back on home ground, the globe trotters will see the Miss Universe pageant, delightfully different with infant daughters of members competing for the 1975 title. The city's claim for "the town of conventions" will be verified by a visit to the Square Dance Convention, with dancers demonstrating the gay routines.

Holiday Ends, Alas!

By ILKA CHASE

Lovely Palm Beach holiday has ended. Now savoring in memory actualities of last few days.

Savoring large cocktail party of host, Stanton Griffis who, averse to words cocktail party, sends out invitations asking people in for tea and sympathy. Party given in loggia and garden around salt water swimming pool. Names at same make me feel like social gossip columnist—Isabelle Dodge Sloan, Charles Munn, Mrs. James Donahue, the Edward Huttons, Mrs. Latham Reed, the Seaton Lindsays, the John Perrys, plus sprinkling of home folk.

Dorothy and Lillian Gish just finished playing The Chalk Garden staying on for week's holiday. Ogden Nash in and after his lecture. Gladys Swarthout. Frank Chapman and Alajalov, creator of countless covers for the New Yorker and Saturday Evening Post. Ala now painting good portraits and most sought-after bachelor in Palm Beach.

Dwell fondly on luncheon at Paulding Fosdick's. Caviar with cocktails, stone crab as entree. Certainly enjoy simple straightforward food of the rich. Like Winston Churchill, am easily pleased with best of everything.

Stone Crabs

Stone crabs for dinner twice in home of host. Luncheon party one day with charming woman who owns loveliest beach house here. Eight guests. Many handsome ceramic cats and birds also present. Many airplanes flying overhead. Setting more de luxe, but noise reminiscent of Third Avenue trains in New York before old El was torn down. Conversation ceases. Gentleman guest says noise fault of Roosevelt and Hopkins. Says Roosevelt and Hopkins deliberately plotted airplane routes to annoy Palm Beach residents. Stone crab for lunch. Never thought day would come when would have enough stone crab. Day has come.

Promote fishing trip on Griffis yacht. Griffis no fool, stays home. Ocean like roller coaster. Take off unwittingly in company of Mrs. Donner Hanson, her son Bill Roosevelt and charming girl, Jean Daley. Roosevelt and Miss Daley notable in Palm Beach. Roosevelt and Miss Daley young. Most inhabitants filled with cordiality, but reasonably close to end of trail. Consider asking young Bill if his grandfather plotted against Palm Beach residents in matter of airplanes. Conclude he's had enough jokes of that kind. Refrain.

No Stone Crabs

Ocean gets rougher and rougher. Young people fishing from rear deck happy as larks. No stomachs. Mrs. Hanson and I look at each other. Boat not only pitches, lurches and rolls, it also spins. Give anguished cry. "Captain oh my captain." Captain grunts, "Fishing probably won't be much anyway." We head for inlet and glassy water. Captain, broth of a boy.

Proceeding down calm inland waterway pass community in the building. Being erected by upholsterer's union. Vacation center and home for retired. Rents start at fifty a month for one-bedroom house. Seems nice, but think it would eventually pall, meeting only people in one's own profession. Actors and writers divine, but turn green at thought of never seeing anyone else.

In role of non-card player between lunching and dining have done good deal of reading. High time. Read biography of Queen Alexandra, read Compulsion and Peyton Place. Read To See the Dream as antidote. Charming book by Jessamyn West, her journal and account of making her picture Friendly Persuasion in Hollywood.

One afternoon took a walk. Was stared at by passers-by in cars. Evidently pedestrian as odd a sight in Palm Beach as in Beverly Hills.

Stone Crabs, Stone Crabs

Invited to large dinner party by a lady in some confusion as to whom and what I am. She calls up. Ireland, the butler takes message. Hear my name mentioned. When he comes from telephone ask what it was. "She wanted to know, Madam, do you do card tricks or sing?"

"Good heavens, Ireland, what did you say?"

"I divulged nothing, Madam." Perfect Ireland.

Felt badly about lack of prowess in entertainment field, but went to party anyway. Very gay. Delicious food. Stone crab. Also Count and Countess Reventlow. "The one who used to be married to Barbara Hutton?" "The one." Handsome bloke, too.

Sunday luncheon with Mary and Laddie Sanford. Cold roast beef, dozens of salads, stone crab.

Sanfords old friends. Mary and I once in play together with Tallulah, "Forsaking All Others." Mary forsook us in Wilmington before New York opening to go back to Hollywood. She was Mary Duncan then—large-type picture star.

Another large type was expected for luncheon, Miss Anita Eckberg and her husband, Anthony Steele. By four o'clock they had not shown up.

Back in work-a-day world, I'll miss all this.

Easter's on Way, Juniors of Ebell View Fashions

by Vinson's, Irene's, Chrysteen's, Belmont Sports Bar, Lockwood Furs, Tiny Tots and John Norman's Store for Men.

Interspersed at intervals will be songs by Harvey Wagner, popular Long Beach baritone, accompanied by organist Jeri Pack.

Door awards, numbering more than 40, will be awarded by Mrs. Robert F. Carter, Juniors president.

Mrs. Howell Gester, chairman of the gala function, is also in charge of telephone reservations.

With an anticipated attendance exceeding 700, many Juniors are making reservations for large parties of friends, neighbors and relatives. Among these are Mmes. A. M. Westra, Paul Williamson, Duane Hatch, James Wright, Kenneth McCulloch, John Roggeveen, Norm Hastings, William Barry, R. M. Russell, Calvin J. Weide, Walter Nichols, H. A. Lown, Les Worden, Wally Grotenhuis and Earl Ludloff.

PLANS for a bankers' "Bosses' Night" party Monday are reviewed by B. J. Young and his secretary, Bernadine Kepka, chairman of AIB Women's Committee.

AIB Women Plan First Bankers 'Bosses Night'

For the first time in its history the Women's Committee, Harbor District Chapter, American Institute of Banking, will entertain at a "Bosses Night" party and dinner meeting to take place Monday night in the Red Velvet Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Women of the 61 banks which comprise the harbor area district of AIB have planned an informal, humorous program to introduce their bank executive bosses to the work of the Women's Committee. The program will be supplemented by brief reports of past accomplishments and future plans.

G. Bernadine Kepka, women's chairman, will conduct the meeting. Seated with her at the head table will be her executive, B. J. Young, vice president and manager of the Bank of America, American Ave. Branch.

Ruth Spence, California Bank of San Pedro, vice chairman, has arranged the program which will be highlighted by a skit, "Are These Our Bosses," written by Ray Stocks of the Farmers and Merchants Bank. Cast members include Jan Martin (California Bank, Long Beach) as the secretary; Robert D. Carter (Security First National, 4th and Cherry) as the boss; and Miss Spence as narrator.

The music, too, will be provided by AIB members who call themselves the "Bankers Quartet," a group composed of Wanda Beaudette, Joy Decker (both with Bank of America, Viking Way Branch), Vivian Howell (Norwalk Commercial & Savings) and Katherine McKnight (Artesia Security First National).

Secretaries, BPW Club Report Dinner Meetings

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Although Valentine's Day was over, the memory lingered on for Executives' Secretaries at their February dinner meeting last Monday at the Petroleum Club. Loath to let the romantic holiday go by without recognition, they turned the dinner tables into a veritable "lover's lane" with cupids, heartshaped name tags, festoons of red crepe paper and flowers.

And perhaps the heart motif had more meaning than just observance of a February date. On this night the secretaries made their scholarship award, given with sincere consideration for the educational welfare of a promising student. Recipient was Marjorie Parker who is majoring in business education at Long Beach City College. Judith Soto was present to receive a matching scholarship donated through Executives' Secretaries by Mayor George Vermillion. Judith is also enrolled at City College.

Special guests of the evening were Virginia Glass, vice president of the Phoenix, Ariz. chapter of E/S, among newest to join the association, and Marion Darlington, counselor at LBCC, who assisted with selection of the scholarship honorees.

Agnes Herbst, president, conducted the business meeting.

Margaret Ives

Accomplishments of the United Nations in Asia were explained by Elsie Farris, Long Beach attorney, to members of Margaret Ives Business and Professional Women's Club when she appeared as guest speaker at the monthly dinner meeting at the Lafayette Hotel last Monday.

Miss Farris, an extensive world traveller, brought interesting eye witness reports, not only of UN activities in the Far East, but of native customs and conditions.

During business discussion members were reminded of the Harbor District breakfast meeting to take place March 24 at Masonic Temple, Torrance, and of the annual district meeting at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel, Pasadena, April 6-7.

Plan 'Hobo Hop' for NLB Juniors

As their last fund-raising project of the year, members of North Long Beach Junior Women's Club will meet for their gala "Hobo Hop" Saturday evening at 9 in Legion Hall, 39th and Orange Ave. Dancing will be enjoyed to the music of Globe Masters Orchestra.

Special "secret" dances have been planned by the committee, and prizes will be given for the best costumed couple.

The Teen-Age Girl:

Crowd, Home Tear Loyalties

(Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series of articles based on a survey of 500 high school girls in a typical American community. The articles are based on a questionnaire containing 78 queries and the 93 pages of statistics it produced. The tabulation of the answers took six months. The result is a detailed picture of the mind and heart of America's typical teen-ager.)

By PATTY JOHNSON
and BEVERLY PAULSON
Women's News Service

The hearts of 500 teen-age girls surveyed in the typical American community of Waterloo, Iowa, were unlocked by their answers to two questions:

"What is your biggest problem?"

"Whom do you consider your ideal?"

There were 78 questions in six pages to be answered by each girl who voluntarily participated in the survey made by the Waterloo Courier. Many of the replies gave clues to the world of teen-agers in a new and revealing way.

But the words set down by the teen-ager as she tells the deep-rooted things that gnaw at her mind—and as she confides to the world her private hero—show her as she really is.

This article will deal with the first. A subsequent article will discuss a teen's ideals.

And never, as you read and learn, never underestimate her. For the American girl between 15 and 18 doesn't wrap herself in dreams of Elvis Presley and stolen cigarettes.

The specter that haunts her is her own future. More than 25 per cent of the girls who revealed their problems disclosed that the giant ghost of tomorrow lurks in the ambush of today.

"I wonder whether to quit school or not."

These are the words of one. What happened? It's not her grades. At least, she isn't worried about them. She gets "a lickin' sometimes" at home. She goes steady and she worries about her appearance and the mysteries of sex, but there is no real maladjustment. What brought her to this?

One hundred forty-three of the 500 wrote words that clearly indicated their concern or confusion about the future. Next in order, but far down the list, were dating problems, family, money and marriage — the last one applying only to the 17 and 18-year-olds. Among the two younger groups, the replacement was dating.

Many of the teen-agers set down the problem of college or job, the need for money for their educations, the dream of becoming a model, their secret and unfilled admiration for a boy they cannot reach, the awful anguish of wanting to conform, to be pretty instead of fat, to overcome the handicap of facial hair, to have (oh, wonderful delight) a date.

And this is 1957. Sex and marriage are no longer the special concern of girls beyond high school. In today's world they have penetrated the life of the adolescent. Should I go steady? How far should we go when we kiss? Should I marry my boy friend in service? Can I go steady with two boys? I love a boy of a different faith.

In the tabulated statistics made on the basis of the entire survey, there's almost no way to catalogue these things. It's a little like putting a row of numbers across a heartbeat.

No, never underestimate a teen-ager. Too young to have learned wisdom, she is too old these days to avoid adult relationships. And never be deceived by her facade of frivolity and fads. In a way, it's a covering for the naked wonder in her eyes.

What worries her most?

She worries most of all about what other teen-agers think of her. Almost half the 500 put that first on the list. Other worries in order were: 2. Future; 3. Appearance; 4. Grades; 5. Money; 6. What adults think of me; 7. Popularity; 8. Dates; 9. Sex and morals.

Several of the girls added their own choices and many of those concerned worries about those nearest and dearest, their own families.

A further clue to the attitude of the 500 toward themselves as mirrored in the eyes of others came with another question:

Would you rather have girls, boys, your parents or other adults think highly of you?

It's not an easy question, especially for a teen whose loyalties are divided between the crowd and her home. This is what the Waterloo teen-agers say:

"We'd rather have our parents think highly of us than anyone else." It held true in every single age group.

Our 500 teen-agers value mother's opinion more than any other in the world. Other choices were my girl friend's opinion, and what my boy friend says.

The 500 were also asked how they pick their girl and boy friends. Judge by these answers:

1. I choose a girl friend on the basis of her personality.
2. It's her reputation that makes me decide.
3. It's what she looks like.
4. It's her family background.

The total is far more than 500, largely because so many of the girls gave the two answers which seemed to them to belong together: Personality and reputation. Not money, not clothes, but how she "wears" in disposition and friendship and what her standards are.

Some girls stuck in other additions like sincerity and ability to keep secrets, honesty and intelligence.

Almost the same balance held true for boy friends with personality, reputation, appearance and family background listed in that order.

And the girls added even more categories, including religion, consideration, understanding, manners and moral standards.

These choices, these standards might well have been those of a mature woman experienced in the ways of the world.

That they echo the 500 voices of girls, many of them only 15, is a real credit to teen-agers.

(Next: Teen's attitude toward friends in trouble.)

AChiO Alumnae to Meet Tuesday

OPTI-MRS. PLAN FASHION SHOW

Spring fashions, delightfully presented by Mr. Bob, will be on parade for the Opti-Mrs. Club of Uptown Long Beach luncheon March 4 at the Lafayette Hotel. Blackwell of Hollywood will comment on designs by Don Loper, Lanz, Cisa of Italy, Dalton and Pines of California. Hats by Shirley Rapp will complete costumes modeled by television and motion picture starlets. Completing decorations are (from left) Mrs. C. Duane Mooney, Mrs. Otto Yaisll, Mrs. William D. Lackey, Mrs. Edgar Gold (in charge of the show) and Mrs. Fred A. Mayer, president. Proceeds are ear-marked for the Optimist Boys' Home, the building fund for the Long Beach Girls' Club and other philanthropic projects.

Panel of Foreign Students on Allied Arts Schedule

Foreign students attending Long Beach State College will speak on education in their country, give impressions of the United States and tell of their respective countries' problems at a panel discussion Tuesday night before Allied Arts.

The meeting, to take place at 8 o'clock in Municipal Art Center, will be open to the public, due to the unusual interest of the program.

Dr. Robert Poole, head of the foreign language department at LBSC, will moderate the panel and lead a question and answer period in which the audience may participate.

At present more than 30 foreign students are on the Forty-Niner campus and represent countries in South America, the Middle East and the Orient.

Mrs. Cornelia Pollard will conduct the business meeting. Program chairman is Mrs. Lorene Doyle Wilson.

To Review Play

Miss Rena Craig Waxman, well-known dramatist, has chosen a current New York play to review when she appears Tuesday at 11 a.m. in the social hall of Temple Israel, 3rd and Loma. The Sisterhood of Temple Israel, sponsor of the series of book and play reviews, invites the the public to attend at a nominal admission fee.

Elegance Promised at Ball

ballroom west of Chicago, makes its debut.

Included in the list of illustrious guests that night will be Conrad N. Hilton, president of Hilton Hotels Corporation and Spearl Ellison, vice president of western division of Hilton Hotels and one of the owners of the Lafayette. They will be among the guests of Dave Tallichet, Lafayette manager.

While first impression may indicate a glamorous party with accent on a fresh new season and a resplendent ballroom, the purpose behind the festive occasion actually goes much deeper.

All proceeds go to the building fund of the West Long Beach Girls' Club. Recently a lot near Santa Fe Ave. and Willow St. was purchased by the Assistance League. Dreams of a clubhouse large enough to accommodate the 350 members are well on their way to being fulfilled.

Activities are now centered in the clubhouse at Truman Lloyd Manor, and daily at least 70 to 80 girls of junior high school age gather under supervision of Mrs. Madeline Goldsmith, director. The success thus far of the club can be measured in the esteem of the community and school personnel and the many happy little girls who busily enjoy the activities offered.

A principal project of the league, the club is supported entirely by the organization's ways and means projects.

Assuming the monumental duties of ball chairman is Mrs. Frank Vessels Jr. Mrs. Houston Fairley and a committee of Rick Rackers including Mmes. Robert Bailey, Julius C. Molina, Raymond Kelso Jr., Kenneth G. Walker, John Arnold, Loyal Pulley and Ethel Severson, took care of invitations.

Decorations were envisioned and carried out by Mrs. Morris Holmquist and Mrs. Thomas E. Noble and committee, while publicity was in charge of Mrs. Norris Nesmith.

Among the League members giving cocktail parties in their homes before the dinner-ball are Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Dunlap, who will entertain in their home, 4225 Country Club Dr., and Dr. and Mrs. John Rowe who will have an intimate group of friends in their home at 17 Temple Ave.

Fashion leaves her caprices to the individual, for there promises to be an equal division between wearing elegant full length ball gowns and flattering cocktail length dresses.

When she entertains Saturday, Mrs. Dunlap will be distinctively gowned in ball length white peau de soie with bodice accent of alencon lace over chartreuse taffeta and a regal sprinkling of chartreuse sequins and beads.

Mrs. Winifred Campbell, founder of the Assistance League of Long Beach, will be gowned in a pale blue satin sheath with brief train lined in gold when she and H. G. Edelman entertain several guests in Mrs. Campbell's home, 4211 Pacific Ave.

Bidden are Judge and Mrs. Beach Vasey, Judge and Mrs. Joseph Vickers and Messrs. and Mmes. A. C. Ruble, Wilbur Harrison and Carlos Gates.

Mrs. Charles Stratton will wear a white ballerina length lace gown, high at the neckline and deep in back, when she and her husband have a small group of friends for cocktails in their home, 5441 Anaheim Rd.

A wide circle of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Erb and Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Millie will be entertained in the Erb home, 5381 El Prado. For the occasion Mrs. Erb will be attractively attired in periwinkle blue chiffon, ballerina length, while Mrs. Millie will be gowned in a ballerina length dress of peach net with white lace.

Another pre-ball party will take place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Browning, 250 Claiborne Pl., with Mr. and Mrs. William Bryant the co-hosts. Mrs. Bryant plans to wear at the party, and then on to the ball, a turquoise silk print sheath with flattering fullness swept to the back.

Inviting 20 friends to their home at 551 Mesa Way are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Macrate. Mrs. Macrate will greet guests in an Irene original of black lace over champagne with a bouffant effect at the hipline.

An embroidered Harvey Berin gown of white linen will be worn by Mrs. Myrl Ott when she and Mr. Ott and Mr. and Mrs. Norris Nesmith have a small group of friends in the Ott home, 633 Ultimo Ave.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Brinkman will gather before dinner in their home, 3851 Pine Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. E. Tennyson Moore have bidden neighbors and friends who will share their table to their home at 5610 El Parque. Mrs. Moore has chosen a cocktail length gown of blue peau de soie for the occasion.

Mrs. Philip Brady will be wearing white satin brocade trimmed with red, full length, when she and her husband have several friends at a pre-ball party in their 289 Park Ave. home.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Murphy will be co-hosts with Mr. and Mrs. James Wood in the Wood home, 4416 California Ave. at a cocktail event. A ball gown of blue peau de soie with a beaded top and sweeping skirt will be Mrs. Wood's attire, while Mrs. Murphy will present a scintillating picture in a ball gown featuring a silver lame top and skirt of silver and white net ruffles.

Hardworking committee members will show no signs of the gigantic task behind them as they enter the hotel that night. Mrs. Heusel has chosen black Chantilly lace over pink and a white ermine cape for the gala event, and with an eye to the decorations in the ballroom, Mrs. Noble will be strikingly attired in a full length gown of tangerine chiffon trimmed with gold sequins.

Fetching as a Valentine, Mrs. Vessels has chosen an Edith Small gown of red lace over pink satin. Ball length, it presents a sheath effect in front but becomes a rippling cascade of ruffles in back. Flattering Grecian drapery in full length blue chiffon is the selection of Mrs. Holmquist.

Colonial Dames Schedule Convention

Descendants of the historic founders of the 13 original American colonies will assemble Saturday in San Diego for the eighth annual state convention of the California State Society, Colonial Dames of the 17th Century.

Mrs. Lucille Derr Fitts of Los Angeles, state president, will call the convention to order at 10 a. m. in the El Morro Restaurant, and will preside at the day-long session.

Long Beach delegates are Mmes. A. L. Murray, Thomas M. Arrowsmith, Clifton Dwight Tucker, Walter S. Hylton, R. M. Brougher, Nathaniel Buckmaster, James Kennedy, Henry Crane, J. C. Wallace and Miss Lydia Doyle.

Reservations in the Long Beach area are being taken by Mrs. Tucker and Miss Doyle.

Mrs. French B. Harrington of Los Angeles, national president general, will be luncheon speaker, with "The Thirteen Original American Colonies" as her subject.

IT SEEMS only yesterday that we cut the golden ribbon and welcomed you to our new and spacious store . . . the store you helped build with your friendship, patronage and good will.

It has been our aim to make this a complete Fashion Store dedicated to women who desire the best.

As we turn to our Anniversary Album we find it filled with happy memories; for anniversaries are sentimental occasions. Memories of the happy brides (and we think we've dressed many of the loveliest girls in Long Beach) who have chosen their gowns in our red satin Bridal Room. Debs, sweet and lovely in their first party gowns. Young matrons and their mothers, and their grandmothers too . . . all of this is part of the precious heritage of twenty years.

And turning still another page we point to our roster of famous designers, names which originate all that's new in the glittering world of fashion.

We're proud of our personnel, some who have been with us since we first opened. We're proud of Long Beach and its progress and growth, and the wonderful future in store for us all.

It is hard to describe the feeling of gratitude we have for you who have made this twentieth anniversary possible. Our pledge to you is to continue in our efforts to make Schick's the nicest store you will find anywhere, and to make every moment of your shopping here a lasting pleasure.

Our Anniversary Gift to You...

Your Baby & Mine

Care of the Skin

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The tender, delicate skin of a baby is very easily irritated and develops spots and blemishes which cause discomfort and make him cross. When the skin shows a rash around the buttocks area, it may be that the soap or detergent used in washing the diapers may be irritating the skin. Just a change from one to another may be all that is necessary to clear up the spots and reddened areas.

When the baby is wearing a wet-resistant cover over the diaper, the bacteria in the diaper may unite with the urea and result in ammonia. This happens because of the warmth and the baby is often not changed as promptly when he doesn't wet his clothes as when he does.

The mother will be in no doubt about this result, as she will be able to smell the ammonia on the wet diaper. It is wise to leave off diaper covers for a time, wash the baby carefully after changing and use some healing salve or lotion. And then give the diapers a good boiling, and keep them free of bacteria by using some product designed for this task which can be bought at the drug-store.

If the rash is on the baby's face or in the bend of the elbow or knee, it is more than possible that this is a sign of some allergic reaction to his food.

A baby does not have soap used on its face but if the bed clothes are washed in harsh soaps or irritating detergents the baby might develop a rash merely by contact with them.

But, ordinarily, we have to look to the food as the cause of a persistent facial rash. The simpler the baby's diet the more easily can the villain be run down. If just on milk, citrus fruit juices and vitamin D, then one or another is to blame.

Changing the type of milk, using ascorbic acid instead of the juices, both of these may work such an immediate change as to make it apparent what is wrong. If the diet is more ample, then one has to try removing each one of the solid foods for a week at a time and note what happens. By such tedious means it is possible to pin point the offending factor and eliminate it or change its type.

There is one other possible cause of rash in young babies and that is the wool to which they may be exposed in coverings on bed or body. Some babies are extremely sensitive to wool and just contact with it will bring out a deep red spot, or a fine rash on the body. It is easy enough to replace the wool with cotton and thus end this particular cause of a skin rash.

If you would like our leaflet "Eczema and Allergy Diets," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36 to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of The Press-Telegram.

Spring Splash Will Be Heady Affair

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

With the happy hints of Spring so much a part of our Southern California living, Long Beach Navy Officers Wives Club is making big plans for its annual Spring Splash—the funny and entertaining Madhatter's luncheon party, which has become an annual spring event.

Members and their friends will gather at 12:30 p. m. on the afternoon of March 6 at the Officers Club, Allen Center. Those wishing to take part in this gay contest must make and wear their new chapeaux to the meeting. The judges' names are top secrets right now, but it is hinted they're really top brass.

There'll be prizes for the prettiest, most original, funniest, etc., and all members are urged to take part.

Senior hostess will be Mrs. Wayne Garnet who will be assisted by Mmes. E. W. Sweezy, M. C. Heine and Raymond Brightman.

The board members of the club met Wednesday morning to complete their plans, followed by luncheon at Allen Center.

Reservations are still in the capable hands of Mrs. R. M. Whelpley and Mrs. J. M. McAnn.

New members joining the Wives of Navy Doctors Club at the last luncheon meeting were Mmes. Edward Schnell, Robert Gray, George Stibbins, H. M. Robbins and George Shiff.

Rear Adm. and Mrs. Walter L. Dyer have been staying with friends in Torrance and are visiting their many service friends here before leaving tomorrow for a month's trip down to Guadalajara, Mexico.

Fleet Reserve Auxiliary Unit 43 members Mmes. Florence Ross, past national president; Rose Gartner, past national president; Dorothy Cukras, local president; Lillian Keehen, past president; Gertrude Green, past president; and Adeline MacDonough attended a National Officers Night in San Diego recently as guests of Unit. No. 9. They were made most welcome for the dinner and programs by the San Diego group's president, Ruth Hawk.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock Chaplain William Patrick will have services in the Navy Family Church; Mrs. Samuel Kahl will be hostess at the coffee hour.

Navy Wives Club No. One will have an evening party Tuesday at the Savannah Navy Club House. It will be family night with a pot-luck supper and games. Those wishing to attend and who are not members of the club are most cordially invited and should contact Mrs. John Cohn of 2130 W. Hill or Mrs. Benard Crawford of 1850 W. 20th St. The event will start at 6 o'clock.

Cmdr. and Mrs. P. M. Whelpley have just returned from a delightful visit in White Sands, New Mexico, where they were the house-guests of their old friends, Capt. and Mrs. J. C. Parham and family. They went down for the wedding reception of Homie Price Parham, who had just come home from the University of Alabama, and Stephen M. Miera of this city.

Coming home the Whelpleys visited friends in El Paso, then enjoyed a few days in Las Vegas.

Recently moving here from San Diego were CS2 Benard Crawford, Mrs. Crawford and children, James, Jane Marie and David.

On Wednesday afternoon board members and chairmen from the four local Navy Wives Clubs of America, Inc., are invited to the Naval Base to hear a talk on "Career Appraisal."

Back to their "home port" after many travels in far off places are Cmdr. and Mrs. Stephen F. Lahmann. Cmdr. Lahmann retired from the Navy in late summer winding up 30 years service. Last duty station was in Seattle, Wash.

Since the well known Navy couple last dropped anchor in Long Beach, they had duty and resided in Washington, D. C., and Naples, Italy. Since retiring they've visited old friends in Oregon, Arizona and Mexico, but now have settled in their permanent home at 203½ Quincy Ave.

Navy Wives Club No. 123 will have an executive board meeting Monday at the home of the vice president, Mrs. Benjamin Sokolik of 4318 Gondar Ave., Lakewood. Mrs. A. L. Wadsworth will conduct the business meeting. Welfare chairman Mrs. William Studiman and Mrs. Albert J. Nicolaus are busy recruiting new members.

Mrs. Joseph Koch and Mrs. Waneta Gizira are having a committee meeting March 1 at Mrs. Gizira's home to make final plans for the Navy Wives Club World Fellowship Silver Tea in Long Beach on March 17.

Wednesday night officers attached to the USS Helena and their ladies will enjoy a party at the cocktail hour at Allen Center.

District Meet

Long Beach Camp 3822, Royal Neighbors of America, will conduct a District Meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Machinists Bldg., 728 Elm Ave. Compton Camp will serve refreshments.

Quartet Has Ebell Date

"The Song Brokers," a male quartet — each member a musical star in his own right — will entertain Ebell Club of Long Beach Monday, it was announced by Mrs. James A. Worsham, program chairman.

Members of the group are Clarence Badger Jr., top tenor; John Moss, bass; Arthur Bradley, lead tenor, and Arthur McCulloch, baritone. Each has appeared extensively on radio, in motion pictures and on the stage.

Their program will include a wide variety of numbers featuring popular, light opera, spiritual, comedy and production numbers.

Luncheon will be served by Group V with Mrs. Fred Clark serving as chairman. At 1:30 p. m. Mrs. L. E. Shanks, president, will conduct the business meeting preceding the program.

Blue Stars

Hospital "acuffies" will be made by the sewing and social club of Blue Star Mothers Chapter No. 1 when members gather Monday morning at 10 in the home of Mrs. Clara Crozier, 2265 Magnolia Ave., Apt. 7.

PEO Meeting

Mrs. Mary D. Garvin, first vice president of PEO California State Chapter, will speak at the 10 a.m. Tuesday meeting of Long Beach District PEO Reciprocity Bureau of the YWCA, 6th and Pacific. Following a coffee hour with Chapter DP as hostess, the business session will be conducted by Mrs. Beach Vasey, president. All unaffiliated and visiting PEO's are invited.

FOR TALL GIRLS—Peg Newton, the designer who made junoesque girls proud of their height, comes up with a double-breasted coat dress that once you step into, you'll probably never want to step out. The front panel and lap-over is flat, then on either side are five narrow gores, then four, then three at the center back seam. The bodice is shaped to make the most of your figure, the sleeves are cuffed. Make this exclusively sized pattern, with its precise perforations for accurate matching and time saving, in sheer wool or worsted, shantung, raw silk, novelty weaves. From this chart select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	Length From Nape of Neck to Waist
10	34	24	35 In.	17¼ inches
12	35	25	36 In.	17½ inches
14	36½	26½	37½ In.	17¾ inches
16	38	28	39 In.	18 inches
18	40	30	41 In.	18¼ inches
20	42	32	43 In.	18½ inches

Size 12 requires 6⅛ yards of 39-inch material for dress. To order Pattern No. A-2069, state size; enclose $1.00. Address Personalized Patterns, P. O. Box 1005, G. P. O. Dept. LZ-13, New York 1, N. Y. Personalized Pattern Booklet PZ available for 50c each. If paid by check add 4c.

To Benefit Kenny Unit

Sister Kenny Auxiliary has scheduled a benefit bridge-canasta luncheon for Tuesday noon in the Garden Room of Mottell's, with Mrs. Camille Kendall as general chairman. Mrs. Lester B. Cooper will preside.

Featured entertainment will be a review of the New York play, "Diary of Anne Frank," presented by Mrs. Orville W. Cole of Long Beach Community Players.

Assisting with arrangements will be Mmes. William Welty, E. H. Bennett, Frank Ellsworth, C. F. Forbes, Rose Gustafson, A. E. English, Fred R. Schwarz and Alice M. Buzan. Reservations may be made with Mmes. Gertrude Winslow, Alec F. Johnson, Walter D. Brown or any auxiliary member. The event is open to members and friends.

Appointment of Maxine Lee as executive director of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation of Southern California, Inc., was recently announced by Judge George Dockweiler, president of the board of directors.

Club Hears Lore of West

Fascinating vignettes of Western history were described to Cactus Club members by Mrs. Sue H. Loomis and Clarence Wright at a meeting in the home of Miss Ruth Manchester, 3915 E. 2nd St.

Wright, club president, conducted a business session and, with Jack Klenke, contributed donations for a plant exchange.

Jasper Kaufman showed colored motion pictures from his film library of scenic areas of the West.

Recommendations Now at Art Center

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent, Press-Telegram Art Editor

A selection of works from the fifth annual Long Beach juried exhibition may be seen in the Recommendations and Recent Acquisitions Exhibition in the upstairs gallery of Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean. Works recommended for the Art Center's collection were selected from the exhibition by jurors Kenneth Ross, director of the Los Angeles Municipal Art Department, Joseph Fulton, director of the Pasadena Art Museum and Jarvis Barlow, assistant director of the Los Angeles County Art Institute.

Exhibiting artists will be honored at a reception from 2 to 4 p.m. today in the Art Center.

Exhibitors Paul D. Cooper, Connor Everts, Nels Y. Nelson, Marlyn Prior, Dean Spille, Julie Polousky, Jo Rebert, Jean B. Thompson, Edith Gummels, Greta Lindroth, Jay Meuser, Anna Hayes, Barbara Reeves and Leslie Stone have loaned their works through March 9. Selected by the staff for inclusion in the exhibit will be works by Fred Meiers, Florence Philleo, David Cytron, Kenn Glenn, Robert Ortlieb, James Knibb, John Lincoln, Mary Ann Kunz and Ward Youry.

In addition the "Event Near St. George," casein painting by Edgar Ewing donated by California Artists to the Art Center's collection, will be seen. Duncan R. McIntosh, director of California Artists, presented the painting. The painting was chosen by the jury of selection from the 1955 California Water Color Exhibit.

Among recent acquisitions is the 2,500-year-old Greek amphora, one of a limited number recovered last summer off the Southern coast of Italy by Staley S. Slotkin, president of Abbey Rents. The ancient clay storage jar has been donated to the Art Center by Arthur Horowitz, manager of Abbey Rents, Long Beach Branch office.

The first annual Long Beach Camera Guild Exhibition and the Creative Photography exhibit which opened on Wednesday evening includes works of well-known Long Beach area photographers. Still-life work, landscapes, people and imaginative compositions are included.

Jean Clad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Brown, 25 Belmont Ave. will have an exhibition of her paintings at the Camino Gallery in New York City. There will be a preview opening March 8 and the exhibition will run through March 28. She is showing recent oils.

Mrs. Clad was graduated from Wilson High School and the University of California at Berkeley. She studied painting with Andre Lhote in Paris in 1948-49 and lived for three years in Italy, where she first exhibited her work. She has been painting 10 years. Two years ago she had a one-man show at the Lucien Labaudt Gallery in San Francisco, and has exhibited recently in group shows in New York City. Some of her collages are on display at Madame Audre's, 4700 E. 7th St.

Joshua Meador's marine won first prize for oil, and Crandall Norton, a new member, took first prize for watercolor in the Laguna Beach Art Assn.'s membership show in the Laguna Beach Art Gallery. Kero Antoyan, M. Arkenszy, Pelham Glassford, Thelma Cardin, Don Shreves and Henry Richter took honorable mention.

Ben Messick, 133 St. Joseph Ave., whose work has been exhibited coast to coast and abroad, has received many fan letters. But none that pleased him more than a note the other day from a girl in Grass Valley. She had seen his exhibit in the Crocker Gallery in Sacramento and she wrote:

"Dear Mr. Messick,

When I visited the art gallery in Sacramento I enjoyed your paintings most of all.

Your clown pictures looked so real.

Some day I hope to be as good an artist as you.

Yours truly,
Andrea Grothe

P.S. I am 12 years old."

Relief Corps

Woman's Relief Corps No. 93 will meet at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday in Veterans Memorial Building with Rose Porter presiding. Gertrude Gilbert, department inspector, will visit.

Sad Story of South

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Since this seems to be the week for getting South into trouble let's finish with a lallapalooza.

Take a look at all four hands. If you can see how South managed to go down at three no-trump you are an expert.

Now for the sad story. West didn't think much of his heart suit because South had bid it and the four clubs to the jack looked most unattractive. Accordingly he decided to try to hit his partner's suit and opened the six of spades.

While South was taking time out to study the dummy East went through some rapid mental gymnastics and decided that his partner had opened the top of a short suit. He also noted that declarer could not know this and therefore East played the ten of spades.

Now it was South's time for real study. The lead could have been top of a doubleton but it looked much more like the fourth best from a suit headed by ace-jack. In that case it would be necessary for South to duck that particular trick to guard against East getting in with the king of diamonds and leading through South's remaining spade honor.

South ducked whereupon East laid down the ace of spades, dropping South's queen, and cleared the suit with a third lead.

When South lost the diamond finesse East was waiting with two good spades to set the contract.

Club to Tour VA Hospital

A tour of Veterans Hospital under the guidance of Col. W. R. McBrian, chief of special services, will be enjoyed by members of Long Beach City College Faculty Wives Club following their Thursday luncheon meeting in the Hawaiian restaurant.

Hostesses for the 12:30 p.m. luncheon will be Mmes. Harmon P. Clark Jr., Herbert Ferguson and Arthur Knoll. Red, white and blue pompons and ribbon streamers interspersed with brilliant crimson camellias will provide festive table decor.

The following meeting, a dessert luncheon, will take place March 28 at the home of Mrs. Charles Church when a preview of spring fashions will be modeled by club members.

Smorgasbord

In response to many requests, Circle No. 8 of Women's Society of Christian Service, Grace Methodist Church, will repeat their popular smorgasbord dinner March 1 from 5 to 7 p. m. in the fellowship hall. Tickets may be purchased until Wednesday noon at the church office or from Mrs. R. V. Johnson or Mrs. George Y. Miller.

32-in-one
AMAZING NEW FORMULA
for
YOUTHFUL SKIN!

At Last! New miracle Skin Cream combines Turtle Oil, Shark Oil, Royal Bee Jelly, Silicone, Lanolin, plus 27 Other Beautifying Ingredients!

NEVER IN COSMETIC HISTORY HAS THERE BEEN SUCH A HIGH CONCENTRATION OF NUTRIENT AND MOISTURIZING INGREDIENTS FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD BLENDED INTO ONE SINGLE CREAM.

TURTLE OIL: for Super Lubrication and Skin Nourishment.

SHARK OIL: the world's finest source of Vitamin A, vital to Healthy Skin.

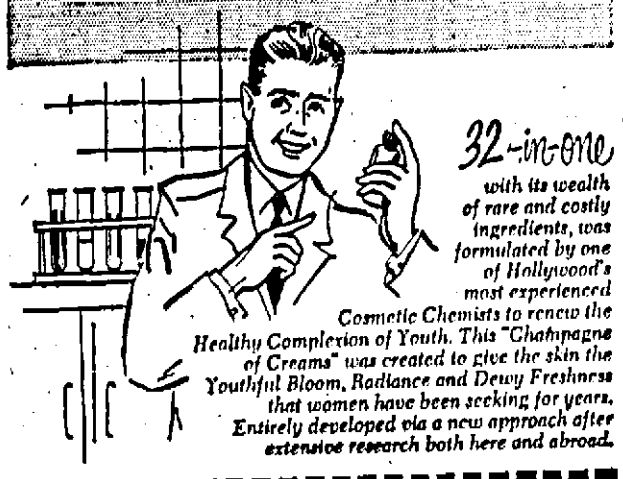

ROYAL JELLY: a rare and costly substance, the amazing food of the queen bee. Only recently has it been found that this potent combination of vitamins and proteins has a Wonderful Effect on the Skin.

LEICHOL: a new chemical isolation from sheeps-wool fat for Skin Absorption and Penetration to Assist in Promoting Healthy Skin.

SILICONE: helps to retain needed moisture on and within the skin to Prevent "aging points" . . . Tiny Wrinkles at Forehead — Eyes — Mouth — Throat, or Creases from Facial Expressions, like smiles or frowns.

blended INTO ONE SINGLE FORMULA!

PLUS: 27 more ingredients never before formulated into a single cream and at a price within the reach of all.

32-in-one with its wealth of rare and costly ingredients, was formulated by one of Hollywood's most experienced Cosmetic Chemists to renew the Healthy Complexion of Youth. This "Champagne of Creams" was created to give the skin the Youthful Bloom, Radiance and Dewy Freshness that women have been seeking for years. Entirely developed via a new approach after extensive research both here and abroad.

32-in-one Moisture Magic

Do you look in the mirror and see tiny lines on your forehead, throat and around your eyes and mouth? Is your skin sagging, shriveled, old looking? Have you tried one cosmetic after another until you're disgusted?

AMAZING NEW FORMULA

If so, I want to tell you about the ultimate achievement in scientific skin care. Be as skeptical as you like, but here, at last, is the proven answer to your skin problems!

Just recently a well-known Hollywood chemist has successfully combined ALL of the known beauty aids you've heard about on TV, radio, in newspapers and magazines into ONE, easy-to-use concentrate. Never before in cosmetic history has there been such a concentration of cleansing, moisturizing and neutralizing ingredients BLENDED INTO ONE SINGLE FORMULA.

Included in this amazing formula are TURTLE OIL, well known for super lubrication and nourishment; SHARK OIL, one of the world's finest sources of Vitamin A; ROYAL JELLY, the food substance of the Queen Bee, recently found to be so remarkable in preserving the bloom of youth; SILICONE, the modern ingredient that protects your skin from the sun, wind and other skin irritants. 32-In-One Concentrate also contains LEICHOL, new chemical discovery that's a natural food supplement in restoring the firm suppleness of youth to your skin tissues. These skin-rejuvenating ingredients never before put into a single home beauty treatment, are now available to magically solve your skin problems.

KEEP YOUR BIRTHDAY A SECRET

If you want to lift years from your looks, you can now take definite steps to make your skin younger and lovelier than you ever dared hope for. This sensational new concentrate sinks deep into your pores and its moisturizing ingredient floats dirt and makeup to the surface. It slides them off, leaving the exciting new look that will delight you so very much. You can actually watch the lines and blemishes disappear with your first bottle!

The cost? Absolutely nothing!—unless your skin grows smoother and more youthful looking! 32-In-One Concentrate hasn't reached your local stores yet; but it is yours to enjoy on our No-Risk Guarantee Plan.

Over Twenty Changing Years

Grace Schick Reflects on Beauty, Vagaries of Style

By IOLA MASTERSON

What kind of a person is the American business woman?

Her skill and chic have made her a legend of modern civilization; the envy of the rest of the feminine world. But what is she like personally?

Perhaps no one in Long Beach better epitomizes the successful American woman executive than Grace Schick. To meet her personally is the purpose of this story.

This month she is celebrating her 20th year as one of Long Beach's best known business women. Owner of a fashionable apparel store, she has always been a leader in her field and among a handful of people responsible for bringing to this city a style awareness that is making it one of the key retail outlet areas on the west coast.

And Charming Manner

Mrs. Schick is petite (5'3") with steady gaze, soft voice, a quiet and charming manner.

Her experience in merchandising reaches back to Lexington, Neb., where her father owned the first general store and where she received early training in the complex business of a store operation.

As a buyer for a Long Beach department store she learned the needs of local women before opening her own first store here in 1937 at 936 Pine Ave. An ever increasing clientele dictated expansion and in 1949 she moved to her present location at 7th St. and Pine Ave.

A constant traveler between here and New York (she makes buying forays to the east coast four times a year), she is an able judge of style trends and how women will react to them.

The Restless Years

Mrs. Schick feels the "restless" years are over. Women are no longer skittersh in their buying habits and are stabilizing the style market by their own good sense. Clothes, she says, are wearable longer with radical style changes much less likely than in the past.

A good example is the current skirt length controversy — will it go longer or stay put? Much is said but little change is evident as women themselves continues to choose the flattering 12 to 13-inch skirt length.

Another rejected style trend is last season's Empire line, heavily promoted by designers and manufacturers, and rejected for a sound and sensible reason, according to Mrs. Schick. The Empire requires a faultless figure and American women are now much too savvy to select that which does not flatter.

This is in absolute reverse to the mob acceptance of the long skirt trend which followed the hysteria of the 1920s' "almost no skirt at all" era. A trend, incidentally, which she says was favored by the young and unwillingly adopted by the matrons of that time. One which she ruefully admits she, herself, thought marvelous as a young woman, a fact she remembers with chagrin.

Sheath Won Favor

On the other hand, the sheath won almost instant favor a few seasons ago. Following a period of full skirts, it offered a refreshing change and was easily worn.

Of Long Beach clubwomen, social leaders and career women, Mrs. Schick has warm praise. Well groomed and stylish, they compare with the smartest women of any metropolitan city.

Women Are Smaller

Actually, the biggest change in the past 20 years has been in size. The most popular dress sizes now are 10s and 12s, with a surprising demand for 7s, 9s — and even for the very tiny size 5s!

Twenty years ago the average was 16 and the woman who required a size 44 dress was not considered extremely large at all. Manufacturers were accustomed to including up to size 52 in their "regular" line.

Mrs. Schick herself dresses in the manner she advises others to follow. Choosing simple styles and in her favorite colors, she suggests they be subdued by day but as bright as the wearer desires for resort or evening.

A Word on Black

Black is fine but not necessarily the smartest thing for west coast wear unless it really reflects a personal preference. Black remains No. 1 in eastern cities for a very practical reason: Smart because it won't show the ever present dirt and grime which must be endured.

A Soroptimist for the past 19 years, Mrs. Schick has consistently been active in its service program of aid to this community. She is also a life member of the YWCA and the Long Beach Community Players. Artistic by nature, she belongs to the Long Beach Art Association and other art groups. An amateur artist, she has found time in her busy life to do considerable painting, her favorite media being pastels and water colors.

Although she finds little time to enjoy her hobby actively now, still the siren's call of art galleries and shows generally bids her be present to view other's works.

And who knows, maybe some day the signature Grace Schick will be as honored in the corner of a bright canvas as on the label of a smart feminine ensemble!

July Date for Nuptials

An announcement of interest in both Southern and Northern California reveals the engagement of Donn Allen Patton of Long Beach and Miss Julie Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Moore of Yuba City.

Miss Moore's father has been a member of the Sutter County Board of Supervisors for many years and is a member of a pioneer family of Sutter County. Patton is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert V. Patton of 341 Hermosa Ave.

The bride-elect attended Yuba City schools and the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Her fiance was born in Long Beach and is a graduate of Wilson High School. He attended Long Beach City College and the University of Southern California and now is a dental student in his junior year at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in San Francisco. He is a member of Psi Omega Fraternity.

After their marriage July 27 the couple will live in San Francisco.

Varied Plans for Busy Lady Lions

Board members of West Long Beach Lady Lions will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Vi Akin, 1725 Atlantic Ave.

At the recent dinner meeting of the organization in Brower's, plans were discussed for a St. Patrick's Day party, March 16, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. William Slater. Mary Lou Hill of Reno Florists entertained with a demonstration of flower arrangements and corsages.

Mmes. Nita Burnham and Klair Hamilton decorated dining tables.

Worry Clinic

Valuable First Aid Tips to Heart Trouble Sufferers

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case U-307: Henry L., 43, is a high pressure business executive.

"Dr. Crane, I had a heart attack three months ago," he began apprehensively. "And ever since then I have felt as if a Sword of Damocles were hanging over me. For example, my wife went home yesterday to visit her sick mother for a couple of weeks. So I am all alone in the house at night.

"Suppose a heart attack should hit me again when nobody is around: What could I do?"

• • • • •

IF YOU ARE all alone when stricken by a heart attack, there are several things to do which may save your life.

First of all, if you are still conscious your attack is not as likely to be fatal, so let that knowledge reassure you. Secondly, the main treatment for a heart attack, even when we medics get you to a hospital, is oxygen. For the pain of a heart attack is considered a result of lack of oxygen to the muscle fibers in the injured heart wall.

There are two ways to increase the supply of oxygen. One is to breathe a richer oxygen mixture as from a bottle of oxygen or while lying in an oxygen tent at the hospital. The other is to speed up your breathing. Despite the sharp pain you may suffer over the front of the chest, grit your teeth and force yourself to perform rapid, deep breathing. This act of heavy breathing will not hamper the heart or jeopardize your life. Instead, it may save your life. And as the oxygen reaches the heart muscle, the sharp pain may grow duller and duller.

So you don't need to feel that your only hope for a richer oxygen supply is at the hospital. You can administer your own cardiac first aid right where you lie.

• • • •

AND YOU SHOULD lie down when your heart is under strain, for the horizontal position reduces your blood pressure and also slows down the heart rate.

If, moreover, you know you have high blood pressure or have suffered a previous heart attack, your physician can give you pills that will also work swiftly to dilate the coronary arteries and thus permit them to carry more oxygen to the heart muscle.

So carry such medicine in your purse or vest pocket at all times. And beware of liquor. The latest findings veto the use of alcohol. This result is at variance with previous medical views where it was felt the alcohol would also dilate the coronaries and thus offer more blood supply to the ailing heart.

But alcohol dulls pain and thus acts much like morphine in masking the first symptoms of a heart attack. So the user of alcohol may not feel the early warning pain. As a result, he may run for a bus or hurry up a flight of stairs and then drop dead from the heart attack which his liquor has masked.

The final and best all-around antidote for heart patients is to team up with God in a daily partnership. Then your entire nervous tension is more relaxed and your heart works under less strain.

At bedtime, too, you can then ask God to take over the night shift for you and thus enjoy deeper, more refreshing slumber, untroubled by nightmares and insomnia.

You can survive many heart attacks, so don't worry about a previous attack if you are now six weeks beyond it! After six weeks of convalescence your heart is actually stronger than before the attack.

But tobacco and liquor hamper your heart so send for my booklet "How to Stop the Tobacco and Liquor Habits."

Please enclose a long, 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in requesting a Dr. Crane Bulletin. Address: Dr. George W. Crane, in care of Hopkins Syndicate, Mellott, Ind.

School Menus

Wholesome Meals for Students

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of Feb. 25 - March 1:

MONDAY: Hot dog, cut green beans, sliced peaches, Lorna Doone cookie and milk.

TUESDAY: Creole noodles, garden peas, orange wedge, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Chopped steak on mashed potatoes, frozen mixed vegetables, chocolate pudding with whipped cream, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

THURSDAY: Hamburger on bun, tossed green salad, fruit cup supreme, cheese slice and milk.

FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, chopped spinach, carrot sticks with peanuts, tuna salad sandwich and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch, 25c. Soup and salad from the junior-senior high school a la carte menu are sold in the elementary schools, but they may be purchased by the children only after they have purchased the tray lunch.

Junior and Senior High

MONDAY: Cheese enchiladas or creamed chipped beef on cornbread, cut green beans, sliced peaches, toasted French bread and milk.

TUESDAY: Neapolitan macaroni, garden peas, tossed green salad with egg garnish, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Turkey a la king on mashed potatoes, whole kernel corn, fruit cup supreme, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Barbecued beef on bun, frozen spinach, fruit gelatin, cheese slice and milk.

FRIDAY: Baked haddock or hot meat sandwich with gravy, sliced carrots, spicy applesauce, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

Our Children

Parents Must Be 'Young' to Sympathize With Youth

By ANGELO PATRI

Until Myrtle entered high school, she was a helpful, cheerful child. She did her home chores, achieved good marks in school, and enjoyed the group activities with careless joy. She did not want a new hairdo or a highly-tinted manicure, did not worry about the styles but wore the clothes she had, with her mother's help, selected in a matter-of-fact way.

All this has changed, to her parents' discomfort. Myrtle is so busy with her beauty routines and her wardrobe problems every morning she has no time for her chores, no time to be helpful or friendly. She always is hurried and anxious to be ready for the schoolbus. Worst of all, to her astonished and perturbed parents' minds, is her pert, even rude answers to any suggestion, any remark about her attitudes. This is something her mother and father did not expect.

All adolescent children tend to leave home and parents in order to respond to nature's demands that they mature and take their places as adults. They enter groups of young people of mixed standards; many of them who have been reared conservatively are attracted to teen-agers whose behavior is new and surprising to them. Dramatic actions, peculiar twists of speech in the new friends are so exciting, the young "conservatives" watch and listen and imitate these habits.

This changes their manners, their speech and many of their attitudes, and their parents become annoyed and worried. The younger the boy or girl is, the more dramatic and the more thorough the change.

This will pass. When the father and mother hold up the home standards and look with quiet but firm disapproval on the most outrageous of the new traits, when they insist that the home chores be done and the home program followed, come what may, the child has a feeling of safety and security which, while he seems not to care, means strength to his mind, body and character. Youngsters are happy to know their parents care enough about them to check their behavior and safeguard them.

While holding fast to home standards, be sure what is demanded of the children is really necessary to their welfare. A dash of rouge, a varnished manicure, a new hairdo are quite in order for the girls; a rakish cap, loud ties, peculiar sweaters are rightful belongings for the boys. A little leeway in speech, a stretching now and then of routines, a half-way meeting in controversies will help both sides.

Children do grow up, do leave home and parents. But youngsters return in time if home and parents are the welcoming sort, if they have stayed young and in sympathy with youth.

When a child cries for what he wants, something is wrong. How to find out the cause and what to do about it is explained by Dr. Patri in his leaflet P-4, "Crying Children." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

This feature appears daily in the Independent.

Dr. Wylder to Address L. B. Writers

"Transparent Prose" is the topic to be discussed by Robert Wylder, Ph.D., at the Long Beach Writer's Club Thursday, at 1 p.m. in the Library Room of Morgan Hall, 835 Locust Ave. Mrs. Mary Alden Campbell will preside at the business session.

Young Dr. Wylder is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin at Madison and has been assistant professor of English at Long Beach State College since 1953, teaching short story writing, drama and poetry.

A discussion period is planned by Mrs. Don U. Billings, program chairman.

The all day meeting will open at 10 a.m. with Mrs. Jean Crosse Hansen reading poetry; Miss Helen Johnson, short stories; Mrs. Lorena Fleisig, articles, and Mrs. Olive Spencer, juvenile stories.

Decorators

Ladies Auxiliary of the Painting and Decorating Association of the Harbor Area will meet at 12:30 p.m. Thursday for luncheon at the Hacienda, San Pedro. Hostesses will be Mrs. L. A. Davis and Mrs. D. W. Strand. A "silent auction" is planned.

Junior Lodge

Junior Director Virginia Heine will be in charge of Friday's meeting when Junior Lodge, Degree of Honor Lodge No. 108, meets in Machinists Bldg., 728 Elm Ave. Refreshments will be served by the Mother's Club at the close of the business session.

TUNA CLUB MEN HOIST PARTY BURGEE

Once a year men of the Tuna Club hoist the party burgee in their private clubrooms at the Lafayette Hotel to signal their wives it's time for another gala cocktail buffet—only occasion during the year when women are welcomed "aboard." The annual affair, which took place last weekend, found the deep sea fishermen and their chic guests in particularly festive spirits. Pictured, left, are club president Al Beach and Mrs. Beach chatting informally with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene LeGrand. LeGrand, vice president, was party chairman. In the second picture, left to right, Mrs. Russell H. Pray and Mrs. Chet Yunker admire one of the many competitive trophies awarded each year and hear a husbandly lecture from Yunker, center, and Pray on the fishing skill it takes to win them!

Marion E. Wilson Now Mrs. James F. Bender

Now residing in Seal Beach are newly married Mr. and Mrs. James Franklin Bender who exchanged nuptial vows in evening services Feb. 16 at Greenwich Wedding Chapel. The pair honeymooned in Southern California coastal towns.

Dr. Reuben Anderson officiated at the double ring ritual which united the former Marion Evon Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Wilson, Seal Beach, and the son of Mrs. Billie Bender, also of Seal Beach, and the late Cmdr. Richard William Bender.

Given in marriage by her father, the young bride carried a white Bible crested with white orchids and stephanotis. Her gown was designed of delicate lace, taffeta and pleated nylon tulle. A crown of lace, pearls and sequins secured a lace-trimmed fingertip-length veil of silk illusion, and for her "something old," the bride chose her grandmother's heirloom rose point lace handkerchief carried by her mother and sister at their weddings.

Mrs. Keith I. F'Mayer preceded her sister down the bridal aisle as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Deanna Toppin and Judy Johnson. All wore identical gowns of powder blue lace over taffeta and matching hats with rhinestone-studded face veils. Pale yellow carnations were selected for the matron of honor's bouquet, while pale pink carnations created a delicately contrasting picture with the two bridesmaids' ensembles.

Duties of the best man were performed by James E. Taylor Jr. The 100 wedding guests were escorted by Keith I. F'Mayer and the bridegroom's brother, John Bender.

Assisting the newlyweds at the chapel reception were Mrs. J. J. Rivas and Misses Diann Mitchell and Chantel Moschella.

The new Mrs. Bender is a graduate of Huntington Beach High School. Her husband, a St. Anthony's alumnus, served four years in the U. S. Navy.

Travel to Conference

Three Long Beach women will motor northward to Bakersfield to attend the one-day conference of Fellowship of Congregational Women of Southern California and the Southwest.

Taking part in the Tuesday caucus will be Mrs. Raymond Sites, 3535 Rose Ave., vice president and program chairman of the fellowship; Mrs. Charles D. Lovitt, president of Women's Fellowship at First Congregational Church, and Mrs. Edgar M. Becker, superintendent of social action department at the same church.

Nearly 400 women are expected at the religious conference in Bakersfield's First Congregational Church. They will hear a report of the mid-winter meeting in Buck Hill Falls, Pa., by the president, Mrs. B. R. McElderry. In the afternoon, Dr. Ione Catton, program secretary of Mission Council, will be featured speaker.

Music Club Looking to Charter Day

Charter day, an annual event anticipated by Woman's Music Club, will take place Wednesday noon in the Cavalier Room of Lafayette Hotel.

Open to members only, the event will be highlighted by the appearance of Mrs. Ethel Willard Putnam, only living charter member, whose topic, "Then and Now," will emphasize the beginning and growth of the club, now in its 49th year.

Soprano Shirley Hopkins will present several numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Annette Gridley.

In addition to honoring past presidents in attendance, the day will include a memorial service for deceased past presidents.

Mrs. Adolph Brodbeck, president, will preside.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. T. R. Scofield by Monday evening.

Ball to Be Gay Event

A gaily colored carousel centered in the recreation hall of Atlantic Avenue Methodist Church will leave no doubt about the light-hearted theme of the Carousel Ball when teen-age guests arrive Saturday to dance from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The Blue Notes, a group popular with young people, will play in a setting colorful with aqua, blue, pink, red and white decorations. One tenth of the dance proceeds will go to the general church fund; the remainder is earmarked for the support of the youth program.

Adults who will serve as official hosts are Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Marshall, Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. J. L. Treadwell, Lloyd Saatjian and the Rev. and Mrs. Willard Schurr.

Plans for the ball developed from an interest in forming denominational and interdenominational friendships among the church youth of Beach and to provide an opportunity for fun and fellowship.

DUVCW to Host Past Presidents

Emily R. Jewell Tent No. 15, Daughter of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will hostess a meeting of the Past Tent Presidents Association of Southern California at noon luncheon Thursday at the Hard of Hearing Clubhouse, 124 W. 14th St. Election of officers is slated.

The regular tent sewing meeting will take place at 11 a.m. Thursday in Veterans Memorial Building. Covered dish luncheon will be followed by a business session.

Narcotics Evil to Be Discussed

"Narcotics Problems in Our Community" will be the timely subject of the talk by Sergeant Willis Penhollow at the Thursday meeting of Chi Omega alumnae.

Because of the importance of the topic the members will be allowed to bring a guest so that this information from the Narcotics Division of the Long Beach Police Department may reach as many citizens as possible. Sergeant Penhollow will show a film outlining the steps in addiction.

The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. William Reid, 3023 E. Ocean Blvd. Mrs. L. H. Howe and Mrs. John Lemon will be cohostesses.

Dancers to Appear in Civic Show

The Dorothy Castle Dance Studio of Long Beach will present a program of tap, ballet, acrobatic, modern and novelty numbers on the Community Program, sponsored by the Recreation Department, in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium Monday evening at 8.

Featured acts will include Colleen Williams, jump rope tap; Bobby and Ronnie Winebrenner, rhythm tap novelty; Judy Lauer giving her impression of "A Sweet Old Fashioned Girl;" Roberta Burns singing and dancing to "You'd Be Surprised;" Sandy Dearmin, acrobatic stair dance; Vicki Cue, Gary Fisher and Grayce James in a modern dance to "Slaughter on 10th Avenue;" six young Castle dancers doing "Ball 'N' the Jack," and a college pompon line dance finale.

George Griffith, local tenor, will lead community singing to open the program at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Madeline Frazer will be the accompanist.

Old time and square dancing with Allen Wilson as caller will follow the stage show. Music for dancing is furnished by the Tyo Orchestra.

This public is invited to attend and participate in this free civic program.

Beta Sigma Phi

Mrs. John Coleman, 770 Havana Ave., will be hostess for the Wednesday meeting of Xi Alpha Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. Albert Kennedy, a superintendent of marine maintenance for a major oil company stationed in Lebanon for the past 12 years, will be guest speaker.

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

—by PLACER MINER—

When Ol' Placer Miner first came to Long Beach State, we were introduced to the word "functional." Took us some time to understand what was meant when we were told that "modern living must be functional." After looking over this week's calendar, however, we know. For come this Wednesday there takes place in the Soroptimist House from 3 to 5 p. m. an event which is just as functional a function as has happened since the word was invented.

We're referring to the Delta Delta Delta party for members of the faculty. Each tri-Delt will invite one faculty member for whom she has a special feeling—be it because of a magnetic personality, a pleasant disposition, or maybe only because the prof is giving her a "D" and she darn well better raise her marks if she wants to remain a tri-Delt in good standing.

"Apple polishing, pure and simple!" said a tri-Delt spokesman when she told us about it.

Could be. But sounds like it has possibilities. We would like to take a peek at Delta Delta Delta transcripts at the end of this semester.

As long as we're talking about the tri-Delts, might as well mention their mothers' tea this afternoon from 2 to 4 p. m. in the Soroptimist House. About 50 girls and their mothers will be on hand. Dorothy Wooley is program chairman.

And as long as we're talking about sororities, wish we could tell you more about the Delta Zeta dinner dance at Disneyland Hotel this coming Saturday. But we must be a persona non grata to the DZs. Nobody has been around to tell us anything lately. Where are you, Joyce Floor?

A recent guest of Sigma Kappa was Mrs. Ruth Ann Greig of Oakland, national Panhellenic delegate and special adviser to the LBSC chapter. Mrs. Greig gave the girls new ideas on rushing, standards, scholarship, and other sorority items.

Members of the Philosophy Society met at the home of Dr. George Massey last Thursday evening. Items on the agenda included election of officers, a talk by Chuck Casper on Oriental religions, some informal discussion and inquiry, and refreshments.

Chuck Blondino is president of this group which, according to earlier reports, features "conversation you can sink your teeth in."

Reporting on a successful Young Republicans State Convention last week in Santa Barbara are members of the 49er YR contingent. They were pleased that LBSC was assigned two of the 42 delegate spots from Los Angeles County. Roger Malkus and Clay Gatchel were those chosen.

Thursday sees the College Religious Council hosting a pot luck dinner for about 150 persons in the recreation hall of the Los Altos United Church. In attendance will be members of five religious groups on campus and their advisors plus faculty members who have spoken on the "This I Believe" series.

Featured speaker for the evening will be Dr. Gunther, head of the religious conference at UCLA. Dean Francis Flynn and son Gary will lead community singing.

Marcia Arnold of the Westminster Foundation and Jack Markel are handling arrangements.

This is also the week for the monthly meeting of Sigma Chi Nu, nurses' group at LBSC. The place, lower campus lounge, and the time, Wednesday at 8 p. m. Members will bring donations of household staples for the House of Hope, their goodwill project for the year.

Speaker of the evening will be one of the directors of the House of Hope. Mrs. Louise Johnson of San Pedro is Sigma Chi Nu president.

John Baugh, national chapter supervisor of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity was in town recently as he made his yearly visit to chapters west of the Mississippi. After the audit of the SAE books, Sigma Alpha Epsilon president Dale Fairbanks was pleased to announce, "Mr. Baugh found everything right where it should be—except our owl!"

Acacia Fraternity got a little taste of kidnaping recently, too. But instead of some inanimate object they lost Joe Reed. The story has a happier ending than the SAE episode, though, for instead of being buried in the sand at Sunset Beach, Joe was returned safe and sound to the Acacia hangout at 365 Walnut.

Seems that the LBSC Acacias had been doing some raiding of the UCLA chapter who retaliated with a raid a week ago yesterday. Finding little of value, the invaders finally walked off with Reed. Later in the day they made a deal with the local Acacia group: return our trophies which you took earlier and you can have Joe Reed back.

Well, to make a long story short, the trade was made and the missing Reed returned to Long Beach. "Kind of hated to give up those trophies, though," related the Acacia lad who was our source of information. "We figure they had a value of at least $25. But, on the other hand, I suppose Joe was worth that much."

Africa Topic for Juniors

Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, Junior Membership, will learn about "Africa—Continent of the Future" at their February Conference. Dr. Giles T. Brown will speak to the group on his experiences in this second largest continent, having just returned from a 30,000 mile trip to Africa.

Mrs. Milton I. Dales will preside at the eight o'clock meeting which will be held at the Norwalk Woman's Club, Monday evening.

The first handicraft exhibit to be held by the new district will also be presented. The foyer of the clubhouse will be available for clubs to display the works of their club members completed during the past year. This will be a combined arts and crafts exhibit and judges will be Mrs. Carl Russell of Artesia and Mrs. Malvina McLaughlin of Norwalk.

Will Hostess ADPi Meet

Mrs. Robert Lander will entertain Alpha Delta Pi alumnae in her home at 1101-A San Antonio Dr. Tuesday evening at 7:30. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. W. Donavon Tarlton.

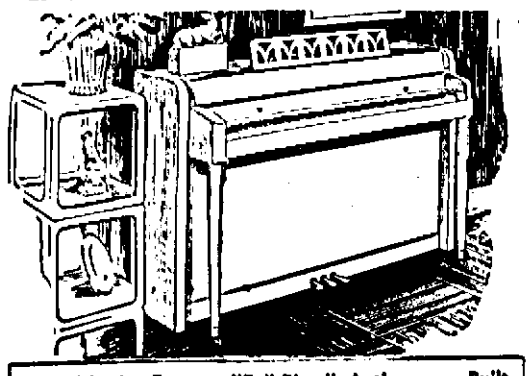

During the evening members will hear guest speaker Jenny Barrie and, under the direction of Mrs. Charles T. Brown, the group will complete decorations for the March 9 tea and fashion show, "On to the Bahamas," to take place at the Hollywood-Roosevelt Hotel.

Reservations for the meeting may be made with the hostess or with Mrs. Edward Orth. All ADPis in the area are invited.

Sweetness Lost

Fresh vegetables from the market are often not as sweet or tender as those picked and eaten almost immediately from the garden because they continue to mature after harvesting.

Baby's Speech

The development of baby's speech is one of the most delightful aspects of watching him grow up. First come the single words which indicate a whole series of things. Later come the two-word sentences and the thoughts.

Vitamin Lore

Vitamin C, a valuable nutrient in vegetables, may be lost in considerable amounts when vegetables are not eaten for a long time after harvest.

Phillips, Claire Conway and Jerome A. Donson.

Groups and their themes are North Long Beach Junior Women's Club, hobo; Osteopathic Society, English dessert; Realtors' Wives, Miss Universe coronation; Stephens College Alumnae, Latin American dinner; North Long Beach Women's Club, Melody of Spring; Dames Club, Hawaiian; Sandlarks, Christmas, and Holy Family Adoption Service, baby.

Also Nightingales, children's party; Rick Rackers, Easter; Los Altos Garden Club, golden wedding anniversary; Pilot Club, May Day breakfast; Assistance League, orchids to the girls; Lawyers' Wives, true love ever; Medical Auxiliary, autumn; Druggists' Wives, silver wedding anniversary; Kiwani - Anns, pancake breakfast; Optometric Wives, pirate breakfast, and Chiropractic Auxiliary, bridal shower.

Language Tip

As soon as baby learns how to indicate his needs or wants verbally, it's well to tell any baby sitter what the phrases mean. "Boo" may make perfect sense to the family, but to a stranger it's more likely to mean a game than a call for the bathroom.

Avoid Shine

Iron dark cottons on the wrong side to avoid a shiny look. Linens may have a sheen when ironed, but dark cottons should be dull in appearance.

Select your "Exquisite Form" Bra packaged from our new Bra Bar!

BRA FAVORITES by Exquisite Form they give more women the figure they want... at the figure they want to pay!

A. FLOATING ACTION, famed for Tangent Straps that move as you move, yet keep the bra in place. You never know a single moment's distress from shoulder pressure; stay glamorously uplifted all day. 4-section stitched cups give you lovely rounded contours . . . give you X appeal! (X=glamour plus comfort.)
Style 392 in finest white broadcloth. A cup, 32-36; B cup, 32-40; C cup 32-42 $2.50
D cup, 34-42 ..... $3.50

B. America's most popular bra, famous STYLE 502 does more glamorous things for figures . . . and for less money. . . . than any bra we know. Stitched under each cup, reinforced under each cup to give you lastingly firm lift. The fit is in for the life of the bra. A fabulous beauty buy!
Style 502, fine, firm broadcloth in white, pink. A cup, sizes 32-36; B cup, 32-40; C cup 32-42 ..... only $1.50
D cup, 34-42, in white $2.00

C. "Festival" new whisper-light cotton bra STYLE 317 light in the hand, light on your purse . . . yet "Festival" gives you a figure worth celebrating in a big way! Its glamour lines are underlined with an exclusive petal-soft, but firm cup-lining that gives extra uplift and support. Fine white cotton.
Style 317, A cup 32-36, B cup 32-40, C cup 32-42 $2

Ira M. Unsell, M. D.

Chef of the Week

Even Doc's Cooking Has Eye, Nose, Throat Appeal

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

He's an ophthalmologist and an otolaryngologist! Don't bother to look 'em up. In plain English, he's an eye and ear specialist, which, of course, includes the nose and throat. Today's "chef" Dr. Ira M. Unsell established his office here in 1918.

Dr. Unsell confined his youth (through high school) to Chanute, Kan. He began his working career on the Chanute "Daily Timesett," at the age of 7, delivering the same paper route for that many years. At the age of 12, he added the Kansas City Post to his daily schedule. His college "budget" was enhanced by such occupations as landscape gardener, kitchen assistant, bus boy and breakfast cook.

Receiving his medical education at the College of Medical Evangelists at Loma Linda, he took his BS degree at Walla Walla College in Washington. Post-graduate work was done at the Los Angeles Eye and Ear Hospital, the Kern County General Hospital at Bakersfield, the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field in Texas, USC and at the Calcutta School of Medicine in India.

A flight surgeon with the Army Air Force for five years, he served four of them in the Alaska and India-Burma areas. An air medal and three battle stars are grim reminders. He continues his air association as a CAA examiner.

On the staff of the Long Beach Community, St. Mary's and Seaside Hospitals, he attends at the Los Angeles Eye and Ear Hospital, as well. A member of the Long Beach and Los Angeles E.E.N.T. societies and the American Medical Assn., he is also affiliated with both the Los Angeles County and California State Medical Assns., and is a Diplomat of the National Board.

He has one more title which he values more than any of these. He is the husband of Dr. Glee A. Renick—whose favorite title is Mrs. Unsell! Dr. Renick is an obstetrician.

With a "Perry Como type" ability for easy-going relaxation, Unsell is always on good terms with himself and skillfully accomplishes an enormous amount of work through thoughtful coordination. He very carefully and systematically saves all printed matter which comes his way.

Golf, tennis, volley ball, hunting, deep sea fishing and flying (he soloed on a runway), were quite important to him, but they've been outfumbled by a three-seated bike—he in lead position with his two sons, 6 and 4, on behind.

Music also is much a part of his life, evidencing itself mainly in a baritone voice. Very active in the Seventh-day Adventist Church, he has been a choir member and served as leader of youth and in the senior Sabbath school and Missionary Volunteer Society as well.

Our "chef" doesn't like venison as-is . . . and recommends this recipe for other ardent hunters with the same appetite twist.

VENISON CHILI

2 lbs. ground venison
1 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 cups cooked brown beans
2 cans tomato sauce (8 oz.)
1 tsp. chili powder
½ tsp. poultry seasoning (adds an oriental flavor).

Brown meat and onions to medium well done. Add beans, tomato sauce and garlic. Simmer 30 minutes. Add chili powder, poultry seasoning and salt and simmer another 30 minutes. This will present venison so everyone will like it.

Blue Star Events Set

Mrs. Robert Elder of 2505 E. 14th St., president of the Department of California, Blue Star Mothers of America, will leave Monday for Des Moines, Iowa, where she will attend the national executive board meeting of the organization.

She will join with Mrs. Richard Jonechat of Covina, national president, and Mrs. Waldo Uhl of Rosemead, national parliamentarian, for the trip.

The regular department meeting is slated at 10 a.m. Thursday in the YWCA Auditorium with Mrs. Thomas E. Sweeney, department first vice president, in charge.

A conference with classes of instruction for all chapter officers and chairmen will be program for the day with Mrs. David Wimberley of Alhambra as chairman, assisted by Mrs. James Farrington of Garden Grove.

All chapters are urged to participate. Luncheon hostesses will be Chapter Two of Huntington Beach and Chapter 24 of Ocean View.

Noble Husband Is Losing Wife

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

After 11 years and four wonderful kids, ages 4 through 10, two months ago the roof fell in on my marriage.

Because of my work, I'm on the road a good deal, but outside of a few quarrels my wife and I have had a better-than-average life. We both agree on that.

I must have sensed something a while back because I began to take her and the baby (he's a boy—the other three are girls) with me on trips and tried to spend more time at home.

My wife says she started looking a long time ago for someone she could really love, that she decided she couldn't love me. She said that because of the children, it had to be someone special.

Two months ago she told me all this. She also said she had found the right person, a local businessman about 15 years her senior. I was flabbergasted, but I owe her a lot (all I am or hope to be). I agreed to a good-sized settlement and gave her the kids—and then she wouldn't take the settlement.

I wondered, worried and thought a lot—enough to go on my own to the other man. That was pure hell, but four good kids were involved. The other man turned out to be quite a good guy. He had taken advantage of no one and only wanted to be friends to everybody concerned.

He advised me to bear with things and see if it wouldn't work out. Thank the Lord she picked him instead of some other men I know!

Well, we agreed to let it drift; that is, I was going to try to win back her regard and she would remain faithful. I just don't see what life I could have at 32 without my family. I would have nowhere to go and nothing to live for. What do you advise?—WONDERING AND WORRIED.

DEAR W. AND W.:

Doggone it anyway, why don't you quit being so courtly and gallant and self-sacrificing and start acting like a man? That's probably all your wife wanted you to do anyway.

It's pretty obvious you're hardly the dashing, romantic type. Not a word do you say about being in LOVE with your wife. You talk about what will happen to you and so on and so on. I think your wife just got tired of routine, of having to cope with four kiddies when you were out on the road, and decided to look around a bit.

But beyond that, she doesn't seem to have decided much of anything. She came to you, womanlike, and said she'd found another man.

Did you hit the roof and say you couldn't let her go and you'd fight for her? Not at all. You merely worked out the best settlement you could.

And, womanlike, having attained everything she'd asked for and more, your wife refused the settlement. Did you sweep her into your arms at this point and ask her to reconsider? Nope.

You went to see the OTHER man. Now if there had been any great romance, your wife would have jumped at the chance of a settlement and her children and life with a man she said she loved. But she scurried away from any such arrangement, once it became possible.

As for that nice OTHER man, he sounds like he had no idea things would ever reach such a pretty pass. He wants you to try again—hardly the impassioned cry of an ardent swain.

Your wife is bored and restless. But she won't leave you if you start telling her how much you need and love her—and quit being so all-fired noble. Learn how to live a little!

—M. M.

Concert at Art Center

Ancient music for violin and classical guitar will be featured at 4 p. m. today at Municipal Art Center in the ninth Chamber Music Concert of the Sunday afternoon series. Performing with Elisabeth Waldo, violin, will be Emmet Sargeant, cello; Natalie Limonick, piano, and Guy Garfield Horn, guitar.

Miss Waldo, director of the ensemble, was formerly one of the leading violinists in Stokowski's All American Youth Orchestra. Years of research and concertizing throughout Central and South America have resulted in her authoritative knowledge and interpretation of Latin America's beautiful melodies and exotic rhythms.

The concert is open to the public without charge. A reception will be held during the intermission, at which time Lois Critchfield, Ida Klump and Marie Thomas will serve as hostesses. The program will be broadcast over radio station KFOX-FM from 8 to 9 p. m. following the performance.

Carnation Club

Carnation Club will hostess a public card party Wednesday at the home of Margaret Topper, 5131 Linden Ave. Luncheon will be served at noon by the hostess and her assistants, Mmes. Phoebe Nicodemus and Mary Corrigan.

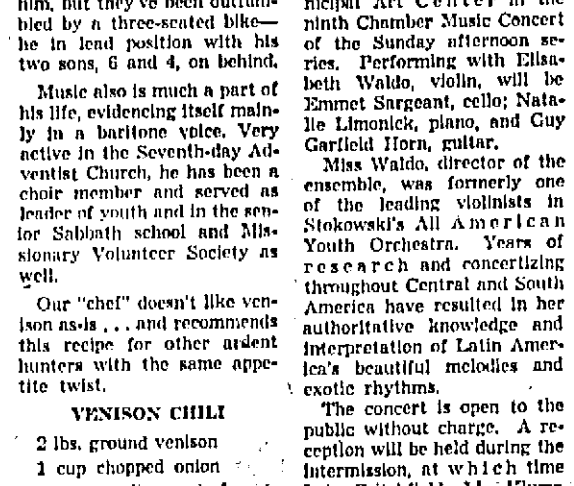

Unit to Meet

Carmelite Nuns Auxiliary will meet Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. in Catholic Center, 6th and Alamitos. The Rev. George O'Cram will speak. Mrs. Helen Shlemmer, Miss Ruth Bartron and Miss Alyce Ludwig of St. Anthony's parish will be hostesses.

Claretian Guild

The Claretian Guild will entertain at luncheon Wednesday noon at Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave., with Mrs. Victoreno Couture as chairman. The public is welcome.

Excitement Kindles Over Opulent League Ball

SWINGING GAIT of these Assistance Leaguers will resolve to swinging rhythm Saturday night when bandleader Harry James brings his orchestra to the League's benefit ball which officially opens the Lafayette Hotel grand ballroom. The noted bandleader's friends, from left, are Mmes. Frank Vessels Jr., ball chairman; Francis Heusel, League president, and James W. Wood.

ENVISIONING DECORATIONS in the huge ballroom from a sketch held by Dave Tallichet, Lafayette manager, are Mrs. Morris Holmquist, chairman, and Mrs. Thomas E. Noble, assistant chairman and head of West Long Beach Girls' Club building fund committee. Ball proceeds go to Girls' Club.—(Staff photos.)

Fashions Will Draw City's 'Younger Set'

Clothes and car styles may come and go, but women's interest never wavers, not even when tradition shatterers like Dior come along. True, most women are more fascinated with a change in wearing apparel than new auto lines, and with that knowledge securely in its smartly gloved hand, Ebell Juniors are making ready for a capacity crowd Friday noon in the Supper and Ballerina Rooms of Lafayette Hotel.

Guests will not only benefit from seeing firsthand the dictates of spring fashions, but will be warm with the knowledge that proceeds from their delightful afternoon will be put to worthy cause. All funds realized will be turned over to the Juniors' philanthropy, this year the Exceptional Children's Foundation of Long Beach.

Gathering for luncheon, the Juniors, one of the city's smartest appearing of the younger crowd, will find their tables decorated with modernistic interpretations of a mannequin figure draped with pastel chiffon scarves and tiny flowers. These will alternate with floral arrangements on other tables. Mrs. B. J. Buchanan is decorations chairman.

With Easter but a rabbit's hop away, the fashion accent will be on lilting new colors and styles. Sparkling commentary by Wilma Hastings will heighten the fashion picture presented

INVITATIONS in delicate script announcing the Assistance League and Rick Racker ball have been received by the socially prominent in the city. Last-minute check of names is being made by, from left, Mmes. Houston C. Fairley, chairman; Harold H. Morris, Girls' Club chairman, and Ethel Severson, Rick Racker.

Benefit for Girls' Club

By JEAN B. MOORE

On the pages of its impressive history, the Assistance League of Long Beach may write another memorable first when, along with its junior auxiliary, the Rick Rackers, it celebrates Saturday the grand opening of the ballroom of the Lafayette Hilton Hotel.

Heralded as one of the year's most auspicious social events in Long Beach, the ball promises to bring out a colorful and sparkling bouquet of new spring gowns as fashion conscious members dance in the arms of their escorts to Harry James and his Music Makers.

Dinner will be served the gay throng at 8:30 p.m., but prior to the dinner hour ball guests will congregate in both the Cavalier and Red Velvet Rooms of the hotel for cocktails or in the gracious homes of members.

Vying with the array of gowns will be the striking decorations planned by Mrs. Morris Holmquist and her committee. In vivid contrast to the wood and rock decor of the new ballroom will be flamboyant orange and gold birds of paradise, orange hued carnations and gold lemon leaves in exotic arrangements on the intimate circular dining tables.

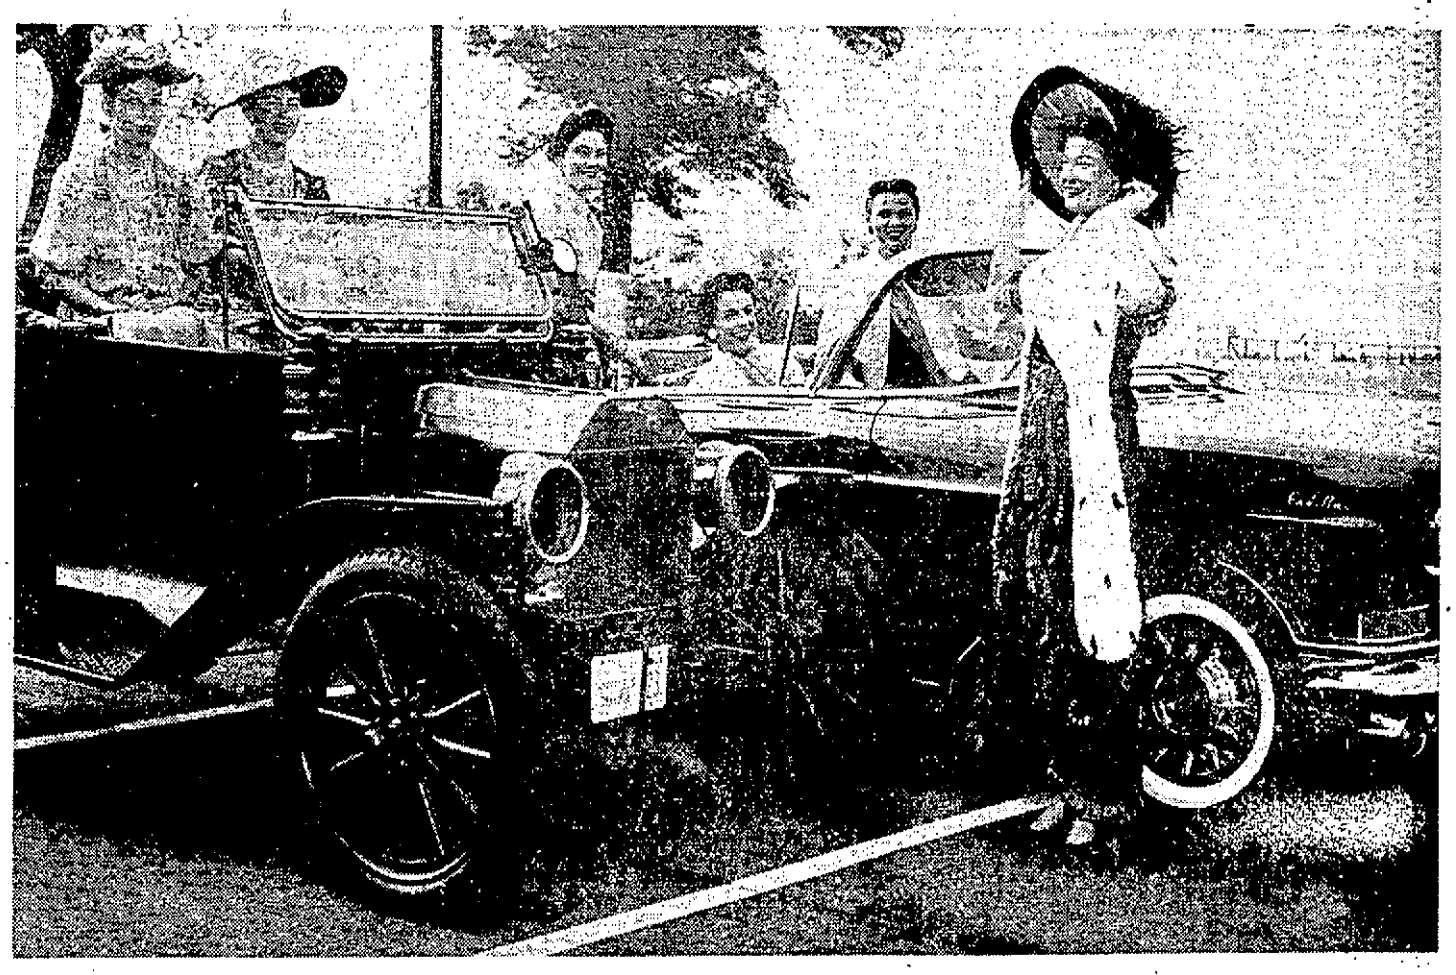

Then another shade and shape of gold—the trumpet of Harry James—takes the spotlight, and the ballroom, said to be the largest hotel

Ebell Juniors Clasp Hands With Spring

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

"GONE TO THE horses" is a new version of "gone to the dogs" in this town.

Most afflicted at the moment are members of St. Mary's Hospital Guild who are up to their withers, pardon us, SHOULDERS, in plans for their annual, ever fabulous "Day at the Races."

Scheduled for April 24 at Los Alamitos Race Track, the guildsters have lots of new ideas for this year's event including hi-fi music to soothe those who have lost their quarters on the quarter horses.

Jackie Oliver and Mary Louise Miller, co-chairmen of entertainment, are gathering records by the dozens to be played before Jimmy Whetmore and his bandsmen take over for dancing after dinner. They've collected everything from Elvis to Bach. Anybody got an old disc of "Crazy Over Horses"? Everybody will be in April!

IT'S GETTING SO you can't have any fun if you don't have a costume. Dress up shindigs are ricbochetting around the party calendar like 6-year-olds on pogo sticks.

"HEART'S DESIRE" was the theme of Alamitos Bay Garden Club's masquerade dinner dance last Saturday night at the Garden of Allah. President Elizabeth Robeson was fetching as a sort of feminine version of Dennis, the Menace; her husband, Ralph, proved his "heart's desire" is NOT to wear a costume, at all. He's a hold-out, Elizabeth says, and always goes dressed as a modern American business man. (Fooled you for a minute, about Ralph, didn't we!)

Prizes were awarded to Mary and Dr. Don Truitt, who came as frogmen. How they stood it for an entire evening only a frog could say!

Betty and Fred Tebbetts carted home second prize. They were dressed in horizontally striped pajamas. Whether they hoped to be prisoners of Morpheus or Biscailuz was never determined.

Tom White, the faker, came as a fakir, all spooky in turban, mahogany skin and beard. Lillian, a gal after our own heart, came as a lot of money. They toted off third prize.

Chairman Nancy Carroll was cute as a pixie, dead ringer for Tinkerbell, and husband, Jim, was a swashbuckling fresh air fiend—at least he wore a costume that featured an open shirt front!

INVITATIONS FOR an "Around the World" costume party were sent by Elizabeth and Gene Jones, who will be co-pilots of the fun flight on March 9 in their home, 5900 Bayshore Wk. Guests are to come in the native dress of the country they would most like to visit! Wow! What a temptation for the uninhibited!

"Take-off" time is 7 p. m. and VIP's aboard will be Comdr. Jim and Coralea Vellis, guests of honor, who have been reassigned to Navy duty in Long Beach after an absence of nine years.

"WHO NEEDS a plane"? say Betty Bixby and Ellie Person, who are floating around three feet off the ground in anticipation of their flying trip to Mexico City and Central America. "We do" say husbands "Bix" and Frank who, with the aid of an aircraft, will be airborne with their wives on March 14.

WHEN PEOPLE start acting like penguins in April that will be the signal for several hundred youngsters to become theater fans. Penguin people will appear in "Mr. Popper's Penguins," a comedy Children's Theater produced with such great success last fall they've decided to do it again; first repeat show in the group's history. Sybil Reed and Gladys Niver will again play the Poppers.

LAUGHTER EDDIED around Beth and Kelly Williams' house last Sunday, coating everything with merriment when Vada and Johnny Webb showed colored slides of their several weeks motoring trip through Mexico.

Why so funny? It wasn't the pictures—they're beautiful—but Johnny's running patter in explanation of the film that triggered giggles. Dinner guests with the Webbs were Peg and Julian Davis and Maryann and Bill McGrath.

BACK ON Long Beach's terra firma are Margaret and Dick Kimball who have been trying out New York's terra and report it's just as firma as ours. They returned Monday from 10 days at the national convention of club managers.

TRAVELING together everywhere these days in merry mother-daughter combination are Jane Teasley and her visiting mater, Mrs. Evelyn Hurst, of Madison, Wis. When they aren't sightseeing and shopping together (Disneyland this weekend; Farmer's Market next), they're having luncheon with friends like they'll be doing Tuesday at the Leilani in company with Georgia McCord and Ann Bowler.

NOW WE'RE BACK to costume parties, again! With the arrival of Laura Killingsworth and Betty Arntzen at Symphony Juniors' colorful Mardi Gras ball at the Lafayette Hotel last night, everyone else had to pancake themselves against the walls! Welll, maybe it wasn't that bad. But ALMOST!

Here's how it was. Laura was gowned in one of the tremendously full skirted costumes she wore in "Song of Norway" and Betty wore another from the Singers' workshop production. Wherever the two behooped, be-yarded gals went there just wasn't much space left.

PRECEDING the party (which ended with a swish champagne breakfast at midnight) Laura and Ed hosted one of the many preball cocktail parties.

'The Previewers' to Be Tres Gala

As Ed Sullivan would say, something "rilly, rilly neeyou" is forming in Long Beach. It's "The Previewers."

To be composed of a group of theater fans, all members will attend opening nights at Long Beach Community Playhouse (as frequently as possible), always dressed formally.

Socialites are greeting the idea of tres gala opening nights with enthusiasm according to Florence (Mrs. Orville) Cole. "The Previewers" will preview (and themselves be previewed!) for the first time on March 8, opening of the player's next, "A Man Called Peter."

Among those who will be there in "black tie and evening dress" that night are Burton and Polly Chace, Vada and Don Spring, Madeleine and Milton Roberts, the H. O. Foxes and W. J. Schinnerers, Dorothy and Dr. Paul Southgate, the Howard Conrads, Ruth and Guy Balser, Pat and Dr. Walter Gilkey, the Joseph Kelloggs, the O. L. Dahls and Barbara and Norb Dean.

SINGERS TO ENTERTAIN AT GOP MEETING

Musical selections from light opera will be presented by members of Singers' Workshop at the 1 p. m. Wednesday meeting of 18th Congressional District Republican Women, Federated in Woman's City Club. Discussing program plans are, from left, Jacqueline McFadden, soprano; Henri Scanlon, founder and director of the Workshop; Mrs. Glenn B. Scott and Mrs. John Messerschmitt of 18th District and Bette Arntzen, prima donna in the forthcoming "The Desert Song" production. The business session will be followed by a reciprocity tea honoring members of Presidents Club.—(Staff photo.)

Heartwells Return From Honeymoon

A wedding of special interest to their many friends in the Southland is that of Erlene S. Davis and James C. Heartwell. They exchanged marriage vows and rings Feb. 10 in St. Francis Chapel, Mission Inn, Riverside, in a private ceremony attended only by Mrs. Kathleen Mumma and Paul Murray.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Steuber of 955 E. Fourth St., chose to wear a wool suit in powder blue with matching stole trimmed in blue fox. She is a member of Long Beach Quota Club.

Heartwell, a graduate of Polytechnic High School and Oregon State College, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Heartwell, 341 Carroll Park West. He is assistant vice president of Farmers and Merchants Bank. His college fraternity is Theta Chi.

After a wedding trip to Palm Springs, they are now residing at 93 Corinthian Walk.

WEDDING PLANS

Ann C. Petre, a student at St. Vincent's College of Nursing, Los Angeles, will wed Richard M. Trippe in the winter, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Bolinger, 4838 Sunfield Ave., have announced. She is a graduate of Wilson High School. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Trippe, 403 Plenty St., is a graduate of Jordan High School.

Will Toast Traveling McKenzies

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman A. McKenzie Jr. of 600 Havana Ave. have bidden 75 guests to a cocktail party Monday aboard the President Wilson, when they embark on an extended trip to the Orient.

The Imperial Hotel in Tokyo will be the couple's headquarters while visiting the shrines, temples and gardens. They will tour to Kamakura and Miyanoshita, continuing along the seacoast to the famous Fujiya Hotel spa at Hakone National Park.

Several days will be spent at the beautiful mountain resort of Kyoto before flying to Hong Kong, Kowloon and Macau and Bangkok. A cruise is planned for Bankok, along the Menam River, affording views of native life in floating houses and royal ceremonial barges, where Buddhist priests make daily calls.

They will make flying stops in Singapore and Djakarta, Den Pasar and Bali. Their stay in Bali will be filled with excursions to the Elephant Caves, Royal Tombs, Rock Monastery and Batur Volcano and sacred bathing springs.

Boarding the Royal Interocean liner, they will sail to the Philippine Islands, where they will visit in Manila and Hong Kong. The cherry blossoms will be in full bloom in May when they leave Tokyo for three weeks in Honolulu, at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

Friends of the McKenzies will occupy their home until their return in June.

Satellite Club

Satellite Social Club of Palos Verdes Chapter 310, Order of Eastern Star, will meet for a noon covered dish luncheon Tuesday at Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave., with Marie Fischer as chairman of the dining room. Beulah Broadwell will preside at the business session.

Engagement Announced

A surprise engagement party honoring Ellen Fulsang of Anaheim and Jim Belk of North Long Beach was arranged by Misses Darlene Russell, Marianne Lies, Mickey Carter and Better Craver in the latter's home, 146 W. Louise St.

An appropriate heart theme was effectively portrayed in red and white appointments, and a towering white cake was inscribed in red with the names of the betrothed pair. The couple will be married in September.

Guests included Annette Laberge, Rose Mary and Ralph Zigeler, Lowell Foglesong, Bob Wonder, Bill Miles, Kenny Smith, Louie Eyanson, Mike Demuth and Pres Welch.

DUV Meeting

Anna Etheridge Tent No. 58, Daughters of Union Veterans, will meet Monday afternoon at 12:30 in Veterans Memorial Building.

NLB Juniors Will Spin Guests 'Round the World

With an imaginative and unusual program North Long Beach Junior Women's Club will take members of North Long Beach Women's Club on a globe trotting tour at 1 p. m. March 6 in Houghton Park Club House.

Program chairman Athene Johnson will enact the role of stewardess, inviting guests to sit back, relax and fasten their safety belts as she guides them on an imaginary trip by plane to fascinating places.

First stop in the Ozarks will include a visit to Mammy and Pappy Yokum (Betty Humrich and Dolores Libbrecht) via pantomime. At the London Paladium Dorothy Negri will sing "I Could Have Danced All Night" at a command performance.

Costumed in old-fashioned bathing suits, eight members will do a lively routine during a visit to the seashore of the Caribbean.

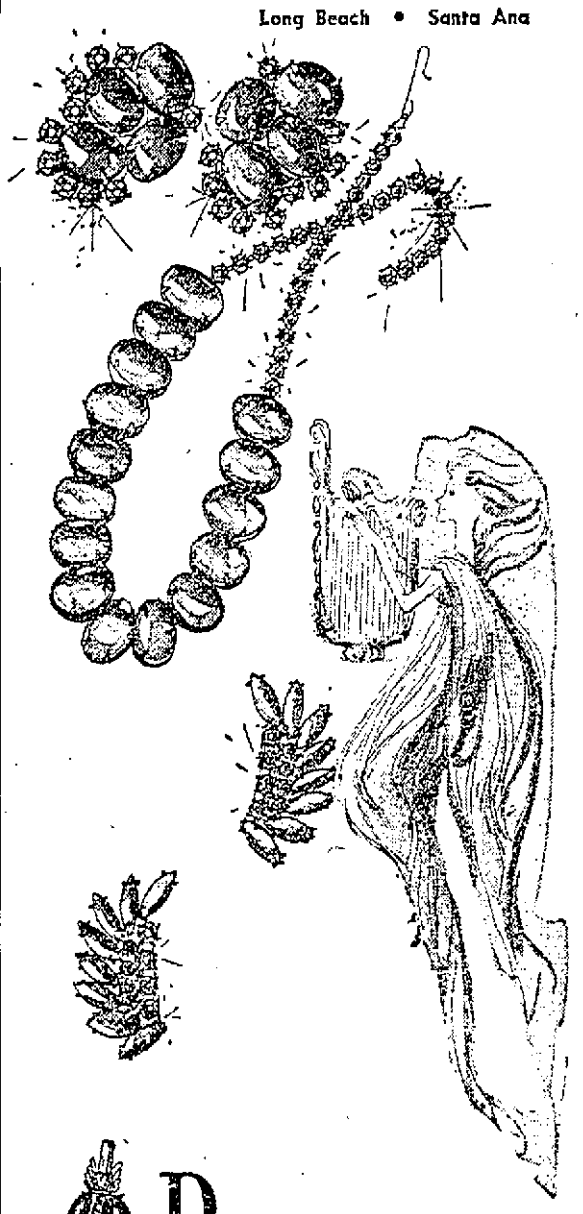

At a stop in Paris, models will show latest Christian Dior designs and in Arabia dancing girls will perform before the King's harem.

Alighting briefly in Hawaii, the travelers will watch hula dancers at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, then will hasten to San Francisco. At Alcatraz prison members of a chain gang, thinly disguised Junior Gavelcers, will recall the days when they were president of the Junior Women's Club.

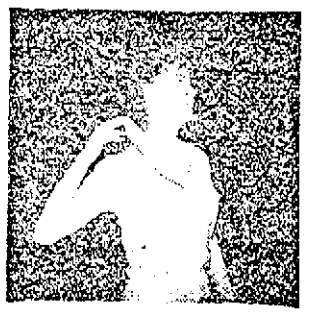

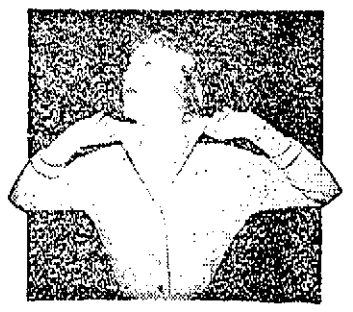

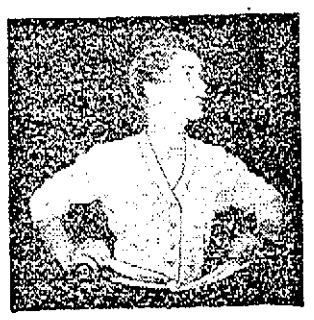

Back on home ground, the globe trotters will see the Miss Universe pageant, delightfully different with infant daughters of members competing for the 1975 title. The city's claim for "the town of conventions" will be verified by a visit to the Square Dance Convention, with dancers demonstrating the gay routines.

Holiday Ends, Alas!

By ILKA CHASE

Lovely Palm Beach holiday has ended. Now savoring in memory actualities of last few days.

Savoring large cocktail party of host, Stanton Griffis who, averse to words cocktail party, sends out invitations asking people in for tea and sympathy. Party given in loggia and garden around salt water swimming pool. Names at same make me feel like social gossip columnist—Isabelle Dodge Sloan, Charles Munn, Mrs. James Donahue, the Edward Huttons, Mrs. Latham Reed, the Seaton Lindsays, the John Perrys, plus sprinkling of home folk.

Dorothy and Lillian Gish just finished playing The Chalk Garden staying on for week's holiday. Ogden Nash in and after his lecture. Gladys Swarthout, Frank Chapman and Alajalov, creator of countless covers for the New Yorker and Saturday Evening Post. Ala now painting good portraits and most sought-after bachelor in Palm Beach.

Dwell fondly on luncheon at Paulding Fosdick's. Caviar with cocktails, stone crab as entree. Certainly enjoy simple straightforward food of the rich. Like Winston Churchill, am easily pleased with best of everything.

Stone Crabs

Stone crabs for dinner twice in home of host. Luncheon party one day with charming woman who owns loveliest beach house here. Eight guests. Many handsome ceramic cats and birds also present. Many airplanes flying overhead. Setting more de luxe, but noise reminiscent of Third Avenue trains in New York before old El was torn down. Conversation ceases. Gentleman guest says noise fault of Roosevelt and Hopkins. Says Roosevelt and Hopkins deliberately plotted airplane routes to annoy Palm Beach residents. Stone crab for lunch. Never thought day would come when would have enough stone crab. Day has come.

Promote fishing trip on Griffis yacht. Griffis no fool, stays home. Ocean like roller coaster. Take off unwittingly in company of Mrs. Donner Hanson, her son Bill Roosevelt and charming girl, Jean Daley. Roosevelt and Miss Daley notable in Palm Beach. Roosevelt and Miss Daley young. Most inhabitants filled with cordiality, but reasonably close to end of trail. Consider asking young Bill if his grandfather plotted against Palm Beach residents in matter of airplanes. Conclude he's had enough jokes of that kind. Refrain.

No Stone Crabs

Ocean gets rougher and rougher. Young people fishing from rear deck happy as larks. No stomachs. Mrs. Hanson and I look at each other. Boat not only pitches, lurches and rolls, it also spins. Give anguished cry. "Captain, oh my captain." Captain grunts, "Fishing probably won't be much anyway." We head for inlet and glassy water. Captain, broth of a boy.

Proceeding down calm inland waterway pass community in the building. Being erected by upholsterer's union. Vacation center and home for retired. Rents start at fifty a month for one-bedroom house. Seems nice, but think it would eventually pall, meeting only people in one's own profession. Actors and writers divine, but turn green at thought of never seeing anyone else.

In role of non-card player between lunching and dining have done good deal of reading. High time. Read biography of Queen Alexandra, read Compulsion and Peyton Place. Read To See the Dream as antidote. Charming book by Jessamyn West, her journal and account of making her picture Friendly Persuasion in Hollywood.

One afternoon took a walk. Was stared at by passers-by in cars. Evidently pedestrian as odd a sight in Palm Beach as in Beverly Hills.

Stone Crabs, Stone Crabs

Invited to large dinner party by a lady in some confusion as to whom and what I am. She calls up. Ireland, the butler takes message. Hear my name mentioned. When he comes from telephone ask what it was. "She wanted to know, Madam, do you do card tricks or sing?"

"Good heavens, Ireland, what did you say?"

"I divulged nothing, Madam." Perfect Ireland.

Felt badly about lack of prowess in entertainment field, but went to party anyway. Very gay. Delicious food. Stone crab. Also Count and Countess Reventlow. "The one who used to be married to Barbara Hutton?" "The one." Handsome bloke, too.

Sunday luncheon with Mary and Laddie Sanford. Cold roast beef, dozens of salads, stone crab.

Sanfords old friends. Mary and I once in play together with Tallulah, "Forsaking All Others." Mary forsook us in Wilmington before New York opening to go back to Hollywood. She was Mary Duncan then—large-type picture star.

Another large type was expected for luncheon, Miss Anita Eckberg and her husband, Anthony Steele. By four o'clock they had not shown up.

Back in work-a-day world, I'll miss all this.

The Bureau of Many Names

By Harry Karns

A DIGNIFIED, bespectacled man in a blue-dress uniform similar to that worn by naval officers stepped onto the elevator in the Federal Building in Los Angeles.

An elderly woman looked at the triangular insignia on his coat cuff.

"Aren't you an officer in the U. S. Coast Guard and Geographical Review?" she asked.

He smiled resignedly. After 30 years, Cmdr. Roswell C. Bolstad has grown accustomed to being mistaken for almost everything but what he is—an officer of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. No, that has nothing to do with the National Geographic Magazine.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey, a commissioned service of the U. S. government, is now celebrating its 150th year of operation. Cmdr. Bolstad, 53, has charge of the Survey's local district—Southern California, the southern portion of Nevada, and all of Arizona. Though little publicized, the Survey's activities constantly touch your life and your security.

THE ACCURATE location of your back fence depends upon the Survey's needle-sharp calculations, as does the precise location of rocket-launching sites.

Highway engineers tie their planning to the bureau's survey markings.

Clam hunters and skin divers frequently time their activities by consulting the Survey's tidal information.

Planners of earth satellites and missions to outer space orient themselves at the Survey.

IN THE PACIFIC, the Survey maintains a sea wave warning system. It was this network that warned the Hawaiian Islands in 1952 of a submarine earthquake whose tidal wave otherwise would have taken a tragic toll of lives.

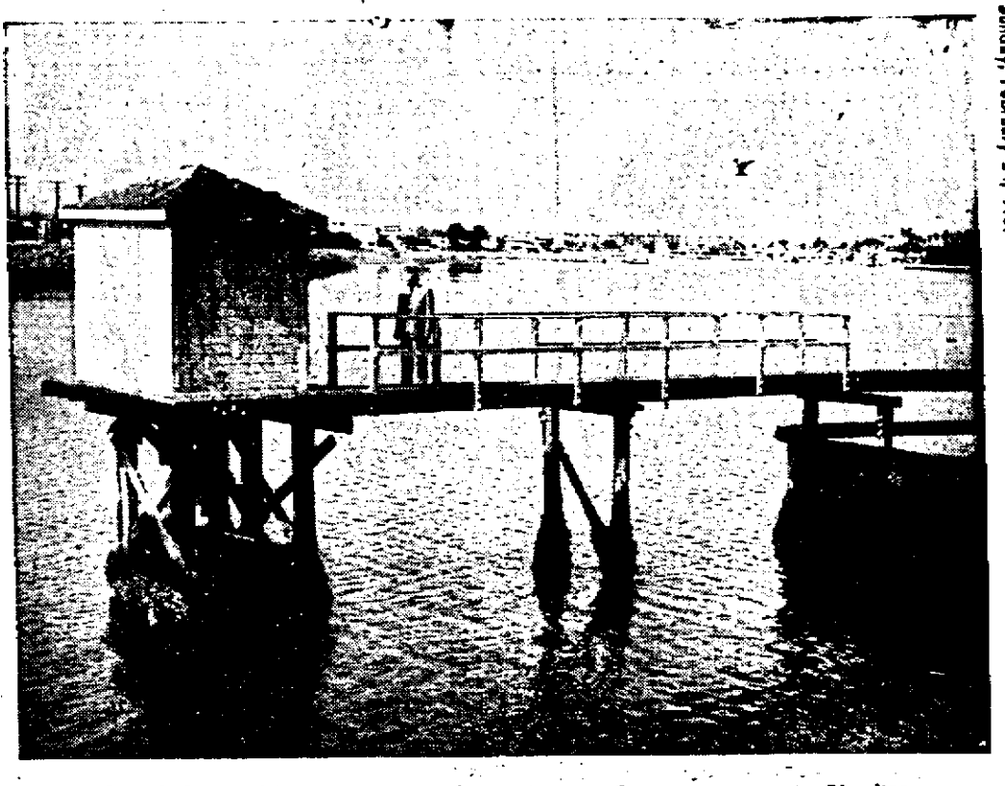

Fishermen and shipowners sailing to and from Long Beach landings read the Survey's tide tables as avidly as some folk read novels banned in Boston. The information they get from these tables can mean the difference between bon voyage and disaster. Southern California stations, funneling their data to the central tide gauge station in Los Angeles' outer harbor, help the Survey tell the tide story a year in advance.

The problem of earth subsidence has cost millions of dollars in this community. A special tide gauge, operated by the Survey for a time at Terminal Island, has taken readings which may some day play a part in solving that.

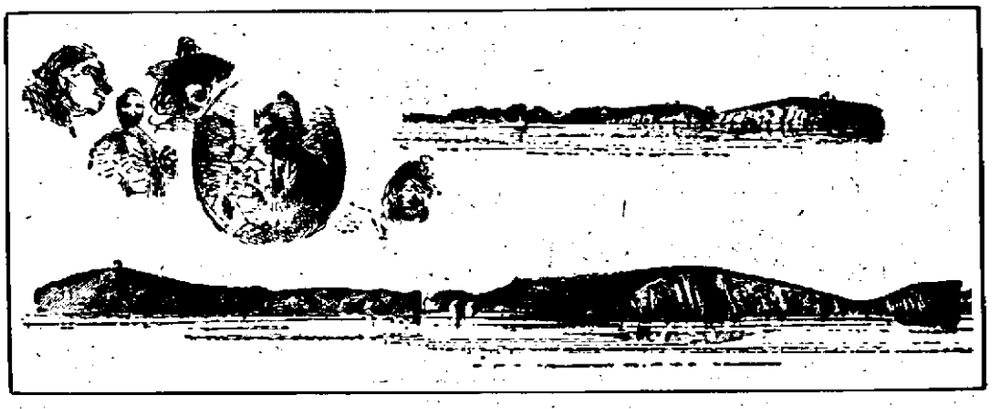

THE COAST and Geodetic Survey is, by way of contrast with some federal bureaus, a service which the general public hears little about but which would be sorely missed if it weren't there.

Back in 1807, Congress wanted to determine for

On this lonely little pier behind locked gate near the sea entrance to Alamitos Bay, U. S. Coast & Geodetic Survey keeps instruments to record tides, subsidence.

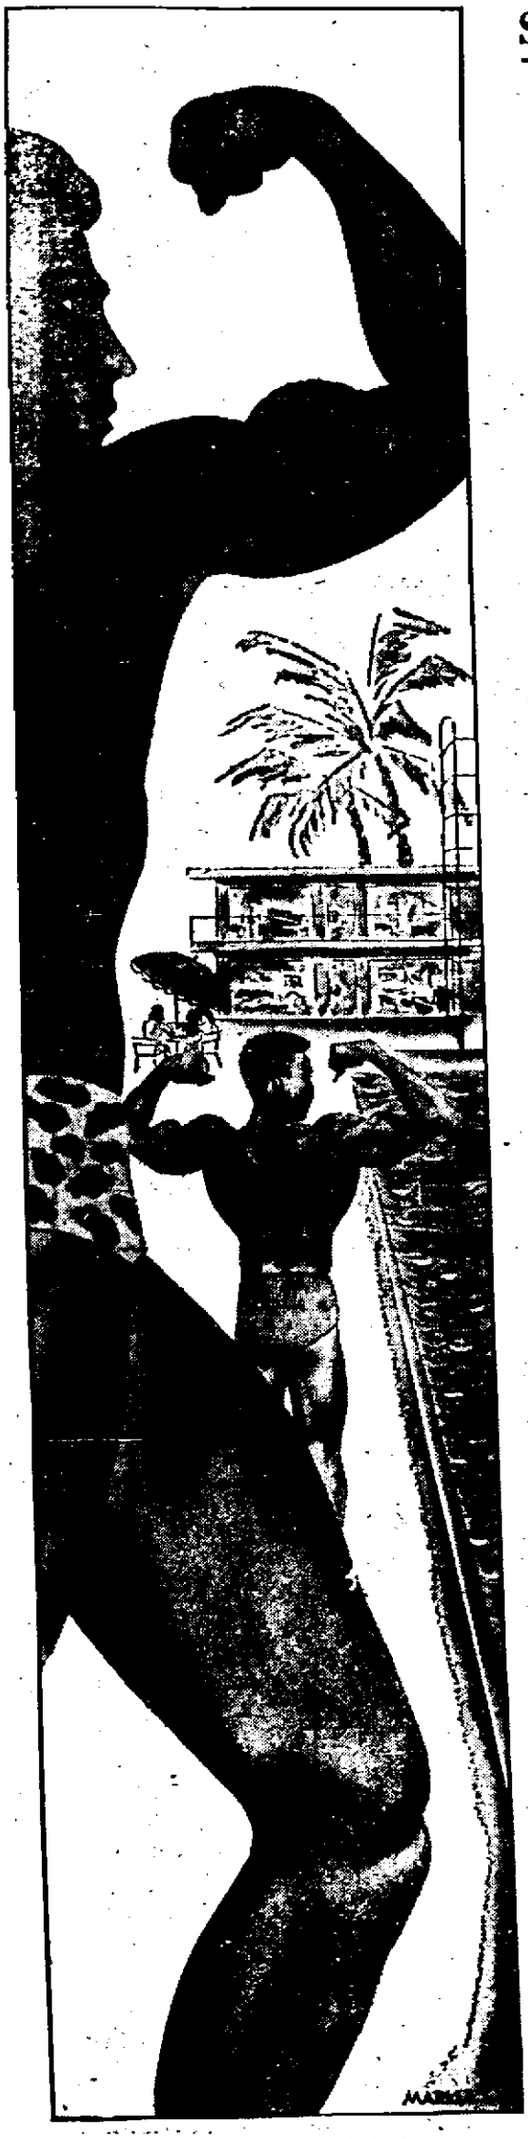

At the beginning of his brief employment in the Survey, James McNeill Whistler, famous artist, did bit of doodling on the side in preparing the above sketches.

Roy M. Sylar, Survey's L. A. district supervisor cartographer, adjusts marker on Alamitos Bay tide gauge. Record on roll goes to Washington monthly for studies.

Automatic tide gauge replaces long stick used for 2,000 years in measuring tides.

The contestants paraded about the pool, flexed their muscles, got red in the face doing it.

Contest Editor

Dear Sir:

It was kind of you to award me second prize in your contest, "Two Glorious Weeks in Sunny Long Beach, Calif." But as you can see, that's where I live, so you may as well give the trip to someone else. I wanted so badly to win the first prize—the Mediterranean cruise, especially since Joan (she's my best friend) got married. She and I were the only single girls left in our crowd. Now I am the only one. Believe me it is frightening to be so old (19) and no nearer marriage than I was two years ago when Bill and I first met.

You see, Bill works for a wedding photographer. I guess taking pictures of weddings all day makes him shy away from talking shop after hours. Anyway I just can't get him to propose. But I thought if I won the cruise for two, it would be the most natural thing in the world for us to make it a honeymoon. Wouldn't you know I'd win a vacation right in the town where I was born! Just the same, thank you very much.

Sincerely,
(MISS) EMMALINE JONES.

Gentlemen:

Please disregard the letter I posted this morning. I've changed my mind.

When Bill came by tonight I decided to make one last stand for matrimony. I showed him your telegram about the contest and tried to be very casual. "Isn't that a joke? A vacation right at home? But don't you hope some nice couple used the Mediterranean cruise for a honeymoon? Wouldn't it be romantic?"

For a moment I thought Bill was going to pop the question. Then his mouth became grim. "Uh-huh," he mumbled and glanced over at a newspaper on the divan. "Well! The Mr. Biceps annual contest is going to be held here."

"What's that?" I asked, not really caring.

"Every year Biceps Magazine has a contest to pick the most muscular specimen in the country. Lots of brawn and little brains," he said with a bit of sarcasm. Bill is touchy over being six-foot-two and hungry looking. "That gives me an idea," he mused.

Well, I could see that he was more interested in muscles than in honeymoons, so I gave up. I said I had a headache and sent him home.

After he was gone I looked at myself in the mirror. Really I'm still not so bad looking, red gold hair, a nice tan, and a pretty good figure considering my age. Life, I thought, is slipping by. Soon I will be an old maid—just someone to baby sit with my friends' children. It was then that I decided to have one last fling, even if it was right at home. So please send me the details about the vacation I won.

Sincerely,
EMMALINE JONES.

Gentlemen:

I registered at Rock-a-Way Hotel just like you said. According to the rules I was to arrive by air, but I only live four blocks from the hotel, so I walked. I have a lovely room overlooking the pool. My goodness there are a lot of handsome men here. It seems this is the headquarters for the Mr. Biceps contestants. I have just returned from a swim and am getting ready to go to dinner with one of them, a Mr. Gregory Lovejoy. He is nice but seems a little tense from continually flexing his muscles. When we first met he looked me over appreciatively and asked what sort of exercises I took. He was horrified when I told him I hated exercise.

I am thankful that I accepted the vacation. It's funny how you can have a good time even with a broken heart.

Sincerely,
EMMALINE JONES.

P. S.: Bill doesn't know where I am. Mother told him I was called out of town.

Gentlemen:

This is to explain some items that you may wonder about when you get the bill for this vacation. Greg has been taking me to dinner every night, so you won't be charged for that, but you may question all the snacks I have sent to my room. Greg believes in carrots, yoghurt, and blackstrap molasses and says if I follow his diet and exercises I can be Miss Universe next year. After that, he says, he'd like to make me Mrs. Lovejoy. Greg is so nice, but you've no idea how hard it is to get romantic on an empty stomach.

Anyway, I hope you don't mind being billed for a few chiliburgers and banana splits that I'm eating in the privacy of my room.

Sincerely,
EMMALINE JONES.

Gentlemen:

I'm afraid the hotel bill is going to be hard to figure out what with us moving into the bridal suite and all those fancy dinners. You figure out what we owe and send us a bill.

The wedding was so sudden. The day of the Mr. Biceps contest, Greg got me a seat at the judges' table and I was asked to present the cup to the winner.

The contestants paraded about the pool, flexed their muscles and got red in the face doing it. Photographers were taking pictures and it was exciting except for the fact that I had had nothing but yoghurt and pinon nuts for lunch and could hardly totter about.

Right in the middle of a reverie about pork chops and yams, a judge motioned for me to award the cup. And guess who the winner was? Greg. After I presented it to him, he put his arm about me. "I'm a lucky guy," he announced. "I have not only won the Mr. Biceps title, but my future wife here is certain to be Miss Universe next year."

I was too surprised to say anything. But there was a crash as someone dropped a camera, and there was Bill—very red in the face.

"What do you mean?" he snarled. "She's my girl. She's marrying me."

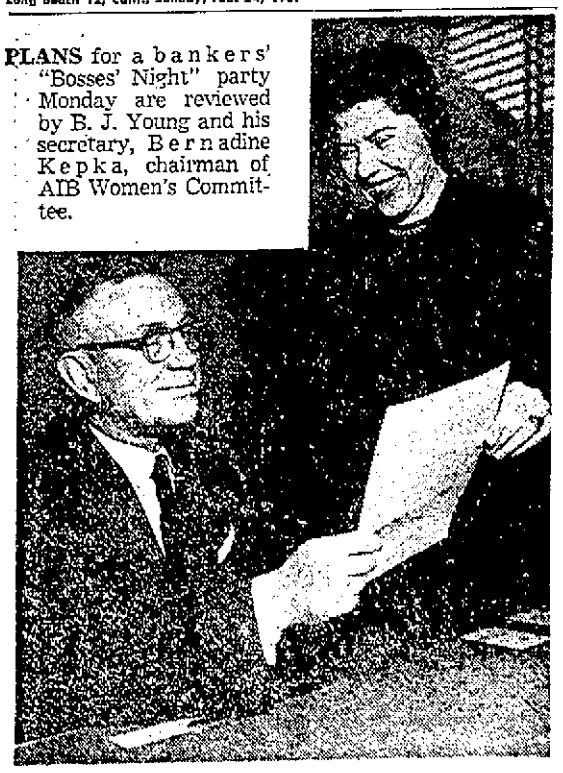

Greg looked him over. "And why would she want a puny thing like you?"

"Because she loves me," shouted Bill. "And don't think for one minute I'd be taking pictures of you muscle-bound gorillas if I didn't want the extra money for a honeymoon cruise." With that he gave Greg a little push which sent him sputtering and yelling into the pool.

"Bill," I breathed. "I don't care about a cruise. I just want to get married."

"Sure," Bill said. "But wait till I pull that guy out. He can't even swim."

Sincerely,
(MRS.) WILLIAM GATES.

PLANS for a bankers' "Bosses' Night" party Monday are reviewed by B. J. Young and his secretary, Bernadine Kepka, chairman of AIB Women's Committee.

AIB Women Plan First Bankers 'Bosses Night'

For the first time in its history the Women's Committee, Harbor District Chapter, American Institute of Banking, will entertain at a "Bosses Night" party and dinner meeting to take place Monday night in the Red Velvet Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Women of the 61 banks which comprise the harbor area district of AIB have planned an informal, humorous program to introduce their bank executive bosses to the work of the Women's Committee. The program will be supplemented by brief reports of past accomplishments and future plans.

G. Bernadine Kepka, women's chairman, will conduct the meeting. Seated with her at the head table will be her executive, B. J. Young, vice president and manager of the Bank of America, American Ave. Branch.

Ruth Spence, California Bank of San Pedro, vice chairman, has arranged the program which will be highlighted by a skit, "Are These Our Bosses," written by Ray Stocks of the Farmers and Merchants Bank. Cast members include Jan Martin (California Bank, Long Beach) as the secretary; Robert D. Carter (Security First National, 4th and Cherry) as the boss; and Miss Spence as narrator.

The music, too, will be provided by AIB members who call themselves the "Bankers Quartet," a group composed of Wanda Beaudette, Joy Decker (both with Bank of America, Viking Way Branch), Vivian Howell (Norwalk Commercial & Savings) and Katherine McKnight (Artesia Security First National).

Secretaries, BPW Club Report Dinner Meetings

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Although Valentine's Day was over, the memory lingered on for Executives' Secretaries at their February dinner meeting last Monday at the Petroleum Club. Loath to let the romantic holiday go by without recognition, they turned the dinner tables into a veritable "lover's lane" with cupids, heartshaped name tags, festoons of red crepe paper and flowers.

And perhaps the heart motif had more meaning than just observance of a February date. On this night the secretaries made their scholarship award, given with sincere consideration for the educational welfare of a promising student. Recipient was Marjorie Parker who is majoring in business education at Long Beach City College. Judith Soto was present to receive a matching scholarship donated through Executives' Secretaries by Mayor George Vermillion. Judith is also enrolled at City College.

Special guests of the evening were Virginia Glass, vice president of the Phoenix, Ariz. chapter of E/S, among newest to join the association, and Marion Darlington, counselor at LBCC, who assisted with selection of the scholarship honorees.

Agnes Herbst, president, conducted the business meeting.

Margaret Ives

Accomplishments of the United Nations in Asia were explained by Elsie Farris, Long Beach attorney, to members of Margaret Ives Business and Professional Women's Club when she appeared as guest speaker at the monthly dinner meeting at the Lafayette Hotel last Monday.

Miss Farris, an extensive world traveller, brought interesting eye witness reports, not only of UN activities in the Far East, but of native customs and conditions.

During business discussion members were reminded of the Harbor District breakfast meeting to take place March 24 at Masonic Temple, Torrance, and of the annual district meeting at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel, Pasadena, April 6-7.

Plan 'Hobo Hop' for NLB Juniors

As their last fund-raising project of the year, members of North Long Beach Junior Women's Club will meet for their gala "Hobo Hop" Saturday evening at 9 in Legion Hall, 59th and Orange Ave. Dancing will be enjoyed to the music of Globe Masters Orchestra.

Special "secret" dances have been planned by the committee, and prizes will be given for the best costumed couple.

The Teen-Age Girl:

Crowd, Home Tear Loyalties

(Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series of articles based on a survey of 500 high school girls in a typical American community. The articles are based on a questionnaire containing 78 queries and the 93 pages of statistics it produced. The tabulation of the answers took six months. The result is a detailed picture of the mind and heart of America's typical teen-ager.)

By PATTY JOHNSON
and BEVERLY PAULSON
Women's News Service

The hearts of 500 teen-age girls surveyed in the typical American community of Waterloo, Iowa, were unlocked by their answers to two questions:

"What is your biggest problem?"

"Whom do you consider your ideal?

There were 78 questions in six pages to be answered by each girl who voluntarily participated in the survey made by the Waterloo Courier. Many of the replies gave clues to the world of teen-agers in a new and revealing way.

But the words set down by the teen-ager as she tells the deep-rooted things that gnaw at her mind—and as she confides to the world her private hero—show her as she really is.

This article will deal with the first. A subsequent article will discuss a teen's ideals.

And never, as you read and learn, never underestimate her. For the American girl between 15 and 18 doesn't wrap herself in dreams of Elvis Presley and stolen cigarettes.

The specter that haunts her is her own future. More than 25 per cent of the girls who revealed their problems disclosed that the giant ghost of tomorrow lurks in the ambush of today.

"I wonder whether to quit school or not."

These are the words of one. What happened? It's not her grades. At least, she isn't worried about them. She gets "a lickin' sometimes" at home. She goes steady and she worries about her appearance and the mysteries of sex, but there is no real maladjustment. What brought her to this?

One hundred forty-three of the 500 wrote words that clearly indicated their concern or confusion about the future. Next in order, but far down the list, were dating problems, family, money and marriage — the last one applying only to the 17 and 18-year-olds. Among the two younger groups, the replacement was dating.

Many of the teen-agers set down the problem of college or job, the need for money for their educations, the dream of becoming a model, their secret and unfilled admiration for a boy they cannot reach, the awful anguish of wanting to conform, to be pretty instead of fat, to overcome the handicap of facial hair, to have (oh, wonderful delight) a date.

And this is 1957. Sex and marriage are no longer the special concern of girls beyond high school. In today's world they have penetrated the life of the adolescent. Should I go steady? How far should we go when we kiss? Should I marry my boy friend in service? Can I go steady with two boys? I love a boy of a different faith.

In the tabulated statistics made on the basis of the entire survey, there's almost no way to catalogue these things. It's a little like putting a row of numbers across a heartbeat.

No, never underestimate a teen-ager. Too young to have learned wisdom, she is too old these days to avoid adult relationships. And never be deceived by her facade of frivolity and fads. In a way, it's a covering for the naked wonder in her eyes.

What worries her most?

She worries most of all about what other teen-agers think of her. Almost half the 500 put that first on the list. Other worries in order were: 2. Future; 3. Appearance; 4. Grades; 5. Money; 6. What adults think of me; 7. Popularity; 8. Dates; 9. Sex and morals.

Several of the girls added their own choices and many of those concerned worries about those nearest and dearest, their own families.

A further clue to the attitude of the 500 toward themselves as mirrored in the eyes of others came with another question:

Would you rather have girls, boys, your parents or other adults think highly of you?

It's not an easy question, especially for a teen whose loyalties are divided between the crowd and her home. This is what the Waterloo teen-agers say:

"We'd rather have our parents think highly of us than anyone else." It held true in every single age group.

Our 500 teen-agers value mother's opinion more than any other in the world. Other choices were my girl friend's opinion, and what my boy friend says.

The 500 were also asked how they pick their girl and boy friends. Judge by these answers:

1. I choose a girl friend on the basis of her personality.
2. It's her reputation that makes me decide.
3. It's what she looks like.
4. It's her family background.

The total is far more than 500, largely because so many of the girls gave the two answers which seemed to them to belong together: Personality and reputation. Not money, not clothes, but how she "wears" in disposition and friendship and what her standards are.

Some girls stuck in other additions like sincerity and ability to keep secrets, honesty and intelligence.

Almost the same balance held true for boy friends with personality, reputation, appearance and family background listed in that order.

And the girls added even more categories, including religion, consideration, understanding, manners and moral standards.

These choices, these standards might well have been those of a mature woman experienced in the ways of the world.

That they echo the 500 voices of girls, many of them only 15, is a real credit to teen-agers.

(Next: Teen's attitude toward friends in trouble.)

The Coiffure Must Fit the Face

Blonde Barbara Kite looks very sophisticated wearing the Bouffant style—soft, casual and flattering.

HAIR STYLING and design is more than curling, waving and combing. The basic principles used by the modern hair stylist are an understanding of proportion, balance, emphasis, rhythm, harmony and color.

The hairdresser strives to suit the individual needs of a patron according to the mass outline of the face, and these techniques will be demonstrated today and Monday at the new grand ballroom of Lafayette Hotel when the Long Beach Hairdressers Guild holds its annual Beauty and Trade Show. Milady is invited to watch hairdressers compete in styling demonstrations in which their many modern techniques will be explained (sessions begin at noon each day).

THEY WILL DEMONSTRATE, for instance, that the style they adopt for a particular patron is determined by the length of face which is divided into three proportions: the distance from the tip of the chin to the tip of the nose, the tip of the nose to the inner arch of the eyebrow, and from the inner arch of the eyebrow to the hairline. If any one of these three proportions is too long or too short in comparison with the others, the stylist then strives

WHO'LL WIN ACADEMY AWARDS MARCH 27?

The Oscar Derby Is On Again

Ernest Borgnine's performance of "Marty" was superb, and so was that of Walter Seltzer, right, public relations man who put Borgnine and film in Oscar class.

By James Bacon

Associated Press Writer

TAKE New Orleans' Mardi Gras, the Lincoln-Douglas debates and a Greco-Roman wrestling match. Wrap them up in one big package and you have a reasonable facsimile of what's going on these days in Hollywood.

For on us now is the dizzy carnival of Oscar. It will last until March 27, when the winners go happily home with little gold statuettes which cost about $100 but can be worth millions.

(Best actress nominations, made last week: Ingrid Bergman, in "Anastasia;" Carroll Baker, "Baby Doll;" Katherine Hepburn, "The Rainmaker;" Nancy Kelly, "The Bad Seed," and Deborah Kerr, "The King and I."

(Nominees for best actor performance: Yul Brynner, "The King and I;" the late James Dean, "Giant;" Kirk Douglas, "Lust for Life;" Rock Hudson, "Giant," and Laurence Olivier, "Richard III.")

Since the night that Janet Gaynor and Emil Jannings won the 1927 awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, this has been Hollywood's greatest show of the year. Actors are zany people anyway, but when they get in contention for Oscars—watch out.

EVERY TRICK of the trade is used, all's fair in love, war and the Oscar race.

Just how is he won?

If you take the case histories of last year's two top winners, you won't find any pattern. Ernest Borgnine and Anna Magnani could not have sought the awards in more divergent ways. Yet it's doubtful if either could have won any other way. Still, their cases are reasonably typical, so let's examine them.

First, scandal magazines to the contrary, Oscar can't be bought. It's true that a winner may spend $10,000 on a successful campaign. But the losers may spend twice as much.

"MARTY," the movie which made a major star of Borgnine and won as last year's best picture, cost only $343,000 to make.

Yet, Hecht-Lancaster, the makers, and United Artists, the distributors, spent more than half a million advertising it. It was money well invested, for the picture now has grossed more than six million.

Hollywood publicity men look upon the "Marty" campaign with reverence and awe. It is now cited as a model.

Publicity man behind the campaign was Walter Seltzer, since turned producer.

Seltzer recalls he knew he had an Oscar contender to sell from the moment he first saw a rough cut of the film.

"THE PICTURE was the sleeper of the year and Borgnine's performance was the greatest I'd ever seen. But I knew that both had to be exposed to the maximum to win an Oscar," says Seltzer.

When Oscar time rolled around, Seltzer had exposed "Marty" and Borgnine like a nudist camp. The two were shoo-ins for the awards.

Goodnatured, friendly Borgnine put himself in Seltzer's hands. He showed up at every function, premier, party in town.

"To know Ernie is to love him," says Seltzer. "That part was simple."

"Marty," of course, was a shy butcher. When a big supermarket opened in Santa Monica a few days before the awards, customers found Borgnine behind the meat counter complete with cap and apron.

CORNY, MAYBE, but it paid off. Borgnine's performance was a memorable one but so were those by James Cagney, Frank Sinatra and James Dean. Hecht-Lancaster then was a small independent. It didn't, like MGM, employ hundreds of academy members who might vote in the so-called studio loyalty group.

It was Borgnine's first starring role. He hadn't been around for years like Cagney nor could he be expected to have collected as many friends among the voters.

Seltzer employed two gimmicks that overcame these menacing obstacles.

First off he started a daily series of newspaper advertisements months before the awards. Each ad was clever and each had the same cartoon drawing of Borgnine dialing a pay phone—a key scene in the movie.

By the time the awards came, everybody but the blind knew about Borgnine and "Marty."

THE OTHER WAS a psychological gimmick that made moderate income voters and opinion makers feel like studio tycoons.

Whenever someone in the voting group wanted to entertain his friends or neighbors, Seltzer sent over a 16-mm print of "Marty" complete with projection equipment and projectionist.

Only the big producers and stars normally see current movies in their homes.

"We had 160 such private showings," Seltzer recalls. "We knew Ernie and the picture deserved an Oscar. It was just a case of selling good merchandise."

So successful was the sell that the night Borgnine won his Oscar, he presented miniature ones to Seltzer and his assistant, Arthur Wilde.

"They won it too," Borgnine explained gratefully.

MAGNANI, in contrast, refused to do anything her publicity advisers wanted. When producer Hal Wallis asked her to come to New York to attend the opening of "The Rose Tattoo," she cabled no thanks.

"Magnani wants to be judged only on her performance, not her handshaking ability," she told Wallis. It was an answer in keeping with her outspoken Italian character and it worked with the voters.

Insiders say she captured the so-called snob vote of the academy—those in Hollywood who looked down their noses at Oscar politicking. That and the votes she picked up from her outstanding performance got her an Oscar. She still hasn't left Rome.

OSCAR VOTING is a top secret affair, so secret that even George Seaton, the president of the Academy, is just as surprised as the television viewers when the winners are announced.

This year 16,721 members of the motion picture industry guilds are eligible to vote for the nominations. Actors nominate actors, directors nominate directors and musicians nominate songs.

But the ultimate winners are picked only by the 1,770 members of the academy. These come from the creative branches of the industry—actors, directors, writers, designers and the like—all recognized craftsmen in their particular branches.

THE ONLY PEOPLE who know the winners beforehand are a few close-mouthed tabulators of the firm of Price Waterhouse & Co., certified public accountants.

What does Oscar mean to a picture?

Based on its cost and the fact that Borgnine was not a big movie name before "Marty," that picture would have made its producers delirious had it grossed a million and a half. It quadrupled that.

OPTI-MRS. PLAN FASHION SHOW

Spring fashions, delightfully presented by Mr. Bob, will be on parade for the Opti-Mrs. Club of Uptown Long Beach luncheon March 4 at the Lafayette Hotel. Blackwell of Hollywood will comment on designs by Don Loper, Lanz, Cisa of Italy, Dalton and Pines of California. Hats by Shirley Rapp will complete costumes modeled by television and motion picture starlets. Completing decorations are (from left) Mrs. C. Duane Mooney, Mrs. Otto Yaisli, Mrs. William D. Lackey, Mrs. Edgar Gold (in charge of the show) and Mrs. Fred A. Mayer, president. Proceeds are ear-marked for the Optimist Boys' Home, the building fund for the Long Beach Girls' Club and other philanthropic projects.

Elegance Promised at Ball

ballroom west of Chicago, makes its debut.

Included in the list of illustrious guests that night will be Conrad N. Hilton, president of Hilton Hotels Corporation and Spearl Ellison, vice president of western division of Hilton Hotels and one of the owners of the Lafayette. They will be among the guests of Dave Tallichet, Lafayette manager.

While first impression may indicate a glamorous party with accent on a fresh new season and a resplendent ballroom, the purpose behind the festive occasion actually goes much deeper.

All proceeds go to the building fund of the West Long Beach Girls' Club. Recently a lot near Santa Fe Ave. and Willow St. was purchased by the Assistance League. Dreams of a clubhouse large enough to accommodate the 350 members are well on their way to being fulfilled.

Activities are now centered in the clubhouse at Truman Boyd Manor, and daily at least 70 to 80 girls of junior high school age gather under supervision of Mrs. Madeline Goldsmith, director. The success thus far of the club can be measured in the esteem of the community and school personnel and the many happy little girls who busily enjoy the activities offered.

A principal project of the league, the club is supported entirely by the organization's ways and means projects.

Assuming the monumental duties of ball chairman is Mrs. Frank Vessels Jr. Mrs. Houston Fairley and a committee of Rick Rackers including Mmes. Robert Bailey, Julius C. Molina, Raymond Kelso Jr., Kenneth G. Walker, John Arnold, Loyal Pulley and Ethel Severson, took care of invitations.

Decorations were envisioned and carried out by Mrs. Morris Holmquist and Mrs. Thomas E. Noble and committee, while publicity was in charge of Mrs. Norris Nesmith.

Among the League members giving cocktail parties in their homes before the dinner-ball are Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Dunlap, who will entertain in their home, 4225 Country Club Dr., and Dr. and Mrs. John Rowe who will have an intimate group of friends in their home at 17 Temple Ave.

Fashion leaves her caprices to the individual, for there promises to be an equal division between wearing elegant full length ball gowns and flattering cocktail length dresses.

When she entertains Saturday, Mrs. Dunlap will be distinctively gowned in ball length white peau de soie with bodice accent of alencon lace over chartreuse taffeta and a regal sprinkling of chartreuse sequins and beads.

Mrs. Winifred Campbell, founder of the Assistance League of Long Beach, will be gowned in a pale blue satin sheath with brief train lined in gold when she and H. G. Edelman entertain several guests in Mrs. Campbell's home, 4211 Pacific Ave.

Bidden are Judge and Mrs. Beach Vasey, Judge and Mrs. Joseph Vickers and Messrs. and Mmes. A. C. Ruble, Wilbur Harrison and Carlos Gates.

Mrs. Charles Stratton will wear a white ballerina length lace gown, high at the neckline and deep in back, when she and her husband have a small group of friends for cocktails in their home, 5441 Anaheim Rd.

A wide circle of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Erb and Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Millie will be entertained in the Erb home, 5381 El Prado. For the occasion Mrs. Erb will be attractively attired in periwinkle blue chiffon, ballerina length, while Mrs. Millie will be gowned in a ballerina length dress of peach net with white lace.

Another pre-ball party will take place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Browning, 250 Claiborne Pl., with Mr. and Mrs. William Bryant the co-hosts. Mrs. Bryant plans to wear at the party, and then on to the ball, a turquoise silk print sheath with flattering fullness swept to the back.

Inviting 20 friends to their home at 551 Mesa Way are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Macrate. Mrs. Macrate will greet guests in an Irene original of black lace over champagne with a bouffant effect at the hipline.

An embroidered Harvey Berin gown of white linen will be worn by Mrs. Myrl Ott when she and Mr. Ott and Mr. and Mrs. Norris Nesmith have a small group of friends in the Ott home, 633 Ultimo Ave.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Brinkman will gather before dinner in their home, 3851 Pine Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. E. Tennyson Moore have bidden neighbors and friends who will share their table to their home at 5610 El Parque. Mrs. Moore has chosen a cocktail length gown of blue peau de soie for the occasion.

Mrs. Philip Brady will be wearing white satin brocade trimmed with red, full length, when she and her husband have several friends at a pre-ball party in their 289 Park Ave. home.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Murphy will be co-hosts with Mr. and Mrs. James Wood in the Wood home, 4416 California Ave. at a cocktail event. A ball gown of blue peau de soie with a beaded top and sweeping skirt will be Mrs. Wood's attire, while Mrs. Murphy will present a scintillating picture in a ball gown featuring a silver lame top and skirt of silver and white net ruffles.

Hardworking committee members will show no signs of the gigantic task behind them as they enter the hotel that night. Mrs. Heusel has chosen black Chantilly lace over pink and a white ermine cape for the gala event, and with an eye to the decorations in the ballroom, Mrs. Noble will be strikingly attired in a full length gown of tangerine chiffon trimmed with gold sequins.

Petching as a Valentine, Mrs. Vessels has chosen an Edith Small gown of red lace over pink satin. Ball length, it presents a sheath effect in front but becomes a rippling cascade of ruffles in back. Flattering Grecian drapery in full length blue chiffon is the selection of Mrs. Holmquist.

Colonial Dames Schedule Convention

Descendants of the historic founders of the 13 original American colonies will assemble Saturday in San Diego for the eighth annual state convention of the California State Society, Colonial Dames of the 17th Century.

Mrs. Lucille Derr Fitts of Los Angeles, state president, will call the convention to order at 10 a. m. in the El Morro Restaurant, and will preside at the day-long session.

Long Beach delegates are Mmes. A. L. Murray, Thomas M. Arrowsmith, Clifton Dwight Tucker, Walter S. Hylton, R. M. Brougher, Nathaniel Buckmaster, James Kennedy, Henry Crane, J. C. Wallace and Miss Lydia Doyle.

Reservations in the Long Beach area are being taken by Mrs. Tucker and Miss Doyle.

Mrs. French B. Harrington of Los Angeles, national president general, will be luncheon speaker, with "The Thirteen Original American Colonies" as her subject.

Panel of Foreign Students on Allied Arts Schedule

Foreign students attending Long Beach State College will speak on education in their country, give impressions of the United States and tell of their respective countries' problems at a panel discussion Tuesday night before Allied Arts.

The meeting, to take place at 8 o'clock in Municipal Art Center, will be open to the public, due to the unusual interest of the program.

Dr. Robert Poole, head of the foreign language department at LBSC, will moderate the panel and lead a question and answer period in which the audience may participate.

At present more than 30 foreign students are on the Forty-Niner campus and represent countries in South America, the Middle East and the Orient.

Mrs. Cornelia Pollard will conduct the business meeting. Program chairman is Mrs. Lorene Doyle Wilson.

To Review Play

Miss Rena Craig Waxman, well-known dramatist, has chosen a current New York play to review when she appears Tuesday at 11 a.m. in the social hall of Temple Israel, 3rd and Loma. The Sisterhood of Temple Israel, sponsor of the series of book and play reviews, invites the the public to attend at a nominal admission fee.

IT SEEMS only yesterday that we cut the golden ribbon and welcomed you to our new and spacious store . . . the store you helped build with your friendship, patronage and good will.

It has been our aim to make this a complete Fashion Store dedicated to women who desire the best.

As we turn to our Anniversary Album we find it filled with happy memories; for anniversaries are sentimental occasions. Memories of the happy brides (and we think we've dressed many of the loveliest girls in Long Beach) who have chosen their gowns in our red satin Bridal Room. Debs, sweet and lovely in their first party gowns. Young matrons and their mothers, and their grandmothers too . . . all of this is part of the precious heritage of twenty years.

And turning still another page we point to our roster of famous designers, names which originate all that's new in the glittering world of fashion.

We're proud of our personnel, some who have been with us since we first opened. We're proud of Long Beach and its progress and growth, and the wonderful future in store for us all.

It is hard to describe the feeling of gratitude we have for you who have made this twentieth anniversary possible. Our pledge to you is to continue in our efforts to make Schick's the nicest store you will find anywhere, and to make every moment of your shopping here a lasting pleasure.

Our Anniversary Gift to You...

Your Baby & Mine

Care of the Skin

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The tender, delicate skin of a baby is very easily irritated and develops spots and blemishes which cause discomfort and make him cross. When the skin shows a rash around the buttocks area, it may be that the soap or detergent used in washing the diapers may be irritating the skin. Just a change from one to another may be all that is necessary to clear up the spots and reddened areas.

When the baby is wearing a wet-resistant cover over the diaper, the bacteria in the diaper may unite with the urea and result in ammonia. This happens because of the warmth and the baby is often not changed as promptly when he doesn't wet his clothes as when he does.

The mother will be in no doubt about this result, as she will be able to smell the ammonia on the wet diaper. It is wise to leave off diaper covers for a time, wash the baby carefully after changing and use some healing salve or lotion. And then give the diapers a good boiling, and keep them free of bacteria by using some product designed for this task which can be bought at the drug-store.

If the rash is on the baby's face or in the bend of the elbow or knee, it is more than possible that this is a sign of some allergic reaction to his food.

A baby does not have soap used on its face but if the bed clothes are washed in harsh soaps or irritating detergents the baby might develop a rash merely by contact with them.

But, ordinarily, we have to look to the food as the cause of a persistent facial rash. The simpler the baby's diet the more easily can the villain be run down. If just on milk, citrus fruit juices and vitamin D, then one or another is to blame.

Changing the type of milk, using ascorbic acid instead of the juices, both of these may work such an immediate change as to make it apparent what is wrong. If the diet is more ample, then one has to try removing each one of the solid foods for a week at a time and note what happens. By such tedious means it is possible to pin point the offending factor and eliminate it or change its type.

There is one other possible cause of rash in young babies and that is the wool to which they may be exposed in coverings on bed or body. Some babies are extremely sensitive to wool and just contact with it will bring out a deep red spot, or a fine rash on the body. It is easy enough to replace the wool with cotton and thus end this particular cause of a skin rash.

Spring Splash Will Be Heady Affair

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

With the happy hints of Spring so much a part of our Southern California living, Long Beach Navy Officers Wives Club is making big plans for its annual Spring Splash—the funny and entertaining Madhatter's luncheon party, which has become an annual spring event.

Members and their friends will gather at 12:30 p. m. on the afternoon of March 6 at the Officers Club, Allen Center. Those wishing to take part in this gay contest must make and wear their new chapeaux to the meeting. The judges' names are top secrets right now, but it is hinted they're really top brass.

There'll be prizes for the prettiest, most original, funniest, etc., and all members are urged to take part.

Senior hostess will be Mrs. Wayne Garnet who will be assisted by Mmes. E. W. Sweezy, M. C. Heine and Raymond Brightman.

The board members of the club met Wednesday morning to complete their plans, followed by luncheon at Allen Center.

Reservations are still in the capable hands of Mrs. R. M. Whelpley and Mrs. J. M. McAgn.

New members joining the Wives of Navy Doctors Club at the last luncheon meeting were Mmes. Edward Schnell, Robert Gray, George Stibbins, H. M. Robbins and George Shiff.

Rear Adm. and Mrs. Walter L. Dyer have been staying with friends in Torrance and are visiting their many service friends here before leaving tomorrow for a month's trip down to Guadalajara, Mexico.

Fleet Reserve Auxiliary Unit 43 members Mmes. Florence Ross, past national president; Rose Gartner, past national president; Dorothy Cukras, local president; Lillian Keehen, past president; Gertrude Green, past president; and Adeline MacDonough attended a National Officers Night in San Diego recently as guests of Unit No. 9. They were made most welcome for the dinner and programs by the San Diego group's president, Ruth Hawk.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock Chaplain William Patrick will have services in the Navy Family Church; Mrs. Samuel Kahl will be hostess at the coffee hour.

Navy Wives Club No. One will have an evening party Tuesday at the Savannah Navy Club House. It will be family night with a pot-luck supper and games. Those wishing to attend and who are not members of the club are most cordially invited and should contact Mrs. John Cohn of 2130 W. Hill or Mrs. Bernard Crawford of 1859 W. 20th St. The event will start at 6 o'clock.

Cmdr. and Mrs. R. M. Whelpley have just returned from a delightful visit in White Sands, New Mexico, where they were the houseguests of their old friends, Capt. and Mrs. J. C. Parham and family. They went down for the wedding reception of Homie Price Parham, who had just come home from the University of Alabama, and Stephen M. Miera of this city.

Coming home the Whelpleys visited friends in El Paso, then enjoyed a few days in Las Vegas.

Recently moving here from San Diego were CS2 Benard Crawford, Mrs. Crawford and children, James, Jane Marie and David.

On Wednesday afternoon board members and chairmen from the four local Navy Wives Clubs of America, Inc., are invited to the Naval Base to hear a talk on "Career Appraisal."

Back to their "home port" after many travels in far off places are Cmdr. and Mrs. Stephen F. Lahmann. Cmdr. Lahmann retired from the Navy in late summer winding up 30 years service. Last duty station was in Seattle, Wash.

Since the well known Navy couple last dropped anchor in Long Beach, they had duty and resided in Washington, D. C., and Naples, Italy. Since retiring they've visited old friends in Oregon, Arizona and Mexico, but now have settled in their permanent home at 203½ Quincy Ave.

Navy Wives Club No. 123 will have an executive board meeting Monday at the home of the vice president, Mrs. Benjamin Sokolik of 4318 Gondar Ave., Lakewood. Mrs. A. L. Wadsworth will conduct the business meeting. Welfare chairman Mrs. William Studiman and Mrs. Albert J. Nicolaus are busy recruiting new members.

Mrs. Joseph Koch and Mrs. Wanda Gizira are having a committee meeting March 1 at Mrs. Gizira's home to make final plans for the Navy Wives Club World Fellowship Silver Tea in Long Beach on March 17.

Wednesday night officers attached to the USS Helena and their ladies will enjoy a party at the cocktail hour at Allen Center.

District Meet

Long Beach Camp 3822, Royal Neighbors of America, will conduct a District Meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Machinists Bldg., 728 Elm Ave. Compton Camp will serve refreshments.

Quartet Has Ebell Date

"The Song Brokers," a male quartet — each member a musical star in his own right — will entertain Ebell Club of Long Beach Monday, it was announced by Mrs. James A. Worsham, program chairman.

Members of the group are Clarence Badger Jr., top tenor; John Moss, bass; Arthur Bradley, lead tenor, and Arthur McCulloch, baritone. Each has appeared extensively on radio, in motion pictures and on the stage.

Their program will include a wide variety of numbers featuring popular, light opera, spiritual, comedy and production numbers.

Luncheon will be served by Group V with Mrs. Fred Clark serving as chairman. At 1:30 p. m. Mrs. L. E. Shanks, president, will conduct the business meeting preceding the program.

Blue Stars

Hospital "scuffies" will be made by the sewing and social club of Blue Star Mothers Chapter No. 1 when members gather Monday morning at 10 in the home of Mrs. Clara Crozier, 2265 Magnolia Ave., Apt. 7.

PEO Meeting

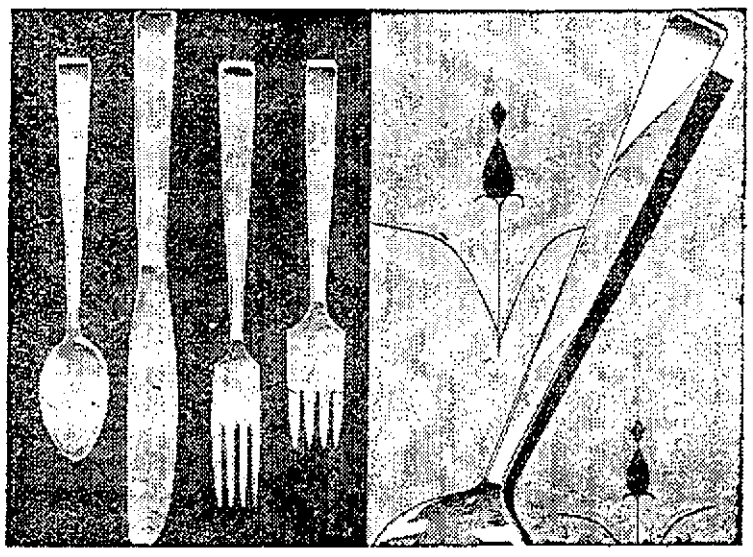

Mrs. Mary D. Garvin, first vice president of PEO California State Chapter, will speak at the 10 a.m. Tuesday meeting of Long Beach District PEO Reciprocity Bureau of the YWCA, 6th and Pacific. Following a coffee hour with Chapter DP as hostess, the business session will be conducted by Mrs. Beach Vasey, president. All unaffiliated and visiting PEO's are invited.

HOLLYWOOD:

Fixin' to Put a Lady to Bed

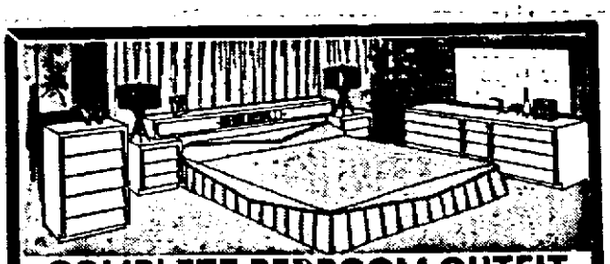

It takes a lot of fixin' to put a lady to bed—in the movies! First, the lady, Monique Van Vooren, combs and grooms her coiffure into shape, then holds still for make-up in scene in MGM's "Ten Thousand Bedrooms."

And now, how about exposure? Cameraman moves in with his light meter, and at the same time Monique gets what the movies refer to as "body make-up."

After a final word from the director, this is the "take." Monique is ready to sing, after no end of people have worked over her in studio "boudoir."

By Bike to Guatemala

By Dick Hayman

WHEN the cycling bug bites, it bites hard!

Two Southland collegians, Don White and Aaron Cohen, are outstanding examples at hand. The two pedal-pushers this summer spent their vacation time crossing the entire length of Mexico on their bikes, destined for their final goal—Guatemala — on a 3,100-mile trek which surpassed their last year's cycling across the United States from Los Angeles to New York City.

Passionate believers in the theory that it's best to see any country leisurely as the traveler moves along, the two bicyclists, both 21, enjoyed their 1955 cross-country adventure so much they decided early this summer to play an encore by turning their well-used handlebars in the direction of Latin America.

On June 18 they departed from their hometown, carrying with them only $100 to cover 2½ months' expenses, plus some 30 pounds of baggage and equipment.

"The worst parts of the trip up to Mexico City were the desert stretches in Arizona and across the border in Sonora. The sun really blazes down around there," the boys reported when interviewed on a Mexico City radio station during their few days of respite in the capital.

"But what pleasantly surprised us was the wonderful condition of the Nogales highway. It made the long hours of pedaling a real pleasure," White told their interviewer, Ernesto Arraiza.

In turn, co-adventurer Cohen spoke of "the marvelous hospitality of the Mexican families where we stopped along the way. They took us into their homes, fed us, put us up for the night and not for pay either."

On July 30 the two took off

FOR TALL GIRLS—Peg Newton, the designer who made junoesque girls proud of their height, comes up with a double-breasted coat dress that once you step into, you'll probably never want to step out. The front panel and lap-over is flat, then on either side are five narrow gores, then four, then three at the center back seam. The bodice is shaped to make the most of your figure, the sleeves are cuffed. Make this exclusively sized pattern, with its precise perforations for accurate matching and time saving, in sheer wool or worsted, shantung, raw silk, novelty weaves. From this chart select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	Length From Nape of Neck to Waist
10	34	24	35 in.	17¼ inches
12	35	25	36 in.	17½ inches
14	36½	26½	37½ in.	17¾ inches
16	38	28	39 in.	18 inches
18	40	30	41 in.	18¼ inches
20	42	32	43 in.	18½ inches

Size 12 requires 6⅛ yards of 39-inch material for dress. To order Pattern No. A-2069, state size; enclose $1.00. Address Personalized Patterns, P. O. Box 1005, G. P. O. Dept. LZ-13, New York 1, N. Y. Personalized Pattern Booklet PZ available for 50c each. If paid by check add 4c.

To Benefit Kenny Unit

Sister Kenny Auxiliary has scheduled a benefit bridge-canasta luncheon for Tuesday noon in the Garden Room of Mottell's, with Mrs. Camille Kendall as general chairman. Mrs. Lester B. Cooper will preside.

Featured entertainment will be a review of the New York play, "Diary of Anne Frank," presented by Mrs. Orville W. Cole of Long Beach Community Players.

Assisting with arrangements will be Mmes. William Welty, E. H. Bennett, Frank Ellsworth, C. E. Forbes, Rose Gustafson, A. E. English, Fred R. Schwarz and Alice M. Buzan. Reservations may be made with Mmes. Gertrude Winslow, Alec F. Johnson, Walter D. Brown or any auxiliary member. The event is open to members and friends.

Appointment of Maxine Leo as executive director of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation of Southern California, Inc., was recently announced by Judge George Dockweiler, president of the board of directors.

Club Hears Lore of West

Fascinating vignettes of Western history were described to Cactus Club members by Mrs. Sue H. Loomis and Clarence Wright at a meeting in the home of Miss Ruth Manchester, 3915 E. 2nd St.

Wright, club president, conducted a business session and, with Jack Klenke, contributed donations for a plant exchange.

Jasper Kaufman showed colored motion pictures from his film library of scenic areas of the West.

Recommendations Now at Art Center

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent, Press-Telegram Art Editor

A selection of works from the fifth annual Long Beach juried exhibition may be seen in the Recommendations and Recent Acquisitions Exhibition in the upstairs gallery of Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean. Works recommended for the Art Center's collection were selected from the exhibition by jurors Kenneth Ross, director of the Los Angeles Municipal Art Department, Joseph Fulton, director of the Pasadena Art Museum and Jarvis Barlow, assistant director of the Los Angeles County Art Institute.

Exhibiting artists will be honored at a reception from 2 to 4 p.m. today in the Art Center.

Exhibitors Paul D. Cooper, Connor Everts, Nels Y. Nelson, Marlyn Prior, Dean Spille, Julie Polousky, Jo Rebert, Jean B. Thompson, Edith Gummels, Greta Lindroth, Jay Meuser, Anna Hayes, Barbara Reeves and Leslie Stone have loaned their works through March 9. Selected by the staff for inclusion in the exhibit will be works by Fred Meiers, Florence Phillco, David Cytron, Kenn Glenn, Robert Ortlieb, James Knibb, John Lincoln, Mary Ann Kunz and Ward Youry.

In addition the "Event Near St. George," casein painting by Edgar Ewing donated by California Artists to the Art Center's collection, will be seen. Duncan R. McIntosh, director of California Artists, presented the painting. The painting was chosen by the jury of selection from the 1955 California Water Color Exhibit.

Among recent acquisitions is the 2,500-year-old Greek amphora, one of a limited number recovered last summer off the Southern coast of Italy by Staley S. Slotkin, president of Abbey Rents. The ancient clay storage jar has been donated to the Art Center by Arthur Horowitz, manager of Abbey Rents, Long Beach Branch office.

The first annual Long Beach Camera Guild Exhibition and the Creative Photography exhibit which opened on Wednesday evening includes works of well-known Long Beach area photographers. Still-life work, landscapes, people and imaginative compositions are included.

Jean Clad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Brown, 25 Belmont Ave. will have an exhibition of her paintings at the Camino Gallery in New York City. There will be a preview opening March 8 and the exhibition will run through March 28. She is showing recent oils.

Mrs. Clad was graduated from Wilson High School and the University of California at Berkeley. She studied painting with Andre Lhote in Paris in 1948-49 and lived for three years in Italy, where she first exhibited her work. She has been painting 10 years. Two years ago she had a one-man show at the Lucien Labaudt Gallery in San Francisco, and has exhibited recently in group shows in New York City. Some of her collages are on display at Madame Audre's, 4700 E. 7th St.

Joshua Meador's marine won first prize for oil, and Crandall Norton, a new member, took first prize for watercolor in the Laguna Beach Art Assn.'s membership show in the Laguna Beach Art Gallery. Kero Antoyan, M. Askenszy, Pelham Glassford, Thelma Cardin, Don Shreves and Henry Richter took honorable mention.

Ben Messick, 133 St. Joseph Ave., whose work has been exhibited coast to coast and abroad, has received many fan letters. But none that pleased him more than a note the other day from a girl in Grass Valley. She had seen his exhibit in the Crocker Gallery in Sacramento and she wrote:

"Dear Mr. Messick,

When I visited the art gallery in Sacramento I enjoyed your paintings most of all.

Your clown pictures looked so real.

Some day I hope to be as good an artist as you.

Yours truly,
Andrea Grothe

P.S. I am 12 years old."

Relief Corps

Woman's Relief Corps No. 93 will meet at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday in Veterans Memorial Building with Rose Porter presiding. Gertrude Gilbert, department inspector, will visit.

Sad Story of South

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Since this seems to be the week for getting South into trouble let's finish with a lallapaloosa.

Take a look at all four hands. If you can see how South managed to go down at three no-trump you are an expert.

Now for the sad story. West didn't think much of his heart suit because South had bid it and the four clubs to the jack looked most unattractive. Accordingly he decided to try to hit his partner's suit and opened the six of spades.

While South was taking time out to study the dummy East went through some rapid mental gymnastics and decided that his partner had opened the top of a short suit. He also noted that declarer could not know this and therefore East played the ten of spades.

Now it was South's time for real study. The lead could have been top of a double-ton but it looked much more like the fourth best from a suit headed by ace-jack. In that case it would be necessary for South to duck that particular trick to guard against East getting in with the king of diamonds and leading through South's remaining spade honor.

South ducked whereupon East laid down the ace of spades, dropping South's queen, and cleared the suit with a third lead.

When South lost the diamond finesse East was waiting with two good spades to set the contract.

Club to Tour VA Hospital

A tour of Veterans Hospital under the guidance of Col. W. R. McBrian, chief of special services, will be enjoyed by members of Long Beach City College Faculty Wives Club following their Thursday luncheon meeting in the Hawaiian restaurant.

Hostesses for the 12:30 p.m. luncheon will be Mmes. Harmon P. Clark Jr., Herbert Ferguson and Arthur Knoll. Red, white and blue pompons and ribbon streamers interspersed with brilliant crimson camellias will provide festive table decor.

The following meeting, a dessert luncheon, will take place March 28 at the home of Mrs. Charles Church when a preview of spring fashions will be modeled by club members.

Smorgasbord

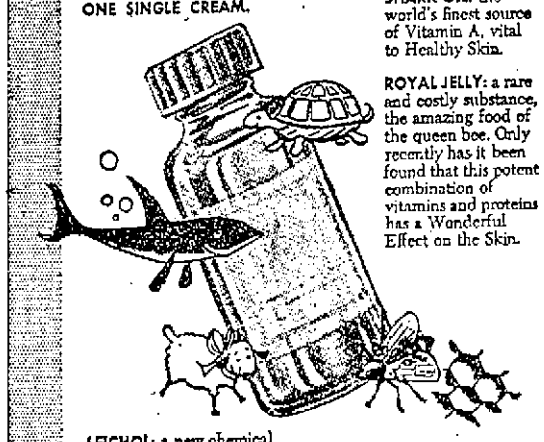

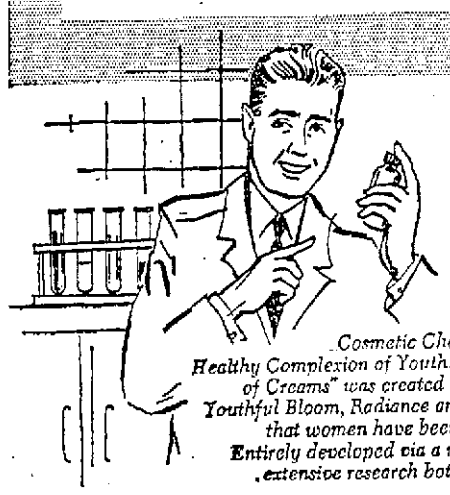

In response to many requests, Circle No. 8 of Women's Society of Christian Service, Grace Methodist Church, will repeat their popular smorgasbord dinner March 1 from 5 to 7 p. m. in the fellowship hall. Tickets may be purchased until Wednesday noon at the church office or from Mrs. R. V. Johnson or Mrs. George Y. Miller.

AMAZING NEW FORMULA for YOUTHFUL SKIN!

LIFT YEARS FROM YOUR APPEARANCE!
At Last! New miracle Skin Cream combines Turtle Oil, Shark Oil, Royal Bee Jelly, Silicone, Lanolin, plus 27 Other Beautifying Ingredients!
NEVER IN COSMETIC HISTORY HAS THERE BEEN SUCH A HIGH CONCENTRATION OF NUTRIENT AND MOISTURIZING INGREDIENTS FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD BLENDED INTO ONE SINGLE CREAM.
TURTLE OIL: for Super Lubrication and Skin Nourishment.
SHARK OIL: the world's finest source of Vitamin A, vital to Healthy Skin.
ROYAL JELLY: a rare and costly substance, the amazing food of the queen bee. Only recently has it been found that this potent combination of vitamins and proteins has a Wonderful Effect on the Skin.

LEICHOL: a new chemical isolation from sheeps-wool fat for Skin Absorption and Penetration to Assist in Promoting Healthy Skin.
SILICONE: helps to retain needed moisture on and within the skin to Prevent "aging points" . . . Tiny Wrinkles at Forehead — Eyes — Mouth — Throat, or Creases from Facial Expressions, like smiles or frowns.
blended INTO ONE SINGLE FORMULA!
PLUS: 27 more ingredients never before formulated into a single cream and at a price within the reach of all.

32-in-one with its wealth of rare and costly ingredients, was formulated by one of Hollywood's most experienced Cosmetic Chemists to renew the Healthy Complexion of Youth. This "Champagne of Creams" was created to give the skin the Youthful Bloom, Radiance and Dewy Freshness that women have been seeking for years. Entirely developed via a new approach after extensive research both here and abroad.
32-in-one Moisture Magic
Do you look in the mirror and see tiny lines on your forehead, throat and around your eyes and mouth? Is your skin sagging, shriveled, old looking? Have you tried one cosmetic after another until you're disgusted?
AMAZING NEW FORMULA
If so, I want to tell you about the ultimate achievement in scientific skin care. Be as skeptical as you like, but here, at last, is the proven answer to your skin problems!
Just recently a well-known Hollywood chemist has successfully combined ALL of the known beauty aids you've heard about on TV, radio, in newspapers and magazines into ONE, easy-to-use concentrate. Never before in cosmetic history has there been such a concentration of cleansing, moisturizing and neutralizing ingredients BLENDED INTO ONE SINGLE FORMULA.
Included in this amazing formula are TURTLE OIL, well known for super lubrication and nourishment; SHARK OIL, one of the world's finest sources of Vitamin A; ROYAL JELLY, the food substance of the Queen Bee, recently found to be so remarkable in preserving the bloom of youth; SILICONE, the modern ingredient that protects your skin from the sun, wind and other skin irritants. 32-In-One Concentrate also contains LEICHOL, new chemical discovery that's a natural food supplement in restoring the firm suppleness of youth to your skin tissues. These skin-rejuvenating ingredients never before put into a single home beauty treatment, are now available to magically solve your skin problems.
KEEP YOUR BIRTHDAY A SECRET
If you want to lift years from your looks, you can now take definite steps to make your skin younger and lovelier than you ever dared hope for. This sensational new concentrate sinks deep into your pores and its moisturizing ingredient floats dirt and makeup to the surface. It slides them off, leaving the exciting new look that will delight you so very much. You can actually watch the lines and blemishes disappear with your first bottle!
The cost? Absolutely nothing!—unless your skin grows smoother and more youthful looking! 32-In-One Concentrate hasn't reached your local stores yet; but it is yours to enjoy on our No-Risk Guarantee Plan.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Livability Multiplied By Two Plus

Plain exterior of the Lanners' home is soon to undergo revamping in keeping with remodeling of interior.

By Eileen Ball

THIS IS THE STORY of how a house grew from 1,000 to 2,000 feet, doubling its footage and more than doubling its livability. This is a story of the Lannerses, a family that knows how to work—and play—together.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy D. Lanners are teachers in the Long Beach School System. Mrs. Lanners teaches elementary children, and her husband has classes in shop and industrial drawing in a junior high school. They have three children of their own and, like many other average families, they found their small bungalow getting smaller and smaller as their family grew larger. So, Lanners, being well-equipped to plan expansion and remodeling of the house, decided while he was at it to do the actual work himself, too!

In the process, the little house at 4226 Heather Rd., Lakewood Village, gained a new bath, a beautifully enlarged kitchen and dinette, a spacious service area and a huge family room. The master bedroom "came into its own" with the addition of a full wardrobe and the canny squeezing-in of a tiny but complete three-quarter bath. And, during this process, as if this weren't more than enough to keep everyone well-occupied, the Lanners "took to the hills" and built a family cabin . . . just for the fun of it!

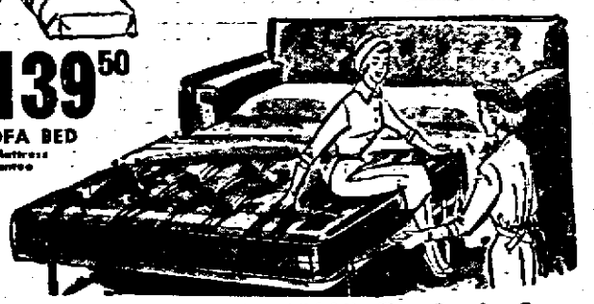

TO SAY THIS family is merely ambitious would be gross understatement. The whole story entails description of how its members work together and how everything they set out to do includes the children as well as the parents.

The family room, for example, features a children's corner . . . an area specifically set up for such pasttimes as piano-playing, coloring, studying and "tea parties." And, near the fireplace, a small pool table stands ready for competition between the young Lanners and visiting neighboring offspring. The kitchen is large enough for comfortable dining with plenty of room for the youngsters to kibitz when Mrs. Lanners makes

Over Twenty Changing Years

Grace Schick Reflects on Beauty, Vagaries of Style

By IOLA MASTERSON

What kind of a person is the American business woman?

Her skill and chic have made her a legend of modern civilization; the envy of the rest of the feminine world. But what is she like personally?

Perhaps no one in Long Beach better epitomizes the successful American woman executive than Grace Schick. To meet her personally is the purpose of this story.

This month she is celebrating her 20th year as one of Long Beach's best known business women. Owner of a fashionable apparel store, she has always been a leader in her field and among a handful of people responsible for bringing to this city a style awareness that is making it one of the key retail outlet areas on the west coast.

And Charming Manner

Mrs. Schick is petite (5'3") with steady gaze, soft voice, a quiet and charming manner.

Her experience in merchandising reaches back to Lexington, Neb., where her father owned the first general store and where she received early training in the complex business of a store operation.

As a buyer for a Long Beach department store she learned the needs of local women before opening her own first store here in 1937 at 936 Pine Ave. An ever increasing clientele dictated expansion and in 1949 she moved to her present location at 7th St. and Pine Ave.

A constant traveler between here and New York (she makes buying forays to the east coast four times a year), she is an able judge of style trends and how women will react to them.

The Restless Years

Mrs. Schick feels the "restless" years are over. Women are no longer skittersh in their buying habits and are stabilizing the style market by their own good sense. Clothes, she says, are wearable longer with radical style changes much less likely than in the past.

A good example is the current skirt length controversy — will it go longer or stay put? Much is said but little change is evident as women themselves continue to choose the flattering 12 to 13-inch skirt length.

Another rejected style trend is last season's Empire line, heavily promoted by designers and manufacturers, and rejected for a sound and sensible reason, according to Mrs. Schick. The Empire requires a faultless figure and American women are now much too savvy to select that which does not flatter.

This is in absolute reverse to the mob acceptance of the long skirt trend which followed the hysteria of the 1920s' "almost no skirt at all" era. A trend, incidentally, which she says was favored by the young and unwillingly adopted by the matrons of that time. One which she ruefully admits she, herself, thought marvelous as a young woman, a fact she remembers with chagrin.

Sheath Won Favor

On the other hand, the sheath won almost instant favor a few seasons ago. Following a period of full skirts, it offered a refreshing change and was easily worn.

Of Long Beach clubwomen, social leaders and career women, Mrs. Schick has warm praise. Well groomed and stylish, they compare with the smartest women of any metropolitan city.

Women Are Smaller

Actually, the biggest change in the past 20 years has been in size. The most popular dress sizes now are 10s and 12s, with a surprising demand for 7s, 9s — and even for the very tiny size 5s!

Twenty years ago the average was 16 and the woman who required a size 44 dress was not considered extremely large at all. Manufacturers were accustomed to including up to size 52 in their "regular" line.

Mrs. Schick herself dresses in the manner she advises others to follow. Choosing simple styles and in her favorite colors, she suggests they be subdued by day but as bright as the wearer desires for resort or evening.

A Word on Black

Black is fine but not necessarily the smartest thing for west coast wear unless it really reflects a personal preference. Black remains No. 1 in eastern cities for a very practical reason: Smart because it won't show the ever present dirt and grime which must be endured.

A Soroptimist for the past 19 years, Mrs. Schick has consistently been active in its service program of aid to this community. She is also a life member of the YWCA and the Long Beach Community Players. Artistic by nature, she belongs to the Long Beach Art Association and other art groups. An amateur artist, she has found time in her busy life to do considerable painting, her favorite media being pastels and water colors.

Although she finds little time to enjoy her hobby actively now, still the siren's call of art galleries and shows generally bids her be present to view other's works.

And who knows, maybe some day the signature Grace Schick will be as honored in the corner of a bright canvas as on the label of a smart feminine ensemble!

July Date for Nuptials

An announcement of interest in both Southern and Northern California reveals the engagement of Donn Allen Patton of Long Beach and Miss Julie Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Moore of Yuba City.

Miss Moore's father has been a member of the Sutter County Board of Supervisors for many years and is a member of a pioneer family of Sutter County. Patton is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert V. Patton of 341 Hermosa Ave.

The bride-elect attended Yuba City schools and the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Her fiance was born in Long Beach and is a graduate of Wilson High School. He attended Long Beach City College and the University of Southern California and now is a dental student in his junior year at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in San Francisco. He is a member of Psi Omega Fraternity.

After their marriage July 27 the couple will live in San Francisco.

One end of family room is devoted to the children's activities. Note play counter, small chairs and piano.

Attractive and spacious, the kitchen represents major portion of the Lanners' efforts in the remodeling.

special treats like fudge or popcorn. Near the sink hangs an old fashioned wall phone that is really a speaker for an intercom unit. Actually, the Lanners' remodeling efforts are far from complete. Their living room, which is pretty much relegated to serving the function of an occasional "guest parlor" and music room, is decorated in modern. This, however, will be altered just as soon as the family can get around to deciding on a whole new roomful of French provincial furnishings. The scale of the room is small, so small-scale fruitwood pieces will be ideally suited.

Opening off the living room through a dutch door is the newly remodeled and enlarged kitchen. Its color scheme is a combination of pale cocoa and pink. A subtle and warm blend of the two tones is seen in the marble-patterned linoleum. Wallpaper for the dining area has a pinkish-cocoa background sprinkled over with tiny provincial figures in turquoise, yellow and brown. Cabinets of natural birch are topped with cocoa-flecked tile of pebbled texture. Walls in the preparation area are pale pink and the curtains are crisp white organdy.

THE COOKING AREA is set apart in a "U" created by the building of a cabinet island into which is set the sink. The counter top here is wide enough to double as a bar or buffet, but the feeling of bulk is lessened by the sloping cupboard face that slants in toward the bottom. This relieves any feeling of space-consuming ponderousness.

Under a hanging fixture of white hobnail milk glass stands the dining set with its mar-resistant plastic top in birch pattern. Adjoining the dinette is a built-in desk that is handy for writing and telephoning. Over it is a built-in china closet with sliding glass doors.

A few steps down from the kitchen is the new family room. Floored in waxed cork, this big room is ideal for dancing and general family living. In an alan Oscar to a movie is a million.

Oscar Derby

The effect of Oscar on a star? That is unpredictable.

Much has been written about the Academy Award jinx. Many Oscar winners have gone from Oscar to obscurity in a year—but it was not Oscar's fault.

LUISE RAINER won two years in a row as best actress. Then she wasn't getting parts any more. Studio people in the know report temperament, not Oscar, was the reason.

Others have upped their price too drastically after winning an Oscar. One supporting actor winner went from $15,000 a picture to $100,000 the next day. He was out of work two years. He liked booze, too.

Ego is another reason. An actor gets an Oscar role and then refuses to do any others unless they measure up—and Oscar roles don't come along every day.

It's amazing how many good actors and actresses never have won Oscars. John Barrymore and Greta Garbo usually are considered two of the greatest performers in the history of the movies. They never won.

NEITHER DID Barbara Stanwyck, a pro in every one of her 70-odd pictures. Actor Vincent Price once said he casts his vote every year for Cary Grant.

"And I will continue to do so until this great actor is recognized by the Academy voters," he asserts.

Lionel Barrymore won in 1931 in competition with the youngest actor ever nominated—Jackie Cooper.

At the time there was much speculation as to how Cooper, only 5, would take it if he lost. But by the time the Awards came, tired little "Skippy" was asleep in Marie Dressler's lap.

One of the most embarrassing moments in Oscar history came in 1935. Will Rogers was master of ceremonies and Frank Capra was a favorite to win the director's award. Rogers made a laudatory speech and finished with the words: "Frank, come and get it."

CAPRA GOT UP and walked 40 feet towards the podium before he realized the Award was for Frank Lloyd.

"The walk back to the table was the longest crawl on record," Capra recalls.

What does a winner think when his or her name is called? Most say "happy" or "numb" but Jane Wyman's answer is the funniest:

"I heard my name called and the first thing that came to my mind was: 'Did I or did I not put on a girdle tonight?' Then I thought, 'So what? Let it bounce!' And I walked in a daze to the stage."

Worry Clinic

Valuable First Aid Tips to Heart Trouble Sufferers

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case U-307: Henry L., 43, is a high pressure business executive.

"Dr. Crane, I had a heart attack three months ago," he began apprehensively. "And ever since then I have felt as if a Sword of Damocles were hanging over me. For example, my wife went home yesterday to visit her sick mother for a couple of weeks. So I am all alone in the house at night.

"Suppose a heart attack should hit me again when nobody is around: What could I do?"

* * * *

IF YOU ARE all alone when stricken by a heart attack, there are several things to do which may save your life.

First of all, if you are still conscious your attack is not as likely to be fatal, so let that knowledge reassure you. Secondly, the main treatment for a heart attack, even when we medics get you to a hospital, is oxygen. For the pain of a heart attack is considered a result of lack of oxygen to the muscle fibers in the injured heart wall.

There are two ways to increase the supply of oxygen. One is to breathe a richer oxygen mixture as from a bottle of oxygen or while lying in an oxygen tent at the hospital. The other is to speed up your breathing. Despite the sharp pain you may suffer over the front of the chest, grit your teeth and force yourself to perform rapid, deep breathing. This act of heavy breathing will not hamper the heart or jeopardize your life. Instead, it may save your life. And as the oxygen reaches the heart muscle, the sharp pain may grow duller and duller.

So you don't need to feel that your only hope for a richer oxygen supply is at the hospital. You can administer your own cardiac first aid right where you lie.

* * * *

AND YOU SHOULD lie down when your heart is under strain, for the horizontal position reduces your blood pressure and also slows down the heart rate.

If, moreover, you know you have high blood pressure or have suffered a previous heart attack, your physician can give you pills that will also work swiftly to dilate the coronary arteries and thus permit them to carry more oxygen to the heart muscle.

So carry such medicine in your purse or vest pocket at all times. And beware of liquor. The latest findings veto the use of alcohol. This result is at variance with previous medical views where it was felt the alcohol would also dilate the coronaries and thus offer more blood supply to the ailing heart.

But alcohol dulls pain and thus acts much like morphine in masking the first symptoms of a heart attack. So the user of alcohol may not feel the early warning pain. As a result, he may run for a bus or hurry up a flight of stairs and then drop dead from the heart attack which his liquor has masked.

The final and best all-around antidote for heart patients is to team up with God in a daily partnership. Then your entire nervous tension is more relaxed and your heart works under less strain.

At bedtime, too, you can then ask God to take over the night shift for you and thus enjoy deeper, more refreshing slumber, untroubled by nightmares and insomnia.

You can survive many heart attacks, so don't worry about a previous attack if you are now six weeks beyond it! After six weeks of convalescence your heart is actually stronger than before the attack.

But tobacco and liquor hamper your heart so send for my booklet "How to Stop the Tobacco and Liquor Habits."

Please enclose a long, 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in requesting a Dr. Crane Bulletin. Address: Dr. George W. Crane, in care of Hopkins Syndicate, Mellott, Ind.

School Menus

Wholesome Meals for Students

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of Feb. 25 - March 1:

MONDAY: Hot dog, cut green beans, sliced peaches, Lorna Doone cookie and milk.

TUESDAY: Creole noodles, garden peas, orange wedge, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Chopped steak on mashed potatoes, frozen mixed vegetables, chocolate pudding with whipped cream, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

THURSDAY: Hamburger on bun, tossed green salad, fruit cup supreme, cheese slice and milk.

FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, chopped spinach, carrot sticks with peanuts, tuna salad sandwich and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch, 25c. Soup and salad from the junior-senior high school a la carte menu are sold in the elementary schools, but they may be purchased by the children only after they have purchased the tray lunch.

Junior and Senior High

TUESDAY: Neapolitan macaroni, garden peas, tossed green salad with egg garnish, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Turkey a la king on mashed potatoes, whole kernel corn, fruit cup supreme, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Barbecued beef on bun, frozen spinach, fruit gelatin, cheese slice and milk.

FRIDAY: Baked haddock or hot meat sandwich with gravy, sliced carrots, spicy applesauce, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

Our Children

Parents Must Be 'Young' to Sympathize With Youth

By ANGELO PATRI

Until Myrtle entered high school, she was a helpful, cheerful child. She did her home chores, achieved good marks in school, and enjoyed the group activities with careless joy. She did not want a new hairdo or a highly-tinted manicure, did not worry about the styles but wore the clothes she had, with her mother's help, selected in a matter-of-fact way.

All this has changed, to her parents' discomfort. Myrtle is so busy with her beauty routines and her wardrobe problems every morning she has no time for her chores, no time to be helpful or friendly. She always is hurried and anxious to be ready for the schoolbus. Worst of all, to her astonished and perturbed parents' minds, is her pert, even rude answers to any suggestion, any remark about her attitudes. This is something her mother and father did not expect.

All adolescent children tend to leave home and parents in order to respond to nature's demands that they mature and take their places as adults. They enter groups of young people of mixed standards; many of them who have been reared conservatively are attracted to teen-agers whose behavior is new and surprising to them. Dramatic actions, peculiar twists of speech in the new friends are so exciting, the young "conservatives" watch and listen and imitate these habits.

This changes their manners, their speech and many of their attitudes, and their parents become annoyed and worried. The younger the boy or girl is, the more dramatic and the more thorough the change.

This will pass. When the father and mother hold up the home standards and look with quiet but firm disapproval on the most outrageous of the new traits, when they insist that the home chores be done and the home program followed, come what may, the child has a feeling of safety and security which, while he seems not to care, means strength to his mind, body and character. Youngsters are happy to know their parents care enough about them to check their behavior and safeguard them.

While holding fast to home standards, be sure what is demanded of the children is really necessary to their welfare. A dash of rouge, a varnished manicure, a new hairdo are quite in order for the girls; a rakish cap, loud ties, peculiar sweaters are rightful belongings for the boys. A little leeway in speech, a stretching now and then of routines, a half-way meeting in controversies will help both sides.

Children do grow up, do leave home and parents. But youngsters return in time if home and parents are the welcoming sort, if they have stayed young and in sympathy with youth.

When a child cries for what he wants, something is wrong. How to find out the cause and what to do about it is explained by Dr. Patri in his leaflet P-4, "Crying Children." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

This feature appears daily in the Independent.

Dr. Wylder to Address L. B. Writers

"Transparent Prose" is the topic to be discussed by Robert Wylder, Ph.D., at the Long Beach Writer's Club Thursday, at 1 p.m. in the Library Room of Morgan Hall, 835 Locust Ave. Mrs. Mary Alden Campbell will preside at the business session.

Young Dr. Wylder is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin at Madison and has been assistant professor of English at Long Beach State College since 1953, teaching short story writing, drama and poetry.

A discussion period is planned by Mrs. Don U. Billings, program chairman.

The all day meeting will open at 10 a.m. with Mrs. Jean Crosse Hansen reading poetry; Miss Helen Johnson; short stories; Mrs. Lorena Fleisig, articles, and Mrs. Olive Spencer, juvenile stories.

Decorators

Ladies Auxiliary of the Painting and Decorating Association of the Harbor Area will meet at 12:30 p.m. Thursday for luncheon at the Hacienda, San Pedro. Hostesses will be Mrs. L. A. Davis and Mrs. D. W. Strand. A "silent auction" is planned.

Junior Lodge

Junior Director Virginia Heine will be in charge of Friday's meeting when Junior Lodge, Degree of Honor Lodge No. 108, meets in Machinists Bldg., 728 Elm Ave. Refreshments will be served by the Mother's Club at the close of the business session.

Paul Revere of the Indian Wars

By Margaret Zeiss

—Drawing by Parker Markle

Ft. Laramie lay 236 miles away and a blizzard was at peak fury, but Portugee Phil fought his way through.

EVERY SCHOOLBOY knows about the ride of Paul Revere, but few know about the ride of Portugee Philips.

This ride, which took place in 1866, is one of the unsung epics of the West.

John Philips, otherwise known as Portugee Phillips, was a civilian scout at Fort Phil Kearney in the Powder River country of eastern Wyoming. It was a far, lonesome outpost in the Sioux territory at the foot of the Big Horn Mountains. Col. Henry Beebe Carrington started it July 17, 1866. The Indians made their first attack July 24. Up to Dec. 31 the Sioux had killed 154 men and wounded 20 more. Also, they captured 700 head of livestock and made 51 hostile demonstrations.

AFTER THE INDIANS first attacked the colonel sent for reinforcements, among whom was Capt. W. J. Fetterman, a soldier of the Civil War.

The wood train was on its way down from the Big Horn mountains with more timber when it was attacked. Col. Carrington said, "Capt. Fetterman, you take 40 men and protect that train — but do not pursue the Indians beyond Lodge Trail Ridge."

When the captain saw the Indians were making a break to get out of his line of fire he disregarded those orders and said, "Come on, men, let's go get 'em!" That was a sad decision because he and all his men were killed.

WHEN THEY FAILED to return the colonel went to see what had happened. A sorry sight met his eyes. He ordered his men to bring back the dead, though it was 30 degrees below zero.

Regardless of the weather Col. Carrington called for a volunteer to go to Ft. Laramie, 236 miles to the south, for help. Horse Shoe Creek was 190 miles away and was the nearest telegraph station. That was still 40 miles north of Ft. Laramie.

With the temperature so low and a blizzard building up, the colonel was dubious about anyone offering his services, but up stepped Portugee Phillips.

"I'll go, sir, " he said.

"Fine," said the colonel and added, "I'll let you take my own mount, a Kentucky thoroughbred."

PORTUGEE TOOK a sack of oats and some hardtack, and with his arm raised in a salute rode off into the night. No one will ever know how he found his way, as men and horses usually go in circles in a storm such as that which broke over them.

On the third night he came to Horse Shoe Creek and there telegraphed Laramie, but the message was never received. He went on and on and finally reached his destination. It was Christmas though Portugee probably didn't even know it. He staggered, covered with snow, into a lighted hall which happened to be an officers' club called the "Bedlam" where a dance was being held. He gave his urgent message and then fainted. He was between life and death for weeks.

The government gave Philips $300 for his scouting and ride. Then the Sioux killed off his cattle and ruined him. After he died in 1866 the government gave Mrs. Philips $5,000.

COIFFURES

to create an illusion of height with curls, fluff, pompadour, or flatness with bangs. Effect on sides is determined by the mass outline of the face, such as heart, square, round, oval and inverted triangle.

In the end, the hairdresser strives to create the illusion of the oval face, which, he explains, is the perfectly shaped face.

After determining the shape of the face he must next find out the amount of curl in the patron's hair and whether it is natural or a permanent. He then considers the type of profile: chin line protruding or receding, nose too long or too short, forehead bulging, slanting or normal. He then shapes milady's hair, as, he points out, hair shaping is the foundation of a finished hairdress. The patron's hair is then ready to dress.

"THE USUAL CORRECT finish length," one hairdresser explained, "is an illusion of the head being one-fifth of the patron's overall height. The best hair style is one of naturalness and simplicity, with some softness.

"We must never clutter or overdo a hair style as this will cheapen and take away from the overall effect. The round, square and full face should have the hair brushed back and up, creating a full line even with the forehead, in order to give the correct balance and, of course, the illusion of an oval face. The long, triangular or heart-shaped face should be dressed down around the ears and forward, creating a wider illusion at the lower portion of the face.

"More than that, we strive to bring out personality, and give poise and new assurance to the individual."

TUNA CLUB MEN HOIST PARTY BURGEE

Once a year men of the Tuna Club hoist the party burgee in their private clubrooms at the Lafayette Hotel to signal their wives it's time for another gala cocktail buffet—only occasion during the year when women are welcomed "aboard." The annual affair, which took place last weekend, found the deep sea fishermen and their chic guests in particularly festive spirits. Pictured, left, are club president Al Beach and Mrs. Beach chatting informally with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene LeGrand. LeGrand, vice president, was party chairman. In the second picture, left to right, Mrs. Russell H. Pray and Mrs. Chet Yunker admire one of the many competitive trophies awarded each year and hear a husbandly lecture from Yunker, center, and Pray on the fishing skill it takes to win them!

Dancers to Appear in Civic Show

The Dorothy Castle Dance Studio of Long Beach will present a program of tap, ballet, acrobatic, modern and novelty numbers on the Community Program, sponsored by the Recreation Department, in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium Monday evening at 8.

Featured acts will include Colleen Williams, jump rope tap; Bobby and Ronnie Winebrenner, rhythm tap novelty; Judy Lauer giving her impression of "A Sweet Old Fashioned Girl;" Roberta Burns singing and dancing to "You'd Be Surprised;" Sandy Dearmin, acrobatic stair dance; Vicki Cue, Gary Fisher and Grayce James in a modern dance to "Slaughter on 10th Avenue;" six young Castle dancers doing "Ball 'N' the Jack," and a college pompon line dance finale.

George Griffith, local tenor, will lead community singing to open the program at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Madeline Frazer will be the accompanist.

Old time and square dancing with Allen Wilson as caller will follow the stage show. Music for dancing is furnished by the Tyo Orchestra.

This public is invited to attend and participate in this free civic program.

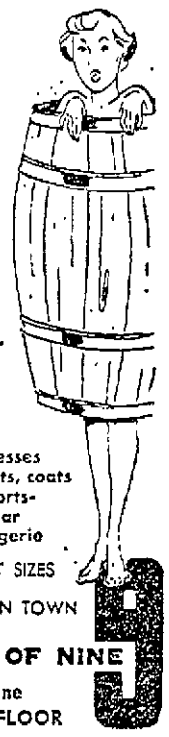

Beta Sigma Phi

Mrs. John Coleman, 770 Havana Ave., will be hostess for the Wednesday meeting of Xi Alpha Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. Albert Kennedy, a superintendent of marine maintenance for a major oil company stationed in Lebanon for the past 12 years, will be guest speaker.

Marion E. Wilson Now Mrs. James F. Bender

Now residing in Seal Beach are newly married Mr. and Mrs. James Franklin Bender who exchanged nuptial vows in evening services Feb. 16 at Greenwich Wedding Chapel. The pair honeymooned in Southern California coastal towns.

Dr. Reuben Anderson officiated at the double ring ritual which united the former Marion Evon Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Wilson, Seal Beach, and the son of Mrs. Billie Bender, also of Seal Beach, and the late Cmdr. Richard William Bender.

Given in marriage by her father, the young bride carried a white Bible crested with white orchids and stephanotis. Her gown was designed of delicate lace, taffeta and pleated nylon tulle. A crown of lace, pearls and sequins secured a lace-trimmed fingertip-length veil of silk illusion, and for her "something old," the bride chose her grandmother's heirloom rose point lace handkerchief carried by her mother and sister at their weddings.

Mrs. Keith I. F'Mayer preceded her sister down the bridal aisle as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Deanna Toppin and Judy Johnson. All were identical gowns of powder blue lace over taffeta and matching hats with rhinestone-studded face veils. Pale yellow carnations were selected for the matron of honor's bouquet, while pale pink carnations created a delicately contrasting picture with the two bridesmaids' ensembles.

Duties of the best man were performed by James E. Taylor Jr. The 100 wedding guests were escorted by Keith I. F'Mayer and the bridegroom's brother, John Bender.

Assisting the newlyweds at the chapel reception were Mrs. J. J. Rivas and Misses Diann Mitchell and Chantel Moschella.

The new Mrs. Bender is a graduate of Huntington Beach High School. Her husband, a St. Anthony's alumnus, served four years in the U. S. Navy.

Travel to Conference

Three Long Beach women will motor northward to Bakersfield to attend the one-day conference of Fellowship of Congregational Women of Southern California and the Southwest.

Taking part in the Tuesday caucus will be Mrs. Raymond Sites, 3555 Rose Ave., vice president and program chairman of the fellowship; Mrs. Charles D. Lovitt, president of Women's Fellowship at First Congregational Church, and Mrs. Edgar M. Becker, superintendent of social action department at the same church.

Nearly 400 women are expected at the religious conference in Bakersfield's First Congregational Church. They will hear a report of the mid-winter meeting in Buck Hill Falls, Pa., by the president, Mrs. B. R. McElderry. In the afternoon, Dr. Ione Catron, program secretary of Mission Council, will be featured speaker.

Music Club Looking to Charter Day

Charter day, an annual event anticipated by Woman's Music Club, will take place Wednesday noon in the Cavalier Room of Lafayette Hotel.

Open to members only, the event will be highlighted by the appearance of Mrs. Ethel Willard Putnam, only living charter member, whose topic, "Then and Now," will emphasize the beginning and growth of the club, now in its 49th year.

Soprano Shirley Hopkins will present several numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Annette Gridley.

In addition to honoring past presidents in attendance, the day will include a memorial service for deceased past presidents.

Mrs. Adolph Brodbeck, president, will preside.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. T. R. Scofield by Monday evening.

Ball to Be Gay Event

A gaily colored carousel centered in the recreation hall of Atlantic Avenue Methodist Church will leave no doubt about the light-hearted theme of the Carousel Ball when teen-age guests arrive Saturday to dance from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The Blue Notes, a group popular with young people, will play in a setting colorful with aqua, blue, pink, red and white decorations. One tenth of the dance proceeds will go to the general church fund; the remainder is earmarked for the support of the youth program.

Adults who will serve as official hosts are Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Marshall, Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. J. L. Treadwell, Lloyd Saatjian and the Rev. and Mrs. Willard Schurr.

Plans for the ball developed from an interest in forming denominational and interdenominational friendships among the church youth of Beach and to provide an opportunity for fun and fellowship.

DUVCW to Host Past Presidents

Emily R. Jewell Tent No. 15, Daughter of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will hostess a meeting of the Past Tent Presidents Association of Southern California at noon luncheon Thursday at the Hard of Hearing Clubhouse, 124 W. 14th St. Election of officers is slated.

The regular tent sewing meeting will take place at 11 a.m. Thursday in Veterans Memorial Building. Covered dish luncheon will be followed by a business session.

Narcotics Evil to Be Discussed

"Narcotics Problems in Our Community" will be the timely subject of the talk by Sergeant Willis Penhollow at the Thursday meeting of Chi Omega alumnae.

Because of the importance of the topic the members will be allowed to bring a guest so that this information from the Narcotics Division of the Long Beach Police Department may reach as many citizens as possible. Sergeant Penhollow will show a film outlining the steps in addiction.

The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. William Reid, 3023 E. Ocean Blvd. Mrs. L. H. Howe and Mrs. John Lemon will be cohostesses.

Before leaving Mexico City, White and Cohen plotted a route southward on adventurous trip to Guatemala City.

Bike Ride to Guatemala

(Continued from Page 10) from Mexico City for their final destination of Guatemala City. According to their advance planning, they arrived there on Aug. 30, dead broke and exhausted, but having gone through some of Mexico's most fascinating areas, as well as interesting Guatemalan territory.

WHITE SAID, before leaving Mexico City, "We haven't the slightest idea as to how we'll get back to Los Angeles, but we're hoping to bum a ride back on a cargo plane or even on a tramp steamer."

As they fully expected, they made it home, carrying souvenirs and a rich fund of material for their composition classes on their respective campuses.

Cohen studies art at the Chovinard Art Institute in Los Angeles. Much of his inspiration springs from sights seen during cycling excursions, added dividend from the effort put into them. And White, a political science major at UCLA, feels that his travels add a lot to his understanding of how other people live, supplementing his book learning with vivid firsthand experience.

cove near the kitchen is the children's corner faced with a bevy of little hardwood chairs. This is where the children's books and games are kept within handy reach of young fingers. Next to the play counter stands an upright piano, strictly for the fun and banging of it.

Also located close to the kitchen is a large, old-fashioned dining table where the family can adjourn for company dinners within view of the big split-brick corner fireplace.

WINDOWS RUN ALL the way around the room and are draped with double tiers of pleated natural monk's cloth. The lofty, exposed beam ceiling has rafters of redwood, stained a eucalyptus green. Most of the wall area is paneled to the ceiling with vertical natural mahogany. In the area devoted to conversation and televiewing, however, the Lanners chose an abstract, leaf-patterned wallpaper in colors of terra cotta, lime and green. An enormous sectional sofa goes around one corner while large lounge chairs help accommodate seating. Centering the conversation area is a large cobbler's bench coffee table.

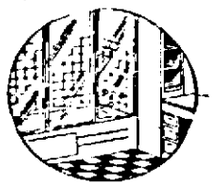

Off the kitchen is the new spacious service area that makes the chores of laundry a "breeze." Adjoining it is the new bath with its white tile, butter yellow fixtures and black vinyl tile.

The master bedroom is newly-furnished in cherry wood French provincial. The wallpaper is pale pinkish-beige patterned with small clusters of turquoise blossoms. The turquoise chintz coverlet that dresses the bed overlays a dust ruffle of stark white. Off the bedroom is a 3x6 foot, three-quarter bath.

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

—by PLACER MINER—

When Ol' Placer Miner first came to Long Beach State, we were introduced to the word "functional." Took us some time to understand what was meant when we were told that "modern living must be functional." After looking over this week's calendar, however, we know. For come this Wednesday there takes place in the Soroptimist House from 3 to 5 p. m. an event which is just as functional a function as has happened since the word was invented.

We're referring to the Delta Delta Delta party for members of the faculty. Each tri-Delt will invite one faculty member for whom she has a special feeling—be it because of a magnetic personality, a pleasant disposition, or maybe only because the prof is giving her a "D" and she darn well better raise her marks if she wants to remain a tri-Delt in good standing.

"Apple polishing, pure and simple!" said a tri-Delt spokesman when she told us about it.

Could be. But sounds like it has possibilities. We would like to take a peek at Delta Delta Delta transcripts at the end of this semester.

As long as we're talking about the tri-Delts, might as well mention their mothers' tea this afternoon from 2 to 4 p. m. in the Soroptimist House. About 50 girls and their mothers will be on hand. Dorothy Wooley is program chairman.

And as long as we're talking about sororities, wish we could tell you more about the Delta Zeta dinner dance at Disneyland Hotel this coming Saturday. But we must be a persona non grata to the DZs. Nobody has been around to tell us anything lately. Where are you, Joyce Flood?

A recent guest of Sigma Kappa was Mrs. Ruth Ann Greig of Oakland, national Panhellenic delegate and special adviser to the LBSC chapter. Mrs. Greig gave the girls new ideas on rushing, standards, scholarship, and other sorority items.

Members of the Philosophy Society met at the home of Dr. George Massey last Thursday evening. Items on the agenda included election of officers, a talk by Chuck Casper on Oriental religions, some informal discussion and inquiry, and refreshments.

Chuck Blondino is president of this group which, according to earlier reports, features "conversation you can sink your teeth in."

Reporting on a successful Young Republicans State Convention last week in Santa Barbara are members of the 49er YR contingent. They were pleased that LBSC was assigned two of the 42 delegate spots from Los Angeles County. Roger Malkus and Clay Catchel were those chosen.

Thursday sees the College Religious Council hosting a pot luck dinner for about 150 persons in the recreation hall of the Los Altos United Church. In attendance will be members of five religious groups on campus and their advisors plus faculty members who have spoken on the "This I Believe" series.

Featured speaker for the evening will be Dr. Gunther, head of the religious conference at UCLA. Dean Francis Flynn and son Gary will lead community singing.

Marcia Arnold of the Westminster Foundation and Jack Markel are handling arrangements.

This is also the week for the monthly meeting of Sigma Chi Nu, nurses' group at LBSC. The place, lower campus lounge, and the time, Wednesday at 8 p. m. Members will bring donations of household staples for the House of Hope, their goodwill project for the year.

Speaker of the evening will be one of the directors of the House of Hope. Mrs. Louise Johnson of San Pedro is Sigma Chi Nu president.

John Baugh, national chapter supervisor of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity was in town recently as he made his yearly visit to chapters west of the Mississippi. After the audit of the SAE books, Sigma Alpha Epsilon president Dale Fairbanks was pleased to announce, "Mr. Baugh found everything right where it should be—except our owl!"

Acacia Fraternity got a little taste of kidnaping recently, too. But instead of some inanimate object they lost Joe Reed. The story has a happier ending than the SAE episode, though, for instead of being buried in the sand at Sunset Beach, Joe was returned safe and sound to the Acacia hangout at 365 Walnut.

Seems that the LBSC Acacias had been doing some raiding of the UCLA chapter who retaliated with a raid a week ago yesterday. Finding little of value, the invaders finally walked off with Reed. Later in the day they made a deal with the local Acacia group; return our trophies which you took earlier and you can have Joe Reed back.

Well, to make a long story short, the trade was made and the missing Reed returned to Long Beach. "Kind of hated to give up those trophies, though," related the Acacia lad who was our source of information. "We figure they had a value of at least $25. But, on the other hand, I suppose Joe was worth that much."

Africa Topic for Juniors

Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, Junior Membership, will learn about "Africa—Continent of the Future" at their February Conference. Dr. Giles T. Brown will speak to the group on his experiences in this second largest continent, having just returned from a 30,000 mile trip to Africa.

Mrs. Milton I. Dales will preside at the eight o'clock meeting which will be held at the Norwalk Woman's Club, Monday evening.

The first handicraft exhibit to be held by the new district will also be presented. The foyer of the clubhouse will be available for clubs to display the works of their club members completed during the past year. This will be a combined arts and crafts exhibit and judges will be Mrs. Carl Russell of Artesia and Mrs. Malvina McLaughlin of Norwalk.

Will Hostess ADPi Meet

Mrs. Robert Lander will entertain Alpha Delta Pi alumnae in her home at 1104-A San Antonio Dr. Tuesday evening at 7:30. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. W. Donavon Tarlton.

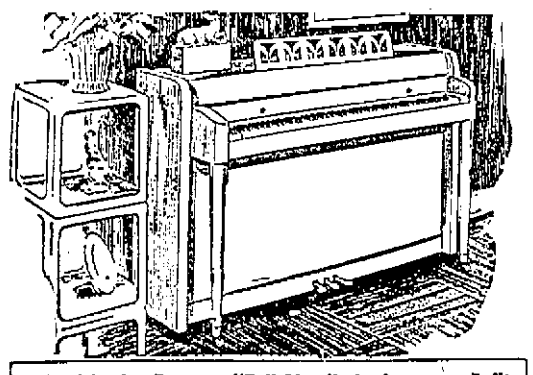

During the evening members will hear guest speaker Jenny Barrie and, under the direction of Mrs. Charles T. Brown, the group will complete decorations for the March 9 tea and fashion show, "On to the Bahamas," to take place at the Hollywood-Roosevelt Hotel.

Reservations for the meeting may be made with the hostess or with Mrs. Edward Orth. All ADPis in the area are invited.

Sweetness Lost

Fresh vegetables from the market are often not as sweet or tender as those picked and eaten almost immediately from the garden because they continue to mature after harvesting.

Vitamin Lore

Vitamin C, a valuable nutrient in vegetables, may be lost in considerable amounts when vegetables are not eaten for a long time after harvest.

Baby's Speech

The development of baby's speech is one of the most delightful aspects of watching him grow up. First come the single words which indicate a whole series of things. Later come the two-word sentences and the thoughts.

Organizations Tell Theme of Tables

Participating groups Thursday in Alpha Phi International's Table Topic Tea at Virginia Country Club have announced their table themes. Each group will decorate a table around their chosen theme and will compete for a cash prize determined by popular vote. Other prizes will be awarded by a panel consisting of Anne G. Phillips, Claire Conway and Jerome A. Donson.

Groups and their themes are North Long Beach Junior Women's Club, hobo; Osteopathic Society, English dessert; Realtors' Wives, Miss Universe coronation; Stephens College Alumnae, Latin American dinner; North Long Beach Women's Club, Melody of Spring; Dames Club, Hawaiian; Sandlarks, Christmas, and Holy Family Adoption Service, baby.

Also Nightingales, children's party; Rick Rackers, Easter; Los Altos Garden Club, golden wedding anniversary; Pilot Club, May Day breakfast; Assistance League, orchids to the girls; Lawyers' Wives, true love ever; Medical Auxiliary, autumn; Druggists' Wives, silver wedding anniversary; Kiwani - Anns, pancake breakfast; Optometric Wives, pirate breakfast, and Chiropractic Auxiliary, bridal shower.

Language Tip

As soon as baby learns how to indicate his needs or wants verbally, it's well to tell any baby sitter what the phrases mean. "Boo" may make perfect sense to the family, but to a stranger it's more likely to mean a game than a call for the bathroom.

Avoid Shine

Iron dark cottons on the wrong side to avoid a shiny look. Linens may have a sheen when ironed, but dark cottons should be dull in appearance.

Cmdr. R. C. Bolstad is veteran officer in the Survey.

sure what the coasts of this country looked like. So, naturally, they created a bureau to find out.

Through the years the Survey not only charted the coasts but widened its scope to chart the seas, to criss-cross the continent with the "triangulation lines" that tell us where we are on earth, to probe the complexities of ocean currents, earthquake phenomena, and solar activities.

The name U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey — which is what the bureau is sometimes called — sounds staid and statistical. But it has had its adventures and its characters. It has even had a mutiny.

THE SURVEY schooner Ewing, lying off the coast at San Francisco in 1849, sent a gig ashore. The crew, maddened with gold fever, threw their leader overboard and headed for the gold fields. They were caught, convicted of "mutiny, desertion, and running away with a boat." One of them was hanged from the Ewing's fore yard arm.

James McNeill Whistler, the famous artist, was employed briefly in 1854 in the Survey's Engraving Section.

WHEN HE DID get around to drafting charts instead of beer, Whistler had the disturbing habit of etching fanciful figures into the margins and open spaces. Some of his engravings show coastlines surrounded with human heads.

But by and large, the Survey has depended, rather, on such men as Comdr. Bolstad. He is a civil engineer and has been with the Survey since 1926, when he graduated from the University of Minnesota in the upper third of his class.

In the Pacific in World War II he helped the island-hopping Marines chart shorelines — in advance of attacks. He has carried survey equipment into the frozen wastes of the Aleutians, where he wandered 25 miles one day in a fog so dense it even had the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey confused. Once, while he was conducting a survey in Indiana, his observation towers were erroneously identified in the papers as launching stations for flying saucers.

"Working with the Survey is pretty much routine," he says.

As Southern California district chief, Bolstad does have an interest in a project that is out of this world.

His crews are locating a site southeast of San Diego for a very delicate purpose. At that position electronic equipment will be used for tracking the artificial satellite which American scientists will soon hurl into the heavens.

This will, of course, identify Bolstad as an officer of the U. S. Coast and Geophysical Year.

San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf

A Guide to Pleasure

San Francisco, say world travelers, is one of the most cosmopolitan and exciting cities anywhere. "Herb Caen's Guide to San Francisco" (Doubleday, $2.95) tells how to get the most out of a visit to the City by the Golden Gate. Caen, once called "the man second only to the fog in covering San Francisco," describes his city's multitude of historic spots and other attractions and how to get to each; the restaurants (including what you get for how much), the hotels and, finally, the city's night life—its dancing, drinking and hot spots. Any visitor not thoroughly acquainted with San Francisco should find Caen's guide a valuable one.

Heartbeat of the Hinterlands

THE HEARTBEAT of the back country, far from the rush of the cities, where a man can take time to build a big eucalyptus fire, see a sunset or watch the purple shadows climb over the hills, is caught in "The West Is My Home" by Tom Hudson (Laguna House, P. O. Box 506, Elsinore, Calif., $3.75). It is the kind of writing not seen in these parts since the late John Steven McGroarty wrote about life in the Verdugo Hills.

Hudson is editor and publisher of the Lake Elsinore Valley Sun, which he gets out each and every Thursday. He is a country editor and proud of it—and that puts him at the backbone of American journalism. He and his wife Bennie live in an adobe house, with a massive fireplace Tom built himself. Friends—and they have to be real ones—gather in the adobe around the roaring fire and they talk and think about everything that really matters.

One time as Tom prepared to go to press, he faced a blank column opposite the editorial page in the Sun. Quickly, he sat down at a Linotype, wrote a column which he called "From the Personal Angle," and it continues to be a weekly feature.

Many of these columns of musings, retrospection, ideas, dreams, and just plain contented enjoyment of life are combined in the volume.

MARCIA RYAN, who as a bride comes to a Navy base in wartime, seeks to achieve self-fulfilment through a rich and rewarding relationship with her husband. She longs to be useful—and needed. But he is occupied with his career and bachelor pleasures that do not include her. Along comes another man, warm, gay, understanding. How Marcia juggles Dave and Hank, and how she resolves the triangle is related in "The Braid Circle" by Dee Burke Lopez (Vantage, $3.50). The writer and her husband, Capt. Robert Lopez, are stationed at Fort MacArthur, where Capt. Lopez is with the Army Reserve Advisory Group.

EVERYONE REMEMBERS the American freighter "Flying Enterprise," caught in a hurricane near Ireland and her intrepid skipper, Capt. Kurt Carlsen who hung on for 16 days. But few remember the gallant attempt of the English tug "Turmoil" to save man and ship. The story is well told again in "Rescue Tug" (Dutton, $3.50) by Ewart Brookes. The book has dramatic photographs.

READING IS THE BASIS of learning, and a frightening number of children—and adults—have difficulty learning to read. Helen M. Thompson, director of the Thompson Reading Clinic in Anaheim, out of her interest in this problem, has written "Swierl, a Plan for Better Reading" (Vantage, $3.50) which she hopes will aid teachers and parents. "Swierl," incidentally, is a coined word, each letter standing for a habit of mind and conduct that must be developed to read successfully.

WHO WERE THE INCAS? Where did they come from, and what were their beliefs, their gods, their legends and traditions? And why did this great and powerful empire fall to a handful of Spanish adventurers? Bertrand Flornoy, president of the Explorers Club of France, and who has spent much of his life in the Amazonian and Andean lands of the Incas of old, gives the answers in the absorbing and scholarly "The World of the Inca" (Vanguard Press, $4.50).

A NEW AND certainly a most unique way of licking obesity, based on spiritual concepts, is unfolded in "Pray Your Weight Away" (Lippincott, $2.95). The author, Rev. Charlie W. Shedd, D.D., declares that he reduced 100 pounds in three years by taking the matter before God, and that others can do the same. But, he warns, if you don't like God, praying is sure to be unproductive.

A BACKGROUND of hypnotic techniques which he has used in clinical work dealing with psychosomatic medicine, obstetrics and abnormal psychology is given by Dr. A. Philip Magonet, M.D., in "Hypnosis in Medicine" (Wilshire Book Co., 8721 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood 46). Dr. Magonet is president of the Hypnosis Association of England.

AT THE BOTTOM of the world lies a seventh continent—Artarctica—almost as large as Europe and Australia combined. Still wrapped in the Ice Age, it has defied man's explorations until recent times; but thanks to the air age, man is beginning to solve its mysteries. What has been discovered there, and the adventures of making these discoveries, is told by Walter Sullivan in "Quest for a Continent" (McGraw-Hill, $5.50. Mr. Sullivan, a New York Times correspondent, has been attached to three U. S. expeditions to Antarctica.

"REFLECTION BOOKS" is the imprint for a new series of 50-cent religious paperbacks written for the average churchgoer and the average college student for Association Press. First titles: "The Life of Christ in Poetry," compiled by Hazel Davis Clark; "What Christianity Says About Sex, Love and Marriage," by Roland H. Bainton; "Basic Christian Writings," edited by Stanley I. Stuber; "Words to Change Lives," important sermons by leading clergymen; "A Short Primer for Protesants," by James H. Nichols, and "Religious Living," by Georgia Harkness.

Ira M. Unsell, M. D.

Chef of the Week

Even Doc's Cooking Has Eye, Nose, Throat Appeal

By MILDRED K. FLANARY

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

He's an ophthalmologist and an otolaryngologist! Don't bother to look 'em up. In plain English, he's an eye and ear specialist, which, of course, includes the nose and throat. Today's "chef:" Dr. Ira M. Unsell established his office here in 1948.

Dr. Unsell confined his youth (through high school) to Chanute, Kan. He began his working career on the Chanute "Daily Timesett," at the age of 7, delivering the same paper route for that many years. At the age of 12, he added the Kansas City Post to his daily schedule. His college "budget" was enhanced by such occupations as landscape gardener, kitchen assistant, bus boy and breakfast cook.

Receiving his medical education at the College of Medical Evangelists at Loma Linda, he took his BS degree at Walla Walla College in Washington. Post-graduate work was done at the Los Angeles Eye and Ear Hospital, the Kern County General Hospital at Bakersfield, the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field in Texas, USC and at the Calcutta School of Medicine in India.

A flight surgeon with the Army Air Force for five years, he served four of them in the Alaska and India-Burma areas. An air medal and three battle stars are grim reminders. He continues his air association as a CAA examiner.

On the staff of the Long Beach Community, St. Mary's and Seaside Hospitals, he attends at the Los Angeles Eye and Ear Hospital, as well. A member of the Long Beach and Los Angeles E.E.N.T. societies and the American Medical Assn., he is also affiliated with both the Los Angeles County and California State Medical Assns., and is a Diplomat of the National Board.

He has one more title which he values more than any of these. He is the husband of Dr. Glee A. Renick—whose favorite title is Mrs. Unsell! Dr. Renick is an obstetrician.

With a "Perry Como type" ability for easy-going relaxation, Unsell is always on good terms with himself and skillfully accomplishes an enormous amount of work through thoughtful coordination. He very carefully and systematically saves all printed matter which comes his way.

Golf, tennis, volley ball, hunting, deep sea fishing and flying (he soloed on a runway), were quite important to him, but they've been outfumbled by a three-seated bike—he in lead position with his two sons, 6 and 4, on behind.

Music also is much a part of his life, evidencing itself mainly in a baritone voice. Very active in the Seventh-day Adventist Church, he has been a choir member and served as leader of youth and in the senior Sabbath school and Missionary Volunteer Society as well.

Our "chef" doesn't like venison as-is . . . and recommends this recipe for other ardent hunters with the same appetite twist.

VENISON CHILI

2 lbs. ground venison
1 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 cups cooked brown beans
2 cans tomato sauce (8 oz.)
1 tsp. chili powder
½ tsp. poultry seasoning (adds an oriental flavor).

Brown meat and onions to medium well done. Add beans, tomato sauce and garlic. Simmer 30 minutes. Add chili powder, poultry seasoning and salt and simmer another 30 minutes. This will present venison so everyone will like it.

Blue Star Events Set

Mrs. Robert Elder of 2505 E. 14th St., president of the Department of California, Blue Star Mothers of America, will leave Monday for Des Moines, Iowa, where she will attend the national executive board meeting of the organization.

She will join with Mrs. Richard Jonechat of Covina, national president, and Mrs. Waldo Uhl of Rosemead, national parliamentarian, for the trip.

The regular department meeting is slated at 10 a.m. Thursday in the YWCA Auditorium with Mrs. Thomas E. Sweeney, department first vice president, in charge.

A conference with classes of instruction for all chapter officers and chairmen will be program for the day with Mrs. David Wimberley of Alhambra as chairman, assisted by Mrs. James Farrington of Garden Grove.

All chapters are urged to participate. Luncheon hostesses will be Chapter Two of Huntington Beach and Chapter 24 of Ocean View.

Noble Husband Is Losing Wife

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

After 11 years and four wonderful kids, ages 4 through 10, two months ago the roof fell in on my marriage.

Because of my work, I'm on the road a good deal, but outside of a few quarrels my wife and I have had a better-than-average life. We both agree on that.

I must have sensed something a while back because I began to take her and the baby (he's a boy—the other three are girls) with me on trips and tried to spend more time at home.

My wife says she started looking a long time ago for someone she could really love, that she decided she couldn't love me. She said that because of the children, it had to be someone special.

Two months ago she told me all this. She also said she had found the right person, a local businessman about 15 years her senior. I was flabbergasted, but I owe her a lot (all I am or hope to be). I agreed to a good-sized settlement and gave her the kids—and then she wouldn't take the settlement.

I wondered, worried and thought a lot—enough to go on my own to the other man. That was pure hell, but four good kids were involved. The other man turned out to be quite a good guy. He had taken advantage of no one and only wanted to be friends to everybody concerned.

He advised me to bear with things and see if it wouldn't work out. Thank the Lord she picked him instead of some other men I know!

Well, we agreed to let it drift; that is, I was going to try to win back her regard and she would remain faithful. I just don't see what life I could have at 32 without my family. I would have nowhere to go and nothing to live for. What do you advise?—WONDERING AND WORRIED.

DEAR W. AND W.:

Doggone it anyway, why don't you quit being so courtly and gallant and self-sacrificing and start acting like a man? That's probably all your wife wanted you to do anyway.

It's pretty obvious you're hardly the dashing, romantic type. Not a word do you say about being in LOVE with your wife. You talk about what will happen to you and so on and so on. I think your wife just got tired of routine, of having to cope with four kiddies when you were out on the road, and decided to look around a bit.

But beyond that, she doesn't seem to have decided much of anything. She came to you, womanlike, and said she'd found another man.

Did you hit the roof and say you couldn't let her go and you'd fight for her? Not at all. You merely worked out the best settlement you could.

And, womanlike, having attained everything she'd asked for and more, your wife refused the settlement. Did you sweep her into your arms at this point and ask her to reconsider? Nope.

You went to see the OTHER man. Now if there had been any great romance, your wife would have jumped at the chance of a settlement and her children and life with a man she said she loved. But she scurried away from any such arrangement, once it became possible.

As for that nice OTHER man, he sounds like he had no idea things would ever reach such a pretty pass. He wants you to try again—hardly the impassioned cry of an ardent swain.

Your wife is bored and restless. But she won't leave you if you start telling her how much you need and love her—and quit being so all-fired noble. Learn how to live a little!

—M. M.

Concert at Art Center

Ancient music for violin and classical guitar will be featured at 4 p. m. today at Municipal Art Center in the ninth Chamber Music Concert of the Sunday afternoon series. Performing with Elisabeth Waldo, violin, will be Emmet Sargeant, cello; Natalie Limonick, piano, and Guy Garfield Horn, guitar.

Miss Waldo, director of the ensemble, was formerly one of the leading violinists in Stokowski's All American Youth Orchestra. Years of research and concertizing throughout Central and South America have resulted in her authoritative knowledge and interpretation of Latin America's beautiful melodies and exotic rhythms.

The concert is open to the public without charge. A reception will be held during the intermission, at which time Lois Critchfield, Ida Klump and Marie Thomas will serve as hostesses. The program will be broadcast over radio station KFOX-FM from 8 to 9 p. m. following the performance.

Carnation Club

Carnation Club will hostess a public card party Wednesday at the home of Margaret Topper, 5131 Linden Ave. Luncheon will be served at noon by the hostess and her assistants, Mmes. Phoebe Nicodemus and Mary Corrigan.

Spring Portrait

In his younger days, when models were hard to come by, Renoir bribed them to pose for him—tantalizing, cat-faced beauties—by offering them hats. Now, taking a cue from the famous French master, Mr. John, fashion authority, turns to hats with adorable new fabrics and dainty flowers to produce his own portraits for spring. The result? See for yourself.

"Still Life," a Coquette bonnet with Renoir flowered brim laden with Impressionist pink roses, shepherdess' mauve of Lyons silk bows.

"To the One I Love Best," Boulevardier bowler of Cafe Glace toyo straw trimmed with poppy red ribbon and primrose yellow ostrich plume.

"Springtime"—a dress circle "flirt with me" stunner of Leghorn gaily trimmed with frosted cherries, strawberries and field poppies.

Casserole from Italy

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Lasagna Casserole has many advantages: It can be largely put together the day before serving, then heated in the oven, and it is a spicy taste treat.

A CASSEROLE bubbles in the oven while a salad waits in the refrigerator. Just think—you have 15 unhurried minutes until dinnertime!

An oven dish like lasagna (la-san-ya) casserole gives you a pre-meal "breather." And for an informal feast, there's nothing better than a flavorful serving of homemade lasagna—a green salad, fruit dessert and the beverage of your choice.

Thanks to the popularity of Italian-style cooking, the necessary ingredients are available almost everywhere. Mozzarella cheese (Italian soft cheese) is now shipped long distances in refrigerated cars in the new vacuum-sealed, shrunk-to-fit plastic bags. Ricotta cheese (Italian pot cheese) may be more difficult to locate, but cream-style cottage cheese makes a fine substitute. The long, wide lasagna noodles are made by macaroni manufacturers in many parts of the country with plain or rippled edges.

THE RECIPE for lasagna casserole is frightening in length, but take a second look. The meat sauce can be made the day before or early in the day, the casserole is combined in a matter of minutes and the final preparation is completed in the oven without further attention.

Lasagna Casserole

- 1 lb. ground beef
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 2 tsp. seasoned salt
- ½ tsp. pepper
- 1 No. 2½ can tomatoes (3½ cups)
- 1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
- 1 pks. (1½ oz.) spaghetti sauce mix
- ½ lb. lasagna (broad noodles)
- ½ lb. mozzarella cheese, sliced
- ½ lb. ricotta cheese
- ¼ cup Parmesan cheese

Cottage cheese can be used instead of ricotta, however, be sure to drain thoroughly

Brown meat in hot Dutch oven or deep kettle. Add seasoned salt. (We like to omit fat and brown meat in seasoned salt.) Add crushed garlic and pepper. Simmer slowly about 10 minutes. Add canned tomatoes, tomato sauce and spaghetti sauce mix. Stir thoroughly, cover and simmer 30 minutes. Meanwhile, boil lasagna in salted water until tender, drain and rinse. Pour ½ of meat sauce into a 12"x8"x2" baking dish. Cover meat sauce with strips of lasagna. Arrange slices of mozzarella and spoonfuls of ricotta over lasagna. Repeat layers, ending with meat sauce and top with Parmesan cheese. Bake in moderate open (350°F.) about 20 minutes. This is an exceptionally rich casserole, and when doubled, makes an ideal dish for a buffet. Serves six to eight.

Operation Ol' Fishin' Hole

By Helen Smith

Shallows of Big Bear Lake were sprayed with fish toxicant with aid of Navy helicopter from Los Alamitos.

CHEMICAL WARFARE has invaded the peaceful realm of the fisherman.

Drastic though it may sound, an all-out purge of all fish in Big Bear Lake was found necessary recently as the Department of Fish and Game began chemical treatment of this popular angling resort to remove 5,000,000 stunted crappie which were crowding out trout, bass and bluegill.

Big Bear Lake has been receding for years and seining and test spotting revealed that fish were begining to die due to lack of oxygen.

DFG OFFICIALS concluded that the saturation point had been reached and the quota of trout ready for restocking would in all probability die as fish food and growing room were being depleted.

Following a preliminary survey made by the one-helicopter "air force" from Los Alamitos Naval Air Station near Long Beach, six boats were dispatched last October loaded with suffocating chemical. They began spraying the 300 surface acres of Big Bear Lake which resulted in killing 250 tons of fish in one day.

Since the fish died of suffocation rather than poison, hundreds of persons gathered to pick up the two and three-pound bass, bullhead catfish and some trout, all of which were edible despite the fact they did not succumb from orthodox hook-and-line methods.

RESTOCKING OF the lake was delayed following the purge because of low water. Rain and snow will soon be pouring gallons of mountain water into the thirsting shallows offering a revitalized home to the trout, sunfish and large mouthed bass leaping to bait and lure.

When the spring fishing season opens, more than 60,000 catchable sized trout, plus the 1957 allottment of 20,000, will await to match wits with fisherman from this area.

In addition, one quarter million fingerling rainbows will be planted in the lake. They will have an excellent chance of survival with "trash" fish gone.

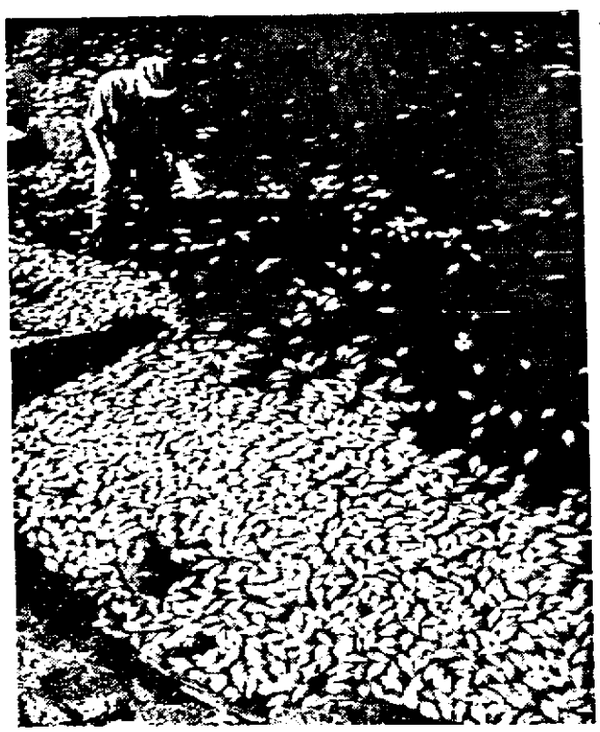

ACCORDING TO the Department of Fish and Game, results from the unprecedented treatment will not be fully realized until the 1958 season. However, officials expect the recent remedial operation to attract many persons in 1957.

So the day is near when fishermen will no longer have to go far afield to show a creel-full limit for several hours of sport.

Big Bear Lake will again live up to its "fishin' hole" reputation gained in former years.

Test seine hauls like this had proved Big Bear to be over-populated with stunted crappie, eating up food.

Millions of crappie were knocked off by spraying the lake with toxicant. This is part of the millions killed.

LA REINA RULE

★ WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS ★

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like information about my name GOUGH. Our history goes back to King Charles I of England. The family came from Ireland before the Revolutionary War. B. C. G.
Bellflower.

DEAR B. C. G.: The name GOUGH of England and Wales originated in the ancient Welsh word "goch" meaning "of red complexion." John Goch, a Welshman of the early 1100s was recorded as first using this name. His son changed the name to Sir Matthew Gough. He was a gallant soldier under King Henry VI of England. The Gough coat-of-arms, granted at that time, had a blue lion between three gold boars heads on a silver band. These emblems were on a red shield. William Gough (1605-1679) was the executioner of King Charles I in 1649. He fled to America when Charles II was crowned in 1660. He and his family settled at Hadley, Mass.

DEAR MISS RULE: I should like an analysis of the name MOSIER. C. D. M.
Paramount.

DEAR C. D. M.: MOSIER, a re-spelling of the French-Swiss "Moshier" was taken from the German name Moser. This was a medieval home description of your ancestor's location. It meant "man who lived on a moor or wasteland." The Moshier coat-of-arms had a red rose with a rosebud on the side of the stem, placed on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would appreciate your analysis of STEWART. S. Z. S.
Garden Grove.

DEAR S. Z. S.: STEWART is among the noblest and oldest Scotch clan-names and has been synonymous with the Scotch and English royal families for centuries. The family is traced back to Brittany, France and the Count of Dol whose grandnephew Walter went to England about 1125 A.D. He was created High Steward of Scotland by King Malcolm IV in 1157. The surname Stewart (formerly Steward) was taken from his title. The first Stewart to become a Scotch ruler was Robert, crowned king in 1370. The lineage continued down through James V, Mary Queen of Scots and her son who became James I of England. Queen Elizabeth II is descended from this family. The Stewart coat-of-arms has a band of checkered blue and silver squares across a gold shield. Descendants of the clan settled in Connecticut about 1700.

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like your analysis of the name LEWIS. W. M.
Wilmington.

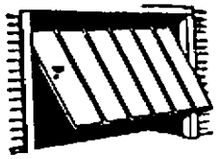

DEAR W. M.: The English LEWIS from the German given-name Ludwig, means "renowned warrior." Before the German usage it was Levi in the Old Testament. In America most Lewises are of Welsh ancestry. Welshmen Anglicized their name Llewellyn into Lewis over 500 years ago. The Welsh Lewises claim descent from Llewellyn, Lord of St. Clair, whose ancestor was Cadivor, an 11th century Prince of Wales. Their coat-of-arms was a black rampant lion on a gold shield. Among the first of the family in America was William Lewis, married in Farmington, Conn., in 1644.

DEAR MISS RULE: My husband's name HALLOWELL sounds English to me. Can you enlighten us? Mrs. C. R. H.
Long Beach 6.

DEAR MRS. C. R. H.: HALLOWELL, with the meaning "at the Holy well" is a town in the parish of Dean, Lancashire, England. John of Hallewelle is recorded as living at this place in 1288. The Hallowell coat-of-arms adopted by John's descendants had three silver goats on a diagonal red stripe across a gold shield. American settlers by this name first built their home in 1738 at Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass.

(Editor's Note: Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for your name-meaning and brief family genealogy. Replies will be printed in this column.)

A bra-and-girdle designer helped develop suit worn by Maj. Murray who holds 90,000-ft. altitude mark.

By Lisande LaCoste

WHY HAS the U.S. Air Force asked a brassiere and girdle manufacturer to design its latest high-altitude flying suit? A good question.

The new-fangled flying suit is not dissimilar to the corset grandma used to wear. Also, like the corset of old, quite a bit of assistance is needed to don the suit and tie its many laces. A flying suit must fit snugly if it is to perform its life-saving mission.

A high-altitude flight suit literally is a life-saver for the fast-flying modern jet jockey. It protects him if the cockpit should fail—even at 65,000 feet when his body literally would burst from the low pressure.

Actually, the suit holds the "pilot together." And should the plastic windshield shatter in a sonic or supersonic flight, the suit and helmet would automatically fill with compressed oxygen. This would create a temporary balance of air inside and outside the plane and enable the pilot to dive to a lower altitude, thus giving him a new lease on life.

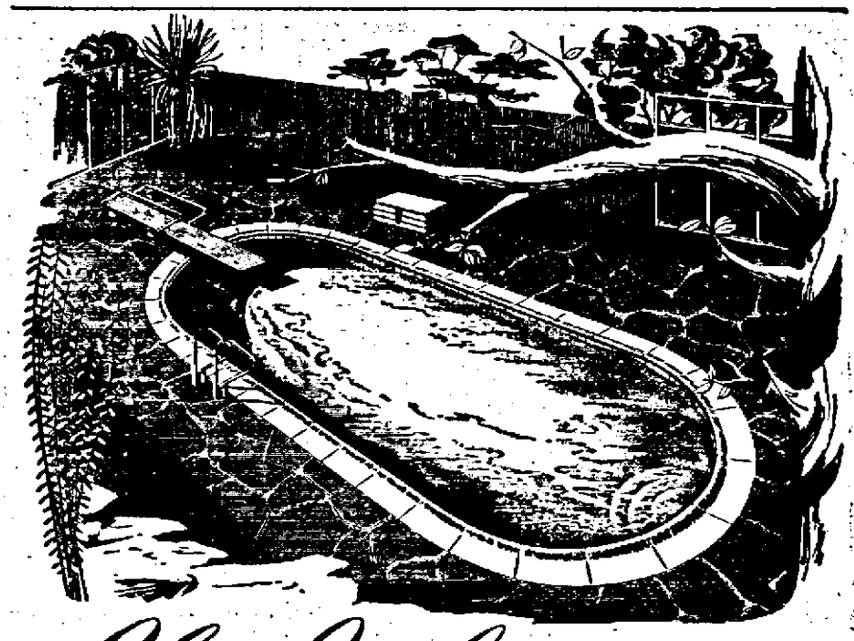

With many laces and supports, new high-altitude suit of the Air Force, resembles a corset of grandma's day.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

FROM MEXICO

We are two not-so-young ladies planning a trip to Mexico. Should we rent a car at the border and drive into Mexico City, or fly? . .

RATHER THAN HIRE a car on the U.S. side of the border, why not bus or fly down? There is about 1,000 miles of semi-desert before the country gets interesting.

You can rent from either Avis or Hertz in Mexico City. Avis has a $9.60 per day, 5 cents a mile and your own gas deal—less by the week. Hertz goes for $9 a day, 9 cents a mile with a weekly rate. All gas paid.

I think they really add up about the same. But if you plan long drives like down to Oaxaca, you might figure which is the better.

. . . What hotel and restaurants would you suggest for us in the capital?

I THINK the Hotel Geneva would be what you want. A good double room will be about $8. This is an excellent small hotel that has had Americans for years. Good location in a quiet but building shopping district. Good service. Good newsstand. Good dining room for breakfast and within two blocks of the best restaurants in Mexico: The 1, 2, 3; Rivoli; Focolare; La Cava; Passy; Parador.

For some atmosphere some night try Gitaneria at Oaxaca 15. About 10 or 11 o'clock. Flamenco dancing and manzanillo wine in the manner of Seville.

On your last trip to Italy you mentioned a restaurant in Florence. What was the name of it?

IT WAS THE PAOLI on the Via Tavolini and I'll never forget the dinner I had there. Scampi alla marinara. They are medium-sized prawns simmered in white wine with a little garlic, red pepper and, I think, oregano. This on a bed of fluffy rice—just a little pepper hot. It would make a fortune in the Texas border country. With it I had the chilled Ciclopi white wine from Sicily. And a green chicory salad, dressed with oil and vinegar on the side. It was wonderful.

Our son is stationed in Bonn and we will visit him this summer. We have reservations at the Petersburg Hotel. Do you know anything about it?

THE PETERSBERG sits on a high hill overlooking the Rhine near Bonn. It is in the de luxe class. The wallpaper is woven in silk. The beds are rococo nests of gray leather with down comforts packed in linen envelopes.

The drapes are expensive. The dining room is a vast hall of black marble and carved wooden pillars with massive crystal chandeliers. The waiters wear tailcoats and white gloves and the menu lists fresh caviar and clear kangaroo tail soup.

I thought it was a rich and gloomy pile of stone and when I was there it had a guest list of rich and gloomy people.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Rome at Easter

Planned so that Easter Sunday and the three most solemn days of Holy Week may be spent in Rome, a pilgrimage tour of four European countries taking only two weeks' time has been announced by Trans World Airlines and the Catholic Travel Division of American Express.

Highlights of the tour are visits to major Christian shrines in the four countries, as well as general sightseeing. Each tour group will be accompanied by an especially-appointed spiritual director.

The tour will leave New York via TWA Constellation April 13, arriving in Paris the next day. Two full-day programs in Paris include visits by motorcoach to the Madeleine Church Palace of the Invalides, the Eiffel Tower, Sacre Coeur Church, the Louvre, Notre Dame Cathedral and Versailles.

The tour will be in Rome from April 18 through April 22, for the observance of Holy Thursday, Good Friday, Holy Saturday and Easter Sunday. (A request has been made through the North American College for an audience with the Pope.)

The return flight will include stops at Madrid and Lisbon.

Cost of the pilgrimage is $874, including all transportation, hotel accommodations in double rooms with private bath at good hotels, Continental breakfast and lunch each day, sightseeing plus entrance fees and the services of an English-speaking guide, transfers between airports and hotels, taxes and gratuities in Europe.

Going to Mexico?

Alfredo Gayou, vice president of Aeronaves de Mexico, announced a new service, this week, for passengers departing for Mexico, via Aeronaves.

Free limousine service is now available, beginning Feb. 18, from the airline's terminal in the Spreckels Bldg., 131 Broadway, San Diego, to the airport in Tijuana, for passengers on Aeronaves flights 112, non-stop Constellation service to Guadalajara and one-stop to Mexico City, and flight 122, non-stop Constellation service to Acapulco. The limousines will depart from the terminal office at 12:15 daily, and will transport both passengers and baggage directly to the Tijuana airport.

HOW TO Do Better Work with Drill Press, Using Metal or Wood Materials

1. CENTER-PUNCH before starting to drill at point where scribed lines intersect.

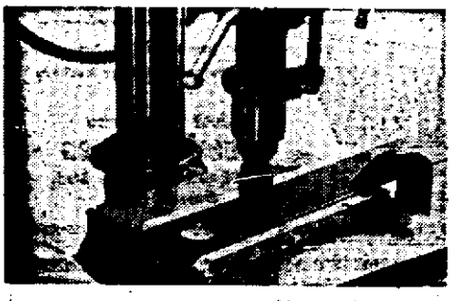

2. AVOID "SPRINGING" thin metal with drill pressure. V-support easily adjusts to support the work on both sides of and close to the drilling.

3. ROUND PIPES, rods, bars, shafts held in V of V-block, clamped with U-clamps, are easy to hold. Center-punching is a necessity. The clamps must be kept tight.

4. U-CLAMPS, HOLDING channel iron here, are adaptable to many shapes of materials; can be made of ⅜-¾-inch mild steel. Wing nuts on bolts in T-slots make them easy to use.

5. LARGE HOLES through thin metal are easily made with a hole saw. Use block of wood to back it up. Very thin metal may need wood on both sides to prevent wrinkling.

6. MACHINE AUGER bits must run at low speeds. Best is 350-600 rpm. Higher speeds may burn bit. Decrease pressure on drill as bit breaks through to prevent splintering.

Proper care and planting of dahlia tubers results in prize blooms like this.

YOUR GARDEN

Those Foolproof Dahlias Are a Joy

By David I. Gilfillan

WE ARE NOW near the end of the bare-root planting season and while I have no intention of discussing further the planting or care of bare-root stock, I do want to urge each one of you to complete this phase of gardening immediately.

Most local nurseries are offering very attractive specials on all bare-root stock this week. Check the ads in today's garden section, take advantage of the many specials and be sure to tell your nurseryman that you saw his ad in the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Today I want to pass along a few suggestions on what should be done in the garden this week. The important thing in local gardening is being on schedule with your garden chores. This is the only way by which you can have an attractive garden.

If you were growing dahlias last year and you have not yet dug up and taken care of the old clumps, do so this week. Dig up the entire clump, being sure that you don't cut into the tubers with your spade. Using a good force of water, wash the soil off the tubers, inspect them and discard any that are suffering from disease (usually rot) or are badly injured.

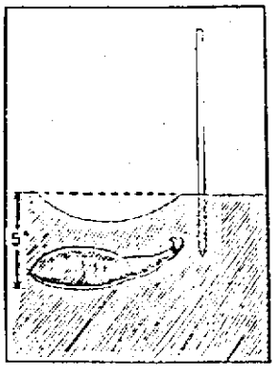

FOLLOWING THIS, place the clump in a regular lug, cover the tubers lightly with peat moss, keep the peat moist and in a very short time the tubers will send out their new shoots. The tubers are then separated, care being taken to see that each tuber has a shoot or "eye." A tuber without an eye is absolutely worthless.

After the dahlias have been dug up and taken care of, the dahlia bed should be prepared, ready for replanting. In preparing the soil, be careful regarding the over-use of manures of any type. Too much manure in the soil will cause the tubers to rot.

Bone meal at the rate of six pounds to 100 sq. ft. along with organic fertilizer four pounds to 100 sq. ft. will give good results. Be sure to mix these products thoroughly with the soil. If you have a very heavy soil, dust the area to be planted with gypsum, using three pounds to 100 sq. ft. All of these products are applied at the same time and turned under the full depth of the spade.

DAHLIA TUBERS should be planted about five inches deep, the tuber being placed flat in the bottom of the hole. In order to eliminate the possibility of injuring the tuber after it has started growing, it is a good idea to set your supporting stake in place at the time of planting. Cover the tuber with three inches of soil, filling in the depression once the new growth is above the surface of the bed.

Give the tubers a good soaking immediately after planting, then water only as the soil begins to dry out. Don't keep the soil continually wet. If you do, the tubers may rot. You will notice that because of the frequent watering, the soil will form a surface crust. Be sure to break this up to allow for proper aeration, being careful that you don't break off the new growth as you do your cultivating.

Plant dahlia tubers five inches deep. Place stake at time tuber is planted.

With the many wonderful new varieties in dahlias now available at all nurseries, be sure and add a few of these foolproof plants to your present collection.

IN PLANTING your dahlias, give them room enough to grow. The large exhibition types should be planted not closer than three feet apart.

If you are in the process of landscaping your home, do as much of the heavy work as possible before we get into the hot summer weather. Your nurseryman has a complete selection of shrubs and trees in gallon and five-gallon containers and by planting now, the shrubs should be well established before the hot weather rolls around.

As you plan your landscaping, keep in mind that the main reason for landscaping is to break

BEFORE SUNUP ON THE CONTEST DAY A CHARTERED STEAMBOAT JOURNEYS UPRIVER AND BEACHES ON A SANDBAR. THE RIVAL DUELING PARTIES ALIGHT.... 'BLACK' JACK STANTON WINS THE TOSS FOR PISTOL CHOICE....

THE RULES AGREED TO BY BOTH PARTIES ARE THESE: CONTESTANTS WILL FACE AT TEN PACES.... PISTOLS WILL BE HELD ALOFT UNTIL THE SIGNAL, FIRE!—AND DISCHARGED WITHIN THE RAPID COUNT OF THREE! TAKE YOUR POSITIONS IN TEN MINUTES, GENTLEMEN...

HALLO ON THE SANDBAR! STAND BY TO RECEIVE US!

OH-OH! A BUNCH O' YORE ARMY CHUMS COMIN' IN, LANCE!

THAT BOTTOM-DEALING CUSS STANTON—!

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN, LIEUTENANT?

IT MEANS NO CONTEST, DUFRAIN! STANTON'S BOYS HAVE BEEN TALKING UP A 'SECRET' MILITARY-CIVILIAN DUEL ALL WEEK LONG! I SEE WORD GOT TO REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS AND THE ERRANT LIEUTENANT IS NOW UNDER ARREST!—RIGHT, CAPTAIN?

THAT'S ABOUT IT...

I CAN'T IMAGINE WHAT FOR, CAPTAIN—WE'RE ON NEUTRAL GROUND AND IT HAPPENS THE CONTEST IS BETWEEN MR. STANTON AND MYSELF!

—IF YOU'VE COMPLETED INSPECTION OF MY PISTOL, LIEUTENANT, WE CAN PROCEED!

ONE DOWN AND ONE TO GO, JACK...

—LIKE CLOCKWORK! THAT'S WHAT COMES OF PLANNING, SNAKE-EYES!

Clivias Are a Flame in the Garden

By Bob Gilmore

Clivias do well in shade, the orange-red blooms appearing flame-like above the dark-toned greenery.

ONE OF THE MOST brilliant flowers in the plant world is the clivia. The dazzling orange-red blooms will highlight your garden scene, brightening up even the darkest corners. The clivia actually thrives in the shade, a location where it shows off to the best advantage.

A rather interesting characteristic of the clivia is that it enjoys being crowded. Plants grown in containers should be allowed to become potbound. As the plants develop they need not be shifted to increasingly larger-sized pots. They prefer a fairly rich soil.

THE CLIVIA, often referred to as a dual purpose plant, can be grown either outdoors in the shade or potted up for the conservatory or patio. The flowers, characterized by their flame-like appearance, grow to a height of about 18 inches. The stems are stiff and fairly erect.

Clivias must have adequate drainage as the plants are heavy drinkers. Heavy, water-logged soil may turn sour. Adobe or clay soils can be conditioned by adding humus which improves porosity, aeration and general growing conditions. For pot culture use a soil mixture of light loam plus sand and either leaf mold or peat; American peat will undoubtedly show a higher nitrogen content than the imports.

HOW HEALTHY your clivias are can be determined by the condition of the foliage. Leaves that have a lush green appearance will indicate a healthy plant; but yellowing of the foliage means that something is wrong. Frequently lack of moisture will be responsible for this symptom. Apply sufficient water so the moisture gets down to the root zone.

Clivias seem to prosper when grown by themselves in a more or less isolated location. It is best not to disturb them but, if necessary, divisions can be made during the spring season.

Potted clivias can be fertilized easily by applying liquid plant food. Use a well balanced mixture, one that is strong in the basic elements of nitrogen, phosphorous and potash. Nitrogen is beneficial in promoting leaf and stem growth; phosphorous hastens maturity and stimulates root growth while potash strengthens stem and leaf sections and tends to improve the coloring and quality of the flowers.

IN THE OPEN garden either liquid plant food or one of the commercial dry foods may be used. If the latter is utilized, try to keep the particles off the leaves as they have a burning action. Should the plant food alight on the plant be sure to wash the entire plant immediately; this step avoiding damage from burning.

Clivias are usually sold by nurserymen in pots. The stock now being offered is greatly improved to the clivias of 10 or 15 years ago. Certain California nurserymen have improved the strain and the coloring is deeper, the leaves more robust.

Club Speaker

Dorothy Johnson, whose column "Dorothy Digs in the Garden" appears in the Southland magazine, will address the Lakewood Garden Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Cross Roads Community Church, 5420 Clark Ave., Lakewood. Her subject will be "Problems of Western Gardens." Mrs. Johnson's talk will be based on her 20 years experience as a garden consultant, columnist, author and guest lecturer on Western and Southwestern gardens. Mrs. Betty White, 6116 Seaborn St., Lakewood, Garden Club program chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

Foolproof Dahlias

down the acute appearance between the house and the grounds and that the material used should slope from the house down to the street.

With this in mind, be sure that the shrubs or trees you plant have a reason for being there. The most common mistake along this line with home gardeners is the planting of shade trees on the front lawn. If there is a reason for the tree being there, by all means have it, but don't follow this custom just because your neighbor has done so. Next week I will have more for you on this subject, suggesting the best shrubs and trees to use in local gardens.

DON'T FORGET DEPT. . . . Don't forget to apply PAX to your lawn now if you were troubled with crabgrass last summer . . . Don't forget to get all flower beds ready for planting for summer color. Steer manure, organic fertilizer and bonemeal will produce excellent results . . . Don't forget to give your roses a little bloodmeal along with the special rose food on the first feeding. This will give them the boost they require as they go into a new reason of growth . . . Don't forget Southland's garden section next Sunday and don't forget that the man who goes to church on Sunday will enjoy his garden better on Monday.

This is the time to begin preparing your soil where you're going to plant dahlias, chrysanthemums and all the late blooming plants which do not actually go into the ground for another couple of months. Spade barnyard manure into the soil so that it has plenty of time to decompose, and a little bone meal, which requires considerable time to begin to work.

I always use soil sulphur (2¼ to 3 lbs.) in soil I'm going to prepare ahead of time. Then it is best to spade it in at least a little, so that it becomes an actual part of your soil structure. Soil sulphur impregnated in the soil begins to release minute quantities of sulphuric acid and, through a phase of decomposition that takes place, the sulphuric acid becomes the working element that releases various trace elements.

Camellias Bloom

With bright, spring weather, camellias burst into bloom last week in the five-acre camellia garden at the Huntington Gardens, San Marino. More than 1,000 named varieties there bloom in February and March.

An excellent way to get to the Huntington Gardens from Long Beach is Atlantic to California, in Pasadena turn right to Allen, and then down Allen to the Gardens.

THE MOLE HAS TO WORK HARD TO FIND HIS FOOD...

SO WHEN HE LOCATES A FERTILE SPOT IN THE SOIL WHERE EARTHWORMS ABOUND...

HE EATS AS MANY AS HE CAN, AND THEN ROUNDS UP A FEW FOR LEANER DAYS

BY NIPPING OFF THE WORM'S FRONT END, THE MOLE CAN KEEP HIS CATCH HERDED IN ONE SPOT...

FOR THE WORM CANNOT BURROW WITHOUT A HEAD

AND IF THE MOLE DOESN'T RETURN TO HIS LARDER, THE "LEFTOVERS" MAY SOON BE TUNNELING THROUGH THE SOIL ONCE MORE

BUT EARTHWORMS CAN GROW NEW HEADS...

WHERE THE EARTHWORM GOES, THERE GOES THE MOLE, FOR THE WORM IS HIS STAPLE DIET

IN DAMP WEATHER, THE EARTHWORMS STAY JUST BELOW THE SURFACE OF THE SOIL, AND THERE THE MOLE TUNNELS ARE MARKED BY UPHEAVED EARTH

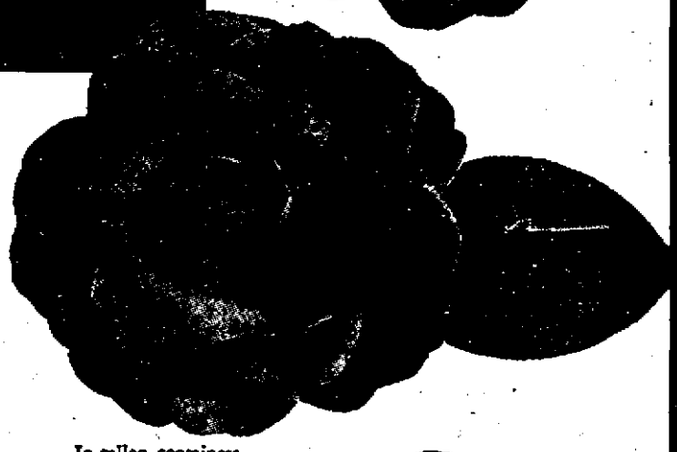

IN DRY WEATHER, THE MOLE AND HIS PREY DIG TO LOWER LEVELS WHERE THE SOIL IS DAMP AND EASIER TO EXCAVATE

AT NIGHT, THE WORMS CRAWL ABOUT THE SURFACE, AND THE MOLE COMES "TOPSIDE" TO HUNT THEM

Just a little planning and forethought will make your camera a more valuable adjunct to every-day activity.

CAMERA ANGLES

Stay Snap-Happy in '57

By the Shutterbug

IF YOU HAVEN'T made your picture-taking resolutions for 1957, here are 10 good ones to follow:

1. Keep your camera "snap-happy" with a semi-annual checkup and cleaning. Like your watch, it's a precision instrument that performs better when it's given a little extra care.

2. Always have a good supply of film and flash bulbs on hand, so you won't be caught short whenever a fine picture opportunity presents itself.

3. Keep your camera handy—and loaded—for shooting unplanned, unposed pictures wherever they happen on the home scene. These usually turn out to be the best shots of all!

4. Remember that flash is important to catch on-the-spot action indoors or after dark. Flash really puts your camera on a full-time working schedule!

5. Aim for simple pictures that tell their story clearly. Choose a single main point of interest and don't let a cluttered background vie with the subject for attention.

6. Make sure you have an interesting picture — one that shows your subject amid some activity he's interested in. This will prevent self-conscious poses and glazed expressions that so often spoil the effect you wanted to capture in your picture.

7. Remember that there's "safety in numbers," so shoot a series of pictures rather than a single one. You'll find a series of shots will do a better job of telling the whole story just as it happened.

8. File your negatives in a box or drawer specially set aside for them. They deserve extra good care because they can't be replaced the way prints can. Once lost, they're gone forever!

9. Make the most of your good pictures. Use them enlarged and framed to brighten your walls; mount them in albums or "remembrance books"; send extra prints to friends and relatives; let them serve as personal greeting cards for holidays and other special occasions.

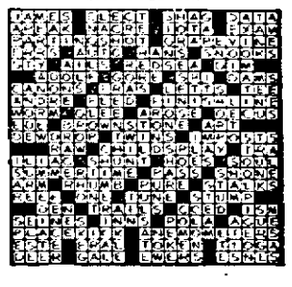

10. Enclose snapshots in your letters. There's no better way of keeping far-off family members and friends in close touch than by a friendly exchange of pictures throughout the year.

LONG BEACH Camera Guild will have a field trip in the Long Beach harbor district March 3. Trip Chairman Floyd Williamson announces that prizes will be given to the three best dressed "characters," who will be used as models by members. There will be no travel program this week.

Members of the Guild whose slides were accepted by the Circle of Confusion were Virginia Callender, Gerald Church, Don Hayward, Esther Modern, John Scheurer, Neil Shipley, Glenn Sieben, Roy Simpson, Ilsa Stevens, Floyd Williamson, Elva Hayward, judge, did not enter slides in the competition, but four were shown.

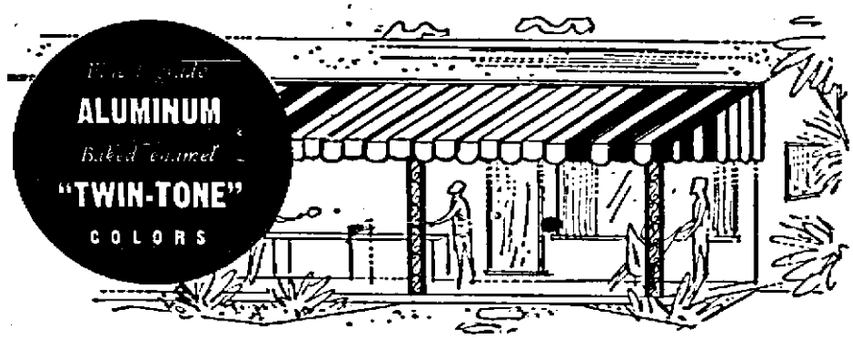

TO BOTH PHOTOGRAPHERS and writers of technical books, the name of Jacob Deschin has become synonymous with top-grade work. One of the world's leading photographers, Deschin brings the skill of a professional writer to the field of technical publications and his latest effort in this field is "Canon Photography" (Camera Craft Pub. Co., $5.95), a book devoted to the Canon camera of Japanese make. In his usual thorough manner, Deschin has analyzed the Canon product, considering primarily the Canon IVS2 and V models, and has related all of its various parts and accessories before delving into a "Canon at Work" series. Chapters on flash, closeups, color and underwater photography discuss the use of the Canon in a broad variety of fields. The book is copiously illustrated from both American and Japanese sources and is adequately equipped with numerous tables. Owners of Canons will find this a complete manual of their cameras and photography students will find much information of use.

Country Hinny Who's Hep

By Eleanor Avery Price

JODIE BLONDE is a star performer in the animal section of Smoke Tree Ranch in the Palm Springs desert. She is a 9-year-old hinny or hybrid between a stallion and a burro—a rare pet.

Jodie Blonde is exceptionally intelligent, is highly trained and can perform numerous tricks such as pivoting on a stump, waltzing in perfect mechanical rhythm, and other stunts, and she has a terrific neck rein.

This interesting animal lives on a big Palm Springs "spread" called Smoke Tree Ranch which is owned and operated by Eva and Ken Johnson. If you are a lover of equines in any form, you will enjoy a Sunday visit to this top ranch, for besides the hinny the Johnsons own about 90 fine saddle horses, more than 50 burros, a number of mules, and they have 40 boarding horses. They also own another very special little pet, a dwarf burro named Annie Busch after the Anheuser Busch brewing family in St. Louis from whom she was obtained.

Although thousands of visitors to Palm Springs now ride Ken Johnson's famous burro trains and saddle horses into the various desert and mountain scenic spots, the Smoke Tree Ranch had a modest beginning just a few years ago.

JOHNSON, WHO WAS recuperating from pneumonia, hired two burros and he and his wife rode up into Tahquitz Canyon. Intrigued, Ken rode again the next day, this time alone. When he returned he was so highly respectful of the patient, sturdy little desert burro that he announced to Eva that he wanted to start a burro train. From this he branched also into a fine riding stable. He even added a shop for visitors seeking western gear and the like.

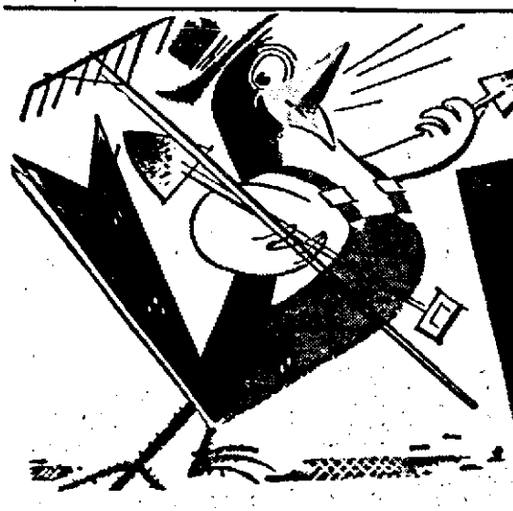

Smoke Tree Ranch is located on the south side of Palm Springs about one mile east of Palm Canyon Dr. junction on State Hwy. 111.

FOR THE BENEFIT of dog-owners planning to travel "south of the border," the Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park Ave., New York 17, N. Y., has compiled a special list of Mexican hotels and motor courts that accept guests with dogs. A copy may be had without cost.

SINCE SUCH a large number of children (ages 8 to 14) turned out with their dogs for the six-week free dog training class at Mayfair Park in Lakewood, a new class will start on Saturday, March 2, at 2 p.m. A parent must accompany each child.

Jodie Blonde, a hinny, goes through her tricks led by Ken Johnson, her owner. Jodie Blonde is well-educated.

it's gardening time!

ARNOLD VANN
Corridor With a Purpose

ANYONE who's been to Welch's, Atlantic Ave. at San Antonio Dr., knows it's a beautiful restaurant with large shining walls of glass and dining rooms green with tropical plants.

Anyone who's been to Welch's also knows it is favored with soft background music, perfect sea food delicacies and perfect service.

Not everyone knows, however, how much planning is required to make Welch's so pleasing. For example, did you know that the main entrance corridor is so lengthy for a very subtle reason? Restaurateur Rex Welch made it 70 feet long so his guests, as they stroll along, have plenty of time to straighten stocking seams, hemlines or necktie and thus feel at ease about their appearance as they arrive at the main dining rooms.

And, of course, there are numerous other thoughtful touches at this Southland showplace. Unique electrically-heated serving carts keep the food warm while it is en route to the tables. . . . Placecards at each table let the patrons know the names of their waiters and waitresses . . . Hot rolls (light as feathers) are served throughout the meal. . . . The cocktail lounge is so cleverly concealed that many people don't realize the restaurant has one.

Welch and his man Friday, Manager Arnold Vann, are justifiably proud of the restaurant's sea food items. Among the many featured ocean beauties are grilled swordfish with lemon-parsley butter, $1.85; sea food grill, $2.25; rich shrimp or crab Newburg, $1.85; handsome lobster thermidor, $2.95, and fried jumbo shrimp with hot sauce, $1.85. All are served with soup or tossed green salad bowl, whipped, French fried or baked Idaho potatoes and choice of beverage.

And, while you're there, don't overlook Welch's succulent roast prime rib of beef au jus. Served a la carte with Yorkshire pudding, whipped cream and horseradish sauce, it's $3—and absolutely tantalizing.

I'll always remember...

THE RIGHT WAY TO GAMBLE

by KIRK DOUGLAS

When I was at St. Lawrence University, I came home one week end and, very much ashamed, asked my hard-working, hard-pressed parents for a loan. I was working my way through school by waiting on table and had lost my meager earnings in a card game.

"Such a fool you are," my mother chided, as she counted out the money. "You bet money on cards! What do the cards know about you? What do they care?" Then she gave me an affectionate pat. "Everyone likes to take a chance. But are you going to build a life on a card game? Bet? Sure, bet! But always remember this: Gamble on yourself!"

I thought of those three words—Gamble on yourself—when I read a newspaper story the other day. It told about the thousands of new American businesses that open their doors annually. It emphasized the obstacles to success, the high percentage of casualties. It left the reader with the impression that starting a company was a hazardous, foolhardy venture.

I was interested for two reasons. First, not too long ago I started my own business, a motion-picture company called Bryna Productions. Had I been afraid to gamble, the company today would be but an empty dream; as it is, we are a going concern with three profitable films to our credit. Even more recently I gambled again by investing in a large new office building now being built in Hollywood.

Second, reading between the lines of that newspaper report, I saw another story: the opportunities available to all in America. We know that not everyone starting these new businesses is a rich man, or the son of one. Not all are college graduates, or descendants of prominent families. It doesn't matter. Everyone in America has an equal chance.

And this applies not only to people going into business but those who plan any new venture — building a home, switching to a different job, starting a family. It is these people, willing to gamble on themselves, who have made America great.

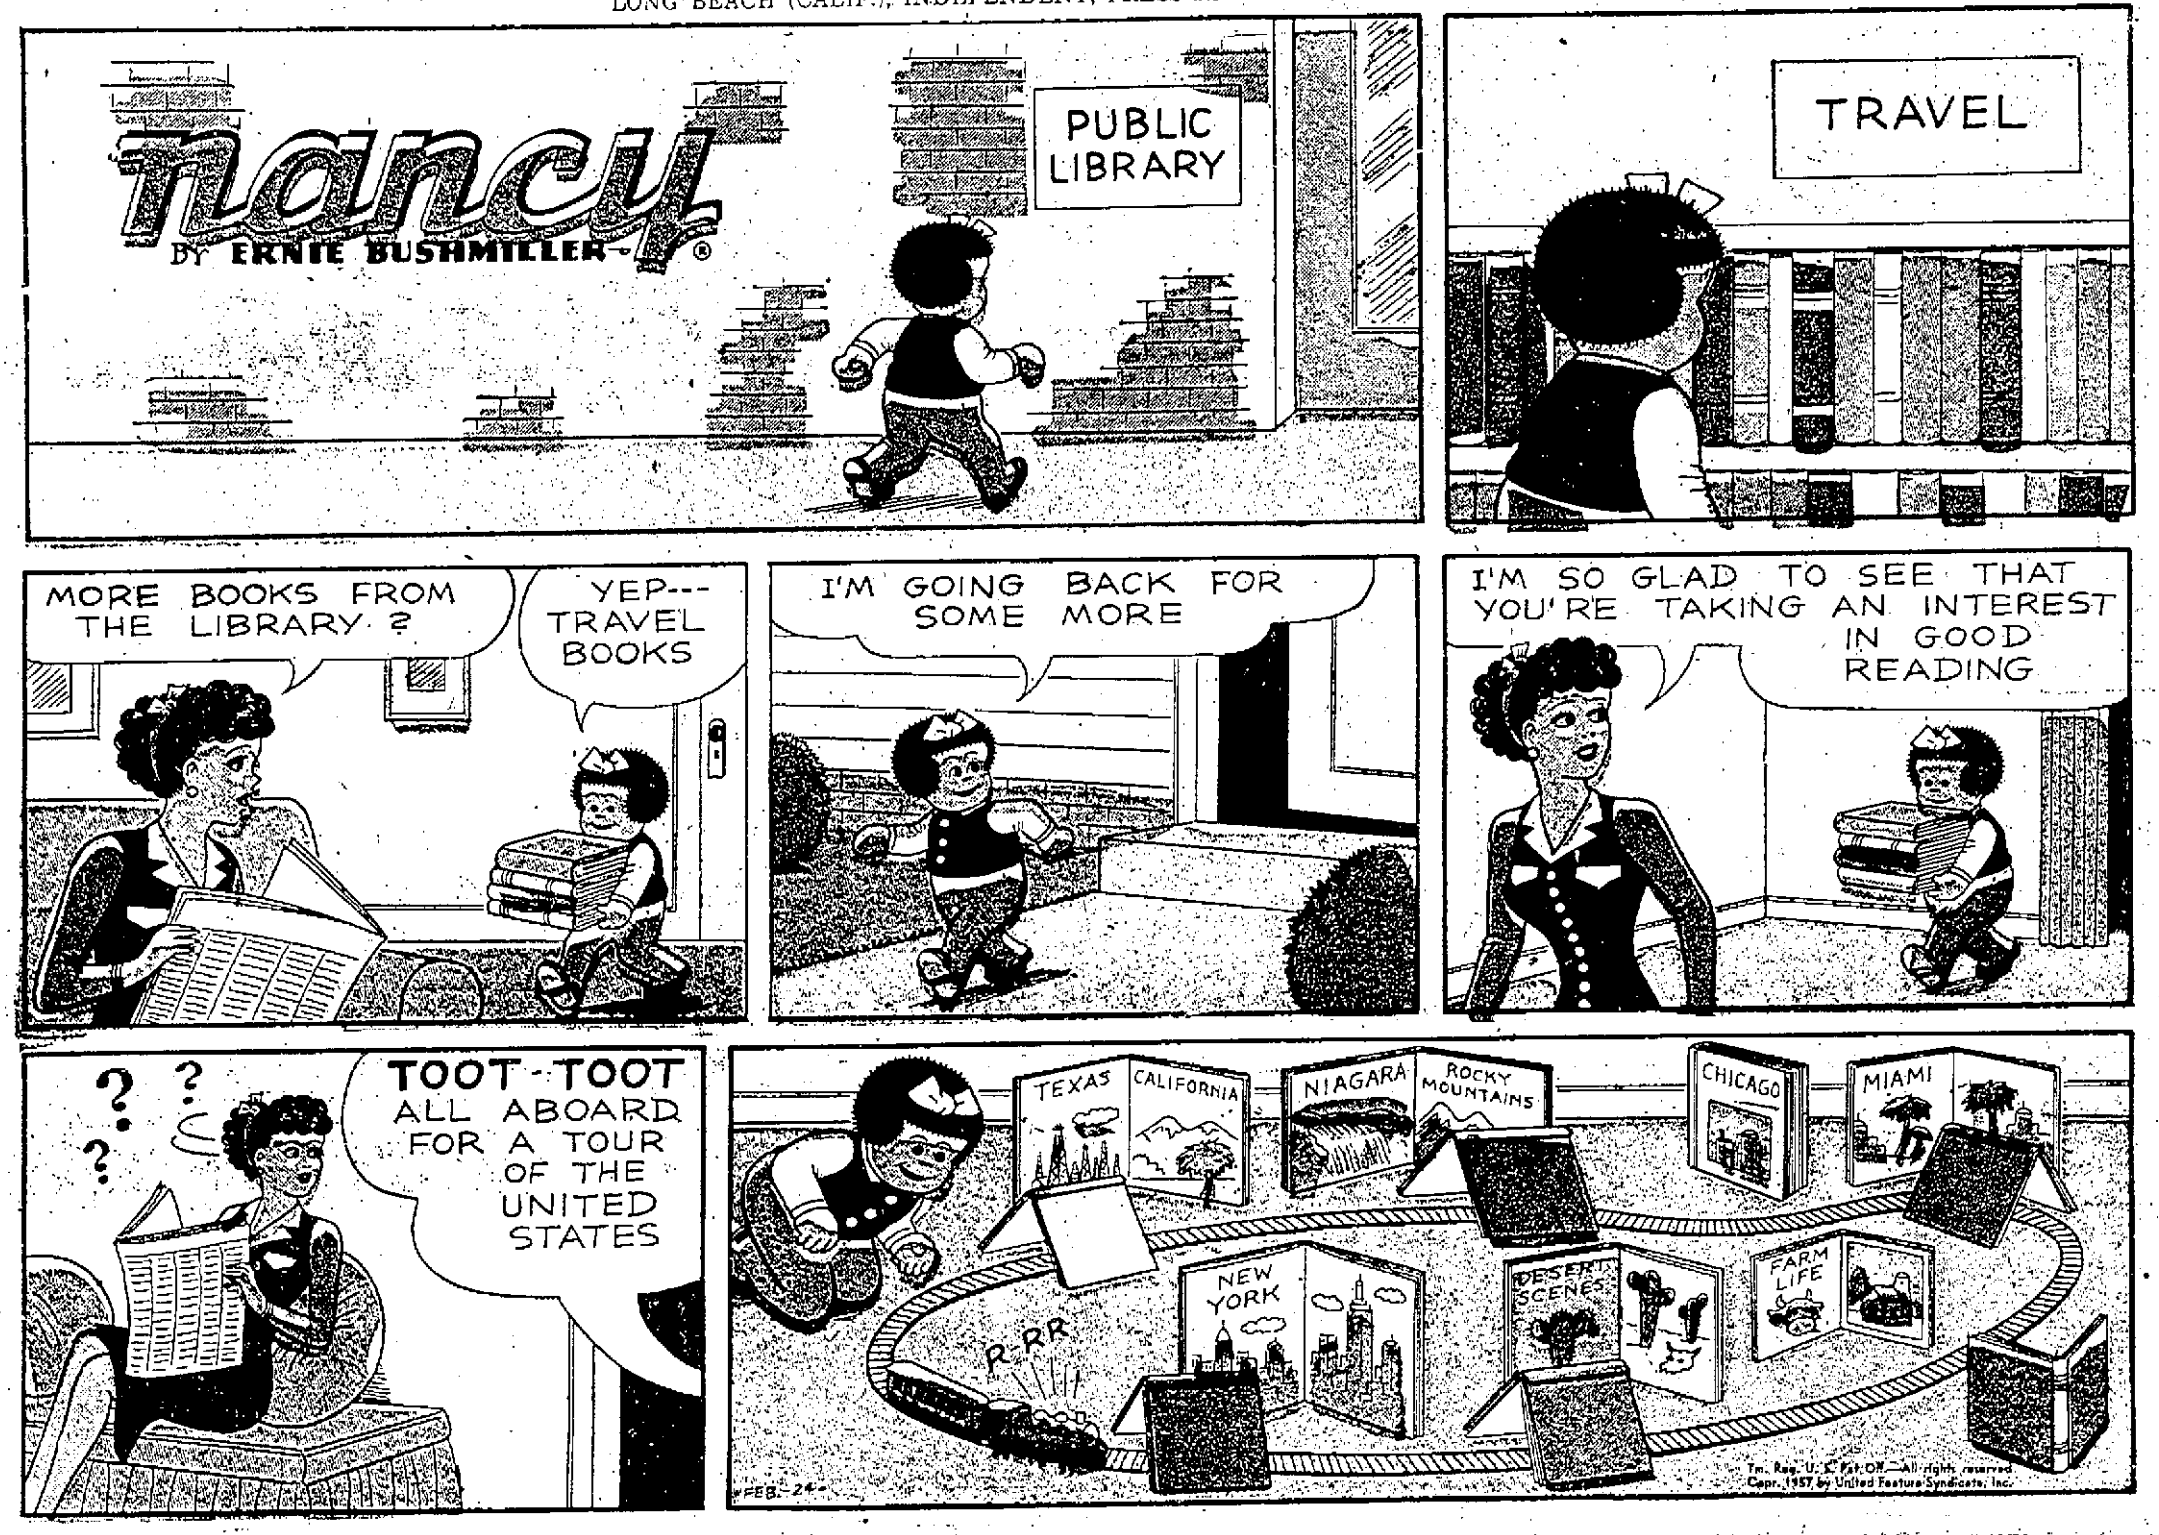

It works the other way, too. America is great because it gives its citizens a chance to take those risks. You want to know about the land of opportunity? Don't look in a book. Ask me — or any one of America's millions of gamblers. ■

How much is enough?

Whether it's ammunition for the youngsters' snowball fight or, more important, everyday needs for your family—it takes planning to know how much is enough. That goes for the way you finance your car, too—because the longer you pay, the more you pay. Your General Motors Dealer who uses the GMAC Thrift-Guard Plan can show you how to finance your car on the most thrifty terms. What's more, GMAC can help protect your investment if your circumstances change. Last year alone, over 2,000,000 families bought their cars on the GMAC Plan. Ask your General Motors Dealer about it. See how you benefit by financing where you buy.

An information-packed article about your baby's care, feeding, growth and fun. Watch for it each month.

Help with weaning

Baby got "cold feet"?

Take A Baby's-Eye-View Of Creeping

WHEN your baby begins to creep he may travel full steam ahead on all fours, scoot sideways like a crab, or scuttle backwards—sitting up! Whatever his style—he's eager as a puppy to go places, investigate things, satisfy his inquiring mind. The basic problem is how to meet baby's exciting new needs—safely.

● You can't watch a creeper every minute! Can you "baby-proof" a room for him to roam in? Take a floor-level look: any tippy lamps, tempting ashtrays, shiny pins to pounce on? Are electric outlets covered? A gate that moves from door to door will keep baby in his room—or out of the kitchen. Your explorer may still enjoy his playpen—but only part-time!

● Does your baby have "cold feet"? Before you pile on more clothes or covers, feel his neck or his chest. If they're warm enough, he's warm enough! In the early months, baby's feet and hands are often cooler than the rest of him—but he doesn't care, and extra covers don't help. When his sympathetic nervous control matures more, his "heating system" will work fine in fingers and toes.

● If your little one stays too long on strained foods, he may get too fond of their smooth texture—and perhaps have trouble swallowing coarser varieties. Heinz complete line of 25 Junior Foods includes many dishes baby liked in the strained version—the same flavors, diced or finely minced in a more "grown-up" consistency. When doctor OK's a switch, offer the new foods slowly—one at a time. Mix the Junior Food, at first, with a strained food baby loves.

● The right time for weaning to a cup differs vastly from baby to baby. You won't want to try it if your baby's been sick, had trouble with teething, or still seems to like lots of sucking. Instead of a cup, thousands of mothers prefer Heinz specially-designed tumbler. Its lid-with-a-spout lets milk flow through at just the right speed. For a non-breakable nylon tumbler, pink or blue, send 50¢ and 12 labels from Heinz Baby Foods to H. J. Heinz Co., Box 28, Dept. D-9, PA-27, Pittsburgh 30, Pa. For a sturdy plastic tumbler, pink or blue, send 25¢ and 6 Heinz Baby Food labels.

● Baby needs plenty of proteins for sturdy bones and good growth. So doctor will probably start him early on smooth, creamy, iron-rich Heinz Strained Egg Yolks and the eight nourishing Heinz Strained Meats. For older babies Heinz makes six delicious, mildly seasoned, coarser-textured Junior Meats (100% meats, mind you, made from choice government-inspected cuts, cooked and packed in Heinz own baby food kitchens). Like every one of the more than 70 top-quality foods Heinz makes for babies, Junior Meats have better texture, better flavor, better color. You know they're good because they're Heinz!

● Can't find Heinz Baby Foods in your neighborhood? Drop a card to H. J. Heinz Co., Box 57, Pittsburgh 30, Pa.

ON THE LOOSE, 2,400 chickens fowled up the traffic . . .

Not for the Birds

by ERNESTINE M. SCHINDLER

A moment after a customer bought a canary in a San Bernardino, Calif., pet shop, the bird escaped from its cage. A clerk, trying to catch it, stumbled and crashed into a glass showcase. Head and ear wounds required 10 stitches.

Uvalde, Tex., had a 10-minute blackout. Reason: a 69,000-volt transformer was short-circuited when a sparrow tried to snitch a piece of copper wire for a nest.

• • •

Near Huntsville, Ala., a truck loaded with 2,400 chickens rammed a bridge railing. Traffic was snarled for an hour while the driver and helpful motorists chased squawking fowl. Some remained missing.

• • •

In Wichita, Kan., a young woman bird-watcher who discovered a fledgling on the ground suffered lacerations of the scalp when she was dive-bombed by two bluejays. They were trying to protect their young.

• • •

When a burglar alarm in St. Matthews, Ky., clanged at midnight, cops came on the run. They soon found the "thief" who had triggered the alarm — a starling.

• • •

In Livermore, Calif., a father was driving with his young son, when suddenly a pet woodpecker the boy was holding in his lap flew up and began hammering on the father's head. The man lost control of the car, which rolled over twice. Father and son were unhurt but shaken up. Ditto the woodpecker.

• • •

During a rainstorm in Paris, Ky., a pedestrian and a blackbird collided head-on. The impact killed the bird, gashed the man's forehead.

Joey, a parakeet, was banished from his owner's office in Punta Gorda, Fla., because he 1) wolf-whistled at girls, 2) rode on typewriter carriages, 3) butted in on telephone conversations by chattering into the mouthpiece.

• • •

In Woodruff, S.C., a parakeet named Jo-Jo overdid himself. Trained to awaken his master, who hated alarm clocks, the bird routed his boss out of bed punctually every morning — including Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

• • •

Owners of Elmer, a crow, were hailed into a California court with the bird. Charge: public nuisance. A neighbor complained that Elmer had been peeking at her through her bedroom window.

Revolutionary NEW treatment for muscular aches and pains

Intracel

PENETRATING ANALGESIC

Now for the first time—a cool, soothing liquid that penetrates through the tissues to put pain to sleep

It's new . . . it's unbelievably effective! INTRACEL represents a revolution in the science of treating muscular aches and pains—the first great advance in centuries. INTRACEL contains an amazing penetrating agent that enables fast, effective pain-killing ingredients to be absorbed right through the skin and deep down into muscle tissues. It actually puts pain to sleep!

Modern INTRACEL is unlike old-fashioned salves and liniments containing turpentine, camphor and red pepper that can burn and blister the skin. It is a clear, greaseless, fresh-smelling liquid that feels cool and comforting. Apply liberally—no need to rub it in. It penetrates! And INTRACEL does its work gently, safely, painlessly in the matter of a few minutes. Your pain is all gone before you even are aware that INTRACEL has penetrated into the afflicted tissues.

New INTRACEL costs a little more than old-fashioned preparations ($1.49 a bottle). If you don't think it's worth twice that, your druggist will refund your money.

No longer need you suffer from muscular aches and pains due to exertion and exposure • sprains and strains • muscular stiff neck, sore arm, aching shoulder and back • muscular lumbago • simple neuritis and neuralgia • INTRACEL gives temporary relief from minor pains of arthritis, minor rheumatic pains • reduces swelling • eases muscle cramps • improves circulation • relieves pain of headaches, tired feet, cold sores, bruises, sunburn, bee stings and other insect bites • eases pain of toothache when rubbed on gums and jaw • relieves itching from hives, poison ivy and poison oak • for persistent pain, apply compress saturated with INTRACEL.

Hope Bennett talks with teenagers

Editor's note: "Teenagers?" says Hope Bennett. "The only people who know them—really know them—are other teenagers." Hearing this, you'll understand why PARADE has asked her to write a weekly column, beginning today, on the many questions that teenagers want answered. Hope Bennett realizes that the best answers to your problems can come from people your own age. So she'll talk your language—or, better still, let you talk it.

Hope Bennett, formerly editor of the magazine Young Set, for years has been concerned with the ideas and interests of young people. PARADE thinks you'll like her column. Look for it every Sunday!

CONVERSATION: How do popular girls get a conversation started? This is one of the most common dating problems among high-school students.

One girl I know vowed that when a certain boy called for her, her teeth chattered so loudly she was afraid her date could hear them. Another said she got sort of hysterical and felt like giggling all the time.

Well, what do you say when you go out on a date—especially a first date?

Here's how three high-school seniors, who have been through this themselves, answered the question:

• "You shouldn't really be scared. The boy evidently likes you or he wouldn't have asked you out in the first place. And he probably feels shy, too—especially on a first date. But most boys, like their fathers, expect females to take the initiative in starting a conversation."

• "You and your date must have something in common—teachers, ice skating, records, TV, dancing. Just start talking—about the weather if you have to."

• The third girl, probably recalling an experience of her own, said: "If you suspect that your shyness is exaggerated because you are not dressed correctly, be sure that next time you are wearing the right thing for the occasion—then forget about it."

The most comforting thing the seniors had to say was that they, like the boys, all have felt shy and awkward at one time or another. Maybe you have to force yourself at first, but it's perfectly natural for boys and girls to date. When you learn to handle the mechanics of conversation—and you will—dating gets to be a lot more fun.

FADS: Have you heard this one? In some schools a boy borrows an earring from his girl of the moment, wears it when he wants to be sure everyone knows she's his one and only . . . Or this? Anybody can carry a wallet. For a change you might try toting lunch money and primp stuff in a toy pistol from the 10-cent store.

PARTIES: Whether you give a party, or go to a party, here's what teenagers say on the subject.

As a hostess: If your crowd plays games, have plenty of them to choose from . . . If there's to be dancing, be sure your record player is in good condition and that you have enough records. (If you borrow any records, see that the owner's name is taped securely on each.) . . . You yourself will have more fun if you enlist the help of a friend to keep things moving . . . Finally, be fair to the guests. Tell them in advance when the party will begin and when it will end.

Most girls—and their dates, too—prefer chaperons. But they all say not in the same room. "We want our parents at home, but we don't want to see them." (Note to Mother and Dad: Better install TV in your bedroom.)

As a guest: Just as unpopular as the girl who makes no attempt to mix with the crowd is the one who is always showing off. The girl who is fun at a party is the one who participates, but doesn't try to monopolize attention . . . You can help your hostess by not sticking to one boy all evening. I know it's the rule in some places for steadies to dance only with each other, but more and more teenagers agree that this system doesn't help a party one bit . . . It's good manners to thank the hostess and her parents when the party breaks up.

FAMILY RELATIONSHIPS: Do you have fights with your younger brother or sister? Well, most teenagers do. They claim that the younger person usually starts the whole thing, but it's the older one who gets into trouble.

Parents are unfair sometimes. The trouble seems to be that an older person can get the best of a child pretty quickly and the parents' tendency is to protect the child.

Jane, a girl I know, solved this problem by making it possible for her mother to get in on the start of the fracas. Mother then was able to see who started it and do the fair thing. Also, Jane learned not to invite trouble.

GOT A PROBLEM in your life—going steady, a too-strict father, gripes against teachers? So have lots of others. Let's talk them over. Write to me about them. This column will help you find answers to your questions, give you an outlet for your ideas, even produce a pen pal if you want one.

Whatever you say, of course, will be in confidence. I'll use your name only if you tell me to. If you'd like to send me a photograph of yourself, please do. And send in a new fad to pass along.

10 FORD THUNDERBIRD Jr.'s. Junior-size 66-inch electric motor-driven models of the real Ford Thunderbird.

100 GENERAL ELECTRIC Portable Television Sets with "Daylight Power" picture. Weight only 26 pounds.

125 EVANS FIREBIRD Bicycles. America's Foremost speed-king, equipped with 3-speed gearshift.

Elsie, the Borden Cow, has twins!

Send in your names for the new little boy calf and girl calf, and you may win as much as $25,000 and a Ford 9-passenger Country Sedan.

It's just 100 years since The Borden Company started out in business, so—to celebrate this big occasion—there's a total of $100,000 in prizes. Prizes for everyone in the family.

Send in as many names as you wish—just remember each pair must be accompanied by a label, bottle cap, box top, etc. (or facsimile), from one of the fine Borden products. Use this entry blank, get additional blanks from your store, or send in your names on plain paper.

How to get the Bonus Prize

If you win 1st Prize you may also receive a Ford 9-passenger Country Sedan. To be eligible for this bonus prize, send in label, bottle cap, box top, etc. (or facsimile), from two different Borden products—the first from any Borden product you wish—the second from one of the following:

Lady Borden Ice Cream
Borden's Cream Cheese
Borden's Starlac
Borden's Cottage Cheese

© 1957, The Borden Company

Here are the easy rules of the contest

1. Suggest a name for Elsie's new twins—a boy calf and a girl calf.
2. Use this entry blank, get one at your store, or submit your entry on a plain sheet of paper. Print clearly your own name and address.
3. Submit as many entries as you wish, but each entry must be accompanied by a label, bottle cap, box top, etc., or facsimile from a Borden product.
4. To be eligible for the Bonus Prize, you must submit with your entry a label, bottle cap, box top, etc., or reasonable facsimile from two different Borden products—the first from any Borden product—the second from Borden's Cottage Cheese (except in California), Lady Borden Ice Cream, Borden's Cream Cheese or Borden's Starlac.
5. This contest is open to any person in the United States, its possessions and Canada, except employees of The Borden Company, its subsidiaries and affiliates, its advertising agencies, and members of the immediate families of such persons. Contest is subject to all Federal, state, local and Dominion regulations.
6. Each entry must be the original work of contestant submitting it except that members of the immediate family may assist. All members of a family may compete, but only one prize (plus bonus prize if eligible) will be awarded to a family. Mail your entries to: Elsie, P. O. Box 77, Mt. Vernon 10, N. Y.
7. Entries will be judged by the Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation on the basis of appropriateness and originality. In the event of ties for any prize or prizes, contestants will be supplied a form on which to complete a 25-word statement telling why they like Borden's products. Ties will be broken by judging these statements on the basis of originality of thought, logic and interest of expression. In the event of any final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded. The decision of the judges is final.
8. All entries become the property of The Borden Company. None will be returned.
9. Contest closes midnight, Saturday, March 30th, 1957. Entries must be postmarked no later and must be received by April 10, 1957.
10. Winners will be notified by mail. List of winners will be mailed to all contestants requesting one and supplying a stamped, self-addressed envelope no smaller than approximately 4" x 9".

AN AMERICAN FACTORY FROM 10,000 FEET

This photo of a North Carolina aluminum plant, first by a new Air Force jet photo plane to be published, was taken on a routine training mission from an altitude of 10,000 feet. To the untrained eye it says little. Turned over to a trained photo interpreter, however, it revealed a startling wealth of detail. The diagram at r. shows how the P.I. identified all types of installation. In addition, his two-page report included such information as: "The aluminum-producing area is composed of eight pot rooms, 50' by 485' each. Casting shed 55' by 600' located at center of pot rooms. Rectifier building to north is 65' by 370'; the one to the south, 65' by 290'. Four silos, 30' diameter, are used for alumina and cryolite storage. Transformer and switches are 75' west of rectifier buildings." In sum, one picture told the secrets of an entire factory.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Today's cover, showing the Statue of Liberty surrounded by red grass, may be the most startling photograph since the movie about the boy with green hair. Yet it's how Lady Liberty might look to the Russians should they take her aerial portrait under President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan.

Not that the Russians are expected to photograph America through rose-colored lenses. But they might use CD (camouflage detection) film, which changes growing greenery into spectacular reds. This heat-sensitive film blushes at the slightest exposure to chlorophyll, the green sunshine cells in plants. Photographic result: vegetation turns red but phony foliage appears slate-colored. That the grass around the Statue appears red, therefore, is colorful evidence it isn't camouflage.

But aside from spotting camouflage, how effective as air reconnaissance would the President's open-skies proposal be? The plan is to photograph Russia from the air and let the Soviets do the same to our country. Would this reveal preparations for a sneak attack, as Ike hopes? Or could the Russians hide their military moves from our airborne cameras?

To find out, PARADE visited Shaw Air Force Base near Sumter, S.C., and watched the 363rd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing in operation.

SUMTER, S.C.

THERE ISN'T MUCH the Air Force can't detect about your neighborhood by flying over it at 30,000 feet. Though you won't see or hear them, our seeing-eye planes can tell such things as how tall you are if you're standing outside, the exact dimensions of your house, the kind of utilities you own, whether your lawn needs mowing.

More important, they can photograph a factory and figure its size within a foot, the nature of its output, just about how many workers it has. "Next to having direct access on foot to an installation, an aerial photograph will give us the best intelligence possible concerning it," says Brig. Gen. Stephen B. Mack, the 363rd's commander.

Come war, lens-power could be almost as important as firepower. It might even prevent war if Ike's open-skies plan is adopted. Said Gen. Walter von Fritz, chief of the German General Staff, in 1936: "The nation with the best reconnaissance will win the next war." Unhappily for him, he was right. During World War II, 70 to 90 per cent of Allied intelligence about the enemy came from aerial reconnaissance. The results in Korea were equally dramatic.

At Shaw, near-miracles of detection are performed by teams of skilled men. Heading the teams are the reconnaissance or "Recci" pilots (pronounced "Recky"). "The Recci pilot is unique among airmen," says Lt. Col. Dudley Adkins, Reconnaissance Chief for the 9th Air Force. "He must have an abnormal amount of curiosity. In World War II we found, thanks to such pilot curiosity, hidden enemy concentrations, concealed headquarters, secret military positions and even underground factories."

One pilot noticed two men peddling bicycles in the middle of a bombing raid. He concluded correctly that they weren't out for exercise, but must be carrying messages from a nearby secret message center. Another high-cruising candid cameraman spotted a railroad siding alongside a schoolhouse and took several close-ups. As he suspected, the schoolhouse was a camouflaged factory. Still another got curious over tracks that led into a mountain but didn't come out the other side. It was easily identified as an underground installation.

In wartime, the Recci pilot is both advance man and follow-up. His first pictures unveil the target. Later he photographs the damage done by our bombers. He flies alone and unarmed. "There may not be much glory in flying a Recci mission," Colonel Adkins says. "The pilot doesn't get any 'kills.' But he does have one important satisfaction when the headlines announce a successful bomber raid; the Recci pilot can say to the bomber boys, 'I was there before you, and I'll be back after you.'"

How to Make Pictures "Talk"

These aerial photographers can get good pictures flying level at 40,000 feet. But sometimes they must swoop down low—risky work for unarmed aircraft. Such operations are called "dicing missions" because pilots used to toss dice to see who would get them.

The other key figure in the reconnaissance team is the unsung, desk-bound photo interpreter or P.I.—the man who makes the pictures "talk." His chief tool is the stereoscope which magnifies a photograph four times and shows it in three dimensions.

One of these picture wizards recently was handed an aerial view which would have been meaningless to most people. To the untrained eye it seemed to show merely roads and long, narrow buildings. The only clue the interpreter had was the exact time and general location the picture was taken. Yet he came up with a two-page report, amazingly detailed, which accurately told the important industrial story hidden in the photograph. Some of his significant findings appear at left, along with the picture he worked from.

Unlocking the information in another aerial photograph, the P.I. correctly identified it as an electric-power plant. His incredibly exact report included such facts as the thickness of walls, the number of turbines, generators and transformers on the premises. He counted 36 freight cars on a siding and was able to say all but four were loaded with coal.

To solve a picture riddle, the interpreter starts with a known object. A telephone pole might be a starting point, because he knows its height in a given country. Or he might work from a freight car or a popular-model automobile whose size he knows. And then there are other factors.

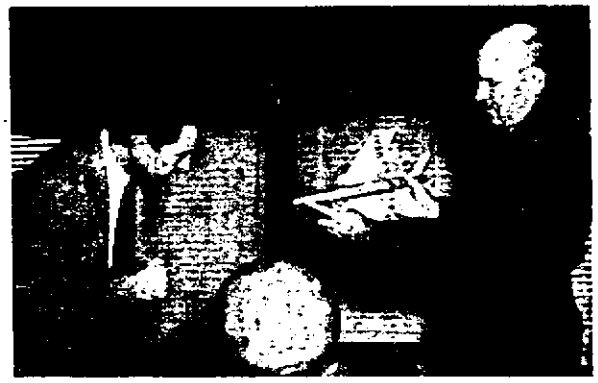

"In our work shadows are vitally important," one veteran P.I. explains. "Since we know the exact time each picture is taken and the approximate location, also the exact position of the subject in relation to that spot, we can put these factors together and figure from the shadows most of the dimensions of a building and even the height of a man photographed from six miles up."

The Air Force has computed the exact position of the sun in every part of the world for every minute of every day of the year. Each picture is stamped with the time it was taken and the general location. A P.I. with a photo taken at 2:03 p.m. over Detroit would go to the table for the sun's position then and there before he started measuring shadows.

The photo interpreter, usually young and often a sergeant, is among the most highly skilled of all military personnel. He must have a working knowledge of mathematics, transportation, industrial and military targets. He must know chemistry and metallurgy. He must be able to identify airfields, seaplane bases, radar sites, fuel-storage dumps. Of course, the P.I.'s have vast technical libraries at their disposal, but their general knowledge must tell them at a glance whether a picture is worth a detailed examination.

The man who correctly identified the aluminum plant at left got off on the right track at once. He suspected it might be an aluminum plant because he knew that long, narrow buildings are the type in which metal is produced. Another vital clue was the amount of electric power lines he saw in the picture.

Atomic installations are dead give-aways. Radiation on photograph plates cannot be concealed effectively.

The P.I.'s also can spot new activity at airfields. They can tell from new construction whether it is to be an airport or a missile-launching site. They can keep constant track of ship and troop movements. In short, they can see enough to remove the threat of a surprise attack under the open-skies approach to disarmament.

Each jet photo plane carries about $100,000 worth of photographic equipment. The expensive cameras are fitted with image motion compensation which automatically eliminates blurring, even when the plane is moving at near the speed of sound.

One plane may have as many as six huge cameras operating at one time—forward, to the side and downward. The cameras take a continuing strip of overlapping pictures. During dark or bad weather, reconnaissance can be carried on by radar. A special camera has been devised to record images as they show up on the radarscope.

The Bureau of Many Names

By Harry Karns

A DIGNIFIED, bespectacled man in a blue-dress uniform similar to that worn by naval officers stepped onto the elevator in the Federal Building in Los Angeles.

An elderly woman looked at the triangular insignia on his coat cuff.

"Aren't you an officer in the U. S. Coast Guard and Geographical Review?" she asked.

He smiled resignedly. After 30 years, Cmdr. Roswell C. Bolstad has grown accustomed to being mistaken for almost everything but what he is— an officer of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. No, that has nothing to do with the National Geographic Magazine.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey, a commissioned service of the U. S. government, is now celebrating its 150th year of operation. Cmdr. Bolstad, 53, has charge of the Survey's local district— Southern California, the southern portion of Nevada, and all of Arizona. Though little publicized, the Survey's activities constantly touch your life and your security.

THE ACCURATE location of your back fence depends upon the Survey's needle-sharp calculations, as does the precise location of rocket-launching sites.

Highway engineers tie their planning to the bureau's survey markings.

Clam hunters and skin divers frequently time their activities by consulting the Survey's tidal information.

Planners of earth satellites and missions to outer space orient themselves at the Survey.

IN THE PACIFIC, the Survey maintains a sea wave warning system. It was this network that warned the Hawaiian Islands in 1952 of a submarine earthquake whose tidal wave otherwise would have taken a tragic toll of lives.

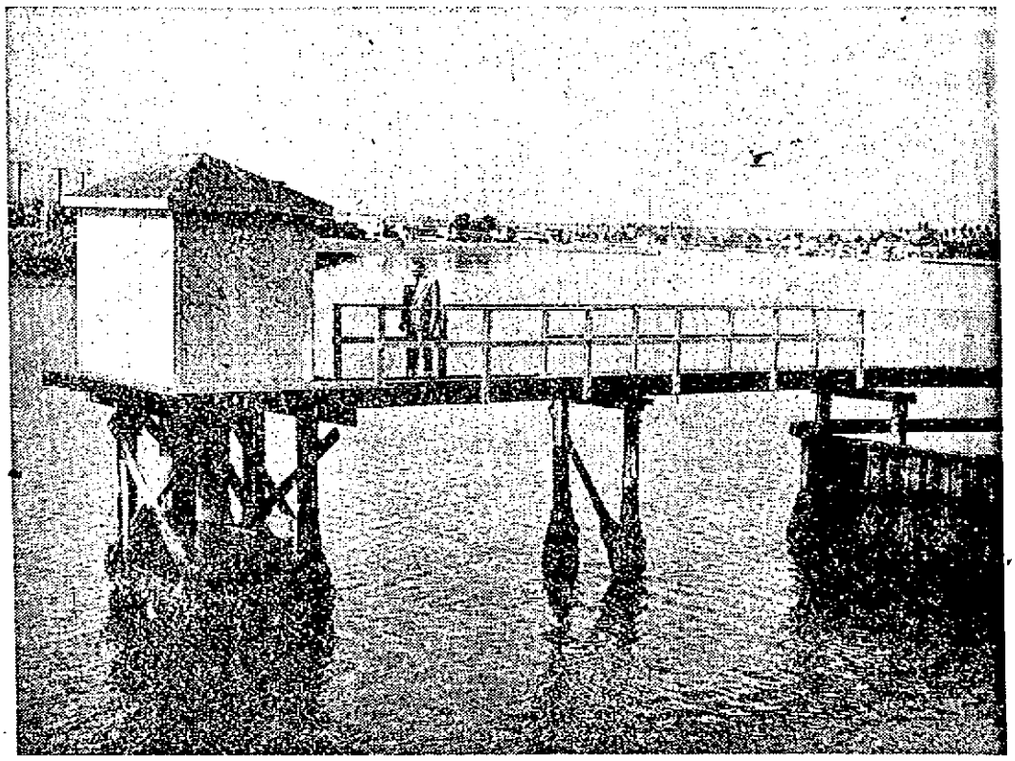

Fishermen and shipowners sailing to and from Long Beach landings read the Survey's tide tables as avidly as some folk read novels banned in Boston. The information they get from these tables can mean the difference between bon voyage and disaster. Southern California stations, funneling their data to the central tide gauge station in Los Angeles' outer harbor, help the Survey tell the tide story a year in advance.

The problem of earth subsidence has cost millions of dollars in this community. A special tide gauge, operated by the Survey for a time at Terminal Island, has taken readings which may some day play a part in solving that.

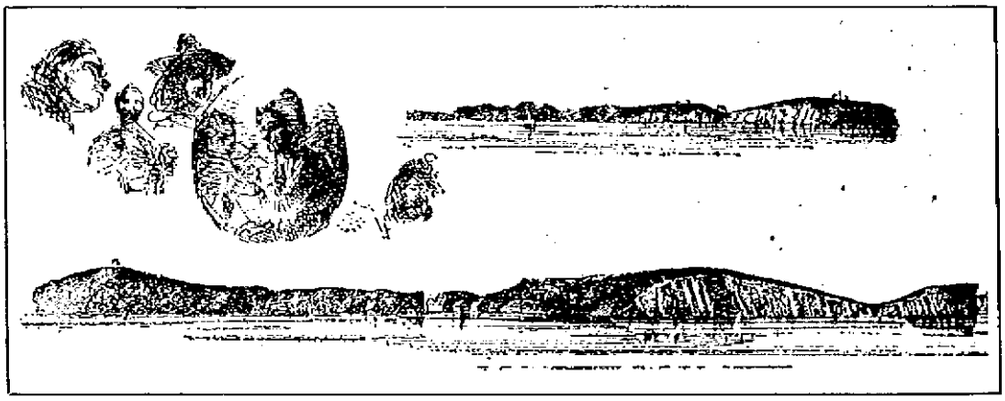

THE COAST and Geodetic Survey is, by way of contrast with some federal bureaus, a service which the general public hears little about but which would be sorely missed if it weren't there.

Back in 1807, Congress wanted to determine for

On this lonely little pier behind locked gate near the sea entrance to Alamitos Bay, U. S. Coast & Geodetic Survey keeps instruments to record tides, subsidence.

At the beginning of his brief employment in the Survey, James McNeill Whistler, famous artist, did bit of doodling on the side in preparing the above sketches.

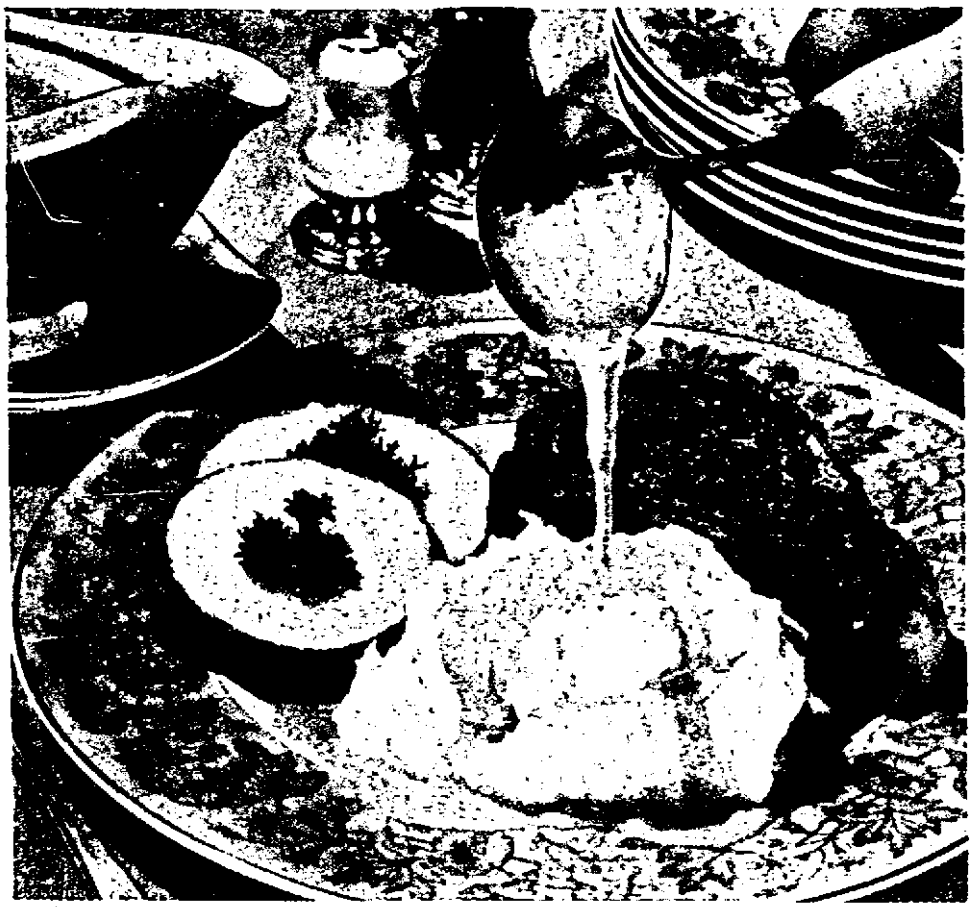

Roy M. Sylar, Survey's L. A. district supervisor cartographer, adjusts marker on Alamitos Bay tide gauge. Record on roll goes to Washington monthly for studies.

Automatic tide gauge replaces long stick used for 2,000 years in measuring tides.

Carnation is the Secret of Failure-Proof Gravy

Special qualities of Carnation make it blend better than ordinary milk and result in smoother, tastier gravy every time...without fail.

RECIPE:

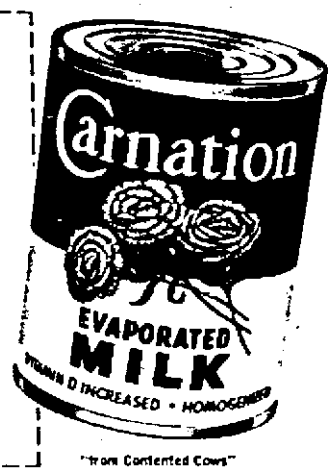

FAILURE PROOF GRAVY

(Makes about 3 cups)

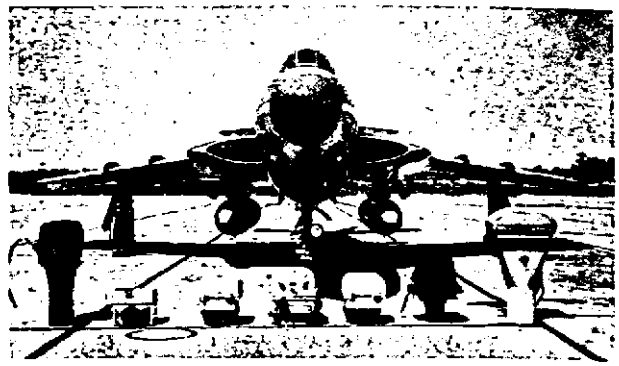

1. Blend ¼ cup seasoned flour with ¼ cup roast meat drippings (pork or ham are delicious), in heavy skillet over low heat until smooth.

2. Gradually add mixture of 1¾ cups (large can) Carnation and 1¾ cups water. Stir constantly over low heat until gravy is thickened.

For a better cup of coffee, "cream" it with Carnation. THE MILK THAT WHIPS!

The Reds would learn things—but so would we

The film processors also can keep up with the picture takers. The latest machines develop thousands of pictures in a day. One model can produce 8,000 pictures in eight hours.

Today, Recci pilots fly frequent peacetime missions for other Government agencies. They photograph forest fires for the Interior Department to determine the damage to public lands. They once photographed all South Carolina's lakes and counted the number of fishermen to help local authorities determine how much fish to stock.

If Russia ever permits our photo planes to fly over her territory, what would be accomplished? Here's the answer:

"We would get an immense amount of knowledge of their industrial and military power. The very presence of our Recci pilots would greatly reduce the possibility of a sneak military attack. If the Russians agree to the open-skies proposal, it would be a dramatic show of good faith that would instantly reduce world tension.

"Of course, Soviet planes would gather a lot of information about our military and industrial strength. But because of our free press and the right of unrestricted travel here, the Russians already know pretty accurately most of the facts about our industrial and military capacity. Anyone can hire a plane and fly over our country with a camera. The Russians or Soviet agents probably have done this."

How Photos Could Help Us

Assuming the open-skies plan is accepted in good faith, the Air Force likely would do three things. First, the pilots over Russia would take pictures of large areas covering perhaps 100 square miles each. Next, the P.I.'s would study the pictures for anything interesting, unexpected or suspicious. If they spotted anything, Washington would request permission for a closer look.

To measure production at a given point, the Air Force would like to take a series of pictures over a period of weeks. This would give an accurate idea of the raw materials coming into a plant and would tip off the White House whether Russia was living up to disarmament promises.

"If the Russians ask us to come in and have a look at them, they know we will get just about everything," says the 363rd's hard-bitten commander, General Mack.

Looking to the future, the Air Force sees even more fantastic developments in sky inspection. X-ray photography from the air is reported on the horizon. Planes fairly soon may be equipped with television cameras. No wonder the President considers the open-skies plan a major step to world disarmament.

Dear Sir:

It was kind of you to award me second prize in your contest, "Two Glorious Weeks in Sunny Long Beach, Calif." But as you can see, that's where I live, so you may as well give the trip to someone else. I wanted so badly to win the first prize—the Mediterranean cruise, especially since Joan (she's my best friend) got married. She and I were the only single girls left in our crowd. Now I am the only one. Believe me it is frightening to be so old (19) and no nearer marriage than I was two years ago when Bill and I first met.

You see, Bill works for a wedding photographer. I guess taking pictures of weddings all day makes him shy away from talking shop after hours. Anyway I just can't get him to propose. But I thought if I won the cruise for two, it would be the most natural thing in the world for us to make it a honeymoon. Wouldn't you know I'd win a vacation right in the town where I was born! Just the same, thank you very much.

Sincerely,
(MISS) EMMALINE JONES.

Gentlemen:

Please disregard the letter I posted this morning. I've changed my mind.

When Bill came by tonight I decided to make one last stand for matrimony. I showed him your telegram about the contest and tried to be very casual. "Isn't that a joke? A vacation right at home? But don't you hope some nice couple used the Mediterranean cruise for a honeymoon? Wouldn't it be romantic?"

For a moment I thought Bill was going to pop the question. Then his mouth became grim. "Uh-huh," he mumbled and glanced over at a newspaper on the divan. "Well! The Mr. Biceps annual contest is going to be held here."

"What's that?" I asked, not really caring.

"Every year Biceps Magazine has a contest to pick the most muscular specimen in the country. Lots of brawn and little brains," he said with a bit of sarcasm. Bill is touchy over being six-foot-two and hungry looking. "That gives me an idea," he mused.

Well, I could see that he was more interested in muscles than in honeymoons, so I gave up. I said I had a headache and sent him home.

After he was gone I looked at myself in the mirror. Really I'm still not so bad looking, red gold hair, a nice tan, and a pretty good figure considering my age. Life, I thought, is slipping by. Soon I will be an old maid—just someone to baby sit with my friends' children. It was then that I decided to have one last fling, even if it was right at home. So please send me the details about the vacation I won.

Sincerely,
EMMALINE JONES.

Gentlemen:

I registered at Rock-a-Way Hotel just like you said. According to the rules I was to arrive by air, but I only live four blocks from the hotel, so I walked. I have a lovely room overlooking the pool. My goodness there are a lot of handsome men here. It seems this is the headquarters for the Mr. Biceps contestants. I have just returned from a swim and am getting ready to go to dinner with one of them, a Mr. Gregory Lovejoy. He is nice but seems a little tense from continually flexing his muscles. When we first met he looked me over appreciatively and asked what sort of exercises I took. He was horrified when I told him I hated exercise.

I am thankful that I accepted the vacation. It's funny how you can have a good time even with a broken heart.

Sincerely,
EMMALINE JONES.

P. S.: Bill doesn't know where I am. Mother told him I was called out of town.

Gentlemen:

This is to explain some items that you may wonder about when you get the bill for this vacation. Greg has been taking me to dinner every night, so you won't be charged for that, but you may question all the snacks I have sent to my room. Greg believes in carrots, yoghurt, and blackstrap molasses and says if I follow his diet and exercises I can be Miss Universe next year. After that, he says, he'd like to make me Mrs. Lovejoy. Greg is so nice, but you've no idea how hard it is to get romantic on an empty stomach.

Anyway, I hope you don't mind being billed for a few chiliburgers and banana splits that I'm eating in the privacy of my room.

Sincerely,
EMMALINE JONES.

Gentlemen:

I'm afraid the hotel bill is going to be hard to figure out what with us moving into the bridal suite and all those fancy dinners. You figure out what we owe and send us a bill.

The wedding was so sudden. The day of the Mr. Biceps contest, Greg got me a seat at the judges' table and I was asked to present the cup to the winner.

The contestants paraded about the pool, flexed their muscles and got red in the face doing it. Photographers were taking pictures and it was exciting except for the fact that I had had nothing but yoghurt and pinon nuts for lunch and could hardly totter about.

Right in the middle of a reverie about pork chops and yams, a judge motioned for me to award the cup. And guess who the winner was? Greg. After I presented it to him, he put his arm about me. "I'm a lucky guy," he announced. "I have not only won the Mr. Biceps title, but my future wife here is certain to be Miss Universe next year."

I was too surprised to say anything. But there was a crash as someone dropped a camera, and there was Bill—very red in the face.

"What do you mean?" he snarled. "She's my girl. She's marrying me."

Greg looked him over. "And why would she want a puny thing like you?"

"Because she loves me," shouted Bill. "And don't think for one minute I'd be taking pictures of you muscle-bound gorillas if I didn't want the extra money for a honeymoon cruise." With that he gave Greg a little push which sent him sputtering and yelling into the pool.

"Bill," I breathed. "I don't care about a cruise. I just want to get married."

"Sure," Bill said. "But wait till I pull that guy out. He can't even swim."

Sincerely,
(MRS.) WILLIAM GATES.

Norma Schutz glows in a coiffure which hairdressers say is ideal for evening wear—soft upswept back, large soft waves on sides, high lift in front. Stylists demonstrate methods today and Monday.

The Coiffure Must Fit the Face

Blonde Barbara Kite looks very sophisticated wearing the Bouffant style—soft, casual and flattering.

HAIR STYLING and design is more than curling, waving and combing. The basic principles used by the modern hair stylist are an understanding of proportion, balance, emphasis, rhythm, harmony and color.

The hairdresser strives to suit the individual needs of a patron according to the mass outline of the face, and these techniques will be demonstrated today and Monday at the new grand ballroom of Lafayette Hotel when the Long Beach Hairdressers Guild holds its annual Beauty and Trade Show. Milady is invited to watch hairdressers compete in styling demonstrations in which their many modern techniques will be explained (sessions begin at noon each day).

THEY WILL DEMONSTRATE, for instance, that the style they adopt for a particular patron is determined by the length of face which is divided into three proportions: the distance from the tip of the chin to the tip of the nose, the tip of the nose to the inner arch of the eyebrow, and from the inner arch of the eyebrow to the hairline. If any one of these three proportions is too long or too short in comparison with the others, the stylist then strives

What's wrong with

Many critics think it's aiming too low. If so, why?

by PATRICK DALTON

Are you growing more critical of TV these days? If so, you're not alone.

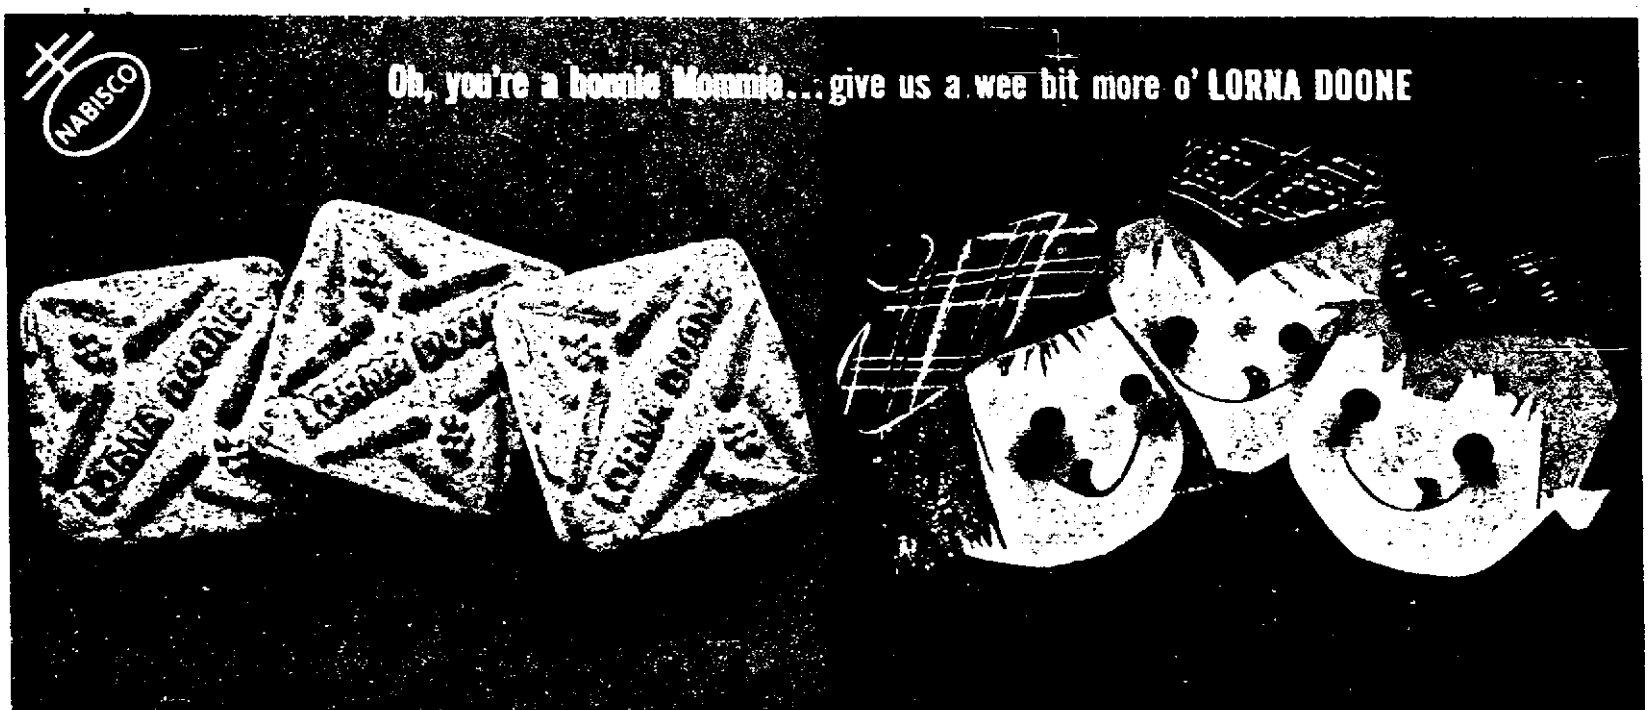

The sameness of current video offerings, the excess of quiz and juvenile programs, the seemingly endless commercials, the general lack of creative programming — these things are annoying not only the public but also the people who make a living in television.

Take Groucho Marx, who has just finished his 10th season on TV. "I have nothing against people making money," Groucho declared recently, "but I don't want to see them doing it on my TV screen . . . I used to watch a lot of TV, but no more, not with what they're showing these days."

Points out Rod Serling, an outstanding video dramatist (he wrote Patterns, The Strike, Requiem for a Heavyweight): "Obviously in television there are just too many people to please, too many themes to shy away from and too many sacred cows to dictate a choice of subject . . . Radio had the same kind of problem. It assumed the average mentality of the audience on the basis of the lowest common denominator, and its aim was almost always downward."

Says George Rosen, knowledgeable TV editor of Variety, the show-business trade paper: "This past video season adds up to the dullest, most uninspired semester in perhaps the entire 10-year life span of TV program progression."

With one exception — Playhouse 90 (CBS, Thursday nights) — television this season offered no really fresh program-

The Oscar Derby Is On Again

Ernest Borgnine's performance of "Marty" was superb, and so was that of Walter Seltzer, right, public relations man who put Borgnine and film in Oscar class.

By James Bacon
Associated Press Writer

TAKE New Orleans' Mardi Gras, the Lincoln-Douglas debates and a Greco-Roman wrestling match. Wrap them up in one big package and you have a reasonable facsimile of what's going on these days in Hollywood.

For on us now is the dizzy carnival of Oscar. It will last until March 27, when the winners go happily home with little gold statuettes which cost about $100 but can be worth millions.

(Best actress nominations, made last week: Ingrid Bergman, in "Anastasia;" Carroll Baker, "Baby Doll;" Katherine Hepburn, "The Rainmaker;" Nancy Kelly, "The Bad Seed," and Deborah Kerr, "The King and I."

(Nominees for best actor performance: Yul Brynner, "The King and I;" the late James Dean, "Giant;" Kirk Douglas, "Lust for Life;" Rock Hudson, "Giant," and Laurence Olivier, "Richard III.")

Since the night that Janet Gaynor and Emil Jannings won the 1927 awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, this has been Hollywood's greatest show of the year. Actors are zany people anyway, but when they get in contention for Oscars—watch out.

EVERY TRICK of the trade is used, all's fair in love, war and the Oscar race.

Just how is he won?

If you take the case histories of last year's two top winners, you won't find any pattern. Ernest Borgnine and Anna Magnani could not have sought the awards in more divergent ways. Yet it's doubtful if either could have won any other way. Still, their cases are reasonably typical, so let's examine them.

First, scandal magazines to the contrary, Oscar can't be bought. It's true that a winner may spend $10,000 on a successful campaign. But the losers may spend twice as much.

"MARTY," the movie which made a major star of Borgnine and won as last year's best picture, cost only $343,000 to make.

Yet, Hecht-Lancaster, the makers, and United Artists, the distributors, spent more than half a million advertising it. It was money well invested, for the picture now has grossed more than six million.

Hollywood publicity men look upon the "Marty" campaign with reverence and awe. It is now cited as a model.

Publicity man behind the campaign was Walter Seltzer, since turned producer.

Seltzer recalls he knew he had an Oscar contender to sell from the moment he first saw a rough cut of the film.

"THE PICTURE was the sleeper of the year and Borgnine's performance was the greatest I'd ever seen. But I knew that both had to be exposed to the maximum to win an Oscar," says Seltzer.

When Oscar time rolled around, Seltzer had exposed "Marty" and Borgnine like a nudist camp. The two were shoo-ins for the awards.

Good-natured, friendly Borgnine put himself in Seltzer's hands. He showed up at every function, premier, party in town.

"To know Ernie is to love him," says Seltzer. "That part was simple."

"Marty," of course, was a shy butcher. When a big supermarket opened in Santa Monica a few days before the awards, customers found Borgnine behind the meat counter complete with cap and apron.

CORNY, MAYBE, but it paid off. Borgnine's performance was a memorable one but so were those by James Cagney, Frank Sinatra and James Dean. Hecht-Lancaster then was a small independent. It didn't, like MGM, employ hundreds of academy members who might vote in the so-called studio loyalty group.

It was Borgnine's first starring role. He hadn't been around for years like Cagney nor could he be expected to have collected as many friends among the voters.

Seltzer employed two gimmicks that overcame these menacing obstacles.

First off he started a daily series of newspaper advertisements months before the awards. Each ad was clever and each had the same cartoon drawing of Borgnine dialing a pay phone—a key scene in the movie.

By the time the awards came, everybody but the blind knew about Borgnine and "Marty."

THE OTHER WAS a psychological gimmick that made moderate income voters and opinion makers feel like studio tycoons.

Whenever someone in the voting group wanted to entertain his friends or neighbors, Seltzer sent over a 16-mm print of "Marty" complete with projection equipment and projectionist.

Only the big producers and stars normally see current movies in their homes.

"We had 160 such private showings," Seltzer recalls. "We knew Ernie and the picture deserved an Oscar. It was just a case of selling good merchandise."

So successful was the sell that the night Borgnine won his Oscar, he presented miniature ones to Seltzer and his assistant, Arthur Wilde.

"They won it too," Borgnine explained gratefully.

MAGNANI, in contrast, refused to do anything her publicity advisers wanted. When producer Hal Wallis asked her to come to New York to attend the opening of "The Rose Tattoo," she cabled no thanks.

"Magnani wants to be judged only on her performance, not her handshaking ability," she told Wallis. It was an answer in keeping with her outspoken Italian character and it worked with the voters.

Insiders say she captured the so-called snob vote of the academy—those in Hollywood who looked down their noses at Oscar politicking. That and the votes she picked up from her outstanding performance got her an Oscar. She still hasn't left Rome.

OSCAR VOTING is a top secret affair, so secret that even George Seaton, the president of the Academy, is just as surprised as the television viewers when the winners are announced.

This year 16,721 members of the motion picture industry guilds are eligible to vote for the nominations. Actors nominate actors, directors nominate directors and musicians nominate songs.

But the ultimate winners are picked only by the 1,770 members of the academy. These come from the creative branches of the industry—actors, directors, writers, designers and the like—all recognized craftsmen in their particular branches.

THE ONLY PEOPLE who know the winners beforehand are a few close-mouthed tabulators of the firm of Price Waterhouse & Co., certified public accountants.

What does Oscar mean to a picture?

Based on its cost and the fact that Borgnine was not a big movie name before "Marty," that picture would have made its producers delirious had it grossed a million and a half. It quadrupled that.

TELEVISION?

What can you do about it?

10-YEAR VETERAN Groucho Marx makes a typical comment: "I used to watch a lot of TV, but no more."

ming. There were occasional brilliant individual shows, but no new personality to stand beside Phil Silvers, George Gobel, Dragnet's Jack Webb or Lucy and Desi Arnaz. TV's major "new" presentation was old movies.

As for performers, such personalities as Bob Hope, Jimmy Durante, Gobel and Donald O'Connor said they were planning to cut down their appearances or quit video entirely. "TV is a business," said Robert Young, star of Father Knows Best, "for very young people with strong backs."

Many sponsors, too, have been increasingly disappointed in TV. Some would cancel their programs if they could. (Practically all half-hour filmed video shows are sold on non-cancelable 39-week contracts. The sponsor of a poor show is stuck with it for 39 weeks, unless he buys up the contract — for an average minimum price of $35,000 a week.)

Still another sign of disillusionment with TV is increased attendance at movie theaters. Early last month the nation's box offices were doing better than at any time since 1949.

So — what's wrong with TV today?

A Variety of Opinions

The public speaks in terms of effect. PARADE took a random sampling in three West Coast cities — Los Angeles, San Diego, Oakland — and got thoughtful answers.

From a Los Angeles housewife: "I think most television programs are aimed at the 13-year-old."

From a San Diego filling-station attendant: "If one show is a success, they copy it until you get sick of the original. Take Ed Sullivan — he's got a good variety show. So they try to give us Steve Allen, Walter Winchell and Herb Shriner, all with the same kind of show."

From an Oakland school teacher: "TV has such vast potential. What a pity that it's offering the people mediocrity."

Mediocrity, say a number of television executives, will remain the rule so long as the fate of network programs hangs by rating systems. As you may know, there now are some 37,250,000 U.S. homes with television sets. A program rating is supposed to reveal the percentage of 37,250,000 homes tuned in to a specific program.

Four major companies sell rating services to networks and advertisers. These are Nielsen, Trendex, American Research Bureau and Pulse, Inc.

Nielsen ratings are obtained via an electronic taping device called an audimeter, placed in television sets in 800 sample homes throughout the nation. It records the stations to which the sets have been tuned. Critics ask: Do 800 homes out of 37,250,000 represent an adequate sampling?

Trendex ratings are obtained via telephone calls in 15 major cities where all three major networks telecast. Approximately 1,000 homes are called. The person who answers is asked what program he's watching, plus several other questions. Trendex says it is not a rating service but, rather, provides "indices to a program's popularity." Objectors maintain that people who answer the phone will say anything and usually do.

American Research Bureau employs the "diary technique." Approximately 2,000 sample homes are given diaries to keep. People are asked to write down the programs they've watched, the number of people who watched with them and other information. No one knows how many diaries are kept regularly, how many represent hasty or inadequate memories.

Pulse depends on home interviews. The day after a program goes on the air, approximately 6,000 people are interviewed; that is, they are handed a list of programs and asked to check those they watched the previous day. Critics object that most of us have short memories and, confronted with a list of programs, may simply check the most popular.

With all their weaknesses, these four rating systems offer the best regular measure of program acceptance that TV has. Many observers wonder, however, whether it doesn't lean too heavily on them.

MAJOR NEW SHOW of distinction this year, Playhouse 90, starred Jack Palance (center) in Requiem for a Heavyweight.

"Instead of using the ratings as a guide," one TV executive told PARADE, "the men in charge of TV programming use them as gospel. A show can be truly outstanding — but let it get a poor rating, and pretty soon it's off the air or shunted to another network. A good rating, not a good program, has become the end-target in television today."

The networks, of course, are in business to make money. This means finding advertisers to sponsor their programs. Few advertisers are interested in raising the nation's cultural level via TV; they want sales, and that in turn calls for the biggest possible audience per show. Hence the tendency to stick to successful programs with high ratings, rather than to try anything new.

When Is a Duty Done?

The fact remains that the Federal Government licenses television stations "to serve in the public interest." This implies a duty to enlarge the informational, educational and entertainment horizons of the TV audience.

Some network officials feel they are fulfilling their responsibility by giving the audience what it wants. "A mass medium," Frank Stanton of CBS has said, "must concern itself with the common denominator of mass interest." But there are dissenters. "Television is not fulfilling its mission," declares former NBC programming executive Fred Wile, "when it caters only to the majority. It has an obligation over and above the majority. There is no reason to believe that because certain types of programs are popular, they're the only ones that can succeed."

The final answer, of course, lies with you, the American public. You can control television programming by writing to the networks. If you like a program, say so; if not, say that. The networks are sensitive to public opinion. In 1951, for example, there were approximately 40 horror programs on the air. Parental protests forced the networks to cancel some of them. Only a few weeks ago, one network abruptly withdrew a new quiz program after public and critics denounced it as childish and ridiculous.

So let the networks know how you feel. In the long run, where TV goes from here is to a large extent your decision. ■

Fixin' to Put a Lady to Bed

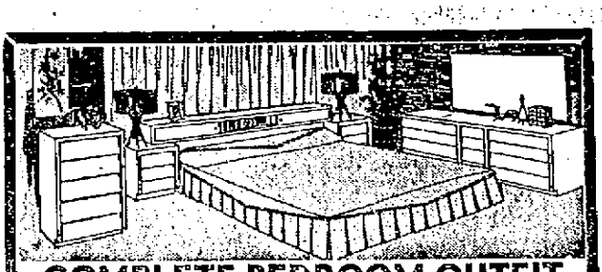

It takes a lot of fixin' to put a lady to bed—in the movies! First, the lady, Monique Van Vooren, combs and grooms her coiffure into shape, then holds still for make-up in scene in MGM's "Ten Thousand Bedrooms."

And now, how about exposure? Cameraman moves in with his light meter, and at the same time Monique gets what the movies refer to as "body make-up."

After a final word from the director, this is the "take." Monique is ready to sing, after no end of people have worked over her in studio "boudoir."

FAMILY ROMP on Cape Cod beach casts widow as a companion — a two-parent job she does alone.

THOUGHTFUL PAT gazes out at sea her Naval-officer husband loved. She finds Cape Cod, where they honeymooned, a link to past.

Daughter and memories keep Pat Penrose going

WOODS HOLE, MASS.

With the first whisper of spring, Pat Penrose and her 9-year-old daughter, Pam, go into the garden outside their garage apartment here and plant flowers. Pat loves flowers, but planting is a painful time — like, she says, "having a dull knife in your heart." It is something her husband and she always did together — and Pat has been a widow more than seven years.

She is 36 now, her dark-brown hair beginning to show gray, and over the years since Ted Penrose was accidentally electrocuted, she has managed to fashion a life for herself and for Pam. It includes a five-room apartment here on Cape Cod, a nurse's job at the Falmouth Medical Association and what the photos on these pages illustrate: the infinitely demanding task of being both mother and father to a growing daughter.

Pat hates to be called "courageous," and she doesn't like sympathy much better. "I'm not a lost soul," she says. "I haven't been left with nothing to live for." But nothing compensates for the sudden twists of pain, which can come from something as simple as a broadcast of a ball game. Ted was a baseball fan who listened to the old Boston Braves' games religiously.

Perhaps one reason Pat Penrose brushes off sympathy and admiration is that she realizes so many other women are in the same boat. There are, in Pat's age bracket, 447,000 widows in the U.S.; correspondingly, the number of wifeless husbands between 35 and 44 is only 90,000. In all age brackets, there are 7½ million widows, more than three times the number of widowers.

These statistics showing that women outlive men — and by a considerable margin — have given pause to doctors, social workers, government planners and insurance actuaries. They have been accented in insurance advertising and dramatized in books on "how to train your wife to be a widow."

Nonetheless, on October 8, 1949, Pat found herself with no idea of how to remold a life alone. Only once in their marriage had Ted tried to discuss the prospect. Pat closed the subject with a shudder: "I don't want to think about it. It won't ever happen."

After all, they had been planning for a long time for a long and happy married life. She and Ted Penrose grew up within a few blocks of each other in Canton, Mass., about 15 miles southeast of Boston. Ted grew up to go to Tufts College and the Naval Academy; he spent six years in the Navy, winning the Distinguished Service Cross for saving a shipmate's life, and emerged a full commander. Pat entered nurse's training, then spent four years as an Army nurse. Such long separations didn't

By Bike to Guatemala

By Dick Hayman

WHEN the cycling bug bites, it bites hard!

Two Southland collegians, Don White and Aaron Cohen, are outstanding examples at hand. The two pedal-pushers this summer spent their vacation time crossing the entire length of Mexico on their bikes, destined for their final goal—Guatemala — on a 3,100-mile trek which surpassed their last year's cycling across the United States from Los Angeles to New York City.

Passionate believers in the theory that it's best to see any country leisurely as the traveler moves along, the two bicyclists, both 21, enjoyed their 1955 cross-country adventure so much they decided early this summer to play an encore by turning their well-used handlebars in the direction of Latin America.

On June 18 they departed from their hometown, carrying with them only $100 to cover 2½ months' expenses, plus some 30 pounds of baggage and equipment.

"The worst parts of the trip up to Mexico City were the desert stretches in Arizona and across the border in Sonora. The sun really blazes down around there," the boys reported when interviewed on a Mexico City radio station during their few days of respite in the capital.

"But what pleasantly surprised us was the wonderful condition of the Nogales highway. It made the long hours of pedaling a real pleasure," White told their interviewer, Ernesto Arraiza.

In turn, co-adventurer Cohen spoke of "the marvelous hospitality of the Mexican families where we stopped along the way. They took us into their homes, fed us, put us up for the night and not for pay either."

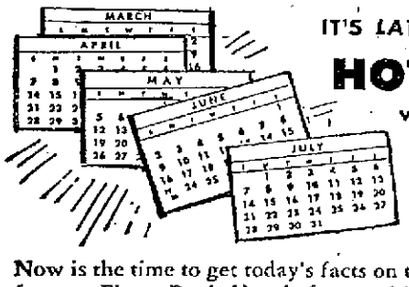

On July 30 the two took off

WORKING, Pat brings Pam along to office when she has evening hours. Here Pam keeps busy with crayons.

KISSING, mother and daughter say goodbye at school gate. After school, Pam helps with supper.

ROUGHHOUSING, Pat and Pam spend week end together. Pat also enjoys cycling, tree-climbing.

TUCKING PAM IN, her mother has final chat. She finds evenings, mealtimes loneliest parts of day.

Another marriage? Friends hope so— but no man has measured up to Ted change their plans a bit. They were married March 16, 1946, in a whirl because Ted was being sent to Bikini atoll for the atomic-bomb tests.

The Penroses made elaborate plans. Ted took a job at the famous Oceanographic Institute here, and Pat worked as a nursery-school teacher. They lived in a "darling" Cape Cod house and spent evenings drawing plans for their eight-room dream house. They went swimming, fishing, visiting and picture-taking.

And on January 14, 1948, Pamela was born. Ted was a typical proud father; he carried a wallet crammed with pictures. Pam responded. When she was old enough to walk, she would stand by the door and wait for him to come home. Life seemed full, rich, without a cloud.

Pat found her husband's body by herself. It was Saturday, and he had gone to the lab to catch up on some work, calibrating deep-sea thermometers. He planned to come home for a late lunch, but by 5 p.m. he had not appeared. Worried, Pat went to the lab to look.

The lights still were on. The floor was covered with water. And in a far corner, lying face down on a bench, was Ted. Her nurse's training told Pat immediately that he was dead. The medical examiner said he apparently had touched a wet pipe while in contact with a live wire.

She Faced Her Problems

The next few minutes — indeed, the next few months — were unreal for Pat. She never broke down — "My people are English and we've been trained to stand up under tragedy," she says — but she drifted about in a daze. Besides, she felt she couldn't cry in front of the baby. As the volley fired over Ted's grave died away, she began to realize she was alone.

"As a child, I always was taught to cope with situations," Pat says. "I think I've coped with mine." For a time she withdrew from people; then she began to meet her problems head-on. She moved in with her family and went to work, and later she went to Boston University and earned a degree in nursing. She is studying now for a master's degree. When Pam gets older, she would like to teach nursing.

College helped Pat in many ways. She met war widows with a much harder road than hers. She met students who worked a full day and took a full college course, pushing themselves to exhaustion.

As soon as she could, she moved back to Woods Hole, where people knew Ted and where his memory lingered in the dunes and the fog. Pam helped to decorate the apartment overlooking the sea. Mother and daughter are inseparable companions.

Her Daughter Comes First

Life has settled into a routine, with few highlights. Pat has learned to fix bicycles, to roughhouse with her daughter, to be a handyman. Added to her chores as wife and mother, plus odd hours at work, it's quite a load. But Pam — playing with Pam, shopping with her, getting her ready for school — comes first.

Pat realizes her daughter needs a father. For a while, Pam would point out men on the street and tell her mother, "I think he'd be a nice daddy." Pat's friends, too, have pointedly arranged meetings with eligible men. No romance has blossomed.

She hasn't closed the door on remarriage. "I like and enjoy male company, and I'm not going to be a hermit," she says. But she doubts that she ever will find another Ted.

There are men in her life. The first is the family doctor, on whom she leans for blunt-spoken advice in all fields. The second is her minister. A deeply religious Episcopalian, Pat is consoled by the faith that she will meet Ted again.

Still, nothing compensates for the pain here and now. "You never really adjust," she says. "It's always there, no matter where you are or what you do. If Pam and I walk along the beach, I think how much more wonderful it would be for both of us if there were two parents instead of one. It's something that aches continuously. It never goes away. I doubt it ever will." ■

ASKING FOR HELP, Pat visits minister. She teaches Sunday School, calls church "tower of strength."

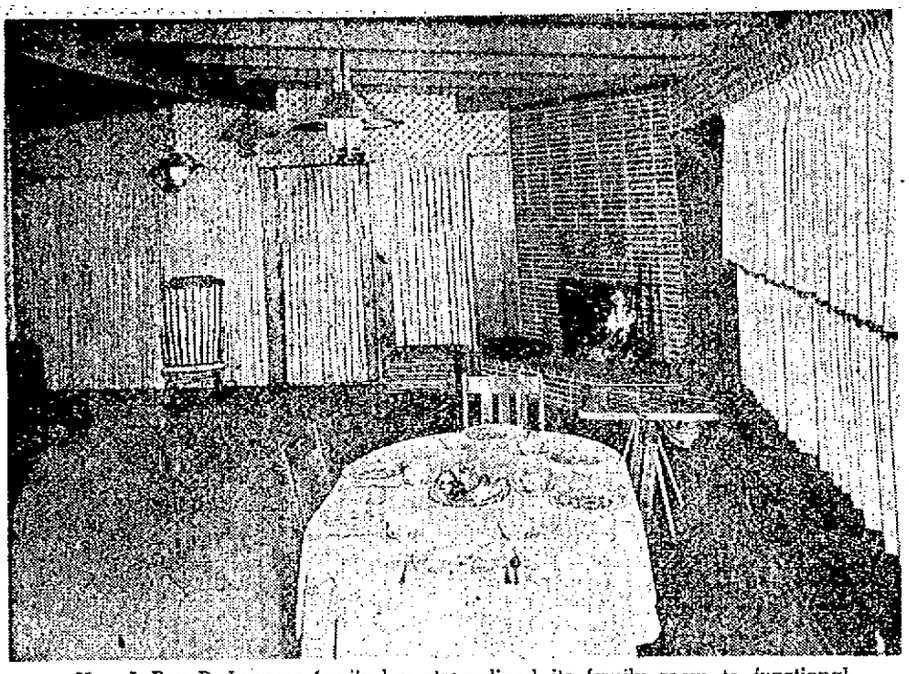

"ODD MAN" at a party, Pat changes records for friends. She likes people, doesn't hide from life.

LOOKING BACK, Pat scans family albums in front of Ted's photo. The years pass—but his memory remains.

Livability Multiplied By Two Plus

Plain exterior of the Lanners' home is soon to undergo revamping in keeping with remodeling of interior.

By Eileen Ball

THIS IS THE STORY of how a house grew from 1,000 to 2,000 feet, doubling its footage and more than doubling its livability. This is a story of the Lannerses, a family that knows how to work—and play—together.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy D. Lanners are teachers in the Long Beach School System. Mrs. Lanners teaches elementary children, and her husband has classes in shop and industrial drawing in a junior high school. They have three children of their own and, like many other average families, they found their small bungalow getting smaller and smaller as their family grew larger. So, Lanners, being well-equipped to plan expansion and remodeling of the house, decided while he was at it to do the actual work himself, too!

In the process, the little house at 4226 Heather Rd., Lakewood Village, gained a new bath, a beautifully enlarged kitchen and dinette, a spacious service area and a huge family room. The master bedroom "came into its own" with the addition of a full wardrobe and the canny squeezing-in of a tiny but complete three-quarter bath. And, during this process, as if this weren't more than enough to keep everyone well-occupied, the Lanners "took to the hills" and built a family cabin . . . just for the fun of it!

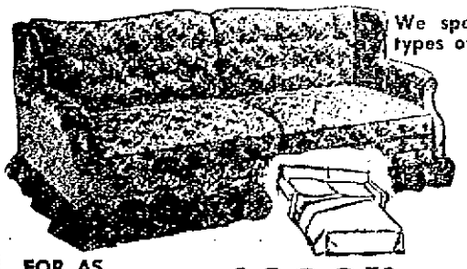

TO SAY THIS family is merely ambitious would be gross understatement. The whole story entails description of how its members work together and how everything they set out to do includes the children as well as the parents.

The family room, for example, features a children's corner . . . an area specifically set up for such pastimes as piano-playing, coloring, studying and "tea parties." And, near the fireplace, a small pool table stands ready for competition between the young Lanners and visiting neighboring offspring. The kitchen is large enough for comfortable dining with plenty of room for the youngsters to kibitz when Mrs. Lanners makes

One end of family room is devoted to the children's activities. Note play counter, small chairs and piano.

Attractive and spacious, the kitchen represents major portion of the Lanners' efforts in the remodeling.

special treats like fudge or popcorn. Near the sink hangs an old fashioned wall phone that is really a speaker for an intercom unit. Actually, the Lanners' remodeling efforts are far from complete. Their living room, which is pretty much relegated to serving the function of an occasional "guest parlor" and music room, is decorated in modern. This, however, will be altered just as soon as the family can get around to deciding on a whole new roomful of French provincial furnishings. The scale of the room is small, so small-scale fruitwood pieces will be ideally suited.

Opening off the living room through a dutch door is the newly remodeled and enlarged kitchen. Its color scheme is a combination of pale cocoa and pink. A subtle and warm blend of the two tones is seen in the marble-patterned linoleum. Wallpaper for the dining area has a pinkish-cocoa background sprinkled over with tiny provincial figures in turquoise, yellow and brown. Cabinets of natural birch are topped with cocoa-flecked tile of pebbled texture. Walls in the preparation area are pale pink and the curtains are crisp white organdy.

THE COOKING AREA is set apart in a "U" created by the building of a cabinet island into which is set the sink. The counter top here is wide enough to double as a bar or buffet, but the feeling of bulk is lessened by the sloping cupboard face that slants in toward the bottom. This relieves any feeling of space-consuming ponderousness.

Under a hanging fixture of white hobnail milk glass stands the dining set with its mar-resistant plastic top in birch pattern. Adjoining the dinette is a built-in desk that is handy for writing and telephoning. Over it is a built-in china closet with sliding glass doors.

A few steps down from the kitchen is the new family room. Floored in waxed cork, this big room is ideal for dancing and general family living. In an al-

He's truly an 'old cowhand'

Tucson's rodeo king Ed Echols remembers the real Wild West

by SID ROSS and KARL KOHRS

REMEMBERING roundups of the Old West, ex-cowboy and rodeo star Ed Echols poses for PARADE.

TUCSON, ARIZ.

As the official "kickoff" for the 1957 rodeo season, Tucson's 31st annual rodeo — La Fiesta de los Vaqueros — comes to climax today.

For the past four days, the Old West has lived again here, and a living symbol of those hard-riding days is the man shown in the photo above — Ed Echols, one of the last of Arizona's old-time cowboys.

Everybody in this part of the country knows Ed, a reticent, six-foot giant of a man with crinkles at the corners of his eyes and a silver thatch of hair. Originator of Tucson's annual rodeo, Ed is one of the last remaining links with the old frontier. Now a hale 78, he has held the title of World's Champion Cowboy, and in his time has been sheriff, peace officer, ranchman — and just plain cowpoke.

Born in Stockdale, Tex., in 1879, Ed emigrated to Arizona in a covered wagon and practically grew up in the saddle. An expert rider and steer-roper, he eventually toured with several Wild West shows. During those days he made friends with two other cowboys — Will Rogers and Tom Mix, when they were silent-screen stars of the '20s.

Back to the Open Range

Ed himself scorned a screen career when, as he says, "they tried to tell me how to wear a hat and get on a horse so I'd look like a cowboy." He went back to the open range, and that is the life he describes for PARADE in his typical cowman's drawl.

"The cowpuncher of 50 years ago," says Ed, "usually came from the farms. They were men who didn't want to spend their life pullin' up weeds and bein' tied to crops. But they didn't become cowboys to get away from hard work. There's nothin' harder, with less money, than a cowboy's life. In those days a cowhand worked for $15 a month. In Arizona it was better — they was payin' $30 or $35 a month when I came here. Still, it was terrible hard work."

On the range, the cowboy got up as soon as it was light enough to catch and saddle the horses. Breakfast was beef, beans, potatoes, plenty of gravy and lots of coffee.

Nursemaid to Cattle

"Then," Ed says "a cowhand would spend all day rounding up cattle in the roughest, wildest country you ever saw. If there was a wild cow trying to run away, he'd have to rope her. If one got caught in a bog, he'd have to pull her out. If he found a cow with screw worms — which can kill cattle — he'd try to doctor her up with a creosote dip he carried in a sort of 'first aid' pack. Or if there was an unbranded calf, he'd rope it, build a fire and brand it.

"Then," Ed says, "a cowhand would help build dirt tanks to catch valuable rain water. Then there were odd jobs to do around the ranch house — building and repairing fences, and the like. By the time it got dark and the cowboy turned his horse into the corral, he was a mighty tired hombre."

The standard picture of the cowboy as a "rootin,' tootin,' shootin'" character gets short shrift from Echols. Says he: "Fifty years ago, a lot of the boys never even owned a gun. The Indians had been pretty well whooped out of here by then. On the range, you were safer without a gun. Fact is, if you saw a guy who was always wearing a gun you suspicioned he might be on the dodge."

If a cowboy wanted to "paint the town" he had to save his fireworks for Christmas or the Fourth of July, his only two days off during the entire year.

"On the Fourth," Ed recalls, "everybody took off for the nearest town. You'd go into a saloon to have a sociable drink — not to kill anybody. The saloon was a right peaceable place because cowboys were all pretty civilized fellows. You'd sit around and swap yarns and see who could tell the biggest lie.

"If there was a show — the word 'rodeo' wasn't yet in common use (it's a Mexican word, meaning 'roundup') — you'd go and rope a steer for a cash prize.

"Outside of gamblin', there wasn't much entertainment. Very few saloons had dancing girls. They was pretty strict about women's morals in those days. Why, even a woman who'd come to town wearing boots and long pants was liable to get arrested."

A Rugged, but Free, Life

Most cowboys of frontier days, Ed says, were content to come to town one or two days out of a year, get a little drunk, gamble a bit and then go back to the lonely prairies. No cowpoke ever felt sorry for himself. The life was rugged — but he was free.

Of today's cowboy, Ed says: "He's got it soft. He might not be cowboy enough to know how to open and shut a pasture gate, but he sure knows how to dress up like a cowhand and talk waddy lingo.

"But there's really no need for the rugged training and life the cowboy used to have. Now the cattle are all fenced in, and there's trucks to take them to the railroad. With all these modern ways of ranching, there's no call any more for the old-time cowhand's skill."

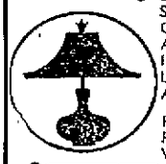

Ed sums it up philosophically: "Well, that's how it is. There ain't no point in livin' in the past . . ." ■ an Oscar to a movie is a million.

The effect of Oscar on a star? That is unpredictable.

Much has been written about the Academy Award jinx. Many Oscar winners have gone from Oscar to obscurity in a year—but it was not Oscar's fault.

LUISE RAINER won two years in a row as best actress Then she wasn't getting parts any more. Studio people in the know report temperament, not Oscar, was the reason.

Others have upped their price too drastically after winning an Oscar. One supporting actor winner went from $15,000 a picture to $100,000 the next day. He was out of work two years. He liked booze, too.

Ego is another reason. An actor gets an Oscar role and then refuses to do any others unless they measure up—and Oscar roles don't come along every day.

It's amazing how many good actors and actresses never have won Oscars. John Barrymore and Greta Garbo usually are considered two of the greatest performers in the history of the movies. They never won.

NEITHER DID Barbara Stanwyck, a pro in every one of her 70-odd pictures. Actor Vincent Price once said he casts his vote every year for Cary Grant.

"And I will continue to do so until this great actor is recognized by the Academy voters," he asserts.

Lionel Barrymore won in 1931 in competition with the youngest actor ever nominated—Jackie Cooper.

At the time there was much speculation as to how Cooper, only 5, would take it if he lost. But by the time the Awards came, tired little "Skippy" was asleep in Marie Dressler's lap.

One of the most embarrassing moments in Oscar history came in 1935. Will Rogers was master of ceremonies and Frank Capra was a favorite to win the director's award. Rogers made a laudatory speech and finished with the words: "Frank, come and get it."

CAPRA GOT UP and walked 40 feet towards the podium before he realized the Award was for Frank Lloyd.

"The walk back to the table was the longest crawl on record," Capra recalls.

What does a winner think when his or her name is called? Most say "happy" or "numb" but Jane Wyman's answer is the funniest:

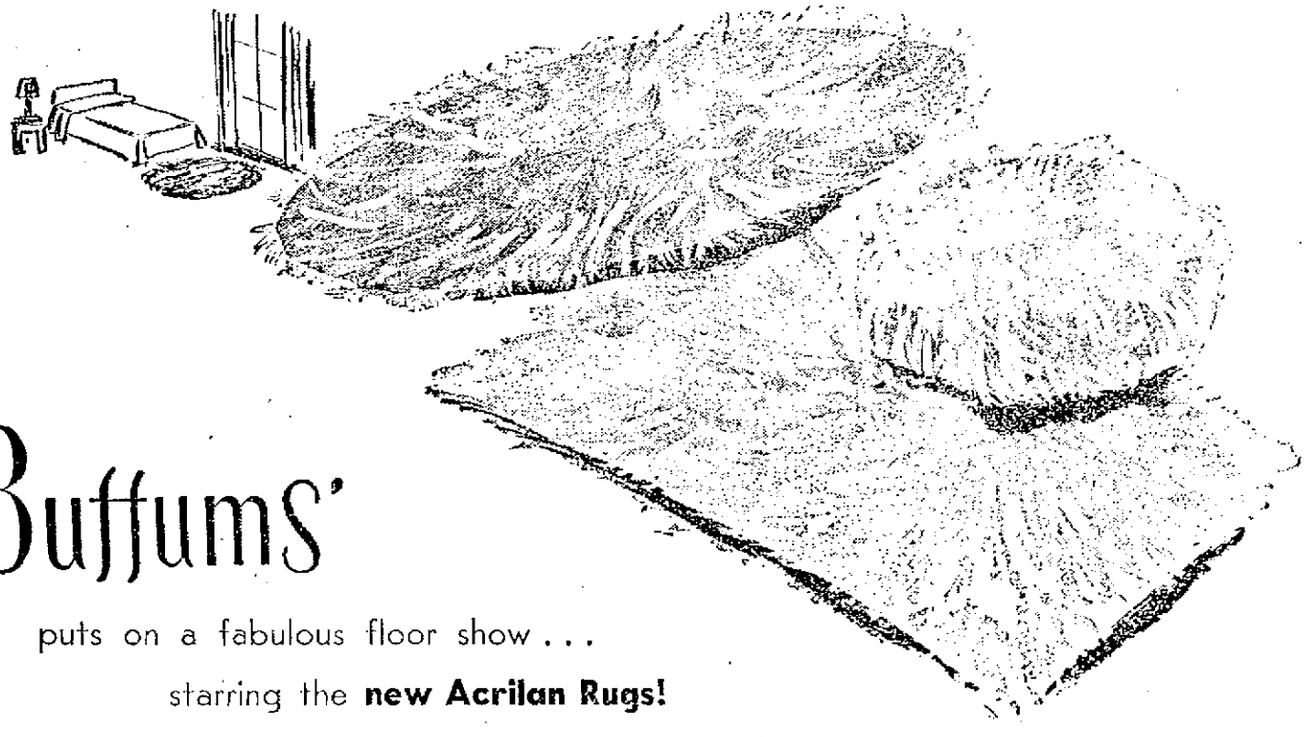

"I heard my name called and the first thing that came to my mind was: 'Did I or did I not put on a girdle tonight?' Then I thought, 'So what? Let it bounce!' And I walked in a daze to the stage."

Paul Revere of the Indian Wars

By Margaret Zeiss

—Drawing by Parker Markle

Ft. Laramie lay 236 miles away and a blizzard was at peak fury, but Portugee Phil fought his way through.

EVERY SCHOOLBOY knows about the ride of Paul Revere, but few know about the ride of Portugee Philips.

This ride, which took place in 1866, is one of the unsung epics of the West.

John Phillips, otherwise known as Portugee Phillips, was a civilian scout at Fort Phil Kearney in the Powder River country of eastern Wyoming. It was a far, lonesome outpost in the Sioux territory at the foot of the Big Horn Mountains. Col. Henry Beebe Carrington started it July 17, 1866. The Indians made their first attack July 24. Up to Dec. 31 the Sioux had killed 154 men and wounded 20 more. Also, they captured 700 head of livestock and made 51 hostile demonstrations.

AFTER THE INDIANS first attacked the colonel sent for reinforcements, among whom was Capt. W. J. Fetterman, a soldier of the Civil War.

The wood train was on its way down from the Big Horn mountains with more timber when it was attacked. Col. Carrington said, "Capt. Fetterman, you take 40 men and protect that train — but do not pursue the Indians beyond Lodge Trail Ridge."

When the captain saw the Indians were making a break to get out of his line of fire he disregarded those orders and said, "Come on, men, let's go get 'em!" That was a sad decision because he and all his men were killed.

WHEN THEY FAILED to return the colonel went to see what had happened. A sorry sight met his eyes. He ordered his men to bring back the dead, though it was 30 degrees below zero.

Regardless of the weather Col. Carrington called for a volunteer to go to Ft. Laramie, 236 miles to the south, for help. Horse Shoe Creek was 190 miles away and was the nearest telegraph station. That was still 40 miles north of Ft. Laramie.

With the temperature so low and a blizzard building up, the colonel was dubious about anyone offering his services, but up stepped Portugee Philips.

"I'll go, sir, " he said.

"Fine," said the colonel and added, "I'll let you take my own mount, a Kentucky thoroughbred."

PORTUGEE TOOK a sack of oats and some hardtack, and with his arm raised in a salute rode off into the night. No one will ever know how he found his way, as men and horses usually go in circles in a storm such as that which broke over them.

On the third night he came to Horse Shoe Creek and there telegraphed Laramie, but the message was never received. He went on and on and finally reached his destination. It was Christmas though Portugee probably didn't even know it. He staggered, covered with snow, into a lighted hall which happened to be an officers' club called the "Bedlam" where a dance was being held. He gave his urgent message and then fainted. He was between life and death for weeks.

The government gave Philips $300 for his scouting and ride. Then the Sioux killed off his cattle and ruined him. After he died in 1866 the government gave Mrs. Philips $5,000.

SAVORY MACARONI AND CHEESE

8 oz. elbow macaroni
2 cups tomato cheese sauce*
2 strips bacon, cooked
½ cup ready-to-serve cereal flakes
1 tablespoon bacon fat

Cook macaroni as directed on package; drain; pour into shallow baking dish; add sauce. Crumble crisp bacon; combine with cereal flakes and bacon fat; sprinkle on top. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.). Serves six. *TOMATO CHEESE SAUCE: Make 2 cups medium white sauce using 1 cup tomato juice and 1 cup evaporated milk as the liquid. Add in 1½ cups grated sharp cheddar cheese. Stir over low heat until cheese melts.

Do more with TOMATO JUICE

by BETH MERRIMAN PARADE FOOD EDITOR

We all enjoy chilled, delicately seasoned tomato juice at the start of a meal. But for even greater enjoyment, keep a few extra cans on the pantry shelf to use in cooking. You'll discover many new and exciting flavor tricks. Pictured here are three: using tomato juice as the liquid in meat loaf; to add color and flavor to macaroni and cheese; to make a quick and easy aspic. Use tomato juice, too, in gravies, sauces and stews, and for preparing pre-cooked rice, for added flavor.

EASY TOMATO ASPIC

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
2 cups tomato juice
½ teaspoon salt
Few drops bottled hot pepper sauce
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon sugar

Soften gelatine in ½ cup cold tomato juice. Combine 1½ cups tomato juice with salt, pepper sauce and onion. Bring to boiling point; add lemon juice and sugar. Add to gelatine; stir until gelatine dissolves. Pour into individual molds. Chill.

SURPRISE MEAT LOAF

1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup tomato juice
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 medium onion, minced
3 lbs. beef, ground
4 skinless frankfurters

Combine all ingredients except beef and frankfurters; let stand 10 minutes. Add beef; mix well. Fill 11"-x-4½"-x-2½" pan half full of beef mixture. Place frankfurters on top lengthwise, in pairs. Add remaining beef mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 1½ hours.

to create an illusion of height with curls, fluff, pompadour, or flatness with bangs. Effect on sides is determined by the mass outline of the face, such as heart, square, round, oval and inverted triangle.

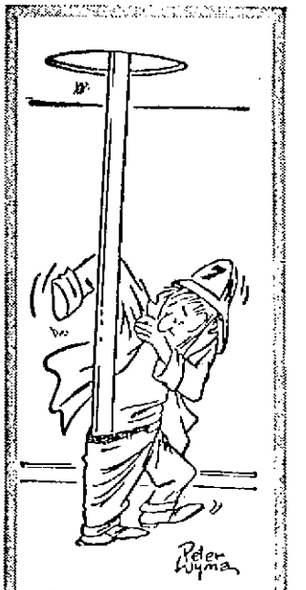

In the end, the hairdresser strives to create the illusion of the oval face, which, he explains, is the perfectly shaped face.

After determining the shape of the face he must next find out the amount of curl in the patron's hair and whether it is natural or a permanent. He then considers the type of profile: chin line protruding or receding, nose too long or too short, forehead bulging, slanting or normal. He then shapes milady's hair, as, he points out, hair shaping is the foundation of a finished hairdress. The patron's hair is then ready to dress.

"THE USUAL CORRECT finish length," one hairdresser explained, "is an illusion of the head being one-fifth of the patron's overall height. The best hair style is one of naturalness and simplicity, with some softness.

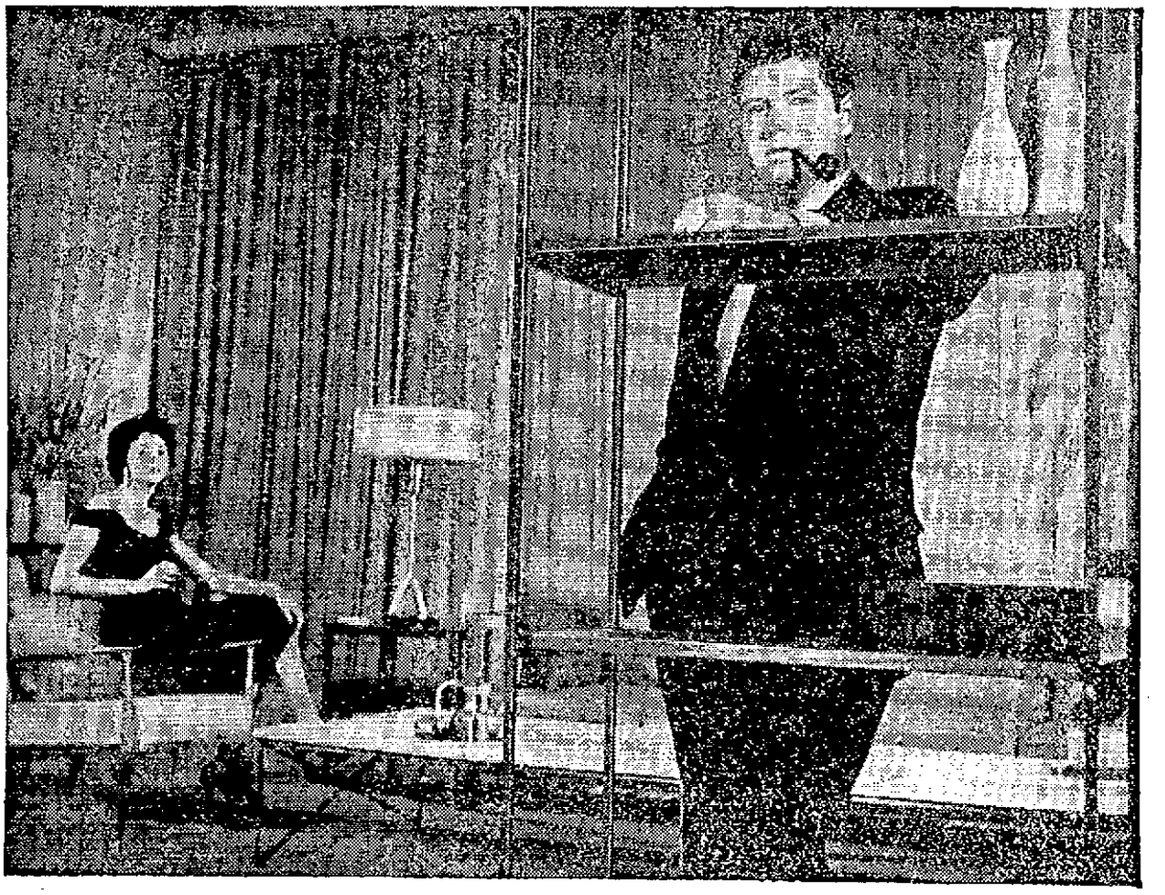

"We must never clutter or overdo a hair style as this will cheapen and take away from the overall effect. The round, square and full face should have the hair brushed back and up, creating a full line even with the forehead, in order to give the correct balance and, of course, the illusion of an oval face. The long, triangular or heart-shaped face should be dressed down around the ears and forward, creating a wider illusion at the lower portion of the face.

"More than that, we strive to bring out personality, and give poise and new assurance to the individual."

TALL GAL from Tennessee

When photographer Ben Ross spotted the queenly blonde above, he claimed a new "discovery" for PARADE's picture series of young beauties. She's Helen Landon, 20, a tall (5' 8") co-ed from Huntingdon, Tenn., whose father, a major general, commands the Caribbean Air Force.

As athletic as she is lovely, Helen was captain of the girls' basketball team at high school in Nashville and has done ballet swimming at the University of Tennessee. She also has a serious side: she's majoring in retailing. As for a career, she likes merchandising, but may also take a turn at fashion modeling. Currently she's touring the country as the 1957 Maid of Cotton.

Has she a boy friend? "Absolutely not," says Helen emphatically. "I'm not engaged, spoken for or going steady — but who knows what tomorrow will bring?"

DIAMOND WALNUTS

Put fresh goodness and tempting new texture right into your favorite hot breads – and into cakes, cookies, salads, candies, desserts, too! Just stir in crunchy, flavorful pieces of Diamond Walnuts. Then use the plump, golden halves for festive garnishing. You'll love the compliments you'll get! All because you've worked wonders with Diamond Walnuts, the choicest you can buy.

New! Really fresh shelled walnuts in handy vacuum cans: You always get the choicest shelled walnuts when you buy Diamond Walnuts in vacuum-sealed cans. Brimful of crisp halves and pieces – always economical! Lid reseals tightly, kernels stay fresh and sweet in your refrigerator. In convenient 8-oz. (2 cup) and 4-oz. (1 cup) sizes.

Get Diamond Walnuts in-the-shell too, in 1-lb. cellophane bags. They're thin-shelled, fun to crack – and full of plump, meaty kernels. You get two full cups from each thrifty pound bag!

Add more imagination to your cooking: Always keep both kinds of Diamond Walnuts on your shelf!

Here's a quick idea for breakfast: Serve a piping hot ring of rolls made from biscuit mix and flavorful Diamond Walnuts.

DIAMOND QUICK BUTTERFLY RING

2½ cups biscuit mix	2 tbsps. melted butter or margarine	1 tbsp. flour
1 tbsp. sugar	¼ cup sugar	½ cup chopped candied cherries
1 egg, well beaten	½ tsp. cinnamon	¾ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts
½ cup milk

Mix first 4 ingredients together. Knead about 18 strokes. Roll into rectangle 11" x 14". Brush with butter or margarine. Stir remaining ingredients together and spread on dough. Roll up jelly-roll fashion, pinching edges to seal seam. Place on cookie sheet, seam side down, joining ends to form ring. With scissors, cut through ring, almost to center, in 2" slices. Mark indentation in center of each slice. Bake at 375°, 20 minutes. Frost with confectioners' sugar frosting while warm. Trim with maraschino cherries, and crown each slice with plump, golden Diamond Walnut halves.

Before leaving Mexico City, White and Cohen plotted a route southward on adventurous trip to Guatemala City.

Bike Ride to Guatemala

(Continued from Page 10) from Mexico City for their final destination of Guatemala City. According to their advance planning, they arrived there on Aug. 30, dead broke and exhausted, but having gone through some of Mexico's most fascinating areas, as well as interesting Guatemalan territory.

WHITE SAID, before leaving Mexico City, "We haven't the slightest idea as to how we'll get back to Los Angeles, but we're hoping to bum a ride back on a cargo plane or even on a tramp steamer."

As they fully expected, they made it home, carrying souvenirs and a rich fund of material for their composition classes on their respective campuses.

Cohen studies art at the Chovinard Art Institute in Los Angeles. Much of his inspiration springs from sights seen during cycling excursions, added dividend from the effort put into them. And White, a political science major at UCLA, feels that his travels add a lot to his understanding of how other people live, supplementing his book learning with vivid firsthand experience.

SHARK

A daring new sport

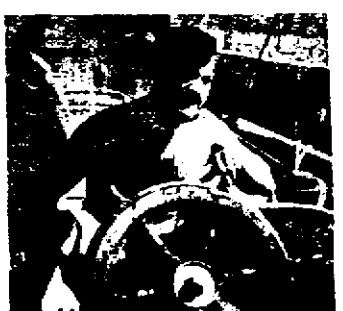

ON SURFACE, the author hangs on to wildly thrashing nurse shark. The entire "bout" took place in three feet of water.

BELOW WATER, Tassos still manages to hang on by crossing his ankles around the shark's body in a scissors grip, holding one of the fins.

UP AGAIN, Tassos tries to slow down shark by pressing gills. The rubbery sharks have great strength but tire very easily.

TASSOS steers his way through Bahamas. He grew the beard after battle.

cove near the kitchen is the children's corner faced with a bevy of little hardwood chairs. This is where the children's books and games are kept within handy reach of young fingers. Next to the play counter stands an upright piano, strictly for the fun and banging of it.

Also located close to the kitchen is a large, old-fashioned dining table where the family can adjourn for company dinners within view of the big split-brick corner fireplace.

WINDOWS RUN ALL the way around the room and are draped with double tiers of pleated natural monk's cloth. The lofty, exposed beam ceiling has rafters of redwood, stained a eucalyptus green. Most of the wall area is paneled to the ceiling with vertical natural mahogany. In the area devoted to conversation and televiewing, however, the Lanners chose an abstract, leaf-patterned wallpaper in colors of terra cotta, lime and green. An enormous sectional sofa goes around one corner while large lounge chairs help accommodate seating. Centering the conversation area is a large cobbler's bench coffee table.

Off the kitchen is the new spacious service area that makes the chores of laundry a "breeze." Adjoining it is the new bath with its white tile, butter yellow fixtures and black vinyl tile.

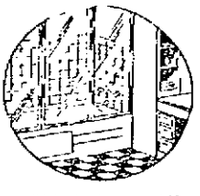

The master bedroom is newly-furnished in cherry wood French provincial. The wallpaper is pale pinkish-beige patterned with small clusters of turquoise blossoms. The turquoise chintz coverlet that dresses the bed overlays a dust ruffle of stark white. Off the bedroom is a 3x6 foot, three-quarter bath.

RIDING

looks danger in the teeth

by JOHN TASSOS

"Ride a shark? Wouldn't it be dangerous?"

That's what most people say whenever I talk about a favorite sport of mine. And they're right: shark riding is dangerous. Nobody I know has ever been seriously hurt, but one split-second of carelessness could cost you an arm or leg — or worse.

I learned the sport from Bahama natives; some Pacific islanders also are avid shark riders. Lately a few white skin divers have been taking a crack at it.

First thing you learn is that all sharks are not rideable; the hammerhead and tiger, to name a couple, are just too big and tough. In these pictures, taken in the Bahamas, I'm riding a nurse shark, a rather slow-moving eight-footer. The nurse shark has a small mouth of hard-packed teeth but he never attacks if left alone. Climb on his back, though, and he's as savage as a hammerhead.

To board the nurse, wait till he comes into shallow water to feed. A native angles his dinghy, carrying you and two or three spearmen, as close as possible. (You need them as standby protection — just in case.) Then you spring from the gunwale, aiming to latch onto the pectoral fins just behind the shark's head.

Catch as Catch Can

A volcano erupts when you smack down on the shark's sandpaper-like back. He bucks and twists savagely, diving to the bottom, scraping you along the sand to rub you off. (If he lights out for a reef, quit fast; he can cut you to shreds on the coral in no time.)

To hang on while he's thrashing, twist your legs around the shark's body in a scissors hold. And as soon as you can, sink your fingers into the soft fleshy gill slits. This clogs up the shark's breathing cycle, slowing him down.

But your hold on the fleshy gills begins to slip. You reach again for the pectoral fins.

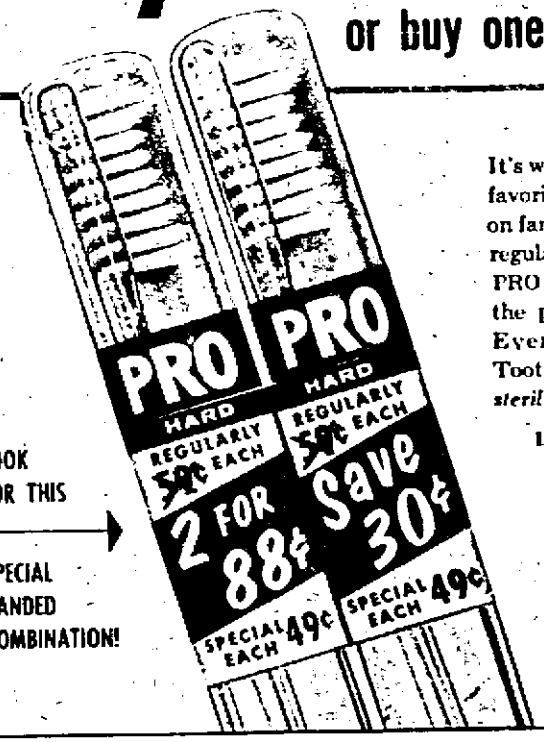

And that sets off a new explosion. The shark bucks, doubling backward; then he dives for the bottom, again trying to scrape off his jockey.

By this time, 10 to 15 seconds have elapsed. You've been underwater about half that time and are beginning to feel it. You double your legs under you and kick away. As you do, the spearmen move in to fend off the shark if he should attack.

But almost always the astounded shark flees to deeper water — I suspect to hide his embarrassment. ■

THE AUTHOR (l.) has written a new book, The Underwater World (Prentice-Hall, New York, $4.95). It will be published March 1. A noted skin diver and marine expert, Tassos has studied underwater life for more than 10 years.

Cmdr. R. C. Bolstad is veteran officer in the Survey.

sure what the coasts of this country looked like. So, naturally, they created a bureau to find out.

Through the years the Survey not only charted the coasts but widened its scope to chart the seas, to criss-cross the continent with the "triangulation lines" that tell us where we are on earth, to probe the complexities of ocean currents, earthquake phenomena, and solar activities.

The name U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey — which is what the bureau is sometimes called — sounds staid and statistical. But it has had its adventures and its characters. It has even had a mutiny.

THE SURVEY schooner Ewing, lying off the coast at San Francisco in 1849, sent a gig ashore. The crew, maddened with gold fever, threw their leader overboard and headed for the gold fields. They were caught, convicted of "mutiny, desertion, and running away with a boat." One of them was hanged from the Ewing's fore yard arm.

James McNeill Whistler, the famous artist, was employed briefly in 1854 in the Survey's Engraving Section.

WHEN HE DID get around to drafting charts instead of beer, Whistler had the disturbing habit of etching fanciful figures into the margins and open spaces. Some of his engravings show coastlines surrounded with human heads.

But by and large, the Survey has depended, rather, on such men as Comdr. Bolstad. He is a civil engineer and has been with the Survey since 1926, when he graduated from the University of Minnesota in the upper third of his class.

In the Pacific in World War II he helped the island-hopping Marines chart shorelines -- in advance of attacks. He has carried survey equipment into the frozen wastes of the Aleutians, where he wandered 25 miles one day in a fog so dense it even had the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey confused. Once, while he was conducting a survey in Indiana, his observation towers were erroneously identified in the papers as launching stations for flying saucers.

"Working with the Survey is pretty much routine," he says.

As Southern California district chief, Bolstad does have an interest in a project that is out of this world.

His crews are locating a site southeast of San Diego for a very delicate purpose. At that position electronic equipment will be used for tracking the artificial satellite which American scientists will soon hurl into the heavens.

This will, of course, identify Bolstad as an officer of the U. S. Coast and Geophysical Year.

PURPOSEFUL LOOK marks Margaretha Greet Hofmans as she crosses a Dutch sidewalk. Her eyes seem aimed at...

This faith healer has virtually split

AMSTERDAM.

For the past year the most talked-about woman in Europe has been the Dutch faith healer, 61-year-old Margaretha Greet Hofmans. Bosom friend of Queen Juliana, whose partially blind youngest daughter she has attempted to faith-cure, this mannish, gray-haired woman has figuratively torn Holland in two.

Her disciples — including the Queen, statesmen and financial bigwigs — call her "a God-send, a near-saint, a blessing from heaven."

Her detractors — including Juliana's husband Prince Bernhard, their daughter Princess Beatrix and several leading cabinet ministers — denounce her as "a potential Rasputin, a Svengali, a mountebank."

What is the truth about this woman who has caused a notorious rift between 47-year-old Queen Juliana and her 45-year-old consort; who has made the entire Dutch nation uneasy? Does she really have occult powers? Can she really effect miraculous cures?

Last August a special three-man royal commission thoroughly investigated Greet Hofmans and her influence. It counseled the Queen to 1) break definitely with her, 2) keep away from meetings with the Hofmans sect and 3) remove recognized Hofmans followers from the court. Nothing, however, was said of Greet Hofmans' powers or lack of powers.

Bowing to public opinion, Queen Juliana this winter "honorably discharged" five champions of Greet Hofmans from her court. (Among them: two private secretaries, the grand mistress of the royal household, the Queen's chamberlain.) But then she appealed to the nation for the right to conduct her private life as she saw best. And she accused certain groups of trying to drive a wedge between her and Prince Bernhard.

Since then it has been whispered that the Queen still secretly sees Greet Hofmans, who lives five minutes' ride from the palace.

Why Juliana Cares

The Queen (devoutly Calvinist with a strong leaning toward mysticism) is convinced that prayer and faith will improve the defective eyesight with which Princess Marijke, now 9, was born. It is said the Queen soon will abdicate in favor of her eldest daughter, Princess Beatrix, or divorce Prince Bernhard — or both. A palace intimate told me Juliana is torn between devotion to her husband and recurrent fits of melancholy over the tragic fate of little Marijke, who is blind in the left eye.

San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf

A Guide to Pleasure

San Francisco, say world travelers, is one of the most cosmopolitan and exciting cities anywhere. "Herb Caen's Guide to San Francisco" (Doubleday, $2.95) tells how to get the most out of a visit to the City by the Golden Gate. Caen, once called "the man second only to the fog in covering San Francisco," describes his city's multitude of historic spots and other attractions and how to get to each; the restaurants (including what you get for how much), the hotels and, finally, the city's night life—its dancing, drinking and hot spots. Any visitor not thoroughly acquainted with San Francisco should find Caen's guide a valuable one.

Heartbeat of the Hinterlands

THE HEARTBEAT of the back country, far from the rush of the cities, where a man can take time to build a big eucalyptus fire, see a sunset or watch the purple shadows climb over the hills, is caught in "The West Is My Home" by Tom Hudson (Laguna House, P. O. Box 506, Elsinore, Calif., $3.75). It is the kind of writing not seen in these parts since the late John Steven McGroarty wrote about life in the Verdugo Hills.

Hudson is editor and publisher of the Lake Elsinore Valley Sun, which he gets out each and every Thursday. He is a country editor and proud of it—and that puts him at the backbone of American journalism. He and his wife Bennie live in an adobe house, with a massive fireplace Tom built himself. Friends—and they have to be real ones—gather in the adobe around the roaring fire and they talk and think about everything that really matters.

One time as Tom prepared to go to press, he faced a blank column opposite the editorial page in the Sun. Quickly, he sat down at a Linotype, wrote a column which he called "From the Personal Angle," and it continues to be a weekly feature.

Many of these columns of musings, retrospection, ideas, dreams, and just plain contented enjoyment of life are combined in the volume.

MARCIA RYAN, who as a bride comes to a Navy base in wartime, seeks to achieve self-fulfillment through a rich and rewarding relationship with her husband. She longs to be useful—and needed. But he is occupied with his career and bachelor pleasures that do not include her. Along comes another man, warm, gay, understanding. How Marcia juggles Dave and Hank, and how she resolves the triangle is related in "The Braid Circle" by Dee Burke Lopez (Vantage, $3.50). The writer and her husband, Capt. Robert Lopez, are stationed at Fort MacArthur, where Capt. Lopez is with the Army Reserve Advisory Group.

EVERYONE REMEMBERS the American freighter "Flying Enterprise," caught in a hurricane near Ireland and her intrepid skipper, Capt. Kurt Carlsen who hung on for 16 days. But few remember the gallant attempt of the English tug "Turmoil" to save man and ship. The story is well told again in "Rescue Tug" (Dutton, $3.50) by Ewart Brookes. The book has dramatic photographs.

READING IS THE BASIS of learning, and a frightening number of children and adults—have difficulty learning to read. Helen M. Thompson, director of the Thompson Reading Clinic in Anaheim, out of her interest in this problem, has written "Swierl, a Plan for Better Reading" (Vantage, $3.50) which she hopes will aid teachers and parents. "Swierl," incidentally, is a coined word, each letter standing for a habit of mind and conduct that must be developed to read successfully.

WHO WERE THE INCAS? Where did they come from, and what were their beliefs, their gods, their legends and traditions? And why did this great and powerful empire fall to a handful of Spanish adventurers? Bertrand Flornoy, president of the Explorers Club of France, and who has spent much of his life in the Amazonian and Andean lands of the Incas of old, gives the answers in the absorbing and scholarly "The World of the Inca" (Vanguard Press, $4.50).

A NEW AND certainly a most unique way of licking obesity, based on spiritual concepts, is unfolded in "Pray Your Weight Away" (Lippincott, $2.95). The author, Rev. Charlie W. Shedd, D.D., declares that he reduced 100 pounds in three years by taking the matter before God, and that others can do the same. But, he warns, if you don't like God, praying is sure to be unproductive.

A BACKGROUND of hypnotic techniques which he has used in clinical work dealing with psychosomatic medicine, obstetrics and abnormal psychology is given by Dr. A. Philip Magonet, M.D., in "Hypnosis in Medicine" (Wilshire Book Co., 8721 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood 46). Dr. Magonet is president of the Hypnosis Association of England.

AT THE BOTTOM of the world lies a seventh continent—Antarctica—almost as large as Europe and Australia combined. Still wrapped in the Ice Age, it has defied man's explorations until recent times; but thanks to the air age, man is beginning to solve its mysteries. What has been discovered there, and the adventures of making these discoveries, is told by Walter Sullivan in "Quest for a Continent" (McGraw-Hill, $5.50. Mr. Sullivan, a New York Times correspondent, has been attached to three U. S. expeditions to Antarctica.

"REFLECTION BOOKS" is the imprint for a new series of 50-cent religious papetbacks written for the average churchgoer and the average college student for Association Press. ...RECEPTIVE QUEEN Juliana, here photographed with her half-blind daughter, Marijke.

the country in two

Queen Juliana still reproaches herself over her fourth child. She contracted German measles during her pregnancy, and still blames herself for the little girl's handicap. The Dutch people understand this; when an operation saved one of the princess eyes in 1948, they rejoiced. The doctor said then that there was no cure for the other eye. But the Queen refused to reconcile herself to that diagnosis.

A year later, Prince Bernhard heard that a Miss Greet Hofmans was supposed to have achieved remarkable cures. He brought her home to meet the Queen. The royal couple questioned the faith healer, agreed to let her treat little Marijke. Miss Hofmans was given her own room at the palace — and then began her build-up. Her followers obtained positions of power and influence at the court.

By 1952, Prince Bernhard had concluded that the faith healer's methods were unsuccessful. He also was annoyed by the active part Greet Hofmans and her fellow-travelers were taking in government. The Prince, for example, is a profound believer in NATO. Greet Hofmans and her followers generally say Holland should remain neutral in the U.S.-Russia tug-of-war. The Prince was fearful that Hofmans was turning the Queen in the neutralist political direction.

Supposedly he asked Greet Hofmans why she had failed to cure the little princess. The answer, reportedly given to Queen Juliana, was: "Your husband resists spiritually." At this, Bernhard is said to have stormed: "Either Greet Hofmans leaves the palace or I do!"

Thus, apparently, began the rift which a German newsmagazine revealed publicly for the first time last summer. Only then would Dutch newspapers print anything about it. When it was suggested that Greet Hofmans be exiled, the Queen refused. Today Hofmans has been banished from the palace along with some of her followers. But there is no one in Holland who can tell the Queen of the Netherlands to whom she may or may not talk. So Greet Hofmans still lives here, practices faith healing, is constantly expanding her circle of influence.

A Background of Mysticism

Of her past — she has been a typist and a factory worker — she will say absolutely nothing. A friend of hers told me, "Hofmans was on the verge of committing suicide 10 or 12 years ago when suddenly a voice spoke to her. It said, 'You have a mission to fulfill and that mission is to act as a medium between God and suffering mankind.' That at least is what she says."

Hofmans defines her work as "dedicating people to Christ if the wish to be so dedicated is expressed by them. If they ask for spiritual help, the answer they receive does not lie in my hands. My calling is to belong to the highest authority without any reservations and to serve mankind. The help I give works in a manner acceptable to the minds of the persons concerned. I dedicate them and their souls grow strong."

To learn how she puts these words into practice, I called on one of her followers, Mrs. Cornelius Kars, mother of a 17-year-old son.

"I don't care what anyone tells you," Mrs. Kars began, "Greet Hofmans is a great woman. She has performed miracles. You saw my son Peter when he answered the door? Well, eight years ago he was going blind, turbidity of both corneas. The doctors were afraid it would spread to the retina and the eye nerves. They advised an immediate operation. My husband instead took the boy to Miss Hofmans."

"Yes," Mr. Kars confirms, "my boy couldn't see five yards in front of him. He had to go to a special school. Six months after Miss Hofmans began her treatment, the boy began to improve. Today he sees fine.

"I would go through fire for that woman. She takes no money for her services. She is honest and good and inspired. The boy was going completely blind and she saved him. I took the boy to our family doctor. He couldn't explain Peter's cure. 'It's a miracle,' he said."

The Kars family feeling is far from universal here. But the average Dutchman thinks Queen Juliana has the right to consult anyone she likes. What he doesn't approve of is giving a faith healer any voice in his government. At the moment he believes Prince Bernhard and the elder statesmen have muted that voice.

How long it will remain silent depends on Queen Juliana. She is an iron-willed, tormented woman. And, despite all royal proclamations, she lives in a divided house. ■

"I'm the happiest person in the world—

Since Kellogg's ALL-BRAN overcame my irregularity"

Millions of people have discovered this gentle, natural way to get relief from constipation due to lack of good food bulk. As Ellen Drosd, Lancaster, Mass., writes:

"I tried everything imaginable. Finally bought Kellogg's All-Bran. Now I'm the happiest person in the world—since it overcame my irregularity. I also enjoy the flavor."

If constipation is your problem, put your trust in nature and try Kellogg's All-Bran.

All-Bran restores the natural laxative bulk that so many of us fail to eat. This is why All-Bran often works in cases where chemical or drug-type laxatives (intended for temporary relief) don't seem to help.

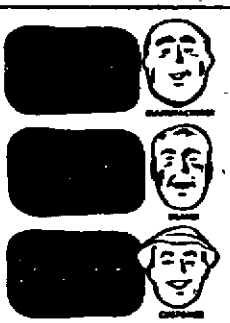

An ounce of prevention daily (in the form of All-Bran) can do wonders to help keep you regular.

All-Bran is made from the vital outer layers of wheat. It has the delicious flavor of old time bran muffins. Wholesome, nutritious and inexpensive.

Made by Kellogg's, All-Bran is the original, ready-to-eat bran cereal. Eat All-Bran for 10 days. See if it doesn't bring you natural regularity.

If not satisfied in every respect, simply return the empty carton and get twice what you paid. That's a promise from Kellogg's of Battle Creek, Mich.

Spring Portrait

In his younger days, when models were hard to come by, Renoir bribed them to pose for him—tantalizing, cat-faced beauties—by offering them hats. Now, taking a cue from the famous French master, Mr. John, fashion authority, turns to hats with adorable new fabrics and dainty flowers to produce his own portraits for spring. The result? See for yourself.

"Still Life," a Coquette bonnet with Renoir flowered brim laden with Impressionist pink roses, shepherdess' mauve of Lyons silk bows.

"To the One I Love Best," Boulevardier bowler of Cafe Glace toyo straw trimmed with poppy red ribbon and primrose yellow ostrich plume.

"Springtime"—a dress circle "flirt with me" stunner of Leghorn gaily trimmed with frosted cherries, strawberries and field poppies.

HOW TO AVOID . . .

FALLING ASLEEP AT THE WHEEL

by DR. JOHN R. RODGER

BELLAIRE, MICH.

You are driving along a road more straight than curved, without much traffic. Your senses are lulled by the purr of the motor. You pay less and less attention to your driving. What lies ahead begins to blur — then suddenly you come to with a start.

Here you are over the center line, with an oncoming car desperately veering — and you avoid it by inches! You have just missed being one of the 1,500 motorists killed or one of the 53,000 injured each year on our highways by dozing at the wheel.

Safety experts say the sleepy driver causes more accidents than all drivers with physical defects put together. This menace is not one that licensing bureaus can do anything about. Driver for driver, a sleepy one is just as much a hazard as a drinking one.

13 Orphaned Children

Almost every week newspaper stories tell of "the driver who apparently went to sleep at the wheel." Typical are the two Detroit fathers killed while going home from a night shift, leaving 13 children orphaned; and the soldier in Texas who drove off the road to sleep and was killed by another driver who fell asleep at the wheel.

Among the lucky sleepy drivers is the young executive in my state who, after a day's work, frequently drives 100 miles to meetings. One night he awoke behind the wheel to find himself going down a two-lane road side by side with a truck and trailer!

Dozing at the wheel is not restricted to night-time driving. Many "fatigue" accidents occur in broad daylight. The worst accident last year in my rural county came at 10 a.m. — obviously caused by fatigue.

What can you and I do about this problem? First, we must recognize it as one of the hazards of driving and take appropriate preventive measures, just as we recognize the hazards of slippery roads or foggy weather.

Second, we can reduce the risk of fatigue by avoiding unnecessary trips unless we are rested. This in itself would do the most to cut down fatigue-caused accidents. Too often we plan a week-end trip with 100 or more miles of driving after an exhausting day at the factory or office. Too often this results in terrible accidents.

In planning a vacation motor trip, we would have a safer, more enjoyable time if we scheduled relatively short, easy days of driving, with stops and side trips to break the monotony.

If much of our driving is commercial, we can insist that the daily mileage not be excessive. We must resist the temptation to try to see that extra customer because of the extra cash it might bring. That cash won't mean much to the driver's widow.

We can reduce the fatigue-producing factors of our car. We can be sure that the muffler doesn't leak, adding deadly carbon monoxide to the air inside. We can leave the window partly open in traffic to avoid drawing in fumes from other cars.

We can reduce glare fatigue by equipping our new cars with crash panels instead of a shiny metallic dashboard. In sunny climates, non-glare glass will help, or the wearing of dark glasses in the daytime. (They should not, of course, be worn at night because of the reduced visibility.)

We should not drive too soon after a big meal, particularly after a heavy noon lunch.

Alcohol, even in small quantities, is too dangerous to mix with our driving. The driver often forgets that in quiet surroundings small amounts act as a sedative.

On the road we should take a "rest stop" at least every hour or two. The driver should get out, stretch and walk around whether or not he feels tired. This is a good time for a cup of coffee or cola drink which will supply caffeine to help us stay alert. Caffeine containing tablets may be used if your doctor advises them.

It is safer to travel with someone than to "go it alone," particularly if you can alternate at the wheel. However, if you nap while your companion drives, be sure that you are fully awake before you take over. Conversation can help keep you awake, but if your passengers run out of that and you get sleepy, try the car radio. Watch out for soothing music. You may like Beethoven or Brahms, but it may be safer to tune in to hillbilly music or rock 'n roll.

See Your Doctor

Beware the too-warm car in fall and winter. Excessive heat can make you sleepy.

The drugs you have taken may produce dangerous sleepiness. Play safe: ask your doctor if the drug he is giving you can affect your driving.

The barbiturate drugs, tranquilizers, antihistamines and almost any drug used in treating high blood pressure can cause drowsiness. The hangover from a sleeping capsule may be lethal to the morning driver. Any drug you take should first be tried when you are not driving, to determine its effect.

Can you do anything else? Yes. See your physician and ask his advice. There are certain so-called analeptic drugs which, under a doctor's guidance, can safely be used by some people when all other measures fail.

But in the last analysis, the menace of the sleepy driver is your responsibility and mine. We cannot blame all accidents on road-builders, or on the other fellow. You and I have a fundamental duty. At all times we must drive carefully, soberly — and stay awake. ■

Casserole from Italy

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Lasagna Casserole has many advantages: It can be largely put together the day before serving, then heated in the oven, and it is a spicy taste treat.

A CASSEROLE bubbles in the oven while a salad waits in the refrigerator. Just think—you have 15 unhurried minutes until dinnertime!

An oven dish like lasagna (la-san-ya) casserole gives you a pre-meal "breather." And for an informal feast, there's nothing better than a flavorful serving of homemade lasagna — a green salad, fruit dessert and the beverage of your choice.

Thanks to the popularity of Italian-style cooking, the necessary ingredients are available almost everywhere. Mozzarella cheese (Italian soft cheese) is now shipped long distances in refrigerated cars in the new vacuum-sealed, shrunk-to-fit plastic bags. Ricotta cheese (Italian pot cheese) may be more difficult to locate, but cream-style cottage cheese makes a fine substitute. The long, wide lasagna noodles are made by macaroni manufacturers in many parts of the country with plain or rippled edges.

THE RECIPE for lasagna casserole is frightening in length, but take a second look. The meat sauce can be made the day before or early in the day, the casserole is combined in a matter of minutes and the final preparation is completed in the oven without further attention.

Lasagna Casserole

- 1 lb. ground beef
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 2 tsp. seasoned salt
- ½ tsp. pepper
- 1 No. 2½ can tomatoes (3½ cups)
- 1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
- 1 pks. (1½ oz.) spaghetti sauce mix
- ½ lb. lasagna (broad noodles)
- ½ lb. mozzarella cheese, sliced
- ½ lb. ricotta cheese
- ¼ cup Parmesan cheese

Cottage cheese can be used instead of ricotta, however, be sure to drain thoroughly

Brown meat in hot Dutch oven or deep kettle. Add seasoned salt. (We like to omit fat and brown meat in seasoned salt.) Add crushed garlic and pepper. Simmer slowly about 10 minutes. Add canned tomatoes, tomato sauce and spaghetti sauce mix. Stir thoroughly, cover and simmer 30 minutes. Meanwhile, boil lasagna in salted water until tender, drain and rinse. Pour ⅓ of meat sauce into a 12"x8"x2" baking dish. Cover meat sauce with strips of lasagna. Arrange slices of mozzarella and spoonfuls of ricotta over lasagna. Repeat layers, ending with meat sauce and top with Parmesan cheese. Bake in moderate open (350°F.) about 20 minutes. This is an exceptionally rich casserole, and when doubled, makes an ideal dish for a buffet. Serves six to eight.

CRENSHAW

For panelist Henry Morgan, of I've Got a Secret (CBS-TV, Wednesday nights), there were five "yocks" today from cartoonist George Crenshaw. The artist, 39, was born in California, lives there with his wife and three children. He attended the University of California, started drawing for Walt Disney in 1938, now is "on his own." His hobby is golf. An ex-pro, he plays nine holes every day.

Operation Ol' Fishin' Hole

By Helen Smith

CHEMICAL WARFARE has invaded the peaceful realm of the fisherman.

Drastic though it may sound, an all-out purge of all fish in Big Bear Lake was found necessary recently as the Department of Fish and Game began chemical treatment of this popular angling resort to remove 5,000,000 stunted crappie which were crowding out trout, bass and bluegill.

Big Bear Lake has been receding for years and seining and test spotting revealed that fish were begining to die due to lack of oxygen.

DFG OFFICIAILS concluded that the saturation point had been reached and the quota of trout ready for restocking would in all probability die as fish food and growing room were being depleted.

Following a preliminary survey made by the one-helicopter "air force" from Los Alamitos Naval Air Station near Long Beach, six boats were dispatched last October loaded with suffocating chemical. They began spraying the 300 surface acres of Big Bear Lake which resulted in killing 250 tons of fish in one day.

Since the fish died of suffocation rather than poison, hundreds of persons gathered to pick up the two and three-pound bass, bullhead catfish and some trout, all of which were edible despite the fact they did not succumb from orthodox hook-and-line methods.

RESTOCKING OF the lake was delayed following the purge because of low water. Rain and snow will soon be pouring gallons of mountain water into the thirsting shallows offering a revitalized home to the trout, sunfish and large mouthed bass leaping to bait and lure.

When the spring fishing season opens, more than 60,000 catchable sized trout, plus the 1957 allottment of 20,000, will await to match wits with fisherman from this area.

In addition, one quarter million fingerling rainbows will be planted in the lake. They will have an excellent chance of survival with "trash" fish gone.

ACCORDING TO the Department of Fish and Game, results from the unprecedented treatment will not be fully realized until the 1958 season. However, officials expect the recent remedial operation to attract many persons in 1957.

So the day is near when fishermen will no longer have to go far afield to show a creel-full limit for several hours of sport.

Big Bear Lake will again live up to its "fishin' hole" reputation gained in former years.

Shallows of Big Bear Lake were sprayed with fish toxicant with aid of Navy helicopter from Los Alamitos.

Test seine hauls like this had proved Big Bear to be over-populated with stunted crappie, eating up food.

Millions of crappie were knocked off by spraying the lake with toxicant. This is part of the millions killed.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like information about my name GOUGH. Our history goes back to King Charles I of England. The family came from Ireland before the Revolutionary War.
B. C. G.
Bellflower.

DEAR B. C. G.: The name GOUGH of England and Wales originated in the ancient Welsh word "goch" meaning "of red complexion." John Goch, a Welshman of the early 1400s was recorded as first using this name. His son changed the name to Sir Matthew Gough. He was a gallant soldier under King Henry VI of England. The Gough coat-of-arms, granted at that time, had a blue lion between three gold boars heads on a silver band. These emblems were on a red shield. William Gough (1605-1679) was the executioner of King Charles I in 1649. He fled to America when Charles II was crowned in 1660. He and his family settled at Hadley, Mass.

DEAR MISS RULE: I should like an analysis of the name MOSIER.
C. D. M.
Paramount.

DEAR C. D. M.: MOSIER, a re-spelling of the French-Swiss "Moshier" was taken from the German name Moser. This was a medieval home description of your ancestor's location. It meant "man who lived on a moor or wasteland." The Moshier coat-of-arms had a red rose with a rosebud on the side of the stem, placed on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would appreciate your analysis of STEWART.
S. Z. S.
Garden Grove.

DEAR S. Z. S.: STEWART is among the noblest and oldest Scotch clan-names and has been synonymous with the Scotch and English royal families for centuries. The family is traced back to Brittany, France and the Count of Dol whose grandnephew Walter went to England about 1125 A.D. He was created High Steward of Scotland by King Malcolm IV in 1157. The surname Stewart (formerly Steward) was taken from his title. The first Stewart to become a Scotch ruler was Robert, crowned king in 1370. The lineage continued down through James V, Mary Queen of Scots and her son who became James I of England. Queen Elizabeth II is descended from this family. The Stewart coat-of-arms has a band of checkered blue and silver squares across a gold shield. Descendants of the clan settled in Connecticut about 1700.

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like your analysis of the name LEWIS.
W. M.
Wilmington.

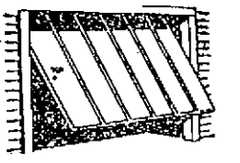

DEAR W. M.: The English LEWIS from the German given-name Ludwig, means "renowned warrior." Before the German usage it was Levi in the Old Testament. In America most Lewises are of Welsh ancestry. Welshmen Anglicized their name Llewellyn into Lewis over 500 years ago. The Welsh Lewises claim descent from Llewellyn, Lord of St. Clair, whose ancestor was Cadivor, an 11th century Prince of Wales. Their coat-of-arms was a black rampant lion on a gold shield. Among the first of the family in America was William Lewis, married in Farmington, Conn., in 1644.

DEAR MISS RULE: My husband's name HALLOWELL sounds English to me. Can you enlighten us?
Mrs. C. R. H.
Long Beach 6.

DEAR MRS. C. R. H.: HALLOWELL, with the meaning "at the Holy well" is a town in the parish of Dean, Lancashire, England. John of Hallewelle is recorded as living at this place in 1288. The Hallowell coat-of-arms adopted by John's descendants had three silver goats on a diagonal red stripe across a gold shield. American settlers by this name first built their home in 1738 at Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass.

(Editor's Note: Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for your name-meaning and brief family genealogy. Replies will be printed in this column.)

JET JOCKEYS DOLL UP IN Corset Like Grandma's

A bra-and-girdle designer helped develop suit worn by Maj. Murray who holds 90,000-ft. altitude mark.

By Lisande LaCoste

WHY HAS the U.S. Air Force asked a brassiere and girdle manufacturer to design its latest high-altitude flying suit? A good question.

The new-fangled flying suit is not dissimilar to the corset grandma used to wear. Also, like the corset of old, quite a bit of assistance is needed to don the suit and tie its many laces. A flying suit must fit snugly if it is to perform its life-saving mission.

A high-altitude flight suit literally is a life-saver for the fast-flying modern jet jockey. It protects him if the cockpit should fail—even at 65,000 feet when his body literally would burst from the low pressure.

Actually, the suit holds the "pilot together." And should the plastic windshield shatter in a sonic or supersonic flight, the suit and helmet would automatically fill with compressed oxygen. This would create a temporary balance of air inside and outside the plane and enable the pilot to dive to a lower altitude, thus giving him a new lease on life.

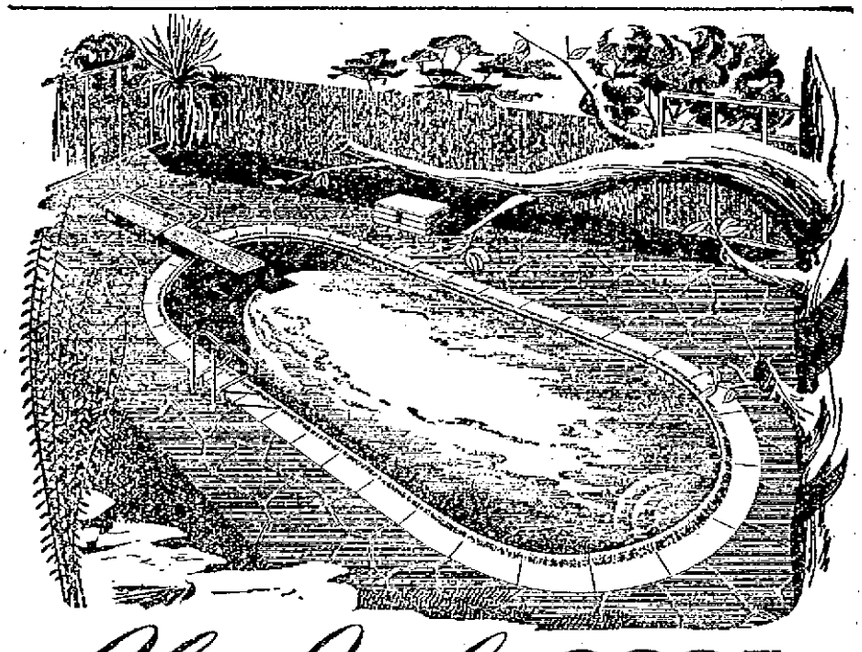

With many laces and supports, new high-altitude suit of the Air Force, resembles a corset of grandma's day.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

FROM MEXICO

We are two, not-so-young ladies planning a trip to Mexico. Should we rent a car at the border and drive into Mexico City, or fly? . .

RATHER THAN HIRE a car on the U.S. side of the border, why not bus or fly down? There is about 1,000 miles of semi-desert before the country gets interesting.

You can rent from either Avis or Hertz in Mexico City. Avis has a $9.60 per day, 5 cents a mile and your own gas deal—less by the week. Hertz goes for $9 a day, 9 cents a mile with a weekly rate. All gas paid.

I think they really add up about the same. But if you plan long drives like down to Oaxaca, you might figure which is the better.

. . . What hotel and restaurants would you suggest for us in the capital?

I THINK the Hotel Geneva would be what you want. A good double room will be about $8. This is an excellent small hotel that has had Americans for years. Good location in a quiet but building shopping district. Good service. Good newsstand. Good dining room for breakfast and within two blocks of the best restaurants in Mexico: The 1, 2, 3; Rivoli; Focolare; La Cava; Passy; Parador.

For some atmosphere some night try Gitaneria at Oaxaca 15. About 10 or 11 o'clock. Flamenco dancing and manzanillo wine in the manner of Seville.

On your last trip to Italy you mentioned a restaurant in Florence. What was the name of it?

IT WAS THE PAOLI on the Via Tavolini and I'll never forget the dinner I had there. Scampi alla marinara. They are medium-sized prawns simmered in white wine with a little garlic, red pepper and, I think, oregano. This on a bed of fluffy rice—just a little pepper hot. It would make a fortune in the Texas border country. With it I had the chilled Ciclopi white wine from Sicily. And a green chicory salad, dressed with oil and vinegar on the side. It was wonderful.

Our son is stationed in Bonn and we will visit him this summer. We have reservations at the Petersburg Hotel. Do you know anything about it?

THE PETERSBERG sits on a high hill overlooking the Rhine near Bonn. It is in the de luxe class. The wallpaper is woven in silk. The beds are rococo nests of gray leather with down comforts packed in linen envelopes.

The drapes are expensive. The dining room is a vast hall of black marble and carved wooden pillars with massive crystal chandeliers. The waiters wear tailcoats and white gloves and the menu lists fresh caviar and clear kangaroo tail soup.

I thought it was a rich and gloomy pile of stone and when I was there it had a guest list of rich and gloomy people.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Rome at Easter

Planned so that Easter Sunday and the three most solemn days of Holy Week may be spent in Rome, a pilgrimage tour of four European countries taking only two weeks' time has been announced by Trans World Airlines and the Catholic Travel Division of American Express.

Highlights of the tour are visits to major Christian shrines in the four countries, as well as general sightseeing. Each tour group will be accompanied by an especially-appointed spiritual director.

The tour will leave New York via TWA Constellation April 13, arriving in Paris the next day. Two full-day programs in Paris include visits by motorcoach to the Madeleine Church Palace of the Invalides, the Eiffel Tower, Sacre Coeur Church, the Louvre, Notre Dame Cathedral and Versailles.

The tour will be in Rome from April 18 through April 22, for the observance of Holy Thursday, Good Friday, Holy Saturday and Easter Sunday. (A request has been made through the North American College for an audience with the Pope.)

The return flight will include stops at Madrid and Lisbon.

Cost of the pilgrimage is $874, including all transportation, hotel accommodations in double rooms with private bath at good hotels, Continental breakfast and lunch each day, sightseeing plus entrance fees and the services of an English-speaking guide, transfers between airports and hotels, taxes and gratuities in Europe.

Going to Mexico?

Alfredo Gayou, vice president of Aeronaves de Mexico, announced a new service, this week, for passengers departing for Mexico, via Aeronaves.

Free limousine service is now available, beginning Feb. 18, from the airline's terminal, in the Spreckels Bldg., 131 Broadway, San Diego, to the airport in Tijuana, for passengers on Aeronaves flights 112, non-stop Constellation service to Guadalajara and one-stop to Mexico City, and flight 122, non-stop Constellation service to Acapulco. The limousines will depart from the terminal office at 12:15 daily, and will transport both passengers and baggage directly to the Tijuana airport.

HOW TO Do Better Work with Drill Press, Using Metal or Wood Materials

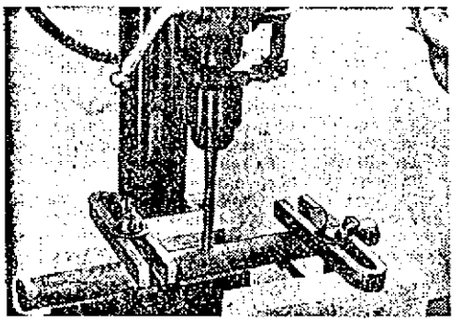

1. CENTER-PUNCH before starting to drill at point where scribed lines intersect.

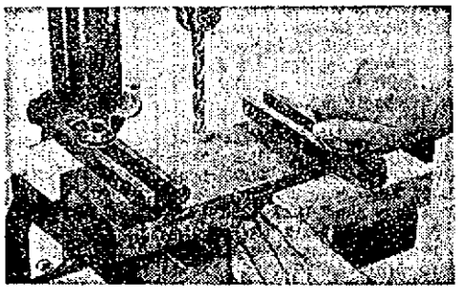

2. AVOID "SPRINGING" thin metal with drill pressure. V-support easily adjusts to support the work on both sides of and close to the drilling.

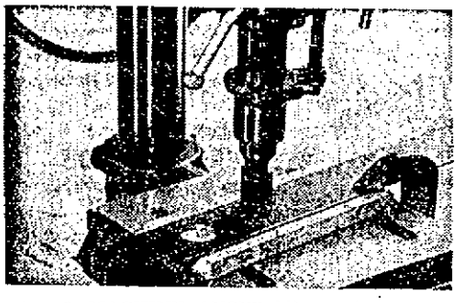

3. ROUND PIPES, rods, bars, shafts held in V of V-block, clamped with U-clamps, are easy to hold. Center-punching is a necessity. The clamps must be kept tight.

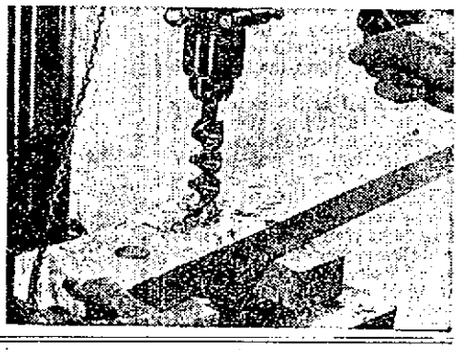

4. U-CLAMPS, HOLDING channel iron here, are adaptable to many shapes of materials; can be made of ⅜-¾-inch mild steel. Wing nuts on bolts in T-slots make them easy to use.

5. LARGE HOLES through thin metal are easily made with a hole saw. Use block of wood to back it up. Very thin metal may need wood on both sides to prevent wrinkling.

6. MACHINE AUGER bits must run at low speeds. Best is 350-600 rpm. Higher speeds may burn bit. Decrease pressure on drill as bit breaks through to prevent splintering.

Proper care and planting of dahlia tubers results in prize blooms like this.

YOUR GARDEN

Those Foolproof Dahlias Are a Joy

By David I. Gilfillan

WE ARE NOW near the end of the bare-root planting season and while I have no intention of discussing further the planting or care of bare-root stock, I do want to urge each one of you to complete this phase of gardening immediately.

Most local nurseries are offering very attractive specials on all bare-root stock this week. Check the ads in today's garden section, take advantage of the many specials and be sure to tell your nurseryman that you saw his ad in the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Today I want to pass along a few suggestions on what should be done in the garden this week. The important thing in local gardening is being on schedule with your garden chores. This is the only way by which you can have an attractive garden.

If you were growing dahlias last year and you have not yet dug up and taken care of the old clumps, do so this week. Dig up the entire clump, being sure that you don't cut into the tubers with your spade. Using a good force of water, wash the soil off the tubers, inspect them and discard any that are suffering from disease (usually rot) or are badly injured.

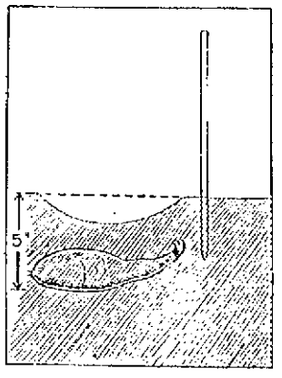

FOLLOWING THIS, place the clump in a regular lug, cover the tubers lightly with peat moss, keep the peat moist and in a very short time the tubers will send out their new shoots. The tubers are then separated, care being taken to see that each tuber has a shoot or "eye." A tuber without an eye is absolutely worthless.

After the dahlias have been dug up and taken care of, the dahlia bed should be prepared, ready for replanting. In preparing the soil, be careful regarding the over-use of manures of any type. Too much manure in the soil will cause the tubers to rot.

Bone meal at the rate of six pounds to 100 sq. ft. along with organic fertilizer four pounds to 100 sq. ft. will give good results. Be sure to mix these products thoroughly with the soil. If you have a very heavy soil, dust the area to be planted with gypsum, using three pounds to 100 sq. ft. All of these products are applied at the same time and turned under the full depth of the spade.

DAHLIA TUBERS should be planted about five inches deep, the tuber being placed flat in the bottom of the hole. In order to eliminate the possibility of injuring the tuber after it has started growing, it is a good idea to set your supporting stake in place at the time of planting. Cover the tuber with three inches of soil, filling in the depression once the new growth is above the surface of the bed.

Give the tubers a good soaking immediately after planting, then water only as the soil begins to dry out. Don't keep the soil continually wet. If you do, the tubers may rot. You will notice that because of the frequent watering, the soil will form a surface crust. Be sure to break this up to allow for proper aeration, being careful that you don't break off the new growth as you do your cultivating.

Plant dahlia tubers five inches deep. Place stake at time tuber is planted.

With the many wonderful new varieties in dahlias now available at all nurseries, be sure and add a few of these foolproof plants to your present collection.

IN PLANTING your dahlias, give them room enough to grow. The large exhibition types should be planted not closer than three feet apart.

If you are in the process of landscaping your home, do as much of the heavy work as possible before we get into the hot summer weather. Your nurseryman has a complete selection of shrubs and trees in gallon and five-gallon containers and by planting now, the shrubs should be well established before the hot weather rolls around.

As you plan your landscaping, keep in mind that the main reason for landscaping is to break

Clivias Are a Flame in the Garden

By Bob Gilmore

Clivias do well in shade, the orange-red blooms appearing flame-like above the dark-toned greenery.

ONE OF THE MOST brilliant flowers in the plant world is the clivia. The dazzling orange-red blooms will highlight your garden scene, brightening up even the darkest corners.

The clivia actually thrives in the shade, a location where it shows off to the best advantage.

A rather interesting characteristic of the clivia is that it enjoys being crowded. Plants grown in containers should be allowed to become potbound. As the plants develop they need not be shifted to increasingly larger-sized pots: They prefer a fairly rich soil.

THE CLIVIA, often referred to as a dual purpose plant, can be grown either outdoors in the shade or potted up for the conservatory or patio. The flowers, characterized by their flame-like appearance, grow to a height of about 18 inches. The stems are stiff and fairly erect.

Clivias must have adequate drainage as the plants are heavy drinkers. Heavy, water-logged soil may turn sour. Adobe or clay soils can be conditioned by adding humus which improves porosity, aeration and general growing conditions. For pot culture use a soil mixture of light loam plus sand and either leaf mold or peat; American peat will undoubtedly show a higher nitrogen content than the imports.

HOW HEALTHY your clivias are can be determined by the condition of the foliage. Leaves that have a lush green appearance will indicate a healthy plant; but yellowing of the foliage means that something is wrong. Frequently lack of moisture will be responsible for this symptom. Apply sufficient water so the moisture gets down to the root zone.

Clivias seem to prosper when grown by themselves in a more or less isolated location. It is best not to disturb them but, if necessary, divisions can be made during the spring season.

Potted clivias can be fertilized easily by applying liquid plant food. Use a well balanced mixture, one that is strong in the basic elements of nitrogen, phosphorous and potash. Nitrogen is beneficial in promoting leaf and stem growth; phosphorous hastens maturity and stimulates root growth while potash strengthens stem and leaf sections and tends to improve the coloring and quality of the flowers.

IN THE OPEN garden either liquid plant food or one of the commercial dry foods may be used. If the latter is utilized, try to keep the particles off the leaves as they have a burning action. Should the plant food alight on the plant be sure to wash the entire plant immediately; this step avoiding damage from burning.

Clivias are usually sold by nurserymen in pots. The stock now being offered is greatly improved to the clivias of 10 or 15 years ago. Certain California nurserymen have improved the strain and the coloring is deeper, the leaves more robust.

Club Speaker

Dorothy Johnson, whose column "Dorothy Digs in the Garden" appears in the Southland magazine, will address the Lakewood Garden Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Cross Roads Community Church, 5420 Clark Ave., Lakewood. Her subject will be "Problems of Western Gardens." Mrs. Johnson's talk will be based on her 20 years experience as a garden consultant, columnist, author and guest lecturer on Western and Southwestern gardens. Mrs. Betty White, 6116 Seaborn St., Lakewood, Garden Club program chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

Foolproof Dahlias

down the acute appearance between the house and the grounds and that the material used should slope from the house down to the street.

With this in mind, be sure that the shrubs or trees you plant have a reason for being there. The most common mistake along this line with home gardeners is the planting of shade trees on the front lawn. If there is a reason for the tree being there, by all means have it, but don't follow this custom just because your neighbor has done so. Next week I will have more for you on this subject, suggesting the best shrubs and trees to use in local gardens.

DON'T FORGET DEPT. . . . Don't forget to apply PAX to your lawn now if you were troubled with crabgrass last summer . . . Don't forget to get all flower beds ready for planting for summer color. Steer manure, organic fertilizer and bonemeal will produce excellent results . . . Don't forget to give your roses a little bloodmeal along with the special rose food on the first feeding. This will give them the boost they require as they go into a new reason of growth . . . Don't forget Southland's garden section next Sunday and don't forget that the man who goes to church on Sunday will enjoy his garden better on Monday.

DOROTHY DIGS in the garden

This is the time to begin preparing your soil where you're going to plant dahlias, chrysanthemums and all the late blooming plants which do not actually go into the ground for another couple of months. Spade barnyard manure into the soil so that it has plenty of time to decompose, and a little bone meal, which requires considerable time to begin to work.

I always use soil sulphur (2¼ to 3 lbs.) in soil I'm going to prepare ahead of time. Then it is best to spade it in at least a little, so that it becomes an actual part of your soil structure. Soil sulphur impregnated in the soil begins to release minute quantities of sulphuric acid and, through a phase of decomposition that takes place, the sulphuric acid becomes the working element that releases various trace elements.

Camellias Bloom

With bright, spring weather, camellias burst into bloom last week in the five-acre camellia garden at the Huntington Gardens, San Marino. More than 1,000 named varieties there bloom in February and March.

An excellent way to get to the Huntington Gardens from Long Beach is Atlantic to California, in Pasadena turn right to Allen, and then down Allen to the Gardens.

SHAKE THE CAN and prove it! Shake several brands next time you're shopping. You'll find most coffees rattle; but M.J.B's quiet. That's because it's packed right to the brim. This fuller can means you get 2 to 8 extra measures, and more flavor, too!

SPECIAL ROASTING IS THE SECRET! As the beans are gently and evenly browned, they're also slowly expanded... much like popcorn. This releases more of the deep, satisfying flavor. And expanding beans for flavor increases the volume, too. Gives you a bonus of extra measures. Try the shake test next time you're shopping. You can't make a bad cup of M.J.B!

Just a little planning and forethought will make your camera a more valuable adjunct to every-day activity.

CAMERA ANGLES

Stay Snap-Happy in '57

By the Shutterbug

IF YOU HAVEN'T made your picture-taking resolutions for 1957, here are 10 good ones to follow:

1. Keep your camera "snap-happy" with a semi-annual checkup and cleaning. Like your watch, it's a precision instrument that performs better when it's given a little extra care.

2. Always have a good supply of film and flash bulbs on hand, so you won't be caught short whenever a fine picture opportunity presents itself.

3. Keep your camera handy—and loaded—for shooting unplanned, unposed pictures wherever they happen on the home scene. These usually turn out to be the best shots of all!

4. Remember that flash is important to catch on-the-spot action indoors or after dark. Flash really puts your camera on a full-time working schedule!

5. Aim for simple pictures that tell their story clearly. Choose a single main point of interest and don't let a cluttered background vie with the subject for attention.

6. Make sure you have an interesting picture — one that shows your subject amid some activity he's interested in. This will prevent self-conscious poses and glazed expressions that so often spoil the effect you wanted to capture in your picture.

7. Remember that there's "safety in numbers," so shoot a series of pictures rather than a single one. You'll find a series of shots will do a better job of telling the whole story just as it happened.

8. File your negatives in a box or drawer specially set aside for them. They deserve extra good care because they can't be replaced the way prints can. Once lost, they're gone forever!

9. Make the most of your good pictures. Use them enlarged and framed to brighten your walls; mount them in albums or "remembrance books"; send extra prints to friends and relatives; let them serve as personal greeting cards for holidays and other special occasions.

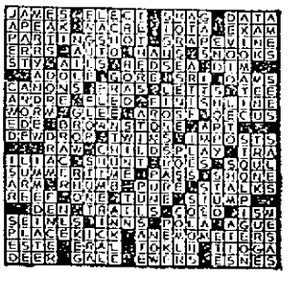

10. Enclose snapshots in your letters. There's no better way of keeping far-off family members and friends in close touch than by a friendly exchange of pictures throughout the year.

LONG BEACH Camera Guild will have a field trip in the Long Beach harbor district March 3. Trip Chairman Floyd Williamson announces that prizes will be given to the three best dressed "characters," who will be used as models by members. There will be no travel program this week.

Members of the Guild whose slides were accepted by the Circle of Confusion were Virginia Callender, Gerald Church, Don Hayward, Esther Modern, John Scheurer, Neil Shipley, Glenn Sieben, Roy Simpson, Ilsa Stevens, Floyd Williamson. Elva Hayward, judge, did not enter slides in the competition, but four were shown.

TO BOTH PHOTOGRAPHERS and writers of technical books, the name of Jacob Deschin has become synonymous with top-grade work. One of the world's leading photographers, Deschin brings the skill of a professional writer to the field of technical publications and his latest effort in this field is "Canon Photography" (Camera Craft Pub. Co., $5.95), a book devoted to the Canon camera of Japanese make. In his usual thorough manner, Deschin has analyzed the Canon product, considering primarily the Canon IVS2 and V models, and has related all of its various parts and accessories before delving into a "Canon at Work" series. Chapters on flash, closeups, color and underwater photography discuss the use of the Canon in a broad variety of fields. The book is copiously illustrated from both American and Japanese sources and is adequately equipped with numerous tables. Owners of Canons will find this a complete manual of their cameras and photography students will find much information of use.

Country Hinny Who's Hep

By Eleanor Avery Price

JODIE BLONDE is a star performer in the animal section of Smoke Tree Ranch in the Palm Springs desert. She is a 9-year-old hinny or hybrid between a stallion and a burro — a rare pet.

Jodie Blonde is exceptionally intelligent, is highly trained and can perform numerous tricks such as pivoting on a stump, waltzing in perfect mechanical rhythm, and other stunts, and she has a terrific neck rein.

This interesting animal lives on a big Palm Springs "spread" called Smoke Tree Ranch which is owned and operated by Eva and Ken Johnson. If you are a lover of equines in any form, you will enjoy a Sunday visit to this top ranch, for besides the hinny the Johnsons own about 90 fine saddle horses, more than 50 burros, a number of mules, and they have 40 boarding horses. They also own another very special little pet, a dwarf burro named Annie Busch after the Anheuser Busch brewing family in St. Louis from whom she was obtained.

Although thousands of visitors to Palm Springs now ride Ken Johnson's famous burro trains and saddle horses into the various desert and mountain scenic spots, the Smoke Tree Ranch had a modest beginning just a few years ago.

JOHNSON, WHO WAS recuperating from pneumonia, hired two burros and he and his wife rode up into Tahquitz Canyon. Intrigued, Ken rode again the next day, this time alone. When he returned he was so highly respectful of the patient, sturdy little desert burro that he announced to Eva that he wanted to start a burro train. From this he branched also into a fine riding stable. He even added a shop for visitors seeking western gear and the like.

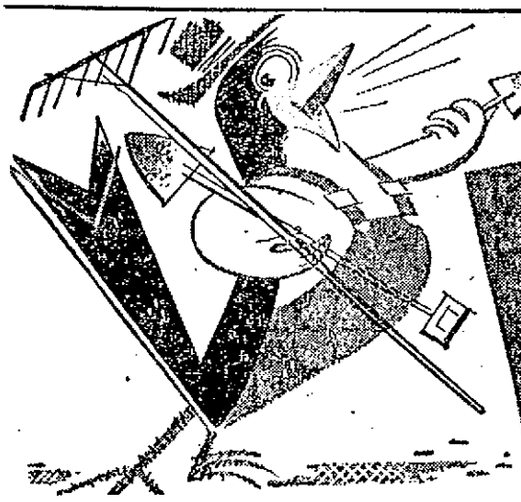

Smoke Tree Ranch is located on the south side of Palm Springs about one mile east of Palm Canyon Dr. junction on State Hwy. 111.

FOR THE BENEFIT of dog-owners planning to travel "south of the border," the Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park Ave., New York 17, N. Y., has compiled a special list of Mexican hotels and motor courts that accept guests with dogs. A copy may be had without cost.

SINCE SUCH a large number of children (ages 8 to 14) turned out with their dogs for the six-week free dog training class at Mayfair Park in Lakewood, a new class will start on Saturday, March 2, at 2 p.m. A parent must accompany each child.

Jodie Blonde, a hinny, goes through her tricks led by Ken Johnson, her owner. Jodie Blonde is well-educated.

ARNOLD VANN
Corridor With a Purpose

ANYONE who's been to Welch's, Atlantic Ave. at San Antonio Dr., knows it's a beautiful restaurant with large shining walls of glass and dining rooms green with tropical plants.

Anyone who's been to Welch's also knows it is favored with soft background music, perfect sea food delicacies and perfect service.

Not everyone knows, however, how much planning is required to make Welch's so pleasing. For example, did you know that the main entrance corridor is so lengthy for a very subtle reason? Restaurateur Rex Welch made it 70 feet long so his guests, as they stroll along, have plenty of time to straighten stocking seams, hemlines or neckties and thus feel at ease about their appearance as they arrive at the main dining rooms.

And, of course, there are numerous other thoughtful touches at this Southland showplace. Unique electrically-heated serving carts keep the food warm while it is en route to the tables.... Placecards at each table let the patrons know the names of their waiters and waitresses . . . Hot rolls (light as feathers) are served throughout the meal.... The cocktail lounge is so cleverly concealed that many people don't realize the restaurant has one.

Welch and his man Friday, Manager Arnold Vann, are justifiably proud of the restaurant's sea food items. Among the many featured ocean beauties are grilled swordfish with lemon-parsley butter, $1.85; sea food grill, $2.25; rich shrimp or crab Newburg, $1.85; handsome lobster thermidor, $2.95, and fried jumbo shrimp with hot sauce, $1.85. All are served with soup or tossed green salad bowl, whipped, French fried or baked Idaho potatoes and choice of beverage.

And, while you're there, don't overlook Welch's succulent roast prime rib of beef au jus. Served a la carte with Yorkshire pudding, whipped cream and horseradish sauce, it's $3—and absolutely tantalizing.

THE RIGHT WAY TO GAMBLE

by KIRK DOUGLAS

When I was at St. Lawrence University, I came home one week end and, very much ashamed, asked my hard-working, hard-pressed parents for a loan. I was working my way through school by waiting on table and had lost my meager earnings in a card game.

"Such a fool you are," my mother chided, as she counted out the money. "You bet money on cards! What do the cards know about you? What do they care?" Then she gave me an affectionate pat. "Everyone likes to take a chance. But are you going to build a life on a card game? Bet? Sure, bet! But always remember this: Gamble on yourself!"

I thought of those three words—Gamble on yourself — when I read a newspaper story the other day. It told about the thousands of new American businesses that open their doors annually. It emphasized the obstacles to success, the high percentage of casualties. It left the reader with the impression that starting a company was a hazardous, foolhardy venture.

I was interested for two reasons. First, not too long ago I started my own business, a motion-picture company called Bryna Productions. Had I been afraid to gamble, the company today would be but an empty dream; as it is, we are a going concern with three profitable films to our credit. Even more recently I gambled again by investing in a large new office building now being built in Hollywood.

Second, reading between the lines of that newspaper report, I saw another story: the opportunities available to all in America. We know that not everyone starting these new businesses is a rich man, or the son of one. Not all are college graduates, or descendants of prominent families. It doesn't matter. Everyone in America has an equal chance.

And this applies not only to people going into business but those who plan any new venture — building a home, switching to a different job, starting a family. It is these people, willing to gamble on themselves, who have made America great.

It works the other way, too. America is great because it gives its citizens a chance to take those risks. You want to know about the land of opportunity? Don't look in a book. Ask me — or any one of America's millions of gamblers. ■

How much is enough?

Whether it's ammunition for the youngsters' snowball fight or, more important, everyday needs for your family—it takes planning to know how much is enough. That goes for the way you finance your car, too—because the longer you pay, the more you pay. Your General Motors Dealer who uses the GMAC Thrift-Guard Plan can show you how to finance your car on the most thrifty terms. What's more, GMAC can help protect your investment if your circumstances change. Last year alone, over 2,000,000 families bought their cars on the GMAC Plan. Ask your General Motors Dealer about it. See how you benefit by financing where you buy.

An information-packed article about your baby's care, feeding, growth and fun. Watch for it each month.

Help with weaning

Baby got "cold feet"?

Take A Baby's-Eye-View Of Creeping

WHEN your baby begins to creep he may travel full steam ahead on all fours, scoot sideways like a crab, or scuttle backwards—sitting up! Whatever his style—he's eager as a puppy to go places, investigate things, satisfy his inquiring mind. The basic problem is how to meet baby's exciting new needs—safely.

• You can't watch a creeper every minute! Can you "baby-proof" a room for him to roam in? Take a floor-level look: any tippy lamps, tempting ashtrays, shiny pins to pounce on? Are electric outlets covered? A gate that moves from door to door will keep baby in his room—or out of the kitchen. Your explorer may still enjoy his playpen—but only part-time!

• Does your baby have "cold feet"? Before you pile on more clothes or covers, feel his neck or his chest. If they're warm enough, he's warm enough! In the early months, baby's feet and hands are often cooler than the rest of him—but he doesn't care, and extra covers don't help. When his sympathetic nervous control matures more, his "heating system" will work fine in fingers and toes.

• If your little one stays too long on strained foods, he may get too fond of their smooth texture—and perhaps have trouble swallowing coarser varieties. Heinz complete line of 25 Junior Foods includes many dishes baby liked in the strained version—the same flavors, diced or finely minced in a more "grown-up" consistency. When doctor OK's a switch, offer the new foods slowly—one at a time. Mix the Junior Food, at first, with a strained food baby loves.

• The right time for weaning to a cup differs vastly from baby to baby. You won't want to try it if your baby's been sick, had trouble with teething, or still seems to like lots of sucking. Instead of a cup, thousands of mothers prefer Heinz specially-designed tumbler. Its lid-with-a-spout lets milk flow through at just the right speed. For a non-breakable nylon tumbler, pink or blue, send 50¢ and 12 labels from Heinz Baby Foods to H. J. Heinz Co., Box 28, Dept. D-9, PA-27, Pittsburgh 30, Pa. For a sturdy plastic tumbler, pink or blue, send 25¢ and 6 Heinz Baby Food labels.

• Baby needs plenty of proteins for sturdy bones and good growth. So doctor will probably start him early on smooth, creamy, iron-rich Heinz Strained Egg Yolks and the eight nourishing Heinz Strained Meats. For older babies Heinz makes six delicious, mildly seasoned, coarser-textured Junior Meats (100% meats, mind you, made from choice government-inspected cuts, cooked and packed in Heinz own baby food kitchens). Like every one of the more than 70 top-quality foods Heinz makes for babies, Junior Meats have better texture, better flavor, better color. You know they're good because they're Heinz!

ON THE LOOSE, 2,400 chickens fowled up the traffic . . .

Not for the Birds

by ERNESTINE M. SCHINDLER

A moment after a customer bought a canary in a San Bernardino, Calif., pet shop, the bird escaped from its cage. A clerk, trying to catch it, stumbled and crashed into a glass showcase. Head and ear wounds required 10 stitches.

* * *

Uvalde, Tex., had a 10-minute blackout. Reason: a 69,000-volt transformer was short-circuited when a sparrow tried to snitch a piece of copper wire for a nest.

* * *

Near Huntsville, Ala., a truck loaded with 2,400 chickens rammed a bridge railing. Traffic was snarled for an hour while the driver and helpful motorists chased squawking fowl. Some remained missing.

* * *

In Wichita, Kan., a young woman bird-watcher who discovered a fledgling on the ground suffered lacerations of the scalp when she was dive-bombed by two bluejays. They were trying to protect their young.

* * *

When a burglar alarm in St. Matthews, Ky., clanged at midnight, cops came on the run. They soon found the "thief" who had triggered the alarm — a starling.

* * *

In Livermore, Calif., a father was driving with his young son, when suddenly a pet woodpecker the boy was holding in his lap flew up and began hammering on the father's head. The man lost control of the car, which rolled over twice. Father and son were unhurt but shaken up. Ditto the woodpecker.

* * *

During a rainstorm in Paris, Ky., a pedestrian and a blackbird collided head-on. The impact killed the bird, gashed the man's forehead.

* * *

Joey, a parakeet, was banished from his owner's office in Punta Gorda, Fla., because he 1) wolf-whistled at girls, 2) rode on typewriter carriages, 3) butted in on telephone conversations by chattering into the mouthpiece.

* * *

In Woodruff, S.C., a parakeet named Jo-Jo overdid himself. Trained to awaken his master, who hated alarm clocks, the bird routed his boss out of bed punctually every morning — including Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

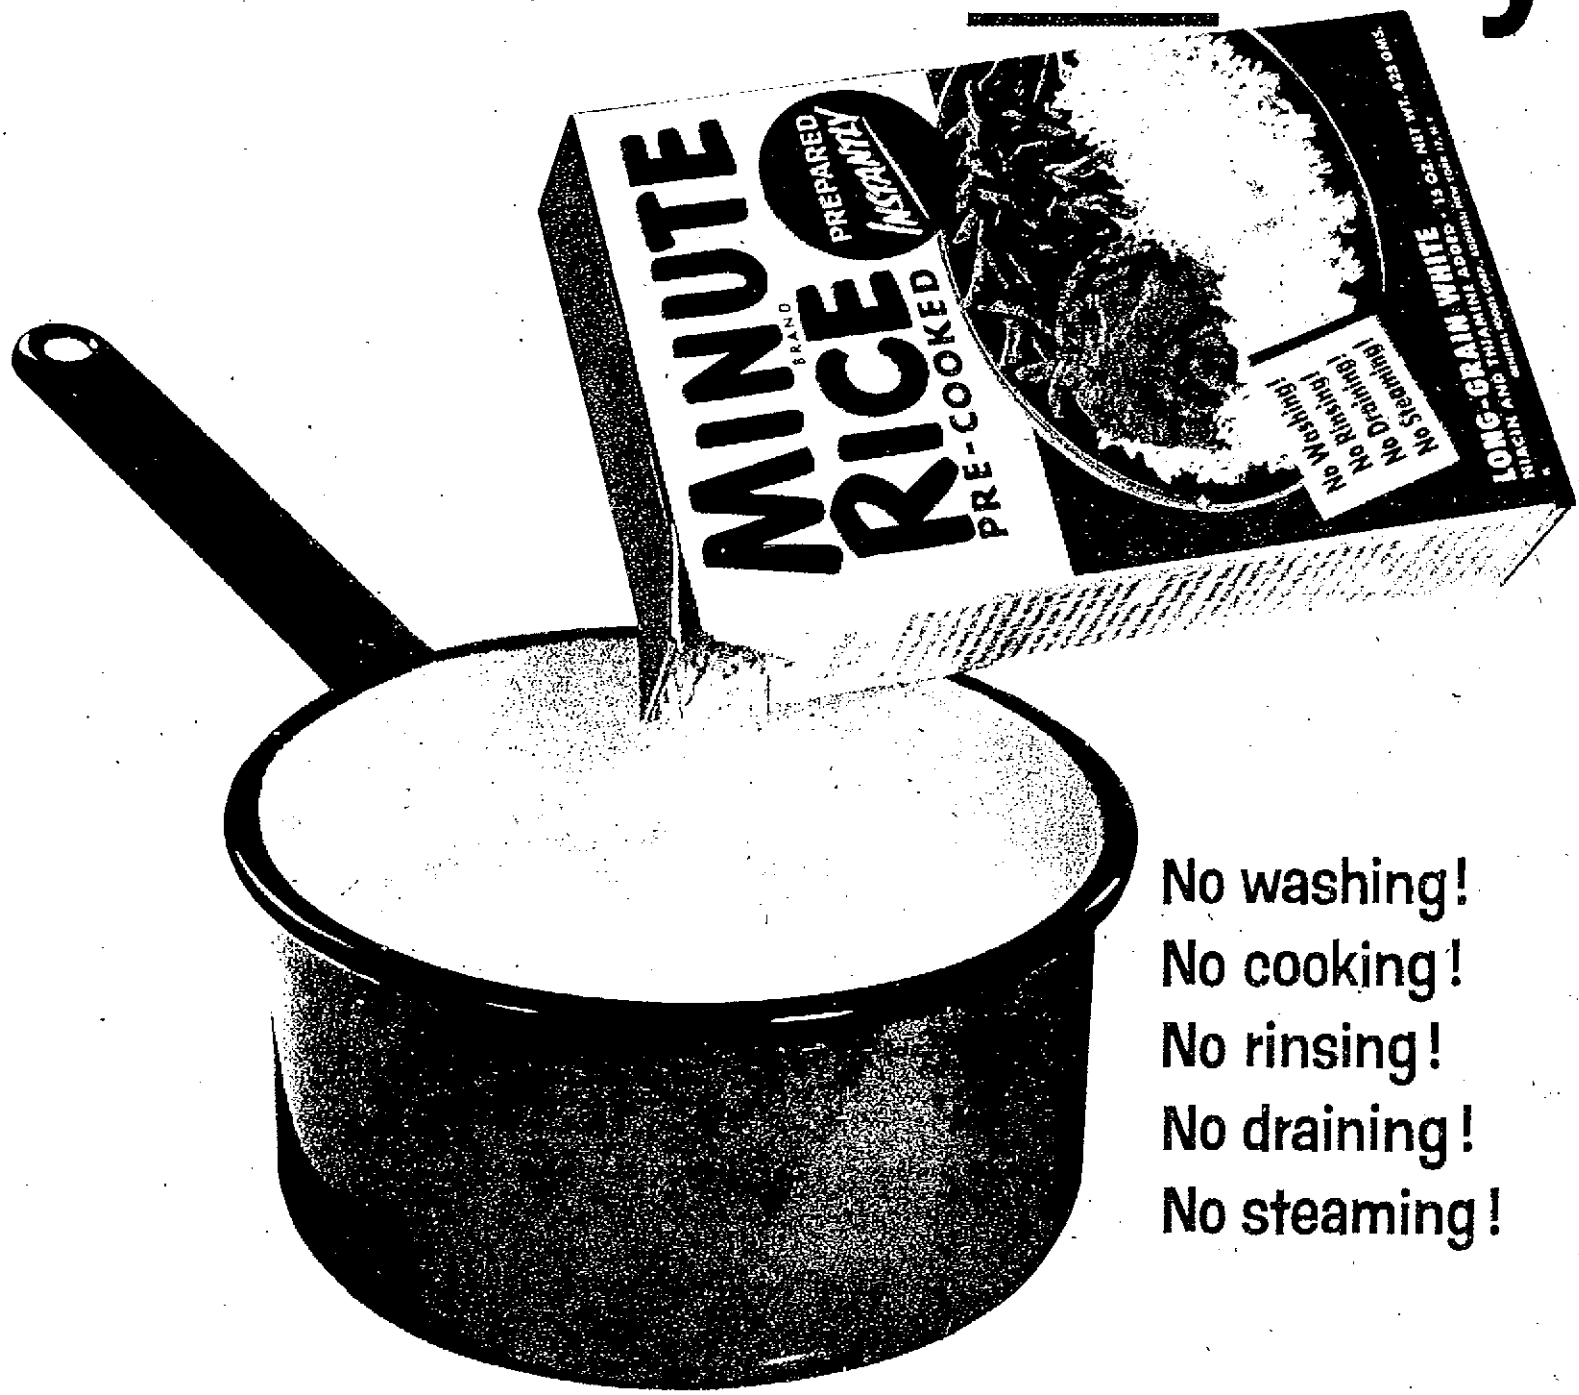

* * *

Owners of Elmer, a crow, were hailed into a California court with the bird. Charge: public nuisance. A neighbor complained that Elmer had been peeking at her through her bedroom window.

* * *

Citizens of Loudenville, N.Y., stared when a flock of robins fluttered about crazily, crashed against windows and finally flopped on the ground in a stupor. Investigation showed they had been gorging themselves on fermented cherries under a nearby tree. ■

Revolutionary NEW treatment for muscular aches and pains

Intracel

PENETRATING ANALGESIC

Now for the first time—a cool, soothing liquid that — penetrates through the tissues to put pain to sleep

It's new . . . it's unbelievably effective! INTRACEL represents a revolution in the science of treating muscular aches and pains—the first great advance in centuries. INTRACEL contains an amazing penetrating agent that enables fast, effective pain-killing ingredients to be absorbed right through the skin and deep down into muscle tissues. It actually puts pain to sleep!

Modern INTRACEL is unlike old-fashioned salves and liniments containing turpentine, camphor and red pepper that can burn and blister the skin. It is a clear, greaseless, fresh-smelling liquid that feels cool and comforting. Apply liberally—no need to rub it in. It penetrates! And INTRACEL does its work gently, safely, painlessly in the matter of a few minutes. Your pain is all gone before you even are aware that INTRACEL has penetrated into the afflicted tissues.

New INTRACEL costs a little more than old-fashioned preparations ($1.49 a bottle). If you don't think it's worth twice that, your druggist will refund your money.

No longer need you suffer from muscular aches and pains due to exertion and exposure • sprains and strains • muscular stiff neck, sore arm, aching shoulder and back • muscular lumbago • simple neuritis and neuralgia • INTRACEL gives temporary relief from minor pains of arthritis, minor rheumatic pains • reduces swelling • eases muscle cramps • improves circulation • relieves pain of headaches, tired feet, cold sores, bruises, sunburn, bee stings and other insect bites • eases pain of toothache when rubbed on gums and jaw • relieves itching from hives, poison ivy and poison oak • for persistent pain, apply compress saturated with INTRACEL.

Hope Bennett talks with teenagers

Editor's note: "Teenagers?" says Hope Bennett. "The only people who know them—really know them—are other teenagers." Hearing this, you'll understand why PARADE has asked her to write a weekly column, beginning today, on the many questions that teenagers want answered. Hope Bennett realizes that the best answers to your problems can come from people your own age. So she'll talk your language—or, better still, let you talk it.

Hope Bennett, formerly editor of the magazine Young Set, for years has been concerned with the ideas and interests of young people. PARADE thinks you'll like her column. Look for it every Sunday!

CONVERSATION: How do popular girls get a conversation started? This is one of the most common dating problems among high-school students.

One girl I know vowed that when a certain boy called for her, her teeth chattered so loudly she was afraid her date could hear them. Another said she got sort of hysterical and felt like giggling all the time.

Well, what do you say when you go out on a date—especially a first date?

Here's how three high-school seniors, who have been through this themselves, answered the question:

• "You shouldn't really be scared. The boy evidently likes you or he wouldn't have asked you out in the first place. And he probably feels shy, too—especially on a first date. But most boys, like their fathers, expect females to take the initiative in starting a conversation."

• "You and your date must have something in common—teachers, ice skating, records, TV, dancing. Just start talking—about the weather if you have to."

• The third girl, probably recalling an experience of her own, said: "If you suspect that your shyness is exaggerated because you are not dressed correctly, be sure that next time you are wearing the right thing for the occasion—then forget about it."

The most comforting thing the seniors had to say was that they, like the boys, all have felt shy and awkward at one time or another. Maybe you have to force yourself at first, but it's perfectly natural for boys and girls to date. When you learn to handle the mechanics of conversation—and you will—dating gets to be a lot more fun.

FADS: Have you heard this one? In some schools a boy borrows an earring from his girl of the moment, wears it when he wants to be sure everyone knows she's his one and only . . . Or this? Anybody can carry a wallet. For a change you might try toting lunch money and primp stuff in a toy pistol from the 10-cent store.

PARTIES: Whether you give a party, or go to a party, here's what teenagers say on the subject.

As a hostess: If your crowd plays games, have plenty of them to choose from . . . If there's to be dancing, be sure your record player is in good condition and that you have enough records. (If you borrow any records, see that the owner's name is taped securely on each.) . . . You yourself will have more fun if you enlist the help of a friend to keep things moving . . . Finally, be fair to the guests. Tell them in advance when the party will begin and when it will end.

Most girls—and their dates, too—prefer chaperons. But they all say not in the same room. "We want our parents at home, but we don't want to see them." (Note to Mother and Dad: Better install TV in your bedroom.)

As a guest: Just as unpopular as the girl who makes no attempt to mix with the crowd is the one who is always showing off. The girl who is fun at a party is the one who participates, but doesn't try to monopolize attention . . . You can help your hostess by not sticking to one boy all evening. I know it's the rule in some places for steadies to dance only with each other, but more and more teenagers agree that this system doesn't help a party one bit . . . It's good manners to thank the hostess and her parents when the party breaks up.

FAMILY RELATIONSHIPS: Do you have fights with your younger brother or sister? Well, most teenagers do. They claim that the younger person usually starts the whole thing, but it's the older one who gets into trouble.

Parents are unfair sometimes. The trouble seems to be that an older person can get the best of a child pretty quickly and the parents' tendency is to protect the child.

Jane, a girl I know, solved this problem by making it possible for her mother to get in on the start of the fracas. Mother then was able to see who started it and do the fair thing. Also, Jane learned not to invite trouble.

GOT A PROBLEM in your life—going steady, a too-strict father, gripes against teachers? So have lots of others. Let's talk them over. Write to me about them. This column will help you find answers to your questions, give you an outlet for your ideas, even produce a pen pal if you want one.

Whatever you say, of course, will be in confidence. I'll use your name only if you tell me to. If you'd like to send me a photograph of yourself, please do. And send in a new fad to pass along.

© 1957, The Borden Company

Here are the easy rules of the contest

1. Suggest a name for Elsie's new twins—a boy calf and a girl calf.
2. Use this entry blank, get one at your store, or submit your entry on a plain sheet of paper. Print clearly your own name and address.
3. Submit as many entries as you wish, but each entry must be accompanied by a label, bottle cap, box top, etc., or facsimile from a Borden product.
4. To be eligible for the Bonus Prize, you must submit with your entry a label, bottle cap, box top, etc., or reasonable facsimile from two different Borden products—the first from any Borden product—the second from Borden's Cottage Cheese (except in California), Lady Borden Ice Cream, Borden's Cream Cheese or Borden's Starlac.
5. This contest is open to any person in the United States, its possessions and Canada, except employees of The Borden Company, its subsidiaries and affiliates, its advertising agencies, and members of the immediate families of such persons. Contest is subject to all Federal, state, local and Dominion regulations.
6. Each entry must be the original work of contestant submitting it except that members of the immediate family may assist. All members of a family may compete, but only one prize (plus bonus prize if eligible) will be awarded to a family. Mail your entries to: Elsie, P. O. Box 77, Mt. Vernon 10, N. Y.
7. Entries will be judged by the Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation on the basis of appropriateness and originality. In the event of ties for any prize or prizes, contestants will be supplied a form on which to complete a 25-word statement telling why they like Borden's products. Ties will be broken by judging these statements on the basis of originality of thought, logic and interest of expression. In the event of any final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded. The decision of the judges is final.
8. All entries become the property of The Borden Company. None will be returned.
9. Contest closes midnight, Saturday, March 30th, 1957. Entries must be postmarked no later and must be received by April 10, 1957.
10. Winners will be notified by mail. List of winners will be mailed to all contestants requesting one and supplying a stamped, self-addressed envelope no smaller than approximately 4" x 9".

AN AMERICAN FACTORY FROM 10,000 FEET

This photo of a North Carolina aluminum plant, first by a new Air Force jet photo plane to be published, was taken on a routine training mission from an altitude of 10,000 feet. To the untrained eye it says little. Turned over to a trained photo interpreter, however, it revealed a startling wealth of detail. The diagram at r. shows how the P.I. identified all types of installation. In addition, his two-page report included such information as: "The aluminum-producing area is composed of eight pot rooms, 50' by 485' each. Casting shed 55' by 600' located at center of pot rooms. Rectifier building to north is 65' by 370'; the one to the south, 65' by 290'. Four silos, 30' diameter, are used for alumina and cryolite storage. Transformer and switches are 75' west of rectifier buildings." In sum, one picture told the secrets of an entire factory.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Today's cover, showing the Statue of Liberty surrounded by red grass, may be the most startling photograph since the movie about the boy with green hair. Yet it's how Lady Liberty might look to the Russians should they take her aerial portrait under President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan.

Not that the Russians are expected to photograph America through rose-colored lenses. But they might use CD (camouflage detection) film, which changes growing greenery into spectacular reds. This heat-sensitive film blushes at the slightest exposure to chlorophyll, the green sunshine cells in plants. Photographic result: vegetation turns red but phony foliage appears slate-colored. That the grass around the Statue appears red, therefore, is colorful evidence it isn't camouflage.

But aside from spotting camouflage, how effective as air reconnaissance would the President's open-skies proposal be? The plan is to photograph Russia from the air and let the Soviets do the same to our country. Would this reveal preparations for a sneak attack, as Ike hopes? Or could the Russians hide their military moves from our airborne cameras?

To find out, PARADE visited Shaw Air Force Base near Sumter, S.C., and watched the 363rd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing in operation.

SUMTER, S.C.

THERE ISN'T MUCH the Air Force can't detect about your neighborhood by flying over it at 30,000 feet. Though you won't see or hear them, our seeing-eye planes can tell such things as how tall you are if you're standing outside, the exact dimensions of your house, the kind of utilities you own, whether your lawn needs mowing.

More important, they can photograph a factory and figure its size within a foot, the nature of its output, just about how many workers it has. "Next to having direct access on foot to an installation, an aerial photograph will give us the best intelligence possible concerning it," says Brig. Gen. Stephen B. Mack, the 363rd's commander.

Come war, lens-power could be almost as important as firepower. It might even prevent war if Ike's open-skies plan is adopted. Said Gen. Walter von Fritz, chief of the German General Staff, in 1936: "The nation with the best reconnaissance will win the next war." Unhappily for him, he was right. During World War II, 70 to 90 per cent of Allied intelligence about the enemy came from aerial reconnaissance. The results in Korea were equally dramatic.

At Shaw, near-miracles of detection are performed by teams of skilled men. Heading the teams are the reconnaissance or "Recce" pilots (pronounced "Reeky"). "The Recce pilot is unique among airmen," says Lt. Col. Dudley Adkins, Reconnaissance Chief for the 9th Air Force. "He must have an abnormal amount of curiosity. In World War II we found, thanks to such pilot curiosity, hidden enemy concentrations, concealed headquarters, secret military positions and even underground factories."

One pilot noticed two men peddling bicycles in the middle of a bombing raid. He concluded correctly that they weren't out for exercise, but must be carrying messages from a nearby secret message center. Another high-cruising candid cameraman spotted a railroad siding alongside a schoolhouse and took several close-ups. As he suspected, the schoolhouse was a camouflaged factory. Still another got curious over tracks that led into a mountain but didn't come out the other side. It was easily identified as an underground installation.

In wartime, the Recce pilot is both advance man and follow-up. His first pictures unveil the target. Later he photographs the damage done by our bombers. He flies alone and unarmed. "There may not be much glory in flying a Recce mission," Colonel Adkins says. "The pilot doesn't get any 'kills.' But he does have one important satisfaction when the headlines announce a successful bomber raid; the Recce pilot can say to the bomber boys, 'I was there before you, and I'll be back after you.'"

How to Make Pictures "Talk"

These aerial photographers can get good pictures flying level at 40,000 feet. But sometimes they must swoop down low—risky work for unarmed aircraft. Such operations are called "dicing missions" because pilots used to toss dice to see who would get them.

The other key figure in the reconnaissance team is the unsung, desk-bound photo interpreter or P.I. — the man who makes the pictures "talk." His chief tool is the stereoscope which magnifies a photograph four times and shows it in three dimensions.

One of these picture wizards recently was handed an aerial view which would have been meaningless to most people. To the untrained eye it seemed to show merely roads and long, narrow buildings. The only clue the interpreter had was the exact time and general location the picture was taken. Yet he came up with a two-page report, amazingly detailed, which accurately told the important industrial story hidden in the photograph. Some of his significant findings appear at left, along with the picture he worked from.

Unlocking the information in another aerial photograph, the P.I. correctly identified it as an electric-power plant. His incredibly exact report included such facts as the thickness of walls, the number of turbines, generators and transformers on the premises. He counted 36 freight cars on a siding and was able to say all but four were loaded with coal.

To solve a picture riddle, the interpreter starts with a known object. A telephone pole might be a starting point, because he knows its height in a given country. Or he might work from a freight car or a popular-model automobile whose size he knows. And then there are other factors.

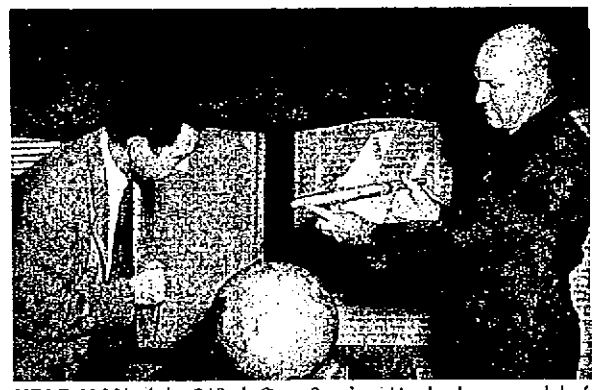

"In our work shadows are vitally important," one veteran P.I. explains. "Since we know the exact time each picture is taken and the approximate location, also the exact position of the subject in relation to that spot, we can put these factors together and figure from the shadows most of the dimensions of a building and even the height of a man photographed from six miles up."

The Air Force has computed the exact position of the sun in every part of the world for every minute of every day of the year. Each picture is stamped with the time it was taken and the general location. A P.I. with a photo taken at 2:03 p.m. over Detroit would go to the table for the sun's position then and there before he started measuring shadows.

The photo interpreter, usually young and often a sergeant, is among the most highly skilled of all military personnel. He must have a working knowledge of mathematics, transportation, industrial and military targets. He must know chemistry and metallurgy. He must be able to identify airfields, seaplane bases, radar sites, fuel-storage dumps. Of course, the P.I.'s have vast technical libraries at their disposal, but their general knowledge must tell them at a glance whether a picture is worth a detailed examination.

The man who correctly identified the aluminum plant at left got off on the right track at once. He suspected it might be an aluminum plant because he knew that long, narrow buildings are the type in which metal is produced. Another vital clue was the amount of electric power lines he saw in the picture.

Atomic installations are dead give-aways. Radiation on photograph plates cannot be concealed effectively.

The P.I.'s also can spot new activity at airfields. They can tell from new construction whether it is to be an airport or a missile-launching site. They can keep constant track of ship and troop movements. In short, they can see enough to remove the threat of a surprise attack under the open-skies approach to disarmament.

Each jet photo plane carries about $100,000 worth of photographic equipment. The expensive cameras are fitted with image motion compensation which automatically eliminates blurring, even when the plane is moving at near the speed of sound.

One plane may have as many as six huge cameras operating at one time — forward, to the side and downward. The cameras take a continuing strip of overlapping pictures. During dark or bad weather, reconnaissance can be carried on by radar. A special camera has been devised to record images as they show up on the radarscope.

Carnation is the Secret of Failure-Proof Gravy

Special qualities of Carnation make it blend better than ordinary milk and result in smoother, tastier gravy every time...without fail.

RECIPE:

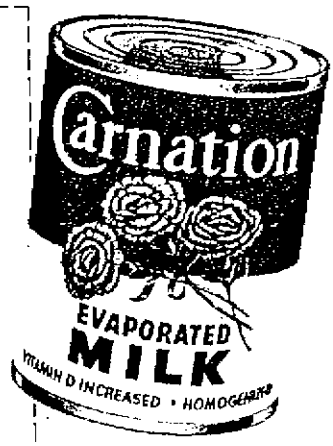

FAILURE PROOF GRAVY
(Makes about 3 cups)

1. Blend ¼ cup seasoned flour with ¼ cup roast meat drippings (pork or ham are delicious), in heavy skillet over low heat until smooth.

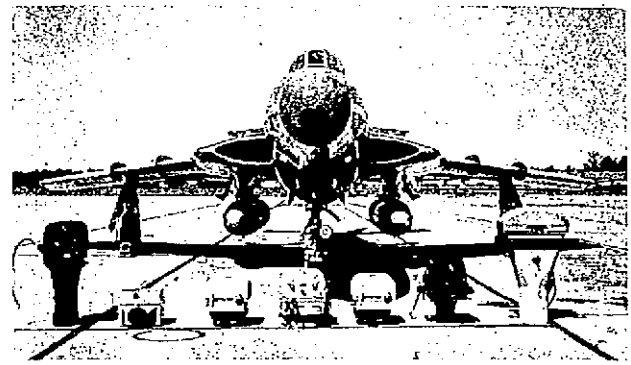

2. Gradually add mixture of 1⅔ cups (large can) Carnation and 1⅔ cups water. Stir constantly over low heat until gravy is thickened.

"From Contented Cows"

For a better cup of coffee, "cream" it with Carnation, THE MILK THAT WHIPS!

The Reds would learn things-but so would we

The film processors also can keep up with the picture takers. The latest machines develop thousands of pictures in a day. One model can produce 8,000 pictures in eight hours.

Today, Reeci pilots fly frequent peacetime missions for other Government agencies. They photograph forest fires for the Interior Department to determine the damage to public lands. They once photographed all South Carolina's lakes and counted the number of fishermen to help local authorities determine how much fish to stock.

If Russia ever permits our photo planes to fly over her territory, what would be accomplished? Here's the answer:

"We would get an immense amount of knowledge of their industrial and military power. The very presence of our Reeci pilots would greatly reduce the possibility of a sneak military attack. If the Russians agree to the open-skies proposal, it would be a dramatic show of good faith that would instantly reduce world tension.

"Of course, Soviet planes would gather a lot of information about our military and industrial strength. But because of our free press and the right of unrestricted travel here, the Russians already know pretty accurately most of the facts about our industrial and military capacity. Anyone can hire a plane and fly over our country with a camera. The Russians or Soviet agents probably have done this."

How Photos Could Help Us

Assuming the open-skies plan is accepted in good faith, the Air Force likely would do three things. First, the pilots over Russia would take pictures of large areas covering perhaps 100 square miles each. Next, the P.I.'s would study the pictures for anything interesting, unexpected or suspicious. If they spotted anything, Washington would request permission for a closer look.

To measure production at a given point, the Air Force would like to take a series of pictures over a period of weeks. This would give an accurate idea of the raw materials coming into a plant and would tip off the White House whether Russia was living up to disarmament promises.

"If the Russians ask us to come in and have a look at them, they know we will get just about everything," says the 363rd's hard-bitten commander, General Mack.

Looking to the future, the Air Force sees even more fantastic developments in sky inspection. X-ray photography from the air is reported on the horizon. Planes fairly soon may be equipped with television cameras. No wonder the President considers the open-skies plan a major step to world disarmament. ■

ESTABLISHED STAR Jackie Gleason clowns with a bevy of chorus girls. This season TV has failed to produce any newcomer of comparable stature. Just as bad in terms of basic programming, Gleason himself has gotten into a "feud" with Perry Como over ratings.

What's wrong with

Many critics think it's aiming too low. If so, why?

by PATRICK DALTON

Are you growing more critical of TV these days? If so, you're not alone.

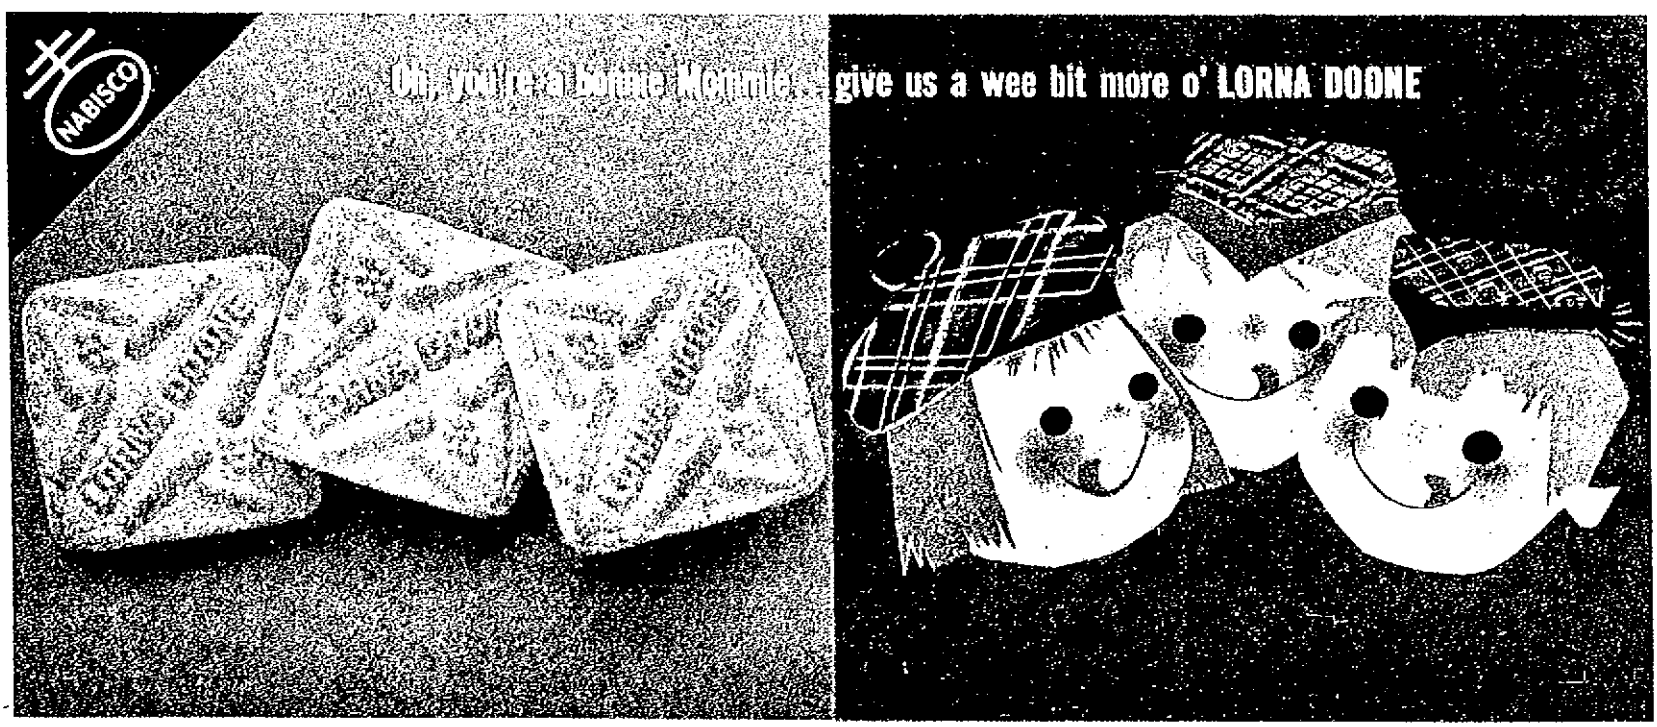

The sameness of current video offerings, the excess of quiz and juvenile programs, the seemingly endless commercials, the general lack of creative programming — these things are annoying not only the public but also the people who make a living in television.

Take Groucho Marx, who has just finished his 10th season on TV. "I have nothing against people making money," Groucho declared recently, "but I don't want to see them doing it on my TV screen . . . I used to watch a lot of TV, but no more, not with what they're showing these days."

Points out Rod Serling, an outstanding video dramatist (he wrote Patterns, The Strike, Requiem for a Heavyweight): "Obviously in television there are just too many people to please, too many themes to shy away from and too many sacred cows to dictate a choice of subject . . . Radio had the same kind of problem. It assumed the average mentality of the audience on the basis of the lowest common denominator, and its aim was almost always downward."

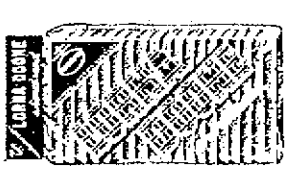

Says George Rosen, knowledgeable TV editor of Variety, the show-business trade paper: "This past video season adds up to the dullest, most uninspired semester in perhaps the entire 10-year life span of TV program progression."

With one exception — Playhouse 90 (CBS, Thursday nights) — television this season offered no really fresh program-

TELEVISION?

What can you do about it?

10-YEAR VETERAN Groucho Marx makes a typical comment: "I used to watch a lot of TV, but no more."

ming. There were occasional brilliant individual shows, but no new personality to stand beside Phil Silvers, George Gobel, Dragnet's Jack Webb or Lucy and Desi Arnaz. TV's major "new" presentation was old movies.

As for performers, such personalities as Bob Hope, Jimmy Durante, Gobel and Donald O'Connor said they were planning to cut down their appearances or quit video entirely. "TV is a business," said Robert Young, star of Father Knows Best, "for very young people with strong backs."

Many sponsors, too, have been increasingly disappointed in TV. Some would cancel their programs if they could. (Practically all half-hour filmed video shows are sold on non-cancelable 39-week contracts. The sponsor of a poor show is stuck with it for 39 weeks, unless he buys up the contract — for an average minimum price of $35,000 a week.)

Still another sign of disillusionment with TV is increased attendance at movie theaters. Early last month the nation's box offices were doing better than at any time since 1949.

So — what's wrong with TV today?

A Variety of Opinions

The public speaks in terms of effect. PARADE took a random sampling in three West Coast cities — Los Angeles, San Diego, Oakland — and got thoughtful answers.

From a Los Angeles housewife: "I think most television programs are aimed at the 13-year-old."

From a San Diego filling-station attendant: "If one show is a success, they copy it until you get sick of the original. Take Ed Sullivan — he's got a good variety show. So they try to give us Steve Allen, Walter Winchell and Herb Shriner, all with the same kind of show."

From an Oakland school teacher: "TV has such vast potential. What a pity that it's offering the people mediocrity."

Mediocrity, say a number of television executives, will remain the rule so long as the fate of network programs hangs by rating systems. As you may know, there now are some 37,250,000 U.S. homes with television sets. A program rating is supposed to reveal the percentage of 37,250,000 homes tuned in to a specific program.

Four major companies sell rating services to networks and advertisers. These are Nielsen, Trendex, American Research Bureau and Pulse, Inc.

Nielsen ratings are obtained via an electronic taping device called an audimeter, placed in television sets in 800 sample homes throughout the nation. It records the stations to which the sets have been tuned. Critics ask: Do 800 homes out of 37,250,000 represent an adequate sampling?

Trendex ratings are obtained via telephone calls in 15 major cities where all three major networks telecast. Approximately 1,000 homes are called. The person who answers is asked what program he's watching, plus several other questions. Trendex says it is not a rating service but, rather, provides "indices to a program's popularity." Objectors maintain that people who answer the phone will say anything and usually do.

American Research Bureau employs the "diary technique." Approximately 2,000 sample homes are given diaries to keep. People are asked to write down the programs they've watched, the number of people who watched with them and other information. No one knows how many diaries are kept regularly, how many represent hasty or inadequate memories.

Pulse depends on home interviews. The day after a program goes on the air, approximately 6,000 people are interviewed; that is, they are handed a list of programs and asked to check those they watched the previous day. Critics object that most of us have short memories and, confronted with a list of programs, may simply check the most popular.

With all their weaknesses, these four rating systems offer the best regular measure of program acceptance that TV has. Many observers wonder, however, whether it doesn't lean too heavily on them.

MAJOR NEW SHOW of distinction this year, Playhouse 90, starred Jack Palance (center) in Requiem for a Heavyweight.

"Instead of using the ratings as a guide," one TV executive told PARADE, "the men in charge of TV programming use them as gospel. A show can be truly outstanding — but let it get a poor rating, and pretty soon it's off the air or shunted to another network. A good rating, not a good program, has become the end-target in television today."

The networks, of course, are in business to make money. This means finding advertisers to sponsor their programs. Few advertisers are interested in raising the nation's cultural level via TV; they want sales, and that in turn calls for the biggest possible audience per show. Hence the tendency to stick to successful programs with high ratings, rather than to try anything new.

When Is a Duty Done?

The fact remains that the Federal Government licenses television stations "to serve in the public interest." This implies a duty to enlarge the informational, educational and entertainment horizons of the TV audience.

Some network officials feel they are fulfilling their responsibility by giving the audience what it wants. "A mass medium," Frank Stanton of CBS has said, "must concern itself with the common denominator of mass interest." But there are dissenters. "Television is not fulfilling its mission," declares former NBC programming executive Fred Wile, "when it caters only to the majority. It has an obligation over and above the majority. There is no reason to believe that because certain types of programs are popular, they're the only ones that can succeed."

The final answer, of course, lies with you, the American public. You can control television programming by writing to the networks. If you like a program, say so; if not, say that. The networks are sensitive to public opinion. In 1951, for example, there were approximately 40 horror programs on the air. Parental protests forced the networks to cancel some of them. Only a few weeks ago, one network abruptly withdrew a new quiz program after public and critics denounced it as childish and ridiculous.

So let the networks know how you feel. In the long run, where TV goes from here is to a large extent your decision. ■

The lonesome world of a WIDOW

by SID ROSS and ED KIESTER

FAMILY ROMP on Cape Cod beach casts widow as a companion — a two-parent job she does alone.

THOUGHTFUL PAT gazes out at sea her Naval-officer husband loved. She finds Cape Cod, where they honeymooned, a link to past.

Daughter and memories keep Pat Penrose going

WOODS HOLE, MASS.

With the first whisper of spring, Pat Penrose and her 9-year-old daughter, Pam, go into the garden outside their garage apartment here and plant flowers. Pat loves flowers, but planting is a painful time — like, she says, "having a dull knife in your heart." It is something her husband and she always did together — and Pat has been a widow more than seven years.

She is 36 now, her dark-brown hair beginning to show gray, and over the years since Ted Penrose was accidentally electrocuted, she has managed to fashion a life for herself and for Pam. It includes a five-room apartment here on Cape Cod, a nurse's job at the Falmouth Medical Association and what the photos on these pages illustrate: the infinitely demanding task of being both mother and father to a growing daughter.

Pat hates to be called "courageous," and she doesn't like sympathy much better. "I'm not a lost soul," she says. "I haven't been left with nothing to live for." But nothing compensates for the sudden twists of pain, which can come from something as simple as a broadcast of a ball game. Ted was a baseball fan who listened to the old Boston Braves' games religiously.

Perhaps one reason Pat Penrose brushes off sympathy and admiration is that she realizes so many other women are in the same boat. There are, in Pat's age bracket, 447,000 widows in the U.S.; correspondingly, the number of wifeless husbands between 35 and 44 is only 90,000. In all age brackets, there are 7½ million widows, more than three times the number of widowers.

These statistics showing that women outlive men — and by a considerable margin — have given pause to doctors, social workers, government planners and insurance actuaries. They have been accented in insurance advertising and dramatized in books on "how to train your wife to be a widow."

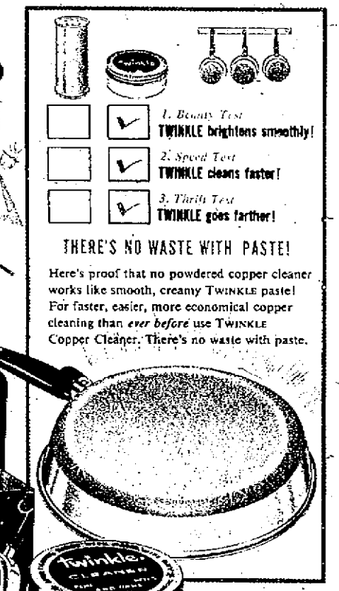

Nonetheless, on October 8, 1949, Pat found herself with no idea of how to remold a life alone. Only once in their marriage had Ted tried to discuss the prospect. Pat closed the subject with a shudder: "I don't want to think about it. It won't ever happen."

After all, they had been planning for a long time for a long and happy married life. She and Ted Penrose grew up within a few blocks of each other in Canton, Mass., about 15 miles southeast of Boston. Ted grew up to go to Tufts College and the Naval Academy; he spent six years in the Navy, winning the Distinguished Service Cross for saving a shipmate's life, and emerged a full commander. Pat entered nurse's training, then spent four years as an Army nurse. Such long separations didn't

WORKING, Pat brings Pam along to office when she has evening hours. Here Pam keeps busy with crayons.

KISSING, mother and daughter say goodbye at school gate. After school, Pam helps with supper.

ROUGHHOUSING, Pat and Pam spend week end together. Pat also enjoys cycling, tree-climbing.

TUCKING PAM IN, her mother has final chat. She finds evenings, mealtimes loneliest parts of day.

Another marriage? Friends hope so— but no man has measured up to Ted change their plans a bit. They were married March 16, 1946, in a whirl because Ted was being sent to Bikini atoll for the atomic-bomb tests.

The Penroses made elaborate plans. Ted took a job at the famous Oceanographic Institute here, and Pat worked as a nursery-school teacher. They lived in a "darling" Cape Cod house and spent evenings drawing plans for their eight-room dream house. They went swimming, fishing, visiting and picture-taking.

And on January 14, 1948, Pamela was born. Ted was a typical proud father; he carried a wallet crammed with pictures. Pam responded. When she was old enough to walk, she would stand by the door and wait for him to come home. Life seemed full, rich, without a cloud.

Pat found her husband's body by herself. It was Saturday, and he had gone to the lab to catch up on some work, calibrating deep-sea thermometers. He planned to come home for a late lunch, but by 5 p.m. he had not appeared. Worried, Pat went to the lab to look.

The lights still were on. The floor was covered with water. And in a far corner, lying face down on a bench, was Ted. Her nurse's training told Pat immediately that he was dead. The medical examiner said he apparently had touched a wet pipe while in contact with a live wire.

She Faced Her Problems

The next few minutes — indeed, the next few months — were unreal for Pat. She never broke down — "My people are English and we've been trained to stand up under tragedy," she says — but she drifted about in a daze. Besides, she felt she couldn't cry in front of the baby. As the volley fired over Ted's grave died away, she began to realize she was alone.

"As a child, I always was taught to cope with situations," Pat says. "I think I've coped with mine." For a time she withdrew from people; then she began to meet her problems head-on. She moved in with her family and went to work, and later she went to Boston University and earned a degree in nursing. She is studying now for a master's degree. When Pam gets older, she would like to teach nursing.

College helped Pat in many ways. She met war widows with a much harder road than hers. She met students who worked a full day and took a full college course, pushing themselves to exhaustion.

As soon as she could, she moved back to Woods Hole, where people knew Ted and where his memory lingered in the dunes and the fog. Pam helped to decorate the apartment overlooking the sea. Mother and daughter are inseparable companions.

Her Daughter Comes First

Life has settled into a routine, with few highlights. Pat has learned to fix bicycles, to roughhouse with her daughter, to be a handyman. Added to her chores as wife and mother, plus odd hours at work, it's quite a load. But Pam — playing with Pam, shopping with her, getting her ready for school — comes first.

Pat realizes her daughter needs a father. For a while, Pam would point out men on the street and tell her mother, "I think he'd be a nice daddy." Pat's friends, too, have pointedly arranged meetings with eligible men. No romance has blossomed.

She hasn't closed the door on remarriage. "I like and enjoy male company, and I'm not going to be a hermit," she says. But she doubts that she ever will find another Ted.

There are men in her life. The first is the family doctor, on whom she leans for blunt-spoken advice in all fields. The second is her minister. A deeply religious Episcopalian, Pat is consoled by the faith that she will meet Ted again.

Still, nothing compensates for the pain here and now. "You never really adjust," she says. "It's always there, no matter where you are or what you do. If Pam and I walk along the beach, I think how much more wonderful it would be for both of us if there were two parents instead of one. It's something that aches continuously. It never goes away. I doubt it ever will." ■

"ODD MAN" at a party, Pat changes records for friends. She likes people, doesn't hide from life.

LOOKING BACK, Pat scans family albums in front of Ted's photo. The years pass—but his memory remains.

Tucson's rodeo king Ed Echols remembers the real Wild West

by SID ROSS and KARL KOHRS

REMEMBERING roundups of the Old West, ex-cowboy and rodeo star Ed Echols poses for PARADE.

TUCSON, ARIZ.

As the official "kickoff" for the 1957 rodeo season, Tucson's 31st annual rodeo — La Fiesta de los Vaqueros — comes to climax today.

For the past four days, the Old West has lived again here, and a living symbol of those hard-riding days is the man shown in the photo above — Ed Echols, one of the last of Arizona's old-time cowboys.

Everybody in this part of the country knows Ed, a reticent, six-foot giant of a man with crinkles at the corners of his eyes and a silver thatch of hair. Originator of Tucson's annual rodeo, Ed is one of the last remaining links with the old frontier. Now a hale 78, he has held the title of World's Champion Cowboy, and in his time has been sheriff, peace officer, ranchman — and just plain cowpoke.

Born in Stockdale, Tex., in 1879, Ed emigrated to Arizona in a covered wagon and practically grew up in the saddle. An expert rider and steer-roper, he eventually toured with several Wild West shows. During those days he made friends with two other cowboys — Will Rogers and Tom Mix, when they were silent-screen stars of the '20s.

Back to the Open Range

Ed himself scorned a screen career when, as he says, "they tried to tell me how to wear a hat and get on a horse so I'd look like a cowboy." He went back to the open range, and that is the life he describes for PARADE in his typical cowman's drawl.

"The cowpuncher of 50 years ago," says Ed, "usually came from the farms. They were men who didn't want to spend their life pullin' up weeds and bein' tied to crops. But they didn't become cowboys to get away from hard work. There's nothin' harder, with less money, than a cowboy's life. In those days a cowhand worked for $15 a month. In Arizona it was better — they was payin' $30 or $35 a month when I came here. Still, it was terrible hard work."

On the range, the cowboy got up as soon as it was light enough to catch and saddle the horses. Breakfast was beef, beans, potatoes, plenty of gravy and lots of coffee.

Nursemaid to Cattle

"Then," Ed says "a cowhand would spend all day rounding up cattle in the roughest, wildest country you ever saw. If there was a wild cow trying to run away, he'd have to rope her. If one got caught in a bog, he'd have to pull her out. If he found a cow with screw worms — which can kill cattle — he'd try to doctor her up with a creosote dip he carried in a sort of 'first aid' pack. Or if there was an unbranded calf, he'd rope it, build a fire and brand it.

"Then," Ed says, "a cowhand would help build dirt tanks to catch valuable rain water. Then there were odd jobs to do around the ranch house — building and repairing fences, and the like. By the time it got dark and the cowboy turned his horse into the corral, he was a mighty tired hombre."

The standard picture of the cowboy as a "rootin,' tootin,' shootin' " character gets short shrift from Echols. Says he: "Fifty years ago, a lot of the boys never even owned a gun. The Indians had been pretty well whooped out of here by then. On the range, you were safer without a gun. Fact is, if you saw a guy who was always wearing a gun you suspicioned he might be on the dodge."

If a cowboy wanted to "paint the town" he had to save his fireworks for Christmas or the Fourth of July, his only two days off during the entire year.

"On the Fourth," Ed recalls, "everybody took off for the nearest town. You'd go into a saloon to have a sociable drink — not to kill anybody. The saloon was a right peaceable place because cowboys were all pretty civilized fellows. You'd sit around and swap yarns and see who could tell the biggest lie.

"If there was a show — the word 'rodeo' wasn't yet in common use (it's a Mexican word, meaning 'roundup') — you'd go and rope a steer for a cash prize.

"Outside of gamblin', there wasn't much entertainment. Very few saloons had dancing girls. They was pretty strict about women's morals in those days. Why, even a woman who'd come to town wearing boots and long pants was liable to get arrested."

A Rugged, but Free, Life

Most cowboys of frontier days, Ed says, were content to come to town one or two days out of a year, get a little drunk, gamble a bit and then go back to the lonely prairies. No cowpoke ever felt sorry for himself. The life was rugged — but he was free.

Of today's cowboy, Ed says: "He's got it soft. He might not be cowboy enough to know how to open and shut a pasture gate, but he sure knows how to dress up like a cowhand and talk waddy lingo.

"But there's really no need for the rugged training and life the cowboy used to have. Now the cattle are all fenced in, and there's trucks to take them to the railroad. With all these modern ways of ranching, there's no call any more for the old-time cowhand's skill."

Ed sums it up philosophically: "Well, that's how it is. There ain't no point in livin' in the past . . ." ■

SAVORY MACARONI AND CHEESE

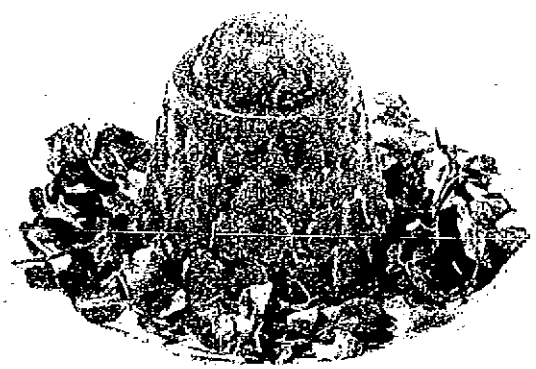

8 oz. elbow macaroni
2 cups tomato cheese sauce*
2 strips bacon, cooked
½ cup ready-to-serve cereal flakes
1 tablespoon bacon fat

Cook macaroni as directed on package; drain; pour into shallow baking dish; add sauce. Crumble crisp bacon; combine with cereal flakes and bacon fat; sprinkle on top. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.). Serves six. *TOMATO CHEESE SAUCE: Make 2 cups medium white sauce using 1 cup tomato juice and 1 cup evaporated milk as the liquid. Add in 1½ cups grated sharp cheddar cheese. Stir over low heat until cheese melts.

Do more with TOMATO JUICE

by BETH MERRIMAN PARADE FOOD EDITOR

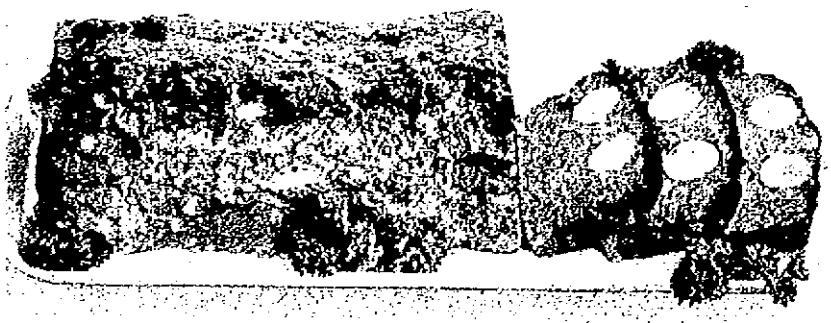

We all enjoy chilled, delicately seasoned tomato juice at the start of a meal. But for even greater enjoyment, keep a few extra cans on the pantry shelf to use in cooking. You'll discover many new and exciting flavor tricks. Pictured here are three: using tomato juice as the liquid in meat loaf; to add color and flavor to macaroni and cheese; to make a quick and easy aspic. Use tomato juice, too, in gravies, sauces and stews, and for preparing pre-cooked rice, for added flavor.

EASY TOMATO ASPIC

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
2 cups tomato juice
½ teaspoon salt
Few drops bottled hot pepper sauce
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon sugar

Soften gelatine in ½ cup cold tomato juice. Combine 1½ cups tomato juice with salt, pepper sauce and onion. Bring to boiling point; add lemon juice and sugar. Add to gelatine; stir until gelatine dissolves. Pour into individual molds. Chill.

SURPRISE MEAT LOAF

1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup tomato juice
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 medium onion, minced
3 lbs. beef, ground
4 skinless frankfurters

Combine all ingredients except beef and frankfurters; let stand 10 minutes. Add beef; mix well. Fill 13"-x-4½"-x-2½" pan half full of beef mixture. Place frankfurters on top lengthwise, in pairs. Add remaining beef mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 1½ hours.

TALL GAL from Tennessee

When photographer Ben Ross spotted the queenly blonde above, he claimed a new "discovery" for PARADE's picture series of young beauties. She's Helen Landon, 20, a tall (5' 8") co-ed from Huntingdon, Tenn., whose father, a major general, commands the Caribbean Air Force.

As athletic as she is lovely, Helen was captain of the girls' basketball team at high school in Nashville and has done ballet swimming at the University of Tennessee. She also has a serious side: she's majoring in retailing. As for a career, she likes merchandising, but may also take a turn at fashion modeling. Currently she's touring the country as the 1957 Maid of Cotton.

Has she a boy friend? "Absolutely not," says Helen emphatically. "I'm not engaged, spoken for or going steady — but who knows what tomorrow will bring?"

DIAMOND QUICK BUTTERFLY RING

2½ cups biscuit mix	2 tbsps. melted butter or margarine	1 tbsp. flour
1 tbsp. sugar	¼ cup sugar	¼ cup chopped candied cherries
1 egg, well beaten	½ tsp. cinnamon	¾ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts
⅔ cup milk

Mix first 4 ingredients together. Knead about 18 strokes. Roll into rectangle 11" x 14". Brush with butter or margarine. Stir remaining ingredients together and spread on dough. Roll up jelly-roll fashion, pinching edges to seal seam. Place on cookie sheet, seam side down; joining ends to form ring. With scissors, cut through ring, almost to center, in 2" slices. Mark indentation in center of each slice. Bake at 375°, 20 minutes. Frost with confectioners' sugar frosting while warm. Trim with maraschino cherries, and crown each slice with plump, golden Diamond Walnut halves.

SHARK

A daring new sport

ON SURFACE, the author hangs on to wildly thrashing nurse shark. The entire "bout" took place in three feet of water.

BELOW WATER, Tassos still manages to hang on by crossing his ankles around the shark's body in a scissors grip, holding one of the fins.

UP AGAIN, Tassos tries to slow down shark by pressing gills. The rubbery sharks have great strength but tire very easily.

TASSOS steers his way through Bahamas. He grew the beard after battle.

RIDING

looks danger in the teeth

by JOHN TASSOS

"Ride a shark? Wouldn't it be dangerous?"

That's what most people say whenever I talk about a favorite sport of mine. And they're right: shark riding is dangerous. Nobody I know has ever been seriously hurt, but one split-second of carelessness could cost you an arm or leg — or worse.

I learned the sport from Bahama natives; some Pacific islanders also are avid shark riders. Lately a few white skin divers have been taking a crack at it.

First thing you learn is that all sharks are not rideable; the hammerhead and tiger, to name a couple, are just too big and tough. In these pictures, taken in the Bahamas, I'm riding a nurse shark, a rather slow-moving eight-footer. The nurse shark has a small mouth of hard-packed teeth but he never attacks if left alone. Climb on his back, though, and he's as savage as a hammerhead.

To board the nurse, wait till he comes into shallow water to feed. A native angles his dinghy, carrying you and two or three spearmen, as close as possible. (You need them as standby protection — just in case.) Then you spring from the gunwale, aiming to latch onto the pectoral fins just behind the shark's head.

Catch as Catch Can

A volcano erupts when you smack down on the shark's sandpaper-like back. He bucks and twists savagely, diving to the bottom, scraping you along the sand to rub you off. (If he lights out for a reef, quit fast; he can cut you to shreds on the coral in no time.)

To hang on while he's thrashing, twist your legs around the shark's body in a scissors hold. And as soon as you can, sink your fingers into the soft fleshy gill slits. This clogs up the shark's breathing cycle, slowing him down.

But your hold on the fleshy gills begins to slip. You reach again for the pectoral fins.

And that sets off a new explosion. The shark bucks, doubling backward; then he dives for the bottom, again trying to scrape off his jockey.

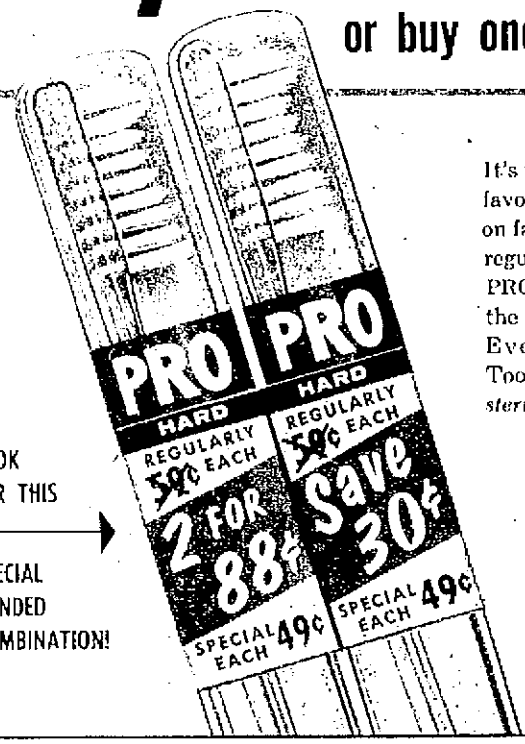

By this time, 10 to 15 seconds have elapsed. You've been underwater about half that time and are beginning to feel it. You double your legs under you and kick away. As you do, the spearmen move in to fend off the shark if he should attack.

But almost always the astounded shark flees to deeper water — I suspect to hide his embarrassment. ■

THE AUTHOR (l.) has written a new book, The Underwater World (Prentice-Hall, New York, $4.95). It will be published March 1. A noted skin diver and marine expert, Tassos has studied underwater life for more than 10 years.

GREET HOFMANS:

HOLLAND'S MYSTERY WOMAN

By LLOYD SHEARER

PARADE WEST COAST CORRESPONDENT

PURPOSEFUL LOOK marks Margaretha Greet Hofmans as she crosses a Dutch sidewalk. Her eyes seem aimed at . . .

This faith healer has virtually split

AMSTERDAM.

For the past year the most talked-about woman in Europe has been the Dutch faith healer, 61-year-old Margaretha Greet Hofmans. Bosom friend of Queen Juliana, whose partially blind youngest daughter she has attempted to faith-cure, this mannish, gray-haired woman has figuratively torn Holland in two.

Her disciples — including the Queen, statesmen and financial bigwigs — call her "a God-send, a near-saint, a blessing from heaven."

Her detractors — including Juliana's husband Prince Bernhard, their daughter Princess Beatrix and several leading cabinet ministers — denounce her as "a potential Rasputin, a Svengali, a mountebank."

What is the truth about this woman who has caused a notorious rift between 47-year-old Queen Juliana and her 45-year-old consort; who has made the entire Dutch nation uneasy? Does she really have occult powers? Can she really effect miraculous cures?

Last August a special three-man royal commission thoroughly investigated Greet Hofmans and her influence. It counseled the Queen to 1) break definitely with her, 2) keep away from meetings with the Hofmans sect and 3) remove recognized Hofmans followers from the court. Nothing, however, was said of Greet Hofmans' powers or lack of powers.

Bowing to public opinion, Queen Juliana this winter "honorably discharged" five champions of Greet Hofmans from her court. (Among them: two private secretaries, the grand mistress of the royal household, the Queen's chamberlain.) But then she appealed to the nation for the right to conduct her private life as she saw best. And she accused certain groups of trying to drive a wedge between her and Prince Bernhard.

Since then it has been whispered that the Queen still secretly sees Greet Hofmans, who lives five minutes' ride from the palace.

Why Juliana Cares

The Queen (devoutly Calvinist with a strong leaning toward mysticism) is convinced that prayer and faith will improve the defective eyesight with which Princess Marijke, now 9, was born. It is said the Queen soon will abdicate in favor of her eldest daughter, Princess Beatrix, or divorce Prince Bernhard — or both. A palace intimate told me Juliana is torn between devotion to her husband and recurrent fits of melancholy over the tragic fate of little Marijke, who is blind in the left eye.

the country in two

Queen Juliana still reproaches herself over her fourth child. She contracted German measles during her pregnancy, and still blames herself for the little girl's handicap. The Dutch people understand this; when an operation saved one of the princess eyes in 1948, they rejoiced. The doctor said then that there was no cure for the other eye. But the Queen refused to reconcile herself to that diagnosis.

A year later, Prince Bernhard heard that a Miss Greet Hofmans was supposed to have achieved remarkable cures. He brought her home to meet the Queen. The royal couple questioned the faith healer, agreed to let her treat little Marijke. Miss Hofmans was given her own room at the palace — and then began her build-up. Her followers obtained positions of power and influence at the court.

By 1952, Prince Bernhard had concluded that the faith healer's methods were unsuccessful. He also was annoyed by the active part Greet Hofmans and her fellow-travelers were taking in government. The Prince, for example, is a profound believer in NATO. Greet Hofmans and her followers generally say Holland should remain neutral in the U.S.-Russia tug-of-war. The Prince was fearful that Hofmans was turning the Queen in the neutralist political direction.

Supposedly he asked Greet Hofmans why she had failed to cure the little princess. The answer, reportedly given to Queen Juliana, was: "Your husband resists spiritually." At this, Bernhard is said to have stormed: "Either Greet Hofmans leaves the palace or I do!"

Thus, apparently, began the rift which a German newsmagazine revealed publicly for the first time last summer. Only then would Dutch newspapers print anything about it. When it was suggested that Greet Hofmans be exiled, the Queen refused. Today Hofmans has been banished from the palace along with some of her followers. But there is no one in Holland who can tell the Queen of the Netherlands to whom she may or may not talk. So Greet Hofmans still lives here, practices faith healing, is constantly expanding her circle of influence.

A Background of Mysticism

Of her past — she has been a typist and a factory worker — she will say absolutely nothing. A friend of hers told me, "Hofmans was on the verge of committing suicide 10 or 12 years ago when suddenly a voice spoke to her. It said, 'You have a mission to fulfill and that mission is to act as a medium between God and suffering mankind.' That at least is what she says."

Hofmans defines her work as "dedicating people to Christ if the wish to be so dedicated is expressed by them. If they ask for spiritual help, the answer they receive does not lie in my hands. My calling is to belong to the highest authority without any reservations and to serve mankind. The help I give works in a manner acceptable to the minds of the persons concerned. I dedicate them and their souls grow strong."

To learn how she puts these words into practice, I called on one of her followers, Mrs. Cornelius Kars, mother of a 17-year-old son.

"I don't care what anyone tells you," Mrs. Kars began, "Greet Hofmans is a great woman. She has performed miracles. You saw my son Peter when he answered the door? Well, eight years ago he was going blind, turbidity of both corneas. The doctors were afraid it would spread to the retina and the eye nerves. They advised an immediate operation. My husband instead took the boy to Miss Hofmans."

"Yes," Mr. Kars confirms, "my boy couldn't see five yards in front of him. He had to go to a special school. Six months after Miss Hofmans began her treatment, the boy began to improve. Today he sees fine.

"I would go through fire for that woman. She takes no money for her services. She is honest and good and inspired. The boy was going completely blind and she saved him. I took the boy to our family doctor. He couldn't explain Peter's cure. 'It's a miracle,' he said."

The Kars family feeling is far from universal here. But the average Dutchman thinks Queen Juliana has the right to consult anyone she likes. What he doesn't approve of is giving a faith healer any voice in his government. At the moment he believes Prince Bernhard and the elder statesmen have muted that voice.

How long it will remain silent depends on Queen Juliana. She is an iron-willed, tormented woman. And, despite all royal proclamations, she lives in a divided house. ■

"I'm the happiest person in the world—

Since Kellogg's ALL-BRAN overcame my irregularity"

Millions of people have discovered this gentle, natural way to get relief from constipation due to lack of good food bulk. As Ellen Drozd, Lancaster, Mass., writes:

"I tried everything imaginable. Finally bought Kellogg's All-Bran. Now I'm the happiest person in the world—since it overcame my irregularity. I also enjoy the flavor."

If constipation is your problem, put your trust in nature and try Kellogg's All-Bran.

All-Bran restores the natural laxative bulk that so many of us fail to eat. This is why All-Bran often works in cases where chemical or drug-type laxatives (intended for temporary relief) don't seem to help.

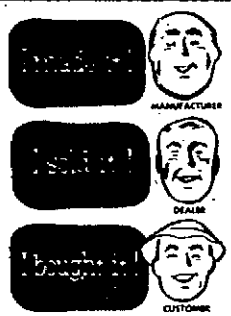

An ounce of prevention daily (in the form of All-Bran) can do wonders to help keep you regular.

All-Bran is made from the vital outer layers of wheat. It has the delicious flavor of old time bran muffins. Wholesome, nutritious and inexpensive.

Made by Kellogg's, All-Bran is the original, ready-to-eat bran cereal. Eat All-Bran for 10 days. See if it doesn't bring you natural regularity.

If not satisfied in every respect, simply return the empty carton and get twice what you paid. That's a promise from Kellogg's of Battle Creek, Mich.

HOW TO AVOID . . .

FALLING ASLEEP AT THE WHEEL

by DR. JOHN R. RODGER

BELLAIRE, MICH.

You are driving along a road more straight than curved, without much traffic. Your senses are lulled by the purr of the motor. You pay less and less attention to your driving. What lies ahead begins to blur — then suddenly you come to with a start.

Here you are over the center line, with an oncoming car desperately veering — and you avoid it by inches! You have just missed being one of the 1,500 motorists killed or one of the 53,000 injured each year on our highways by dozing at the wheel.

Safety experts say the sleepy driver causes more accidents than all drivers with physical defects put together. This menace is not one that licensing bureaus can do anything about. Driver for driver, a sleepy one is just as much a hazard as a drinking one.

13 Orphaned Children

Almost every week newspaper stories tell of "the driver who apparently went to sleep at the wheel." Typical are the two Detroit fathers killed while going home from a night shift, leaving 13 children orphaned; and the soldier in Texas who drove off the road to sleep and was killed by another driver who fell asleep at the wheel.

Among the lucky sleepy drivers is the young executive in my state who, after a day's work, frequently drives 100 miles to meetings. One night he awoke behind the wheel to find himself going down a two-lane road side by side with a truck and trailer!

Dozing at the wheel is not restricted to night-time driving. Many "fatigue" accidents occur in broad daylight. The worst accident last year in my rural county came at 10 a.m. — obviously caused by fatigue.

What can you and I do about this problem? First, we must recognize it as one of the hazards of driving and take appropriate preventive measures, just as we recognize the hazards of slippery roads or foggy weather.

Second, we can reduce the risk of fatigue by avoiding unnecessary trips unless we are rested. This in itself would do the most to cut down fatigue-caused accidents. Too often we plan a week-end trip with 100 or more miles of driving after an exhausting day at the factory or office. Too often this results in terrible accidents.

In planning a vacation motor trip, we would have a safer, more enjoyable time if we scheduled relatively short, easy days of driving, with stops and side trips to break the monotony.

If much of our driving is commercial, we can insist that the daily mileage not be excessive. We must resist the temptation to try to see that extra customer because of the extra cash it might bring. That cash won't mean much to the driver's widow.

We can reduce the fatigue-producing factors of our car. We can be sure that the muffler doesn't leak, adding deadly carbon monoxide to the air inside. We can leave the window partly open in traffic to avoid drawing in fumes from other cars.

We can reduce glare fatigue by equipping our new cars with crash panels instead of a shiny metallic dashboard. In sunny climates, non-glare glass will help, or the wearing of dark glasses in the daytime. (They should not, of course, be worn at night because of the reduced visibility.)

We should not drive too soon after a big meal, particularly after a heavy noon lunch.

Alcohol, even in small quantities, is too dangerous to mix with our driving. The driver often forgets that in quiet surroundings small amounts act as a sedative.

On the road we should take a "rest stop" at least every hour or two. The driver should get out, stretch and walk around whether or not he feels tired. This is a good time for a cup of coffee or cola drink which will supply caffeine to help us stay alert. Caffeine containing tablets may be used if your doctor advises them.

It is safer to travel with someone than to "go it alone," particularly if you can alternate at the wheel. However, if you nap while your companion drives, be sure that you are fully awake before you take over. Conversation can help keep you awake, but if your passengers run out of that and you get sleepy, try the car radio. Watch out for soothing music. You may like Beethoven or Brahms, but it may be safer to tune in to hillbilly music or rock 'n roll.

See Your Doctor

Beware the too-warm car in fall and winter. Excessive heat can make you sleepy.

The drugs you have taken may produce dangerous sleepiness. Play safe; ask your doctor if the drug he is giving you can affect your driving.

The barbiturate drugs, tranquilizers, antihistamines and almost any drug used in treating high blood pressure can cause drowsiness. The hangover from a sleeping capsule may be lethal to the morning driver. Any drug you take should first be tried when you are not driving to determine its effect.

Can you do anything else? Yes. See your physician and ask his advice. There are certain so-called analeptic drugs which, under a doctor's guidance, can safely be used by some people when all other measures fail.

But in the last analysis, the menace of the sleepy driver is your responsibility and mine. We cannot blame all accidents on road-builders, or on the other fellow. You and I have a fundamental duty. At all times we must drive carefully, soberly — and stay awake. ■
